

IMPOSE ON YANKEES.

A Drummer Leaves Haiti, Because He Was Afraid to Live There After the Bloody Massacre.

MEXICANS HATE THE AMERICANS.

A Camper on the Lake Erie Shore-Wakes Up at Night to Find a Rattlesnake in His Shirt.

A LETTER THAT JOE HAWORTH-PRIZES.

Some Short Stories Glanced Through the Week on a Variety of Subjects.

"While men have no business in Haiti at the present time, said James G. Peterson yesterday, unless they are French, English or German. These nations protect their citizens abroad, the Yankees do not, and herein is where the American in half-civilized countries is not respected or feared." Mr. Peterson is the representative of a large New York house, and he travels extensively in South America and the Central American States.

HAVERING LIKE A MAD BULL.

"I arrived in Port au Prince a few days after the massacre. The whole population was loudly scared and Hippolyte was raving like a mad bull in his palace. The audacity of the insurgents surprised and angered him beyond all measure. He was beaten on the head with a club, but his ministers advised against it. Their counsels prevailed. The people think their King is insane and they want him retired. When the subject is broached to Hippolyte he becomes furious and vows vengeance on everybody. The King has adopted the tactics of Balboa, the Chilean tyrant. The people are subjected to a rank system of espionage, which is odious and very distasteful. Nobody is allowed on the streets after 9 o'clock without a pass. It reminds one of William the Conqueror's days, when the people went to bed at the ringing of the curfew. In this advanced age such an arbitrary decision puts the inhabitants to great inconvenience. I would like to see Hippolyte up in the study with a pen and ink, writing a letter to the little hotels, and I was told that he would not do so." There are none that can follow you.

NOT MUCH LOVE FOR THE YANKEES.

"It can't be denied that the Central American people don't have much love for the Yankees. Mexico is responsible to a large extent for this result. The Mexicans hate the Americans, and they never hesitate to misrepresent the Government of the United States. The refusal of Mexico to accept the reciprocal trade treaty is a case in point. The Mexicans have been spoiled by the United States. It is surprising how bitter is the prejudice against Uncle Sam. Of course foreign trade is the life of the Central American States, and the United States have been visited by many representatives from American houses in search of trade. They have secured considerable business, and have been making a strong effort to please the people. Goods have been put up in small packages, so that they can be easily carried over the mountains on the backs of mules or transported by boats on many of the shallow rivers. The Americans have trusted the people and given them time to pay their bills.

BUT LITTLE IDEA OF GOVERNMENT.

"All through Central and South America the inhabitants have little idea of government. It excites their curiosity, and they are not oppressed. They are lazy and lovers of ease. The climate certainly is responsible for this. They are quick to rebel, if things don't suit them, as a Jersey mosquito is to bite victims at the seashore. Would I advise Uncle Sam to interfere with Haiti, or to buy up some of the northern States? Well, I should say not. They are bankrupt, and the Government seems to have its hands full keeping down the Indians on the West. With a few countries like Haiti and Santo Domingo, which are ready to dump them all into the sea. Until these places become more civilized or depopulated through repeated revolutions, it would be well for Uncle Sam to keep a respectable distance."

A BOY WHO WANTED TO KNOW.

Causes Considerable Commotion Between Two Allegheny Families. "One boy who 'wanted to know' has raised Cain in two Allegheny families as the result of his innocent prattle. A few days ago he was spilling his way through a book of riddles. One of them, and coming across the word 'gambol' on several occasions, it aroused his curiosity. He had recourse to his nurse, who told him gambol meant to leap or to jump. These words he pondered in his mind. Next day one of the neighbor's boys came around and challenged him to a jumping contest. He refused, and on being pressed remarked slyly: 'My mamma don't allow me to gambol.'" As luck would have it his mother came along just then, and at once sailed into the neighbor's youth for attending to entire strangers, as well as for making his neighbor's son come out, and a regular three-ring circus ensued. Much hair was dislodged before the riddle was through, and now the dogs of the rival homes growl in unison across the garden wall.

SPOILED HIS EFFUSION.

Mr. Weeks Relates an Experience in Reporting a Camp Meeting. "When I was a boy working on a newspaper in Connecticut," remarked Joseph D. Weeks yesterday, "I was sent to write up a camp meeting. There isn't much to say about camp meetings, as most reporters know, but I, K. Bradley, the editor, came to my rescue and told me to 'gush' to my heart's content and to 'gush' for some time. Among other things I wrote about 'clinging to life with my twigs.' It appeared in the paper next day, 'clinging to life with iron twigs.' I was wary after that, but I had to stick to my assignment."

BIG EXCURSION TO NIAGARA.

Knights of Pythias Leave on Their Sixteenth Trip Over the Lake Erie.

and last evening left the P. & L. E. depot on their 16th. The train was a special, and made up of one baggage car, nine day coaches and five sleepers. Two sleepers and four day coaches were put on the regular train that left an hour later, and both trains were packed. At least 100 stayed at home because they could not get berths.

A SNAKE IN HIS SHIRT.

How a Rattlesnake Warmed Himself on a Raw Night. "About two weeks ago I was camping with a party on the shore of Lake Erie near from Ashbatta," said George Wilson, a mill worker yesterday. "Shortly after we had retired one evening I heard a peculiar whirring sound which I recognized at once. 'There is a rattlesnake in camp,' I exclaimed, 'I am going to get up.' 'Hush,' came the word slowly biased through the teeth from a companion near me. 'The snake has crawled into my shirt bosom.' This was said very softly, and we were almost paralyzed with fright at the prospect. 'We were all afraid to stir for fear the reptile would take alarm and strike its victim. It crawled over his body good naturedly, evidently enjoying the warmth, for the night was a little raw at times that he crept close to his face, as he told us afterward. He feared the motion of his chest up and down in breathing would stir up the animal, and he tried hard to breathe as little as possible. Finally the snake crawled toward the fire, and in an instant the whole camp was up. One seized a club and broke the reptile's head at times that he could make a spring. It measured nearly five feet. 'The man who had the terrible experience collapsed like a rag after the experience was over. During the ordeal we were all surprised at the coolness and nerve he displayed. With all danger past, he fell into a faint, but he was soon revived.'

A LETTER HE PRIZES.

Joseph Haworth Prizes of an Autograph Note From John McCullough. Joseph Haworth, who covered himself with such distinction as Orlando on the open air performance of "As You Like It" on the Kenmare lawn, left for Chicago last night. On Tuesday he again plays Orlando as an open air performance in Chicago, under the auspices of the local lodge of Elks. Among the valuable documents Mr. Haworth put-away in his private vallet, preparatory to boarding the limited, was an autograph letter of John McCullough, with whom Mr. Haworth played "leading business" for three seasons. "I wouldn't take $5,000 for that," said the young star, exhibiting the letter with conscious pride. "Mr. McCullough wrote it in reply to a note of inquiry when Dion Bonicelli was asked to create the title role in the drama of 'Robert Emmet.' The letter, written in McCullough's straggling hand, read: 'My dear Joe—Your sweet letter received the other day. Never mind Mr. Bonicelli's offer for Robert Emmet. You must write your epitaph on something higher than that. We will write our names on the immortal pages of Shakespeare. They will look better there than on a dog's head longer. Let me guide you up the good, steep path to glory.' There are none that can follow you. JOHN McCULLOUGH."

THOUGHT THEY WERE GLASS.

A Father Gives His Child the Contents of Capsules and Kept the Latter. A good story was told a DISPATCH reporter yesterday, by a prominent physician, of a laughable thing that happened to him the other day. He said: "I was called on by a gentleman, who lived some five miles out of the city, to attend a sick child. Upon arrival at the residence a dose of medicine was immediately given for relief, and one dozen capsules filled and left to be taken as directed. About two days afterward the gentleman came to my office in great haste, saying that his child was dying from having swallowed one of those glass balls he had left at his house. He had taken the medicine out and gave it to the child, according to directions, and let him have the empty capsules to play with. The child put one in its mouth and swallowed it, giving the parents a severe fright, they thinking the capsules were made of glass."

AFRAID OF HER FINE.

Why a Wilkesburg Girl Won't Eat a Box of Fine French Candy. There is sorrow in the heart of one Wilkesburg young lady and the cause is this: She has found a box of fine French candy which she is afraid to eat, for, besides being a very lovely and sweet maid, she is practical enough to read the newspapers, in which she occasionally reads accounts of dreadful poisonings cases. She is possessed of the idea that there is some deed of darkness connected with her box, so will not taste a morsel of the dainty sweets till she has consulted an expert and proved the mystery to the very end—so she says.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO EXCURSIONS.

Mr. Smith Says the Next One to Atlantic City Will Be Large. The next excursion from the Baltimore and Ohio road to Atlantic City will take place on the coming Thursday. Mr. Smith says it will be the largest of the season. Four parlor cars have already been taken, and berths have been engaged on the night sleepers. Yesterday the line had 800 people on an excursion from Connellsville to the Manor Lands.

ATONIC DYSPESIA.

Atonic dyspepsia is simply nervous prostration of the stomach. There is not usually much pain, but a feeling of great weight, and sometimes faintness after each meal, followed by sour eructations and belching of gas. The bowels may be regular and appetizing, but the weakened stomach, which should be in constant movement after a meal, lies dormant, allowing the food to soon decompose instead of digesting. This is a very common form of dyspepsia among the mentally overworked class, whose nervous systems become depressed by long continued strains and sedentary habits. If there is a remedy in the whole range of medicinal preparations that is in every particular adapted to this form of dyspepsia, that remedy is Pe-ru-na. It not only acts as an appetizer, but it imparts to the stomach the vigor to properly digest the food by awakening the peristaltic movements of the digestive organs.

Angry Scene in Court in the Love Case, as to Which Shall Have the Children in Charge.

NINE SUITS FOR DIVORCE ENTERED YESTERDAY—KEEP THE MILL BUSY.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS FROM THE COURT.

Yesterday morning was the time fixed for a hearing in the habeas corpus proceedings of E. D. Love against his wife, M. D. Love, to secure possession of his three children. Mr. Love was represented by A. C. Sullivan, Esq., and Mrs. Love by Attorneys Cassidy and Richardson. A large crowd was present, the case exciting much interest. Judges Kennedy and Porter were on the bench. The case was opened by Mr. Richardson answering in behalf of Mrs. Love. He denied the charges made that she was an undisciplined parent. Also an affidavit was presented in charge of the children, or that she was given to drunkenness and immorality. The charges were not true, continued Mr. Richardson, and were only made to bolster up the suit Love has brought for a divorce. It was true that Mrs. Love had left the children none on one occasion, but it was at a time when her servants had left her suddenly, at the instigation of her husband she believed. She had affairs to attend to, and left them provided for in every manner and in good hands. As to the drunkenness, she denied it, and charged that her husband was a habitual drinker, often to the extent of drunkenness. Also that he was not a fit person to have the children, and could not provide for them. The children were also too young to separate from their mother, the oldest being only five years old. In conclusion, the Court was asked to allow the children to remain with the mother. Attorney Sullivan remarked that his client should be given time to make a replication to the charges contained in Mrs. Love's answer. They were not true, and he should be allowed time to answer them. It was suggested that the hearing be continued for that purpose. This was agreed to by the Court. There was some discussion as to fixing a time. Attorney Cassidy wanted the hearing to be held in private, but to this Mr. Sullivan objected. Judge Porter said it would hardly be practical as there would probably be a large number of witnesses. Mr. Sullivan remarked that he had 30 witnesses. Mr. Richardson suggested that the case be allowed to go over until September, when the testimony in the divorce proceedings would be completed. In the meantime the children could remain with their mother. Mr. Sullivan said that the matter should be settled speedily in the interest of the children. "Only last night," he said, pointing to the oldest child, "that boy, only 4 years old, was found across the railroad tracks in Wilkesburg at 10:30 o'clock at night, fast asleep in a machine shop, while his mother was in East Liberty with a male friend."

ONE POINT SCORED.

A Lawyer Thinks He Sees Why Fitzsimmons' Trial Was Postponed. "I think I can understand Tom Marshall's dodge in wanting the Fitzsimmons trial postponed," remarked a lawyer yesterday evening. "He is hoping that the new Judges will try the case in the fall, when he will put in a plea to the jurisdiction of the court. This point will have to be settled by the Supreme Court, and if their decision is adverse he can appeal to the United States Supreme Court. This can be done on constitutional questions. Fitzsimmons must be tried in the next week, or under the act of 1878 he can be released on bail. The whole scheme, to my mind, is an astute trick, and it remains to be seen what will be developed."

NINE UNHAPPY COUPLES.

Suits Filed in Consequence of Marital Mix-takes and Resulting Misery. Nine new suits for divorce were entered yesterday in Common Pleas No. 1. Attorney W. T. Tredway filed a suit in behalf of Elizabeth Seidel, by her next friend, H. W. Strickler, against Charles W. Seidel. It was stated that they were married May 11, 1885, and that he deserted her three years ago. He is also charged with undue intimacy with Kittle Z. Reed and others. Attorney Moore and McGill filed the suit of Margaret Dunkell, by her next friend, W. D. Moore, against W. D. Dunkell. They were married January 31, 1883. It is charged that he offered her such indignities as to render her condition intolerable, and neglected her. His last act of violence was only last Saturday, July 18. Attorneys Whitesell & Sons filed the suit of Margaret Filber, by her next friend, Henry Moore, against Frank E. Filber. They were married July 3, 1884. He offered her many indignities. On June 30, 1891, he was sent to the workhouse. Joseph Crown, Esq., filed the suit of Elizabeth Liedman, by her next friend, Louis Weber, against Christian Liedman. The couple were married April 2, 1877, and separated July 18, 1891. It is charged that he offered her such indignities as to make her life burdensome. Attorney Brier, Esq., filed the suit of Margaret Hessler, by her next friend, Adam Saal, against Adam Hessler. They were married July 11, 1881. He is accused of calling her names, threatening her, throwing a knife at her, and finally deserting her. Attorney Edmondson filed the suit of Elizabeth Bey, by her next friend, R. A. Scott, against Joseph Bey. They were married November 21, 1863, and he is charged with deserting her in May, 1891. A. J. Hays, Esq., filed the suit of Mary Snyder, by her next friend, J. Hays, against Joseph Snyder. They were married November 13, 1879, and he deserted her March 4, 1889. J. M. Friedman, Esq., entered the suit of Isaac Shepski against Esther Shepski. They were married in November, 1885, and she deserted him in June, 1887. Joe Carey sued for a divorce from Ellen Carey, alleging desertion. W. A. Blakely, Esq., was appointed Commissioner in the divorce cases of Julia K. Strizing against R. F. Strizing, and Pauline L. Miller against Frank Miller.

MUSN'T DO IT AGAIN.

John Rodgers, the Stationer, Cautioned About Selling Improper Literature. In the Criminal Court yesterday Judges Collier and Single gave their decision on the motion for sentence to be imposed in the case of John Rodgers, the Allegheny stationer, who had been convicted of selling immoral literature in the shape of the 'Pills Gazette.' Sentence had been suspended, but Captain Wisbart found that Rodgers was again selling the paper and wanted him convicted. The court had taken the matter under advisement until they could read the papers. Both Judges said that though the copies recently sold were not as bad as those Rodgers had been convicted of selling, yet the contents all tended in the same direction and they were not proper reading matter. They would not, however, pass sentence this time, but should Rodgers be brought before them again they would impose a sentence, and a severe one. The Court fixed to-morrow week for hearing all undisposed of appealed cases. The medical preparations that is in every particular adapted to this form of dyspepsia, that remedy is Pe-ru-na. It not only acts as an appetizer, but it imparts to the stomach the vigor to properly digest the food by awakening the peristaltic movements of the digestive organs.

DELIGHTFUL EXCURSIONS TO THE CHELSEA RESORTS OF THE NEW JERSEY COAST, VIA THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The second series of the Pennsylvania Railroad's select tours to the resorts of the Atlantic coast is an assured fact, if being ahead of any second series of select tours from Pittsburg. The accommodations were ample, but to do so required two large trains, and these people are now enjoying a most delightful visit to the shore. The next date is Thursday, August 6, which will enable the party on that excursion to reach the shore at the very high tide of the season. The points available by these tours are Atlantic City, Sea Isle City or Ocean City. A special train of Pullman Parlor Cars and Day Coaches will leave Union station on that date at 8:30 A. M. Tickets will be sold for regular trains at 4:30 and 8:10 P. M. Pullman Sleeping Cars on the night train. Bear in mind the date, August 6, in order that you will not miss this great trip.

AGENTS TOO PLENTY.

For the Fire Insurance Companies to Make Many Millions.

UNSAFE CONCERNS WEASED OUT.

THREE BIG CONFLAGRATIONS HAVE PLAYED HAVOC WITH PROFITS.

DISTRIBUTION OF RISKS NECESSARY.

The trouble local insurance companies have been put to lately to serve the public gratis is attracting considerable attention in business circles, and prompts outsiders to ask whether people are growing more dishonest, either building too cheaply or burning property in order to realize on the insurance, or whether there is something radically wrong in the methods pursued by the companies. Some people think that, like sewing machine and book-publishing companies, insurance companies are employing too many agents, and dividing premiums too great an extent. It is feared by some people that some agents in order to get business are apt to take risks rather loosely. While Pittsburg and Allegheny companies are honestly paying their losses and some of them making a little money the fact that seven of them were forced to pass their dividends makes some people shake their heads. Responsible insurance companies are pretty well wiped out in this section at present, though a Fayette county merchant tells a tale of woe that it is thought ought to set the Insurance Commissioner on an investigation. It was thought by some people that the wildcat feature of the business is quite prevalent hereabouts, but Mr. Hays, of Hays & Lowry, states that irresponsible concerns that in the past have done up some of the business, are not so numerous as people who are verdant enough to take the bait of a cut rate get caught.

A FEW FRAUDS YET REMAIN.

Some West Virginia companies, without assets worth speaking of, did some business hereabouts for a time. Their plan was to pay small losses, thereby advertising themselves, but when they got caught for a large amount there was pretty sure to be a "liedown" unless they could escape on a technicality. The omnibus style of insuring does not always pay companies with small capital. In an exceptionally fortunate year they may make money, but they are apt to lose an entire year's profits by the burning of a large warehouse, mercantile establishment or flouring mill. Mr. J. C. Kohne, of the Citizens', admits that too much is paid to agents, but he says it cannot be avoided so long as foreign companies compete so sharply. Formerly 10 per cent was considered a fair remuneration for an agent, but now the rate is paid without question and some want 25 per cent, and even as high as 25 per cent has been demanded, but this is not a go, strictly speaking. Mr. Kohne takes the situation philosophically. He says the least number of times taken, as fat cannot be had all the time. The last year has been an exceptionally bad one for Pittsburg, the Liberty avenue, Seventh street and Wood street fires, cutting into insurance companies' profits, but foreigners got their share as well as Pittsburg companies. All Suffer Proportionately. The fact is that risks are now so divided that all companies suffer proportionately. For instance, when a local company takes a $5,000 risk it at once proceeds to reinsure half in some other company. It seems that insurance companies are not so careful of their regular profits, no matter how carefully they may discriminate, and their only chance is in a wide distribution of risks. At the same time it is notorious that there is much criminality in the construction of buildings. Competition is so sharp that unless a responsible architect be engaged to supervise there will be great risks taken in the construction of flues, and this matter is not likely to be remedied so long as wood is cheaper than iron and brick. If contractors and sub-contractors were held originally responsible an improvement might be effected.

THE SATURDAY PICNIC.

The shop men of the Ft. Wayne road held their annual picnic at Rock Point yesterday. It took 60 cars to carry the people. About 2,000 enjoyed the day in the groves of Allen G. WANTS THE GUARDIAN REMOVED.

John R. Green Desires to Take His Brother's Child From Rev. Crum. John R. Green, of Washington, D. C., yesterday filed a petition in the Orphans' Court asking for the removal of the Rev. John Griffin as guardian of his nephew, John Green, aged 7 years. The petitioner states that he is desirous of raising the three children of his deceased brother, but that Rev. John Griffin, who is guardian of the youngest child, refuses to give him up, desiring to educate him in the tenets of the Roman Catholic Church, though the child's parents and next of kin are Protestants. The petitioner believes that it would be better to have all three children with him in Washington, D. C., and asks for the removal of the guardian of the youngest.

SUES FOR FALSE ARREST.

Justice of the Peace Jenkins Proceeds Against Policeman William Devlin. W. H. Jenkins, a Justice of the Peace of Saltsburg, Indiana county, yesterday entered suit against Policeman William Devlin for damages for alleged false arrest. Jenkins states that he was in Pittsburg on March 26. He was going along Third avenue looking for the house of a friend, when Officer Devlin, without any cause, arrested him and locked him up in Central station. He was released the next morning on the payment of $5 to the officer in charge of the station house. Suit Against a Traction Road. D. S. Davies and wife yesterday entered suit against the Duquesne Traction Company for $5,000 damages for injuries to Mrs. Davies in the collision between a Duquesne car and a car on the Alwood street branch of the Duquesne Traction Company July 7. Mrs. Davies was a passenger on the Alwood street car and had her wrist broken.

TO-MORROW'S TRIAL LIST.

Criminal Court—Commonwealth vs. Whittier, Paul Reuben Miller, F. F. Young, J. S. Dawson, William Marshall, William Berle, William McCoskey, Charles W. Stevens, Charles Gallagher, Robert Maurer. Notes From the Courts. WILLIAM FORD has made application for permission to adopt William James Morrison, the minor son of the one-time bogus Priest Morrison. An application was filed yesterday for a charter for the Daughters of America, a benevolent association of fraternal brothers. The trustees are A. W. Swavel, W. H. Carlisle and Catharine J. Oldiam. A STATEMENT was filed yesterday in the suit of Samuel S. Meno against the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad Company. The suit is an action for $80,000 damages. Meno is the owner of land in Moon township which the railroad has taken. It is stated that the company quarried stone on his place to the extent of $1,047.97, destroyed a quarry valued at $10,000, cut a strip of land 1,400 feet by 100 feet, valued at $10,000, and thereafter damaged his place by grading, etc., the whole amount of damage reaching $80,000.

The second series of the Pennsylvania Railroad's select tours to the resorts of the Atlantic coast is an assured fact, if being ahead of any second series of select tours from Pittsburg. The accommodations were ample, but to do so required two large trains, and these people are now enjoying a most delightful visit to the shore. The next date is Thursday, August 6, which will enable the party on that excursion to reach the shore at the very high tide of the season. The points available by these tours are Atlantic City, Sea Isle City or Ocean City. A special train of Pullman Parlor Cars and Day Coaches will leave Union station on that date at 8:30 A. M. Tickets will be sold for regular trains at 4:30 and 8:10 P. M. Pullman Sleeping Cars on the night train. Bear in mind the date, August 6, in order that you will not miss this great trip.

SAMUEL P. BOYER.

A PROMINENT CAPITALIST, ALSO PRESIDENT OF THE ORION OIL COMPANY, TALKS FREELY.

HIS SUCCESS IN BUSINESS ACCOMPLISHED—AN OVER-TAXED BRAIN WITH NERVOUS PROSTRATION THE RESULT—HIGHLY COMMENDING THE TREATMENT THAT RELIEVED HIM.

S. P. Boyer, one of our enterprising and influential business men, who has accumulated a great deal of wealth in the oil business, was at the Seventh Avenue Hotel yesterday, where he makes his home when in the city. In conversation he said: "Yes, I have been a successful oil dealer, commencing at the lower round of the ladder, until now I am worked almost to death endeavoring to keep up with my business—in fact, overdoing myself—and this season have paid dearly for it in suffering from a severe attack of nervous prostration, rendering me unable to sleep or rest. Many nights I walked the floor of my room trying to prepare myself for sleep. "About a month ago I discovered a remedy for my trouble in electricity, an agent for which the public to a large extent entertain more or less prejudice owing to the false impression they have of its effects, probably caused by someone practicing on them who knew but little about it, as I have experienced in the past. But for the benefit of the public, and in justice to an institution of this city, called the Electrical and Medical Institute, at 442 Penn avenue, I will say that they understand their business thoroughly, making the application according to the nature of the disease, and administering it in such a manner that an infant would enjoy it. You may think me somewhat enthusiastic, but when a person has derived the benefit that I have he cannot help feeling grateful."

A GOOD REASON.
