President Smith, of the Flint Glass Workgers Union, was the next speaker. As if intending to discourage any idea that might operall relative to the character of the demonstration with reference to the Federcration of Labor, Mr. Smith reminded the audience that 14 separate organizations were represented in the parade, and to that the attached considerable importance because of the possibilities it suggested. But he regretted the internal bickerings which hinder the work of unifying the organizations on single movements, and said trade ilines and local interests kept them from dofing much good work that might be accomplished if these and other elements of weakness were discarded.

W. H. Kliver, President of the Brother-W. H. Kliver, President of the Brother-hood of Carpenters, was the next speaker. He advocated in strong terms the eight-hour movement, saying they had forced it in Chiago, and the carpenters there are making it is more for eight than they formerly did or ten hours' work.

Speech by President Compers. Samuel Gompers was then introduced. He made the speech of the afternoon and was tened to attentively throughout. He be can by recounting the progress of organized abor since the struggles in the dark ages, and rehearsed some of the scenes of former days, when thousands were slain on the field f labor's rights. He took up at length the object of organized labor in its chort to pro-tect women as well as men against oppres-sion. "We believe," he said. "that women should be equal before the law in social life, in the work shop; and we believe that women should receive equal pay for equal

Touching the eight-hour movement, Mr. Gompers said it might be deferred in some parts of the country, but never defeated. "Labor rises," said he, "in articulate speech, and gives forth a proclamation that eight hours must come, and it will."
P. J. Medanic, Secretary of the Brother-hood of Carpenters, likened the present movement for industrial liberty of over 100 years ago, and spoke for 15 minutes on the infant straggle for political liberty of over 100 years ago, and spoke for 15 minutes on the inferests of the carpenters.

Secretary Dillon, of the Flints, spoke on the benefits of demonstrations such as today's, Other speeches were delivered by W. T. OPTIONS SAID TO BE SECURED

THE PRISON IS MUCH OVERCROWDED.

And Some Steps Are Necessary to Provide More Boom for Machinery, Etc.

There is a big real estate deal in progress in this city. It is one which is very likely to go through, as the would-be buyer wants property, and in addition to being willing to pay a fair price for it, possesses the power of condemnation, or eminent domain, or whatever else one chooses to call it. Our population, as most people know, has in-creased rapidly of late years, and it seems that the criminal portion thereof grows rather faster than the moral and law-abiding portion. It's and, of course, but increased crowding makes increased discomfort, and discomfort generates criminals, and besides, this class thrives much better in large com-munities than in small, as it gets more companionship and is better able to cover its tracks, or at least thinks it is, which makes it work more energetically. Stimulation also comes in the large communionship of the fallen on account of the sympathy each gets from his fellows, both to commit crime and te support suffering under the iron heel of the law. Statistics prove it, without philosophical arguments, either inductive or deductive, and figures in this case do not lie, much as their veracity may be questioned in some cases of a different nature.

Court Figures Do Not Lie. "Voting lists may be swollen in order that repeaters may personate names on the list, but judicial convictions and commitments speak for themselves, and our increase in population is not symmetrical in its propor-tions; vice growing faster than virtue, as weeds grow more rapidly than corn. The county's new jail will soon be too small to properly and respectably contain its patrons, and that fact is weighing on the Prison Board. At the opening of the present term of the Quarter Sessions Court there were more prisoners in jail than at any previous period, not even excepting the weeks following the great riots of 1877. This was, of course, in a measure owing to the fact that the turning of the Querter Sessions Court into a License Court caused an accumulation, but the increase was much more marked than heretofore, and Warden Berlin states that the average custom is all the time greater of late than formerly. On Sunday evening there were 221 prisoners in Sunday evening there were 221 prisoners in the jail, and scant prospects that many of those in murderers' row will be hanged to make room, and they accumulate in this quarter faster than worked off, and out. At the last meeting of the Prison Board the matter was considered at length and the County Commissioners empowered to take the steps that in their judgment may be necessary to obviate the crowding and also the inconveniences caused by the present arrangements regarding machinery which occupies more space than can be conveniently given it.

Will Make Large Additions. It was stated outside that the Commission ers had decided to secure all of the square bounded by the jail, Old avenue, Fifth avenue and High street and that options had been gotten on four of the properties with-in this boundary and that if the rest could in this boundary and that if the rest couldnot be had at something like reasonable figures, the right to condemn would be exercised. Before the building of the present Court House and jall this matter was discussed by the board but failed to pass, though strongly urged.

County Commissioner Mercer was interrogated regarding the report, and was loth to tell anything, but like George Washington, he wasn't exactly able to tell a lie, and when told that the cut was out of the wallet he grudgingly admitted enough to substantiate the story. Mr. Mercer, however, for some reason thought the story should not be rold, but he couldn't adduce any particular reason why it shouldn't, considering the power to condemn and the fact that the power to condemn and the fact that the power to condemn and the fact that the property owners in the square concerned ind gotten wind that something was in the air. So by shreds and patches the material portions of the project were learned.

When the jail was built it was sup-posed that it would be of ample capacity to answer all requirements for many years, as the practical effect of Brooks law had not yet been felt.

Pressing Need for More Room

Further, the original intention was to have the machinery, boiler, dynamos, etc., placed under the front of the Court House, where the tower is, and this plan was changed. Now a condition, not a theory, presents it-seif, and more room must be had. One remself, and more room must be had. One remedy suggested was to remove the machinery into the old law building on the south side of Diamond street, at the mouth of Old avenue, but there are objections to this. It would entail considerable expense, and the building and ground could not then be sold, and they are not well adapted to the county's use, while the ground on the north-east side is. The reason the change of location of the machinery was decided upon, placing it in the jail yard instead of the Court House, was that at that time Pittsburg expected to burn natural gas forever and a day longer, and less room was needed tor it then for coal. Now, however, a return to the latter named and less room was needed for it then for coal. Now, however, a return to the latter named fuel is regarded as inevitable, sooner or later, probably sooner, but not before the needed change is effected.

But in addition to the necessary room to be secured by getting the property as far as High street, a vast improvement will be effected by the opening of a street parallel with the wall of the jail through from Fifth avenue to Forbes street and this is part of the plan. Such a street will be appreciated by the public, will improve the personale of Harbscrabble, and will tend to relieve the courts and their attendants of the almost intollerable noise which makes it so difficult to do business now by diverting a portion of the street traffic from Ross and Diamond streets.

A Street Back of the Jail.

Then the authorities do not like the situation on that side of the jail anyhow, and suggest that the institution would be much safer if a 49-foot street ran along the building than at present, as private buildings now abut within a few inches of the jail wall and some of them are in direct contact, and there is no way to remedy the evil save and there is no way to remedy the evil save by securing the ground.

The property proposed to be added is about 100 feet frontage on High street, 150 on Old avenue and a few feet on Fifth avenue. The ground is valuable, but there is not at single good building on it, making it a desirable kind to sell or buy, though the old tumble-down structures bring so much renathat they continue an eyesore, being a nattern of the ordinary dwellings of the 50s, since converted at times into business houses. At the ordinary dwellings of the 50s, since con-verted at times into business houses. At present the beautiful architecture of the jail blushes like a rose unseen on an un-sightly waste on that side. The old rook-eries that abut on the jail wall might be well adapted to accomplish a jail delivery were there enough desperate people outside suf-ficiently interested to make the attempt.

Accommodations for Drunks. It might be suggested, perhaps, that small jail room would be necessary were we to-treat the subject of criminal correction coras to send a poor devil to the workhouse for as to send a poor devil to the workhouse for stealing something to eat while the drunken tough is sobered up at county expense, we must continue to enlarge our penal institutions. If the bulk of the 221 people in lail on sunday night were wearing ankle Jewelry and cleaning streets or breaking stone publicly at present to pay their fines, they would think twice before getting drunk again and might in time become model citizens. As has been stated time after time in The Distance, convicts in the State generally might PATCH, convicts in the State generally might profitably be made to work on the roads and make them what they ought to be and not come in conflict roads and make them what they ought to be and not come in conflict with any labor organization, for this branch of industry will not be overdone in Pennsylvania in the next 500 years. If anyone be skeptical on the subject let him now—in midsummer—take a drive from McKee's Rocks to the McCurdy oil fleid over a road that has had thousands of dollars per mile expended on it during the last century and he will agree that Allegheny county roads will never be overworked.

A decided sensation was caused yesterday by the arrest of A. T. Douthett on embezzle-ment and a chorus of other charges. The in-formations, Il in number, were made by J. C. Mr. Donthett was completely surprised when the officers appeared at his River avenue office. He resisted at first, but finally consented. The cierks and the foreman, however, came to his assistance, thinking he was being robbed. He was released on a $5,000 bond.

The charge of falsifying the books and con-The public is greatly interested now in the extent to which it will benefit by the termination of the carpenters' strike. It is not considered that any very extensive operations will be performed during the remain-der of the season, and that the amount of money to be placed in circulation in conse quence of the resumption of work, will be much below the general expectation. This The charge of falsifying the books and con architects have plenty of it to let, but be cause the bricklayers-without whose aid no construction can be accomplished-are still holding out for their 50 cents increase. On the other hand, should the bricklayers conclude to work at the old rate, there is yet time for exceedingly brisk fall operations, as much work has been held over since the difficulties began, and many owners are anxious to have their houses finished for occu pancy for the next renting season. Any ir petus awaiting fall operations in the trade in thus dependant upon the policy of the brick-layers, and in a minor degree, of course, on the number of painters and plumbers who can be secured to do their share. Prospects for the Coming Month.

It is very probable that no change will occur in the ranks of the bricklayers for a month anyway; and then the time for fall work will have narrowed very considerably. Of the total number of the craft in the county, about one-half is at work; the other county, about one-half is at work; the other is—to use the stereotyped phrase—standing firm. That is to say, the idle men are holding out in the hope that the bosses will yield, and meanwhile—as far as can be ascertained in reliable quarters—are supporting themselves from their own resources, because the general treasury has not been unlocked in their cause, and the assistance which the men at work afford them, if any, is small. It is the policy of the men now working—and these are mostly engaged in glasshouse repairs at $4.50 a day, the customary wages for that work, because of its rush—to support the idlers, because should they break and return at the old rate, $4 a day, the wages of the others must fall to the same level as a matter of course.

If the strike of this trade had been legal is would have been supported by the national body. Since it is not, the local union is de-pendent upon itself. The feeling among the men is said to be in favor of resumption, but men is said to be in favor of resumption, but it seems that the arguments of the men who are receiving $4.50, the usual glasshouse rate, prevail, and the idlers abide by it. It is possible that this state of affairs may continue until the glasshouse and mill work is done, and then there is strong reason to suppose that work will be resumed at the old terms; at the old terms, because the bosses will not make any concessions. And, as stated, this will occur so late in the season as to spoil much prospective work.

Many Painters Going to Work.

Many Painters Going to Work. The disaffection among the painters will end, probably, similarly to the carpenters affair. Many of them are at work at the bosses' terms. Instances are related where men tore up the union rules and turned in under the bosses', which are similar to the under the bosses', which are similar to the carpenters' rules. When work turns up for the more skilled men, bosses have no doubt they can obtain all the help they want. As regards the plumbers, as many as are required can be found when necessary.

From inquiry among architects and contractors as to the amount of work likely to be yet got under way, it appears that the fag end of the season may be busy, provided workmen can be secured. Heavy contracts are being held over, but there are a number of smaller jobs which can be pushed.

John B. Rae Says the Miners Will Go for Eight Hours Next Year.

John B. Rae, President of the United Mine Workers' organization, was in town yesterday on his way to Steubenville. He said that the miners would try for eight hours again next year, but under a new plan, and what this plan was or would be the burly manager of the miners would not say. He said one of the chief reasons why the struggle was abandoned this year was owing to the stringency in the money market. It was considered impolitie to place the men in the field at such a time, when aid would not be forthcoming as readily as at others.

COMMITTEE EXPECTED TO ACT TO-DAY

The controversy over the superintendency and directorship of the Bureau of Fire has been settled by the resignation of Superintendent Samuel N. Evans. The resigna-tion has been tendered to Chief Brown and said it was simply a private business matterthat would not at present concern the pub-lic. Chief Brown was next questioned, but would give no satisfaction as to the matter under discussion, except to say that it would be made public in due time.

Chief Brown Gives Up the News. Mr. Brown was asked if there was any truth in the report that Superintendent Evans had resigned. He evaded a direct re-ply, saying that whenever any definite action was taken on that matter it would be cheerfully given for publication. The chief cheering given for publication. The chief later in the evening relented when seen at his office, and gave up the following letters for publication with the explanation that he had intended to submit them to the Public Safety Committee, which meets to-day, before making them public. Superintendent Evans' resignation was quietly submitted last Thursday, as the following copy will show:

Mr. J. O. Brown, Chief Department of Public Safety, Pittsburg, Pa.

Dran Sin-From early manhood, a period of 39 years, I have been engaged in active fire service in the city of Pittsburg, more than half of that time as a volunteer. With a consciousness that I have done my full duty, to the extent of my best ability, both as a volunteer and an official of the department, but with a desire to serve the public interests, which I have had before me throughout my service, and to relieve you of any embarrassment which might be entailed by my retention in place at the head of this bureau, I now tender my resignation, to take effect upon the appointment and qualification of my successor. In so doing I would be unappreciative of the cordial and loyal support herstofore tendered me by you, as the head of the Department of Public Safety and by the officers and men of the service under me, if I did not now make asknowledgment of it, and I trust that my concern for the success of my successor in the management of a branch of the public service with which I have so long been connected, will be sufficient to justify the suggestion at this time that he shall be given, along with his appointment, full administrative control of the affairs and men of the bureau under his charge.

In retiring from the fire service of the city I do so with the most kindly feeling to the officers and men of the fire bureau. I hereby tender through you to my successor the assurance that any information or assistance in my power will be cheerfully furnished to him at any time. And, in this connection I desire to acknowledge the valuable services rendered to the paid fire department on many occasions by the members of the old volunteer fire assentiation. Very respectfully yours. zation. Very respectfully yours,
SAMUEL N. EVANS,
Superintendent Bureau of Fire.

Polite Reply and Acceptance.

Chief Brown's reply to this letter, written resterday, reads as follows: PITTSBURG, July 6. amuel N. Evans, Esq., Superintendent Bureau of Fire, city of Pittsburg: Samel N. Fyans, Esq., Superintendent Bureau of Fire, city of Pittsburg:

My DEAR SIB—Your favor of the 1st inst., tendering your resignation as Superintendent of the Fire Bureau of the city of Pittsburg, to "take effect on the appointment and qualification of your successor," has been received. Your many years of fire service, both in the volunteer and paid fire organizations of the city, have been honorable to yourself and valuable to the community. Your capacity, industry, energy and integrity merits and receives my unqualified approval. Recognizing that the change in the character of the buildings erected in recent years renser the duties of the position held by you much more exacting and onerous than they have been in former years, and that your long years of service and increasing age entitle you to be relieved of the duties and responsibilities of the position now held by you, I hereby accept your resignation, to take effect of the appointment and qualification of your successor.

Hereinveating your kind expressions to me pernation, to take effect on the appointment and qualification of your successor.

Heelprocating your kind expressions to me personally, and trusting that you may be retained in the fire service of the city in a position congenial to yourself which your long and honorable service, both as a volunteer and member of the paid organization entitles you, I am, with great respect, Very truly yours, J. O. Brown, Chief Department of Public Safety,

When asked about Superintendent Evans' probable successor, Chief Brown said:
"No person has as yet been definitely decided upon, and there will be no selection until the resignation and acceptance have been considered by the Committee on Public Safety. I do not care to discuss the matter until the committee takes some action." until the committee takes some action.

Governor Pattison Told to Keep His Hands Off the Presidency-A Local cratic Club Pats Grover on the Back-After an Alderman's Scalp. A largely attended meeting of the Grover leveland Democratic Society was held last evening at its hall, corner Forty-ninth and Butler streets, Ten new members were ad-mitted. The following delegates were elected to the Convention of Democratic Societies of Pennsylvania, to be held in September: H. T. Watson, Esq., Levi Bird Duff, Esq., Herman Handell, Hon. John B. Duff. Esq., Herman Handell, Hon. John B. Larkin, J. A. Flowers, C. E. Conners, Albert Miller, S. M. Houston, Dr. F. G. Gardnier, Dr. N. W. Brown, Alexander Lockhart, Hon George A Jonks, Sanuel L. Prellman, J. J. Miller, Esq., and James Mills.

Several resolutions were adopted relative to National, State and county politics. The following resolutions referred to National affairs:

been settled by the resignation of Superintendent Samuel N. Evans. The resignation has been tendered to Chief Brown and accepted. What the next move will be or who will be his successor is yet a matter of conjecture. The latter may not come for some time, as Superintendent Evans' resignation is not to take effect until his successor is chosen and installed. Early yesterday morning Chief Brown had a conference in his office with C. L. Magee, W. A. Magee and Superintendent Evans. They remained together a long time and after they came out were very mysterious about what had occurred.

In the afternoon there was another conference in the office of the Safety chief, with the same gentlemen as conferees. Chief Elliot dropping in some time after the others had assembled. This conference did not last long, and at its conclusion Superintendent Evans was asked its import. Hesald it was simply a private business matter that would not at present concern the pub-

Continuing, Governor Pattison's adminis-tration was indorsed, "with the exception of a few of his appointments from Allegheny county," but which small matter was cheer-nily overlooked in view of the fact that the straight Democracy of the county had been misrepresented to him by certain designing persons.

A resolution was also adopted indorsing
Chauncey F. Black, State President of the Democratic societies, for the nomination for United States Senator.

United States Senator.

The last resolutions adopted denounced the "Allegheny county bosses," and deplored the fact that among them was a certain element readily pointed out in the Democratic party as the "Emergency Gang." Volunteers were called for to assist the Grover Cleveland Society in "camping on the bosses' trail," and declaring their intention of doing all in their power to defeat a "well-known Alderman," should the "Emergency Gang" succeed in securing his nomination for Mayor.

The charge of falsifying the books and converting money to his own use is alleged to be on the dates of September I7, 1889, November 3, 1889, March 31, 1889, August 5, 1889, December, 12, 1890, and February 10, 1891, when the sums taken equaled $1500. The charge of defrauding the association is alleged to have occurred on March 15, 1890, and $160 was taken. Agrain on the dates June 28, 1889, April 15, 1890, April 30, 1890, April 30, 1890, April 15, 1890, April 30, 1890, July 30, 1890, May 9, 1891 and March 14, 1891, $1,130 was alleged to be taken and converted to his own use. On July 18, 1890, the books are alleged to have been altered, and together with alterations on November 20, 1890, and February 10, 1891, the sum of $3,000 was taken. The books are alleged to have been fallsified also on June 28, 1889, April 15, 1890, April 30, 1890, July 30, 1890, May 9, 1891, and March 14, 1891, when false entries were made and charged to interest, discounts and petty cash. Misdemeanor is charged in the defendant falsifying the books concerning a transfer of stock to his father-in-law, William Wycoff, and certain false charges and credits made and given to the Washington Manufacturing Company, against the machine shop, boiler yard and foundry, and credits made to himself by which he took $1,000.

The charge of faudulently appropriating money of the association, where it was not owing, is based on an allegation that he paid William Wycoff $200 on February 7, 1891, and $300 on March 21, 1891, as dividend and been declared by the managers or directors of the association. THE Welsh Baptist Church picnicked at dlewild yesterday.

clared by the managers or directors of the association.

The embezzlement charges are alleged to have resulted from his converting $5,000 to his own use on July 18, 1890; $1,500 on July 27, 1889, and $1,000 on May 24, 1890.

Another stir in society was also made by the arrest of Thomas Porter Brown, a clerk in T. M. Latimer's store. He had embezzled from his employer to the extent of $150, when it was learned that he was going to give a wine party to some of his lady friends. Mr. Brown was one of the leaders in the the Pourth U. P. Church, of Allegheny. The suits were brought before Alderman Brown.

The Coast at That Point Greatly Changed During the Winter. Division Passenger. Agent T.D. Smith, of the Baltimore and Ohio road, returned yesterday from Atlantic City. He took a big ex-cursion there July 2. On Sunday evening, while across the Delaware, he was relieved of a very valuable diamond stud. He didn't discover his loss until he reached Philadelphia. He had the stone 12 years and prized it highly. Mr. Smith thinks a man must be pretty mean when he will steal a pin out of another's necktie. He had become much attached to the diamond, and outside of its pecuniary value, he missed, it keenly.

Mr. Smith states that last winter a bar was formed all along the shore at Atlantic City, leaving a long, narrow pool of water between the old shore line and the new one. The tide rolls in over the bar in the evening, and thus keeps the pool supplied with fresh water. The cut-off is a great bathing ground for women and children, as the water is confined, and during the day becomes warmer than the ocean. Beyond the bar is first-class bathing. The bar can be reached by wading, or by crossing a bridge which was built recently. An amusement company is enclosing the ground near the Inlet, where a regular hippodrome will be maintained all summer. The new iron pier will be ready July 25. In other respects the favorite resort has not changed very much.

Mr. Smith thinks the excursion prospects for the summer are very bright. A large crowd was in the town on the Fourth. Mr. Smith states that last winter a bar was

INSPECTING STREET LIGHTS.

Wheeling Sends Out a Commission Search of Information. An electric light commission from Wheelng arrived in the city last evening to inspect the street lighting system here. They didn't stay long, and left for Buffalo in the evening. They will also visit Toledo, Chievening. They will also visit Toledo, Chicago. St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland, New York and Boston. A short time ago the people of Wheeling voted $100,000 to put up an electric light plant for the benefit of the city. Up to this time they have been using gas to light the streets and are a few years benind the times. They were well pleased with what they saw in Pittsburg and don't expect to visit a better lighted city on their trip. P. F. Farrell is Chairman and A. A. Franzhein is Secretary of the commission. In this party were S. M. Darragh, C. A. Robinson, J. A. Campbell, Albert Capps, Charles Craig, C. W. Kreiter, H. H. Dunlevy, A. J. Schultze and W. H. Shafer. Two newspaper men were with the crowd. They took supper at the Duquesne.
