A Ross Street Dram's. A neat little drama of two acts and three heroes was played yesterday on Ross street. There was a crushing audience present for it, made up mostly of the stonebreakers who are making the foundation for the asphalt pavement back of the Court House. The heroine was a little Italian girl of possibly 12 summers, who was selling lemonade. She had a crock of beverage balanced on a board and a keg on the pavement, and was doing a fair business. Just then a man with an abnormal jag happened along. He included the lemonade stand in his zig zag path, with dire results to the little girl's stock in trade. The consequence was that the improvised counter was thrown over and the contents of the crock spilled all over the street. She demanded indemnity for her losses, but all she got was a curse from the villain with the jag. The curse had hardly been uttered when three young chamapions sprang upon the man. He heroes was played vesterday on Ross street.

young champions sprang upon the man. He fought for a time, but at last gave up the contest and 50 cents to the little girl. Worse Than Potato Bugs. Robinson township thieves seem to be of the cellar-stealing pattern. Some days ago the fact was noted that they had stolen a large lot of transplanted tomato plants, and later another theft came to light in the same neighborhood. A farmer set his force to work to cultivate a field of potatoes and work to cultivate a field of potatoes and they were astonished to find half a dozen rows in which there were evidences of the tubers only at intervals. They investigated, thinking that worms might have been bad, but the examination showed that the cut potatoes had been dug out of the ground and taken away. It is not known whether the thieves planted the cuttings or used them for food. Turnips will be sown in the vacant space and the thief can steal the seed without taking the soil along.

Inspector Stoddard, before he leaves, will visit the various sites proposed for the new Government building in Allegheny.

SOHO SEWER STOPPED UP.

Traction Cars Delayed and Numerous Cellars Full of Water. Soho street sewer is again causing trouble. The sewer has become clogged up, and as a result, when there is a heavy rain such as last night, the sewer cannot carry the water off, and thus Fifth avenue at that point becomes flooded.

Last night the water poured down the street carrying with it dirt, tin cans, etc., to such an extent that the traction cars could not run, and a 20 minutes' delay was caused. #### OBJECTED TO THE PRICE. James Parker Pulls a Knife on S. Golden and Gives Him a Chase. There was considerable excitement last night on Penn avenue in the vicinity of Twenty-seventh street. James Parker, colored, went into the second-hand furniture store of S. Golden, 2710 Penn avenue, about 10:30 o'clock, and commenced negotiations for the purchase of a bedstend. The price of Mr. Golden was $1. Parker objected to this, and a quarrel resulted.

Parker was shoved out of the store, but had Parker was shoved out of the store, but had only gotten out when he drew a large knife, and run into the place again, chasing Golden out and pursuing him up Penn avenue toward Twenty-eighth street. Officer Brady Thompson intercepted Parker, and took him to the Twelfth ward police station. The piece of furniture that Parker, wished to only was one which he had sold to Golden earlier in the day for 50 cents.

The quarrel arose over the advance asked by Golden. Parker lives at Twenty-ninth and Smallman streets. He will have a hearing this morning.

ORGANIZING A MISSION.

Wilkinsburg Covenanters to Have a Branch Church at Wildwood. A committee consisting of Oliver Wylie and Samuel Wills has been appointed by the Reformed Presbyterian Church, of Wilkinsburg, to make arrangements for organizing a mission of the same denomination at Wild-wood station, three miles east of Wilkinswood station, three miles east of Wilkinsburg, on the Allegheny Valley Railroad. This will be the first church of any kind to be started at that place.

There are a great many Covenanters living there, and having no place of worship nearer than Wilkinsburg, they are anxious to get a church of their own. They have requested the aid of their Wilkinsburg brethrea to help them along in their enterprise, and it has been granted very readily. A Sunday school will also be organized.

FLYING TOWARD THE SEA.

The Hot Weather Driving People Out of Town in Hundreds. There was a perfect rush of people to the seaside yesterday. The Pennsylvania ex-cursion train, made up at 8:50 o'clock A. M., consisted of five parlor cars and as many conches, but it was found necessary to run another section, so many passengers were there. Nearly 700 people left by the morning train. The afternoon train was well filled, but the greatest number left by the fast line at 8:10 o'clock r. M. He was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital where his right leg was amputated close to the thigh.

He was so hadly injured, however, that he died at 2:30 o'clock, just 15 minutes after he was taken to the hospital. Grogan lived on West Carson street, and leaves a wife and family.

'TWAS HIS DAUGHTER'S DOG.

How a Southside Man Got Out of a Charge Against Him. A man named Harris was given a hearing before Alderman McGary, last evening, on a charge of keeping a feroclous dog. The in-formation was made by Conrad Gundloch, of South Nineteenth street, who alleged that the dog bit him on the leg as he was passing Harris' house on South Twenty-third street. At the hearing it was developed that the dog belonged to Julia Harris, a daughter of the defendant. Harris, in consequence, was discharged, and his daughter held in $300 bail for court.
