MINOR NEWS FROM THE THREE STATES

TEPECIAL TELEGRAMS TO THE DISPATCH.] BUTLIN, Mny 21.-A terrible explosion oc-curred at Callery Junction about 1 o'clock this afternoon, which will probably result in the death of two men. The scene of the cident was on Collins & Sheasley's lease on he Miller farm, and only a few rods from the station, Several men were gathered around the well, busily engaged in drawing the tabing, when the gas tank, located near the well, exploded without a moment's warn-ing. The derrick, boller house and workmen were instantly enveloped in flames. The first force of the explosion was torrific, and every one in the vicinity of the well was more or less injured. D. T. Reeder, well was more or less injured. D. T. Reeder, of Butler, a member of the firm owning the well, was standing near the tank watching the operation of drawing the tubing, and received the full force of the explosion. He was knocked down and his body wrapped in the frames that issued from the tank, scorch-ing everything surrounding. Before he could be taken awny by those attracted to the scene, he was fittilly burned. James C. Fitch, a driller, was 60 freet up in the der-rick, bradding the casting and was hurled the entire distance to the ground, his in-juries being probably fittal. Mr. Reeder was taken to a neighboring house and re-crived medical treatment at once. The less his hanging in shreds from his body, and in addition it is though the has inhaled the fitnes.

Mrs. Reeder left Butler for her husband's Mrs. Reeder left Butler for her husband's slife and wired friends to-night that he was slife inving but very low when she reached nim. He is conscious, however, recognizing he wile, though suffering intensely. Mr. Fitch is a single man and lives at Callery. He was at one time an engineer on the Pitts-ung and Western Buitroad. Both men are very well known throughout oil and rail-road circles. One of Mr. Fitch's most de voted attendants to night is a lovely young hely to whom he has been paying attention, and it is stated they were soon to be married. Unless Mr. Fitch received Injuries inter-nally, which is as yet not known, he may re-eaver, not withstanding his fearful fall and burning.

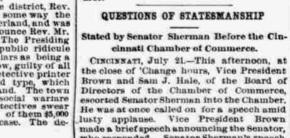

The cause of the explosion is not known, but in all likelihood a too heavy pressure of prise was encountered, which escaped through a defective check raivs. When the escaping gas reached the boller an explo-ring of course, followed. The tanks, der-rick and boller house were destroyed by the knew hich followed. Loss, including that on imposinery, etc., about $900. Outside of be-enges were shocked or thrown down by the explosion, none of the other workmen or by-standers were hurt.

A PASTOR IN DISGRACE.

He is indicted for Mailing Indecent Circu lars Against a Presiding Elder.

REE, July 21,-The principal business of the United States District Court to-day was the trial of Rev. Henry E. Sutherland, of Hazelton, Pa., who was indicted for sending obscene literature through the mails. A large number of gentlemen is here, mostly clergymen, for the purpose of swearing against the defendant. The testimony thus far shows that Rev. Mr. Sutherland, about M curs of age, established and built a church in Hazelton, and placed himself in the Methodist Episcopal Conference, Mr. sutherland having been engaged in worldly pursuits, general merchandising, etc., had

The Presiding eldern in the chinema, edge, and was something of an autocrat. The Presiding Eider of the district, Rev. John Donahue, incurred in some way the displeasure of Rev. Mr. Sutherland, and was obliged in self defense to denounce Rev. Mr. Sutherland from the pulpit. The Presiding Eider was then held up to public ridicule and charged in printed circulars as being a sort of Jekyll and Hyde fellow, guilty of all kinds of immornilities. A detective printer secured the manuscript and type, which instens the erime on Sutherland. The town of Hazelton is in a state of social warmer over the affair. Several detectives swear that sutherland offered each of them $3,000 if they would abandon the case. The de-fendant pleads persoution.

dows and doors placed in position to-day, and for the first time presents a nearly finished appearance. It is thought the build-ing will will be ready to open the latter part of September. It was begun last August, and to-day is by all odds the finest building and to-day is by all odds the finest building in the city. It is three stories high, fire-proof, and planned from top to bottom in the best possible way. The structure stands on the site of the old library, which was totally destroyed by the flood, and Andrew Carnegie bears the cost of the new one, which will amount to about 85,000. Although built by Mr. Carnegie, the ilbrary will be under the management of the Cambria Company, and will doubtless re-ceive the patronage of the old, which was free. There is some discussion going on as to the name of the library, some swying that Mr. Carnegie reserves the honor of having it called after him, while others lean toward the old name of "Cambria."

higher wages to-day. Mr. Kimberly imme-diately ordered the entire mill shut down, throwing 300 men out of employment in-definitely. The men affected by the shut-down are as thily exasperated as the pro-prietor at the sudden strike.

A Missing County Treasurer of Kansas Terrorizing Arkansas Settlers. EL DORADO, KAN., July 21 .- A year ago last

April Milton Bradly, ex-County Treasurer of Butler county, started for Arkansas with buggy, team und gun for a fishing trip. Since that time he has not been heard of, though every effort has been made by his family, which is very well off, to find him. A recent press dispatch, however, furnishes a clew, which it is thought will lead to his discovery. A wild man has been seen near Hartman, Ark. He is a large, tall man, full bearded and of a dark complexion. This answers Bradly's description, and as Hartman was on Bradly's description, and as Hartman was on his proposed route it is likely that the wild man and Bradly are the same. The fact that Bradly was insane in early life, and ran away and lived in the woods, makes the theory of identity more probable. A letter from Dr. L. A. Cock, of Hartman, says the man has a beard all over his face, and at the distance from which he saw him he would say that he had a dark beard. He was some distance from him, and it was late, about sunset. He has been seen mostly by men from passing trains, as his habitation is on the line of the raitroad. He was seen near an empty house last evening, and will be watched for at the same place by a posse of men to-night. He wears no appared but a hat, and some who have seen him say he has been exposed to the sam for some time, as he is considerably browned. An El Dorado party will go to Hartman immediately to capture the wild man and find out whether or not it is the missing Butler County Treas-urer.

in the hands of the Sheriff of Harper county to-day, with instructions to bring them be-fore the Supreme Court Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock to answer a charge of contempt. A rule was also issued to Judge G. W. Mo-Kay, commanding him to appear before the Court at the same time to show cause why he, too, should not be punished for contempt for disobering the ralings of the Supreme Court. The petition on which the attach-ment and rule were issued states that the defendants have wilfully disobeyed and re-sisted an order by Judge Horton made on June 16, ordering a stay of all proceedings in the Honeywell case in the District Court. To-day the wheat grown on the Honeywell farm is being threshed, and to-night is the time that it is alleged that the local Alliance has resolved to take possession of it forcibly for the benefit of the mortgager.
