SOME CITY SCENES.

The Local Harbor a Busy Place for Quite a While Yesterday.

Broom and Hammer Hard at Work on the Exposition Buildings.

SIGHTS AND GOSSIP OF THE WHARVES

The harbor wore a busy air yesterday; small towboats scurrying hither and thither making up the coal tows, and churning up the rich yellow water of the Monongahela at a great rate. There is not a very great deal of cosi ready to go out, but the river men are anxious to send down all there is on this rise because a very general impression is that it will be last of this summer. A coal operator said yesterday: "The coal business operator said yesterday: "The coal business on the river has been better this year than for a long while, and there has been some money in the business, too, which has not always been the case. I think the favorable result of the coal movements from Pittsburg this year by water will have a decided influence, in common with other factors, upon the trade of the city, and I believe there is coming a substantial revival of business generally this fall. In my own line I look for a great increase in the use of coal next winter in Pittsburg and Allegheny, and this, coupled with the timeliness of the river rises this spring and summer, has given the coal business a stimulus it has long been wanting."

Quiet Scenes on the Wharf Itself.

But if the Monongahela itself was full of life and movement yesterday morning, the wharf its waters washed was not. A duller place in the morning sun than the corrugated slone of cobblestones running from Water street to the river's edge could not be found. The only busy people there at about 11 o'clock were a couple of men hard at work throwing sticks into the water for two spaniels to retrieve, and a boy who was apparently trying his hardest to persus a spirited horse to go in swim-ming, a proceeding which the horse very sensibly frowned upon, seeing that he was encumbered with a sulky and harness. A few loungers in shady corners on Water street watched with interest the dogs, the horse and the two men and a boy—otherwise the wharf was given up to a few barrels, some lumber and packing cases clustered about the gangways leading to the Brownsville and Geneva packet, the James G. Blaine, and the Wheeling and Kanawha hout, the M. F. Allen. Down to the Point bridge the same blissful air of repose wrapped the shore. Six or seven boys were standing near the water trough, which competes with a saloon at the corner of Water and Liberty streets. They were clothed in the style fashionable at the Point, of which the chief feature is airiness, and in the A few loungers in shady corners on Water the style inshionable at the Foint, of which the chief feature is airiness, and in the warm sunshine they looked very comfort-able.
"What yer givin' ust" said one a little older than the rest, "yer father's not in ther Pen."

"Yes he is," responded the boy addressed, a rad-headed young hopeful, "fer I seen him there"—what the dispute was about the passing pedestrian who overheard this much cannot say, but from the tone of the red-headed in lant's reply it might be concluded that to be able to date one's letters from the stone palace at Riverside is in some circles deemed highly desirable.

Bluster and Breeze at the Bridge.

In winter time the most blusterous and breezy place in the two cities is the narrow strip of land between the Point and Union bridges. There is always more or less wind blowing there, and even on the hottest day in summer it is pretty safe to go there to find a breath of cool air. Yesterday there was a strong wind blowing, and the air came up from the broad, brown face of the Ohio with a fresh, pleasant odor. It seems strange, too, that a river so be-fouled with sewage and abominations of all sorts should send up such grateful incense, but the fact is there for anyone to test for himself. Looking at the magnificent view of the river, and the great clear sweep of sky, it must strike the observer at this point that a better site for a small park and promenado could not be found. At present the land between the two bridges is an unsavory dump for the most part. Under the lower side of the Peint bridge a couple of jo-boats nestle snugly, high and dry above the river, and out of reach of all but very big floods. It was wash-day at one of these amphibious was wash-day at one of these amphibious arks jesterday, and the clothes hanging out to dry spoke of more comfortable conditions than the life of a jo-beater is commonly supposed to boast. Exposed to all the air that is going, with a view of the river that would make a hod-carrier poetic, and an un-certainty of the right sort about the pay-ment of the rent and taxes, the residents of this little secluded spot are blessed beyond their fellows downtown.

The Broom and Hammer at Work.

They are beginning to whisk the broom and swing the hammer in the lofty halls of the Exposition building. The grass has grown up nicely in the little park below the Exposition, where the derrick above the well that never came in points a melancholy moral to a well-worn tale. A man was vigorously digging up the edges of turf that had spilled into the paths yesterday morn-ing, and a pack of small children in rather extreme neglige attire were regarding him and then the sharp spikes of the high iron railing around the park with varying expression. Here was another hint of the happiness a public park at the Point would give a host of little prisoners in narrow streets, close courts and crowded tene-

Above Machinery Hall a baseball game of the most carnest sort was in progress, with street gamins for players, spectators and critics, the wharf having been cleared of the bollers and lumber that used to litter this section. A little further on the little army section. A little further on the little army of men were clearing away the ground which the courts have decided the city must vacate; plowing with four horses, and hauling the earth in big wagons to the scows in the Allegheny. A tolerably big hole has been dug already, and Mr. Bigelow will have no difficulty in removing the made-ground within the sixty days allowed. The wharf, otherwise, was wrapped in the sleepy air of that on the other river, and the main reason for the similar quiet upon the waters of the Allegheny could easily be seen in the low arches of the Union bridge, which is practically a portcuills whenever the river rises to a point where mavigation naturally becomes most destrable in the harbor. The only craft beside the scows tied to the river bank and the steamer Park Painter, also moored by the shore, in sight on the Allegheny yesterday at noon was the dredging boat which is praparing the coffer dain for the enlargement of the piers of the Sixth street bridge. The first pier to be enlarged is the river one nearest Allegheny. The work is coming niong nicely, and the old bridge will be taken down and the new one set in place without interference to traffic.

Son got an answer from his wife stating she had received the letter, but there was no money.

Anderson took the letter to the defendant to read for him, and, she read it as though the money had been received. She also altered the letter to correspond with her reading, for the benefit of anyone else who might see it. Anderson, however, was the reading for the eliter to some one else. The different writing was then noticed, and the imposition detected. Anderson was appeal to the rever rises to a point where mavigation naturally becomes most destrable in the harbor. A Former Chief Engineer Denies That He Had Condemned the Bridge. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH:] CHARLESTON, W. VA., July 9.—Public opinion in this State has been so worked up over the accident on the Kanawha and Michigan Railroad that full credence was given to the story sent out from here that the trestle had story sent out from here that the trestle had been condemned two years ago and that the Chief Engineer of the road was discharged for insisting on its condemnation. The Chief Engineer to-day emphatically dealed he had ever condemned the trestle, or that he had been discharged; but that he quit of his own accord and had frequently been offered his old position back.

REFUSED TO GET DRESSED.

Southside Police Take a Woman to the Station in Her Barefeet. Last night about 10 o'clock Lieutenant Johnston, of the Southside, made a raid on a disorderly house at 863 Shelby alley, kept a disorderly house at 863 Shelby alley, kept by Mrs. McDermitt. The proprietress, Olive Smith, James Dunn and William Hughes were captured. Mrs. McDermitt is the woman who was stabbed by her busband one night last March. He is now serving a sentence for the offense. The woman delayed the officers some time by refusing to get dressed, and Mrs. McDer-mitt was fimily taken to the station in her burnfect. She had with her a small child that will be turned over to the Humane Society this moraing.

AN ANIMATED TIME

Expected at To-Morrow's Meeting of the Republican County Committee-What Some of the Politicians Have to Say of Affairs-Both Sides Given. It seems to be a foregone conclusion that the meeting of the Republican County Committee to-morrow will be pregnant with something out of the ordinary way, and most people, if they agree on nothing else, unite in saying they expect it to be highly Ex-Judge Fetterman says that as soon as animated.

Ex-Judge Fetterman says that as soon as Senator Neeb's resolution is acted upon and the matter of nominating a District Attorney disposed of the question of the judiciary will come up. Mr. Fetterman said yesterday he still finds a pretty general sentiment among the voters, both Republican and Democratic, antagonistic to the Gubernatorial selection, and should there be much of a controversy in the committee meeting the upshot will be a straight Republican ticket for the judiciary. He also said it seemed to be understood that Senator Flinn and his partisans and Democratic colleagues will contend for the indorsement of the Governor's appointees, but if they do there will be a lively time ahead, and some people put into the position of setting aside an office belonging to the Republican party and giving it to a Democrat. Attorney Henry Meyer, in answer to the inquiry as to whether there was the lukewarmness in the Democratic party claimed by some Democrats as well as by some Republicans, said he had failed to notice it. He said he regarded the Governor's appointees as all well qualified for the positions, and though, perhaps, not entirely satisfactory to all Democrats, as much so as any other three men who could have been impossible for the Governor to have satisfied everyone, he thought the selection ought to be indorsed. Turning to that all-round Democrat-at-large, representing both city and country, 'Squire Herman Handel, Mr. Larkin asked for an indorsement of his views. The 'Squire said he hadn't noted any great disaffection, but his cigar had grown short, and he evidently had no other handy, and wanted to utilize the whole of the weed, and this monopolized the greator part of his energy. The 'Squire was not particularly talkative at that juncture.

Attorney F. M. Magee said he thought Mr. Fetterman was muking a mistake, and ure.

Attorney F. M. Magee said he thought Mr. Fetterman was making a mistake, and thought the matter of nominating a Judiciary should be managed as it was prior to INN, when politicians consulted the wishes of the bar, and thereby secured judges whose nomination aroused no antagonism. For this reason Mr. Magee expressed himself in favor of allowing the present arrangement to stand, and that the Governor's selections be ratified.

Alderman P. B. Reilly still holds to his be ratified.

Alderman P. B. Reilly still holds to his first view, and thinks Judge Kennedy, the representative of the Democratic party, will be strong, even if a straight Republican ticket be nominated, as he (Mr. Reilly) thinks there are enough conservative Republicans whose friendship for the Governor will make them vote for Judge Kennedy in any event, and that they will regard it as a point of honor to do so. He says he does not hear much discussion of the question of late among Democrats.

Organized to Vote for Dalzell. The Chester A. Arthur Republican Club, of the Fourteenth ward, organized last night with 56 members. The officers elected night with 56 members. The officers elected were: President, Hon. W. R. Ford; Vice President, Rev. David Jones; Secretary, G. B. Moora. Delegates to the State League Convention were elected as follows: J. P. Andrews, W. R. Ford and Henry C. Wolf; alternates, A. P. Moore, William McAdams and C. S. Howeil. The club indorsed Hon. John Dalzell for the Presidency of the State League.

TIRED OF TRAMPING ABOUT,

Mrs. Frank R. Ward Tells Her Marital Woes, to Get a Divorce. The testimony taken in the divorce case of Rose H. Ward against Frank R. Ward was filed yesterday. Mrs. Ward is the daughter of John Heskett, the commission and stock dealer of Denniston avenue, East End. She was married, it was stated, September 2, 1885, at Coshocton, O. The couple came to Pittsat Coshocton, O. The couple came to Pitts-burg about four years ago. Her husband was in the same business as her father, and for a time was in business with him. The firm was Heskett & Hamilton. July 3, 1889, Ward went away, saying he was going to Washington, Pa., and would be back the next day or so. Several days later his wife got a letter from him dated at Cincinnati, telling her to go to Thornton, Ind., the home of his parents, by August I. She started, but heard that he had gone away with Sadie R. Martin. She then went to Milwankee, where she had heard he was. The Chief of Police assisting her, Ward was found. He denied that he had left with Sadie Martin and promised to her, ward was found. He denied that he had left with Sadle Martin and promised to return to Thornton, Ind. Tickets were purchased and the two started. At Chicago Ward said he was going into the smoker, and left the car. He disappeared and Mrs. Ward went home alone. Mrs. Ward afterward went home alone. Mrs. Ward afterward. ward had the stories about the Martin girl order and had nothing further to do

At the hearing an affidavit from the Martin At the hearing an affidavit from the Martin girl was submitted stating that she had been in the habit of going to the Brill House, on Center avenue, twice a week with Ward, and that when he went away she followed him by arrangement and they traveled about as man and wife. Mrs. Ward only saw her husband once afterward, in February, 1890, and then for only a few minutes.

STEALING FROM THE BLIND.

A Woman Charged With Switching Money From a Friend's Letter.

Fannie Williams, colored, was committed to jail last evening in default of bail for a hearing to-day on a charge of larceny, before Aiderman Richards. The information was made by David Anderson, a blind negro, living at No. 80 Elm street. Anderson is one of a trio of blind negroes who go about with musical instruments. On July 6, it is charged, he got the Williams woman to write a letter for him to his wife, who lives in Philadel-phia, enclosing a $2 bill. While pretending to read the letter the woman, it is claimed, abstracted the money. Yesterday Ander-son got an answer from his wife stating she had received the letter, but there was no money.

TRIED TO KILL HIS WIFE.

npted Murder Puts William Sprol William Sprole, of Kirkpatrick and Arch streets, was arrested last night by Officer Terry and lodged in the Eleventh ward station on a charge of disorderly conduct. It is alleged by the officer that Sprole went home last evening in a drunken condition and threatened to kill his wife with a hatchet. Several of the neighbors heard Mrs. Sprole scream for help and ran into the house. They overpowered Sprole and took the hatchet from him. He will be given a hearing this morning.
