held by the Mechanics' Trust Company, the assignee of the Falls City Bank. Unless the Association is willing to purchase the mortgage, which calls for $5,500, with interest, the Trust Company will at once begin legal proceedings to have it foreclosed, and the management has been notified that unless there is a settlement before the club returns home the receipts will then be attached. There are three gentlemen in Louisville who are willing to take the club, and the Association will have no difficulty in selling it to responsible parties here. This action, it is thought, is taken to get rid of certain objectionable stockholders.

At a late hour to-night Hall was illiands at the Metropolitan Hotel and enjoying life generally, apparently with and supoying life generally, apparently with no thought of any impending conflict with Firsimmous or the Sheriff. Firsimmons also was resting instead of fighting the bat-tle for which he had prepared.

Parson Davies, Half's backer and trainer, says that they will seemain here until to-merrow to give the club a chance of saving the forfest of $3,000, or $1,500 to each fighter, by briging off the field, but they the Mc-cafferty, who has charge of the defense of Fitssimmons and his trainers before the municipal court. Judge McCafferty says the Governor transcended his powers in calling out the militia; that this was simply a misdemeanor, whereas the Governor considered it as a felony.

Frank Shaw, who engineered the articles for the fight and organized the Minnesota for the fight and organized the Minnesota Athletic Club, where the fight was to be held, says that "The Governor now has his troops quartered in the club's pavilion, and has driven out our watchman, who had been placed there to guard the property."

jealous care for the last few days gave him three hits to-day and one of them, a long triple into right field was the, hit that gave Cleveland a lead which made Hanlon's nine feel tired and homesick. The chaps from the city of gas and belching chimneys were completely shifted around from their positions in the last visit. They played here as though they were an entire new team. A broad shouldered and auburn haired young man by the name of Newell, from Portland Me played third base and the one chance that he had was accepted credita bly. He did not astonish the natives with his bat although he put in a couple of ground hits in good time to the infield and bagged a sacrifice apiece by doing so. Out in right field Reilly, the regular third baseman for the team, played in a manner that Astonished the Spectators.

When it is taken into consideration that the sun in left field here makes it an extremely difficult position to play, some of his catches almost bordered on the miraculous. Behind the bat was Midget Miller as loquaclous and supremely confident as ever, and in the box was Maul, who pitched a good in the box was Maul, who pitched a good game—all things considered—and was unlucky enough to have the hits bunched against him. Pittsburg hit Gruber in a scattered and unsuccessful way all through the game until the ninth inning, when Cleveland's only error and a lucky hit gave Pittsburg three runs. McAleer vied with Reilly in making phenomenal plays and the Reilly in making phenomenal plays, and the fielding honors of the game were shared be fielding honors of the game were shared between the two men.

Cleveland scored its first run in the second inning. Johnson was hit on the shoulder with the ball, and went to second on a wild pitch. Tebeau struck out, and Virtne was given a base on balls. Then Zimmer stepped into the box, swung his big bat defiantly at Maul and banged a liner over Shugart's head, sending Johnson home. Gruber struck out, McAleer got a base on balls and McKean's hit to Beckley resulted in the retirement of the batter. In the third Davis was thrown out on a hot hit to Bierbauer, and Childs got a base on balls.

A Very Close Call. A Very Close Call.

He stole second just as Johnson twisted a slow grounder to Beckley. Maul covered first base and Johnson was declared out, although the chances are that he was safe. atthough the chances are that he was sale.

Tebeau rapped a line hit into center field and Childs scored. Tebeau stole second and Virtue put him on third with a hit to right field just as he started to steal. Then Zimmer pounded out a loag line hit between Carroll and Hanlon and Tebeau and Virtue crossed the plate. Gruber flied out to Shurart.

Beckley a chance to score. The first two Cleveland batters were out in the eighth, and then Bierbauer fumbled Tebean's hot hit. Virtue was given a base on balls and Zimmer's single to left field sent Tebean home. Shugart fumbled Gruber's hard grounder and Virtue scored. In the ninth Shugart popped up a little fly to center, which bounded away from Davis and gave the batter two bases. Bierbauer got a base on balls. A wild throw by Gruber to catch Shugart napping advanced both men. Carroll hit safely to left field and Shugart counted. Newell's sacrifice to Virtue scored Bierbauer. Childs fumbled Hanlon's hit and Carroll scored. A corking double play on Relly's hot hit to Tebeau ended the fun. Pittsburg was beaten, but it was not a defeat to be ashamed of. Attendance, 1,200. UNCLE SAM'S CHOICE

Of a Site for the Allegheny Postoffice Likely to Be Made.

Boston July 22.—Both teams batted hard A LIMIT PLACED ON THE COST.

BOSTON. R B P A E BROOKLYN. R B P A E The Stockton Avenue Location May Be Soon Selected Unless

NORTHSIDE CITIZENS DO SOMETHING

Washington, July 22 .- It is almost certain that if the citizens of Allegheny do not take steps to secure the location of the new postoffice at a point on the Diamond, where i ought to be, some site will be chosen by the Government from the very necessities o the case, which those same citizens will greatly regret in future years. The probabilities are that if something is not done immediately in that direction the Stockton avenue site will be selected soon after the return of Assistant Secretary Crounse next week. The interview in THE DISPATCH of yesterday with Postmaster Gilleland and Chief Clerk White attracted attention here on account of their intimation of the indifference of the people of Allegheny. The officials of the department say that if the citizens can stand the selection of a site which is not considered commendable the Sovernment can stand it.

Government can stand it.

The instances where citizens have contributed to make up the difference between the cost of a site and of the appropriation are numerous. Pittsburg gave upward of $46,000 to secure the site of the new building in that city, the difference between the appropriation and the value of the site. Dallas, Texas, gave a considerable sum for a similar purpose. Lynn, Mass., is now negotiating to pay about $20,000, the difference between the cost of a favorite site and the appropriation of $35,000. The instances are many in which a city has donated an entire site, and thus secured for the building the addition of the sum appropriated for a site.

very much surprised, "unofficially," that the Councils to donate the Haymarket site and remove the hay wagons from under the shadow of the temple of the muses on the other side of Ohio street, donated by Mr Carnegie.

They apparently see a greater future for Allegheny than the citizens do, for they predict that it is only a question of a few years when local pride will remove the old market house from the most conspicuous spot in the center of the city to some quarter more commodious and appropriate for the At Cincinnati—

The view taken by the gentleman interviewed by The Disparate, that the difference between the cost of a proper site and the appropriation be made up by the owners of adjoining property or by public spirited citizens at large is highly commended by the officials of the department, though, of course, they say they are only interested in doing what they can to get Allegheny a good building and that they do not mean to criticise in any way.

In Gilleland is at fault. At the first session of he Fifty-first Congress the cost of site and building was limited to $250,000, and $25,000 was appropriated for the purchase of a site and beginning of operations. At the second session of the same Congress an additional appropriation of $55,000 was made for "continuing the work" on the Allegheny postofice, and the words quoted have been construed by the department to mean that this sum must be devoted to the work of construction and not used in the purchase of a site. If it was intended to be used for that purpose the wording of the act was very unfortunate.

All of the sites that are considered most eligible and appropriation. One on the northeast corner of Federal and North Diamond streets, which would be in size only 20x80 feet, after deducting for the fire limit, is held at $150,000 by the owner, Mrs. Harriet Shields. One on the South Diamond, opposite the market, is held at about $85,000. One on South Diamond, opposite the Haymarket, 150 feet by 110, is assessed at about $88,000. One on Foreign and the Cheapest Site Offered. was appropriated for the purchase of a site

The Cheapest Site Offered. The property for which Mr. C. L. Magee is trustee, on the corner of North and West Diamond, is 150 by 120 feet and can be acquired without condemnation for about $55,000, all expenses included. And it would seem that this is about the only chance for a postoffice on the Diamond, as considering the area of the property, it is by far the cheapest offer. But of course this can only be acquired by a donation from the adjoining property owners, or by a contribution from the citizens at large. Such a building as would be erected on a lot of this kind would undoubtedly be of great value to the adjoining property. adjoining property.

The postoffice which will be erected soon The postoffice which will be erected soon will probably be all the postoffice Allegheny will have for a hundred years to come and the site would seem to be some importance, than present and temporary importance. It is useless to talk about changing the appropriation for a site. Any attempt in that direction would be at the risk of undoing all that has been done, in view of the pecu-liar composition of the Fifty-second Con-
