Then the reflex action of the strength in corn began to make itself felt in the wheat pit, and a little more life was infused into the dealing. Buying was led by S. V. White & Co., with Kennett, Hopkins, Schwartz, Dupee and some of the foreign houses, and, as the offerings were light, the market went up ensily. The advance brought ont considerable wheat on which there was some reaction.

Late cables reported a steadier feeling in Liverpool. Pardridge was thought to be covering some wheat around 90 cents for December, but sold a considerable line when the market turned 90 c. July started at 915,0025 c, receded some advanced to 35c, weakened to 25c, rallied to 85c, slumped to 315c and closed at 915c. December followed the same general course. The cause for the last break was not apparent.

Corn seemed weak at the opening and prices did sell off some. For a time the business was dull and scalpers began to look for a break. The receipts were generous, but the shipments were found to have been larger. This seemed to check the ardor of sellers, and as soon as this was discovered the shorts grew nervous and wanted to cover. Competition became brisk and prices librations.

sellers, and as soon as this was discovered the shorts grew nervous and wanted to cover. Competition became brisk and prices quickly advanced. Furdridge bought in his shorts freely and Lamson and Ream were good buyers. The crop reports were not considered favorable as far as corn is concerned; receipts are falling below expectations and shipments continue very liberal. The market became quite excited and sold higher. The cash demand was sharp and everything offered was taken quickly and shorts for all fatures showed increasing alarm. The advance, however, did not tempt holders to part with their grains to any considerable extent. Prices, however, eased off decidedly toward the close in sympathy with wheat. July opened at 5646 pathy with wheat. July opened at 55,65 554c and with some minor reactions sold up to 50c, broke near the close and closed at

of Travel Explained. MR. ASA H. ROWAND'S NEW DEPARTURE

Strangers stopping at the hotels and restricting their sight-seeing to the old business quarter, as most of them do, carry away with them a very imperfect idea of the mag-nitude of Pittsburg. This fact was forcibly illustrated yesterday by the remark of an Eastern gentleman who accompanied THE Disparch representative in a flying visit to East Liberty. He said: "I have often seen Pittsburg from the hotels, but never before from the suburbs. I know of nothing finer in America. It is a vision of loveliness as far as the eye can reach. Hereafter I will sound the praises of Pittsburg on every suitable occasion." The boundaries of East Liberty are as undefinable as were those of the Roman Empire. They are constantly widening. The citizens of that thrifty community, like Alexander the Great, are always seeking new worlds to conquer. With a population of 50,000 or more, they are pushing out in all directions, taking in and building up new territory. Business is flourishing. Stores and shops follow closely upon the heels of nonwintion.

territory. Business is flourishing. Stores and shops follow closely upon the heels of population.

In conversation with a member of the firm of S. A. Dickie & Co. yesterday he said: "The outlook in East Liberty for a brisk fall movement in real estate is very good. People have money and also a disposition to buy. Home seekers seem to be in the majority. A large number of lot owners will build this season. They had their plans prepared last spring, but had to postpone their execution on account of the strike. There is plenty of time to begin and finish almost any kind of a house before cold weather. Business of all kinds is brisk." He added that their greatest want was a market house. He had no doubt that it would be a paying investment.

Between Pittsburg and East Liberty there is a great deal of vacant land—not all in one place, but in spots, and varying in dimensions from building lots to large tracts. This is a puzzle to some people. With such a demand for residence and business sites as Is known to exist they cannot account for these open spaces. The explanation is simple. This ground is owned for the most part by estates, and is so environed by legal restrictions that it cannot be put on the market until somebody dies or comes of age. The owners in most cases would gladly sell or improve, but their hands are tied. In a few instances owners are waiting for a rise, and in still others they want the property for their own use and will improve as soon as their circumstances will permit.

"There is no place in or around Pittsburg where the benefits of rapid transit are more apparent than in the East Liberty district," said a large property owner yesterday: "I had an acre or two that I tried in vain to sell for several years, but as access to it was difficult, no one wanted it at any price, so I had to keep it. I am glad I did. Two years difficult, no one wanted it at any price, so I had to keep it. I am glad I did. Two years had to keep it. I am glad I did. Two years ago cable cars commenced running close to this property, and last year I sold it at about $10 at 900 tront. It is now built up and is one of the handsomest places in the East End. This is one instance of many of a similar kind." The gentleman quoted brought out another fact worthy of note. Before the era of rapid transit hill top property was considered practically worthless; it was dead stock. Now it is in high favor for residence purposes. "Look around you," he remarked, with a sweep of his arm. "Almost every eminence is crowned with a handsome dwelling. It is the height of fushion to live on the hill tops. Owners of this decription of property have coined money within the last four or five years, and are still coining it. The land cost them next to nothing, and they are selling at big prices.

next to nothing, and they are selling at big prices.

On the return trip a gentleman who carries on business on Wood street divulged a bit of interesting news. He said the homestead of Mr. A. H. Rowand, at Edgewood, consisting of about five acres of ground and a large mansion—one of the handsomest places in the county—was in the market, Mr. Rowand is spending the summer on the Pacific coast. His reasons for selling are not clearly known, but it is understood that he will go into business in California and make it his future home.

Business News and Gossip. The project of a summer hotel at Edge-wood is being agitated afresh. Two well-the new movement. The foundation for the schoolhouse in the Third ward, Wilkinsburg, is about completed. The building will be ready by the beginning of the fall term.

Several business men in East Liberty were sounded yesterday in regard to a market house in that place. They were, without exception, in favor of it, and thought it would In a ride of six miles on a cable car yester day, through a thickly built district, not more than half a dozen "to lets" were seen. It is quite evident that Pittsburg is not over built.

Fraders Start in Cautiously After the Holidays-Nothing Pressed for Sale-Confidence in the Future-A Few Gains and No Material Losses.

The speculative public were in bad humor for business yesterday. They had not re-covered from the effects of the Fourth. Three sales, 30 Electric at 12½ and 10 Phila-delphia Gas at 11½, were made at the first call; the two later calls were goose eggs. Although buying orders were limited to a few brokers, the offerings were so restricted few brokers, the offerings were so restricted as to demonstrate that there are but few stocks for sale at present prices. This indicates that holders are looking for an upturn, based on improved conditions generally and excellent crop prospects particularly.

Philadelphia Gas was a fraction stiffer. It always finds support when needed, showing that there are those who have not lost confidence in its staying ability. The best brokers think it a purchase at ruling prices—but it is hard to get. it is hard to get. It was stated a day or two ago that a deal it is hard to get.

It was stated a day or two ago that a deal of some kind was going on in the Switch and Signal Company. This was repeated yesterday, coupled with the additional statement that the deal would be consummated in a few days. On the strength of this report, or something else, the stock advanced a fraction.

There was a better disposition displayed toward the Tractions. Central closed % better than the opening and Pleasant Valley ½. Their big earnings on the Fourth and steadily improving business are stiffening the views of holders of these stocks.

It was stated that Birmingham Traction bonds were being picked up quite lively in the East. They are stronger here.

Holders of Westinghouse Electric stock are looking forward with considerable interest to the meeting called for the 15th, when it is expected the reorganization plan will be adopted. What steps dissenting holders will take to guard their interests is a matter of conjecture, but the impression prevalls that they will come in at the eleventh hour. Books were closed yesterday, and will so remain until after the meeting.

Wall Street News: "Everything points to an easy market during the summer. There will be a steady gain in the exports without any corresponding increase in the imports, and as soon as our own banks and trust companies are assured that the foreign settlements will be made without further drafts on this country, they will only be too ready to lend the money which they have on hand. We look for a money market sufficiently easy to stimulate confidence abroad and encourage speculation at home."

At New York vesterday money on call was fourth week of June, increase $15,932; month increase, $7,192.

Stockholders of the Pittsburg and Birmingham Bridge Company held their annual meeting yesterday. They made no change in the Board of Directors.

STILL SOME ANIMATION.

THE HOLIDAYS PASS AND LEAVE THE MARKET AS IT WAS BEFORE.

The Tone Strong in Spite of the Outgo of Gold Which Checked a Most Promising Upward Movement Among the Leading Shares.

New York, July 6 .- The stock market opened the new week with a little animation, but it was confined almost entirely to the half dozen stocks which have of late taken the lead in the dealings, and no widening of the market was to be detected. The tone was in the main strong, despite the fact that there was a resumption of the outgo of gold, and while the latter failed to bring about a reaction in the market, it certainly checked a most promising upward movement among the leading shares. The bears madea vigor ous demonstration against Burlington, and the raid was accompanied by the circulation of a story of a projected issue of bonds. This movement slightly affected the remainder of the Grangers, but the very flattering reports which still continue to come from the growing crops render those shares almost impregnable in the market at present, and the raid had for its effect the increase in the outstanding short interest without much reduction in the price of stock. Considerable new buying was to be opened the new week with a little anima-noticed in different portions of the list and the bulls evidently had the courage of their convictions, which soon became apparent in the material upward movement, covering the entire list which occurred before noon. An early advance in Chicago Gas was not responded to by the other industrials and those shares for the time being were quite neglected while maintaining a firm front.

The interest in the market now centers in the Western shares, and those stocks at attention giving tone to the whole market by their strength and activity, the rest of the market being quite neglected throughout. The general list opened with irregular changes and followed the leaders closely in tone, but the fluctuations were without special significance, as usual of late. The exports of gold and the attack upon Burlington had but little influence either way upon the majority of the list, as the trading of a speculative kind was all in the few leading shares in the market. There was realization in the last hour on the fractional gains of the day after the first best prices had been held all day long through the dull hess, and prices yielded slightly to the pressure, but the movement went only a little way. The market finally closed dull but steady to firm, generally at small fractions better than Friday's final figures. The final changes are in all cases among the active stocks for fractional amount, but are quite irregular with a majority of gains, but a few specialties like Long Island, which active stocks for fractional amount, but are quite irregular with a majority of gains, but a few specialties like Long Island, which was aided by an increase of the dividend rate to 5 per cent per annum, and Pittsburg and Western preferred made material advances. The great and encouraging feature of the day was the rival to some extent of interest in the bond list, and the transaction of the day show a gratifying increase, while the tone of the dealings was firm to strong throughout the day, resulting in some material advances in the list. The Atchison incomes again led the dealings and furnished $100,000 out a total day's business of $792,000. Among the active issues, however, only the Kansas and Texas 4s showed any marked strength, Government bonds have been dull and steady. State bonds have been dull and steady.

strength, Government bonds have been dull and steady.

The Post says: It was plainly evident all day in spite of the forenoon selling that the professional contingent was bullishly disposed on the general market. This feeling crystalized, early in the afternoon into a sharp upward movement, headed by the Granger's stocks, Northern Pacific and North American. The usual argument was advanced in the last mentioned stocks that Mr. Villard was actively sustaining his own specialties, but there was no reason for crediting this story. The Chicago people, as usual, bought the Granger stocks on the very favorable crop reports. The upward movement halted a little on the announcement of another engagement of a half a million in gold, but there was no reaction.

Wall street, indeed, has already begun to lose interest in this Inte dribbling away of specie. Especially as the conditions regulating its exports are now pretty thoroughly understood. Toward the close, prices sagged off, Union Pacific in particular selling down on its report of decreased earnings.
