How Andy Johnson Came to Be Vice President Instead of Lincoln's Friend BRECKENRIDGE
Pittsburgers Like to Go Fishing, and Go in Good Shape, Too.
DEATH DEALING REPTILES NEAR BY

An old Pittsburger who has a personal knowledge of the facts in question, said yesterday: "I see that a writer in the Philadelphia Times has stated—and the Lincoln devotees of the statements of the late Vice President, and of those of Hamilton, My recollection of the history of the Baltimore Convention of 1848, which includes current newspaper talk at the time and what delegates at that convention have themselves told me, is that white Lincoln did not think it expedient to get a Northern man like Hamilton on the ticket, he certainly did not get in favor of the nomination of Johnson. Lincoln thought that the Union would have representation on the ticket, and his choice was the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, a downright Union man of the highest mental attainments and character. Dr. Breckinridge was favorably known in Western Pennsylvania as the President of Jefferson College at Canonsburg from 1840 to 1845. He returned to his native State, resigning his place at Canonsburg, and although never 70 at that time was an active member of the Union cause in the dark days prior to the outbreak of the Rebellion. When his nephew, senator J. R. Breckinridge, espoused the Confederate cause Dr. Breckinridge denounced him as a traitor. So when the convention met at Baltimore in 1848, Dr. Breckinridge was naturally a strong representative of the Southern Unionist, and that he would, with Lincoln's indecision, have received the nomination is probable, but just before the convention met he perceived that it was not to allow his name to be used. Then Andrew Johnson was accepted as the desired champion of the loyal Unionists. Congress had just adjourned, and Johnson was a member of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Baltimore convention, and he told me that since Canonsburg he had been in the convention and that when the electing Johnson was announced Canonsburg The Republican party has made a big mistake."

A RICH TRIANGULAR CASE.
Two Wives and the Other Helms of a Flood Victim Suing for Insurance.
SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.
JEFFERSON, July 7.—An interesting suit, the outgrowth of the flood, is on trial here. William H. Overbeck, who was drowned in the flood, had his life insured in the North-western Marine Aid Association in favor of his wife, Jennie. The suit is being set forth in the policy and application as his wife. After the death of Overbeck Mrs. Jennie Overbeck, of Philadelphia, claimed that she was the legal wife of the flood victim, and as such asked that she be paid the insurance. The Aid Association decided the best thing for it to do was to pay the money over to the court and let the women fight it out there. The heirs of the dead man are also represented in this triangular fight. Each lawyer thinks he has a case. The woman living with Overbeck at the time claims the policy was made out in her name, and that she had an insurable interest in his life. The Philadelphia woman claims she is his legal wife, and by the wording of the policy is entitled to the money. The heirs of the flood victim claim he did not insure his life for the benefit of his legal wife, as her name was not on the policy, but that his legal wife she is not entitled to it; therefore, it goes to the other heirs.

OLD BRIDGES ARE TOO LIGHT.
The Brighton Railway Company Will Re-build Some of Its Structures.
LONDON, July 7.—Sir John Fowler, the celebrated engineer and railway bridge builder, on whose report and investigation the Brighton Railway Company has decided to rebuild half its bridges, says: "The bridges were built of cast iron, for the older and lighter rolling stock was in use when the work in the architecture of the structures was done, and was then thoroughly adapted to their use and capable of enduring a much greater strain than it was thought they would ever be subjected to." The present locomotives, however, are so much heavier than they used to be that they require a good deal stronger bridge, and they ought to be made of steel. The statement is likely to result in an agitation by the traveling public for a thorough testing of all the railway bridges throughout the kingdom. The recent accident at Newwood has had a great effect on the minds of the people, and the Brighton Company will immediately rebuild 10 of its bridges.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Over 1,000 delegates from the Young People's Societies of the Baptist churches of the United States met in convention here today. Committees on Programme, Constitution, etc., were appointed.

A Traveling Man's Experience.
F. S. Verbeck, who represents the type foundry of Messrs. Barnhart, Ross & Spindler, Chicago, says: "On my return home from a trip I found our little girl sick with summer complaint. I went to a drug store and bought Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We gave her a few doses according to directions. She recovered in a short time and we were well pleased with the medicine."

Not everyone knows that the luxury of a bath from a copperhead snake was once a victim to a poor little fellow from the Little Sewickley creek, some fifteen miles from this city. The story of the boy's encounter with a six-foot snake has been recorded in the papers already, but now that the excitement has subsided a few facts about the snake may be in place. The boy was little Charlie Sewickley, the deaf and dumb son of a farm laborer who lives with his family in the picturesque cottage close to the head and the Little Sewickley, about three-quarters of a mile from Edgewater. The cottage is a familiar feature of one of the prettiest views in the favorite ride beside the Little Sewickley, and around over the Backbone to Sewickley, and lies at the mouth of a glen of rare beauty. Charlie Sewickley on Sunday morning went with his mother into the woods close to the house to gather berries. His mother saw the copperhead snake after it had bitten Charlie, and killed it. It was about 25 cent long. As quickly as possible the boy, who had some difficulty in making his mother understand that he had been bitten, went home, and there the usual remedy of whisky was tried. The wound on the leg, which had two small punctures of the skin, but the boy's body rapidly grew green and yellow, and Dr. McCreedy reached the house from Sewickley he found the boy in a very dangerous condition. His mother told him she loved great agony, but yesterday it was still hoped that he would recover.

SCHOOL LEGISLATION DISCUSSED.
The State Teachers' Association Now in Session at Bedford.
SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.
BEDFORD, July 7.—The State Teachers' Association opened its annual meetings here today. There were about 400 present at the first meeting, though that number will be greatly augmented by to-morrow. The address of welcome was delivered by Hon. J. M. Reynolds and ex-Secretary of State J. H. Longenecker. During his address Mr. Reynolds said that he was decidedly opposed to a uniformity of text books. He believed that better results, and a more general and diversified education, could be attained by using different sets of books. He was also opposed to compulsory education, and warmly commended Governor Pattison for having vetoed that act as passed by the Legislature. Prof. F. C. Lauer, of Pittsburg, responded.

THE TRAINS TOO CLOSE TOGETHER.
Important Testimony at the Coroner's Inquest on the Ravenna Wreck.
CLEVELAND, July 7.—There was important testimony today before Coroner Sherman, who is investigating the Erie wreck at Ravenna. Car Inspector S. O. Arnold, of Kent, testified that the freight train, left Kent, most immediately after the passenger train had pulled out, and that when the freight was under way the express was not more than 200 feet ahead of it. The speed recorder on the freight locomotive showed that the train ran the first three miles at the rate of 20 miles an hour, the fourth 25 miles and the fifth and sixth at the rate of 30 miles an hour. When the collision occurred it was going 20 miles an hour. Barney Dyren, watchman at a crossing about three miles west of the wreck, swore that the freight train passed him the express was not more than a mile away. This testimony, it is said, shows that the freight had encroached at least three minutes of the time of the express, which was running late with a heavy train. The freight also, to a large extent, encroached on the time of the passenger train. The testimony, also, to a large extent, exonerates Fred Boynton, the flagman, as it shows he had not sufficient time to flag the freight car from Pittsburg last night about 12 passengers being unaccounted for is emphatically denied by Conductor Boynton, who with his son, the flagman, testified before the Coroner.

CHARGES AGAINST THE ITATA.
Violating Neutrality Laws, Violating Navigation Laws and Contempt.
SAN DIEGO, CALIF., July 7.—United States Marshal E. Meeker arrived from Los Angeles last night. He has taken no action as regards the Itata, and said to a press representative this morning that the vessel would be left in charge of Collector Barry until United States District Attorney Cole had prepared papers in the case. It will be held on three charges: first, violating neutrality laws; second, contempt in leaving while under arrest; third, violation of the navigation laws. The Charleston came into harbor this morning awaiting orders.

An Ex-State Treasurer's Second Trial.
ST. LOUIS, July 7.—The second trial of ex-State Treasurer Noland on the charge of embezzling nearly $20,000 of State funds, has commenced in Jefferson City. From present indications the trial will consume all of the present week, and probably part of next.
