Chancellor Holland Comes Back Sharply at Those Who

DECLARED HE WAS IN ERROR

Concerning the Amount Donated the Western University

FACTS AND FIGURES OF INTEREST

A lively interest has been aroused lately in educational circles and among the public generally by severe criticisms upon a recent statement of Chancellor Holland, of the Western University, that during the 72 years of that institution's life the denations for "buildings and endowments" have not. exclusive of those of the late William Thaw, aggregated much more than $80,000. Ex-Chancellor Wood and others have been quoted as contradicting Chancellor Holland, and saving that $500,000 would have been mearer the figures during Dr. Wood's chancellorship alone. Dr. Holland now comes back sharply upon this statement with details and figures to support his assertion. Following is his statement, which will re-To the Editor of The Disputch:

I lind resolved to pay no attention to the somewhat hostile criticisms of my inaugural address made in Carnegie Hall Thursday a week ago by unknown and irresponsible ple, but the recent accession to the ranks many critics of no less a personage than my bonored predecessor, Dr. Wood, seems to call for a brief statement from me. The critics declare that I was in error when I during the 72 years in which the Western University has existed, if we except the magnificent gifts of that princely man, Will-22 There our institution has received from he citizens of this county for buildings and good, not much more than $80,000, or, on an average, a little more than $1,100 a year." is statement was made guardedly. You ill observe that I speak solely of "buildlogs and endowment, 'i.e., of what in manu facturing purisance would be called "the plant." I purposely did not include in my stimate gifts of books, and museum speci news, and pieces of apparatus, which the institution has atways with profound gratifor the most part with no statement of their monetary value, and the actual worth of nich could be approximated by a laborious nor the facilities, during my connection ich the institution. My statement you will arther observe was only intended to be an approximation to the correct amount, ongoized at the time that it was made that there were possibilities of error, against which I desired to guard.

Substance of the Criticisms.

since the substance of my remarks has been published my critics have asserted that during the chancellorship of Prof. Wood fully $500,000 was given to the institution, and that therefore either I was in error in statement, or that there has been maladministration of the finances. In support this stration of the hances. In support these assertions the public is informed to during the period indicated a Chair of conomy and a Chair of Chemistry were owed, the observatory property was acred, $200.000 was raised as an endowment d, Mr. Watson's library was bequeathed he institution and Mr. Carnegie gave to museum a valuable set of custs, and we the museum a valuable set of casts, and we tre told to look at these facts and behold a their light the marvelous mistake of the new chancellor, who seems to be ignorant of them.

Before we go a step further let me call the attention of my critics to the fact that, even if all they allege to have been done had been actually accomplished, and the fictitions values, which in some cases they have named, were allowed to stand, the sum total would extill be far below the amount of $309.000 which they state. Suppose we assume, merely for the sake of argument, that the preposterous valuation they put upon the land acquired by the observatory be accepted as its real value, and that it was worth at the time it was given $30,000 (the books show that it was worth $11,000), and that the whole of the $30,000 subscribed was paid, that the whole $200,000 subscribed was paid, that the whole of the endowment of the two chairs at $20,000 ench was paid, and that the gifts of Mr. Watson and Mr. Carnegie amounted in value to $10,000, we will still have only $340,000 as the saim total. This still leaves a difference of $150,000 between what Dr. Wood "thinks" was given and the amount of the items named. This $160,000 if can be demonstrated was never turned over to the institution, if received by anyone. It is altogether more charitable, and I prefer to suppose, that Dr. Wood's memory is at fault, and that he is suffering slightly from the tendency which I have olten observed in those of advancing years to magnify the exploits of their younger days.

The Facts Soberly Investigated. But to return to the sober investigation of the facts before us: Of the 11 acres of land owned by the observatory upon the bill. about four acres, valued at $4,000, were a gift to the institution, the remaining seven acres being purchased at the rate of $1,000 per acre. Upon this site the Allegheny Astronomical Society proceeded to erect an observatory. The original cost of the first ort of the equipment found there to day is did in trust by his executors. Thirty-six ousand dollars covers everything that the servatory received from others than Mr.

ous purposes. But by careful investwhich yielded a profit to capital, the full sum was finally made up. But surely profits made upon investments are not to be reck-oned as gifts from the public. They repre-sent good management.

Some Very Frigid Figures. Subsequently to the sale of the old buildsings at the corner of Ross and Diamond streets to the county of Allegheny, Dr. Mc-Cracken, Chancellor Wood's immediate suc-cessor, prepared a careful financial statement of the condition of the institution which is before me, and which shows that the Trustees at that time had in good assets the sam of $291,232 77. Of this amount nearly $55,000 represented the profit derived from the sale of the old buildings to the county. At the time that Chancellor Wood resigned his position at the head of the institu cash of Mr. Thaw, and $70,000 the enhancement in price of real estate and the profits upon fortunate investments. This leaves good $10,000 to be attributed to the gifts of the citizens at large, I am willing to modify my statement it will placate my critics, and say that the general public has given as much as $100,000 to the endowment of the institution. I will go a step further, and will say that taking into account everything that has been given to the institution of any and all kinds of belongings the general public has given $40,000. Still for the purposes of my argument, this charitable assumption will not materially alter the case. The fact still stands out in bold relief that the Western University of Pennsylvania represents to day to a large degree the generous thought and benevolent purpose of one man, whom we all delight to henor, and that the great community in which this institu-

the great community in which this institu-tion has been jecuted and in which we be lieve it to be called To Do a Magnificent Work has not in times past displayed that care for its interests that it might have reasonably been expected to manifest. In saying what I have said I have been led to do so, not by any desire to depreciate the kindly acts of CRITICIZED. the contrary, their kindly deeds on behalf of the higher education of young men shine out all the more resplendently against the dark background of general indifference. I desire on behalf of the institution to assure them that all that they have done is remem bered with grateful appreciation. Nor do I wish to insinuate that there is any lack of true generosity among my fellow-citizens whom I love and honor. If the great and whom I love and honor. If the great and wealthy community in which we live has not done much to promote the cause of higher education in its midst it has not been the result of lack of benevolence, but rather of an oversight, and a failure to justly appreciate the magnitude of the necessities and the opportunities which are before them. Least of all has it been my purpose in anything that I have said to cast a slight upon the faithful and self-denying labors of my honored predecessors in office. In this matter I greatly regret that I have been, perhaps unintentionally, misrepresented.

To cut a long story short, the Western Uni-sented.

To cut a long story short, the Western University of Pennsylvania did not receive during the term of office of Prof. Wood $500,000 for buildings and endowments. The total assets of the institution to-day, at a very liberal estimate, and including the late bequest of Mr. Thaw, a portion of which, according to the terms of his will, have not yet come into our possession, do not amount to more than $450,000. The fluances of the lastitution have been well cared for. They have been in charge for years past of such men as Messrs. William Thaw, the late John Harper, Charles J. Clarke, Hon. Felix Brunot, J. B. Scott and Reuben Miller, gentlemen of unimpeachable integrity and unquestioned financial skill. Finally, the Chancellor submits, he hopes with becoming modesty, the simple proposition to know the actual facts as any of his critics, who have shown that any of his critics, who have shown that their memories are sadly at fault, and that it is not well to rely upon curbstons opinions, passed thoughtlessly at the moment by those who have not access to documentary evidence.

My present wish is, so soon as possible, to ecure the necessary amount to carry forward to full and perfect completion the effort to create in connection with the University a great and prosperous technical and industrial school, the foundations for which have already been so happily laid under the care of my immediate predecessor, the honored and lamented Chancellor Goff, I have already the promise of substantial help in this direction, conditioned upon the raising of at least $2.0,000 for this purpose, and it seems to me with the right to append to the generosity of the 600,000 inhabitants of this "State of Allegheny," as Mr. Lincoin used to call our county, and with the knowledge that there are found here accumulating the state of the second than the second to the second the second edge that there are found here accumulations of wealth, aggregating $400,000,000, there ought to be no insuperable obstacle in the way of the attempt. In its prosecution I shall have to rely upon the good will not of the few, but of the many, and I trust I shall not be compelled to turn from this work to answer those who upon the basis of idle surmise, rush to false conclusions.

I am, very truly yours,

Chancellor Western University.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digostion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocos, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to realst every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a property nourished frame." Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPS & CO., Homosopathic Chemists, London, England.
