SENSATION IN DRESS REFORM CIRCLES

" PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH I CHAUTAUOUA. July 25 .- This was a greatday here. It was set spart for the disenssion of political equality, and the women came here in thousands from all points of the compass. Mrs. Zerelda Wallace, the mother of General Lew Wallace, and Susan B. Anthony, the great champion of woman suffrage, like Lochinvar, came out of the west, and Mrs. Anna Shaw came up from the National Capital. Thousands of lesser sex. The hig Amphitheater was beautifully ribbon and the speaker's platform was as vellow as a sunflower. Indeed, the vellow is intended to represent the "Sunflower State," for Kansas was the first State to give women municipal suffrage. The inscriptions in the Amphitheater were significant. Two were as fol-lows: "Women's ballot means enlarged opportunity for doing good" and "Govern-ments derive their just powers from the con-sent of the governed."

decorated with banners of the different political equality clubs in white and yellow,

Woman's Rights Are Gaining.

The women's movement seems to have gained great strength, for the cuthusiasm and energy evinced to-day were most signicant. Chancellor Vincent made a very happy address of welcome, in which he said augua's platform was always open to who had any idea or plan to promote the welfare of humanity.

The Women's Club made a sensation today when discussing dress reform in secret session by ejecting several over-curious men who had come in to "view the landscape." This was the programme in detail: At 330 this morning, meeting of the Women's 8:30 this morning, meeting of the Women's Club for discussion on dress, by Mrs. F. Stuart Parker, of Chicago; 11 A. M., lecture on "The New Nation," by Prof. F. N. Thorre, of Philadelphia; 2 P. M., platform meeting in interest of political equality, with addresses by Mrs. Zerelda Wallace, Bev. Anna Shaw and Miss Susan B. Anthony; 5 P. M., lecture on "Why Should I Study the Bible?" by Prof. W. R. Harper, of Chicago; 7 P. M., twilight concert by Chicago; 7 P. M., twilight concert, by Rogers' Band; 8 P. M., illustrated lecture on "Two Years and a Half With Edison," hy Dr. Frank M. Deems, of Orange, N. J., and formerly an assistant of Edison. Mrs. Zerelda Wallace, of Cataract Ind.,

made a very happy and witty address. She said every reform had three phases: First, it is not possible: second, the Bible is against it; and third, everybody is in its favor. The speaker was of the opinion that to-day's beautiful welcome and unusual attendance indicated that the Women Suf-fragists were passing through the third stage. Mrs. Wallace then went on to quote Scripture in support of woman's equality. She said that in the account of the creation "the spirit of God brooded upon the waters," which showed that the feminine attributes of the Godhead had as much to do "in the beginning" as the masculine at-tributes had.

Woman Superior to Man.

Again if the lower orders were first in creation, woman must be superior to man, for after man came woman, and she might add she has been after him ever sin Canon Farrar says Paul was a widower and not a bachelor, hence his declamation against marriage must be taken for what it worth. Man was told to go out and earn

Mrs. Anna Shaw, of Washington, D. C., made a strong appeal for woman suffrage and told in conclusion the touching story of a little boy who was run down by a cab and lay dying in a hospital. "I want my mother," he cried, and only the motherleve would quiet and soothe him. What this country needs is mother-comfort, mother-care, and mother-relief, and this will come only when women have the right

Mrs. Susan B. Anthony's address was very interesting. She reviewed the various laws that had been passed in the several States for the nuclioration of women. She said 23 States gave women the right to vote on school elections, and urged her audience to exercise this right. She told of municipal suffrage in Kansas, where women vote, and said that the women's ballots had been for law and order, and against whisky and im-morality. The speaker said that Kansas would shortly come into the woman suf-trage fold, as Wyoming had done. The speaker closed by saying that the better day was coming, and that soon woman suffrage could cover the face of the earth.

Prof. Thorpe's Final Lecture. Dr. Francis N. Thorpe gave his last lecture on the civil development of the United States. The elements of nationality are the people and the land, he said. The ideas on nationality were less clear in 1776 than now. The lecturer discussed the disintregation elements in American life from 1776 to 1789; traced the tendencies toward anarchy in the early years of the Republic, and the long contentions in the country between the radical adherents of local and Federal gov-

The chief factors in government are the land, the people and their education and sentiments. The purpose of the lecture was to show the process of that civil development North and South, East and West, which has resulted in the nation of our day.

Dr. W. R. Harper, President of the University of Chicago, and for many years principal of the Chautauqua College of Liberal Arts, has been appointed principal of the entire Chautauqua system by Bishop Vincent, whose relations as Chancellor continue the same as heretofore. Dr. Harper will give his decision as to the acceptance of this position before he sails for Europe on Thursday next. Mr. G. Vincent will be vice principal, and will continue to serve as assistant to the Chancellor.

A Banquet to Dr. Harper.

The banquet given at the Hotel Atheneum last night by the Chautauqua management, in honor of Dr. Harper on the eve of his departure for Europe, was attended by a large number of gentlemen and ladies, who were eager to testify to their friendship in this pleasing manner. Mr. Lewis Miller occupied the head of the table, with Dr. Harper at his right hand and Bishop Vincent at the left. The banquet was given additional flavor and zest by a selection by the Apollo Quartette; two recitations by Prof. Comnock; a recitation by Mrs. Parker, of Chicago, and singing of familiar airs by the assembled company. Bishop Vincent and Dr. liarper made two admirable ad-Other speeches, bright, entertaining and profitable, were made by Colonel Francis Parker, Dr. W. G. Anderson, Mrs. Emily Huntingdon Miller and Prof. Martin Dooge, after which the guests departed for

A Big Dress Reform Sensation. The screne and scholastic stillness of the Chantauqua colony was broken to-day by a genuine sensation that was not down on the programme. For some days past propa-gandists of the most radical school of dress reform have been quietly at work here, and the Women's Club, presided over by Mrs. Emily Huntingdon Miller, decided to de-vote a day to the discussion of the subject

than four systems of dress in full sweep among the ladies. First, there is the regular style, represented by the old-fashioned skirt, of which the Delsarte teacher is the exponent; the second class are the followers of the divided skirt; the third class consists of the August swiften of t sists of the Zonave uniform girls, who spend IN MANY NOTEWORTHY ADDRESSES.

sists of the Zonave uniform girls, who spend most of their time in the gymnasium, and devote five yards of cloth to each limb, and the fourth class is made up of the extreme radicals, who wear no skirts and imitate actresses by wearing tights.

The interest in yesterday's meeting was so lively that the ladies determined to hold another session this morning, and probe the vexed question to the bottom. Men were to be excluded, and the meeting was to be secret. Fully 1,000 of the "faithful" crowded into the Temple early this morning, when the doors opened, and standing room could not be had. Mrs. Frank Stuart Parker, of Chicago, was the speaker of the day, and she had brought with her the latest and most improved kind of clothes for exhibition purposes.

Males in the House.

The speaker had not proceeded far in her illustrations when it was discovered that several of the male fraternity had managed to slip into a quiet corner unnoticed, and were not the least interested among those of the National Capital. Thousands of lesser lights came from all over the union, so that Chautauqua literally swarmed with the fair sex. The big Amphitheater was beautifully Mrs. Parker is a lady of rare culture and attainments, and she proposed to con-vert her audience to the radical view of the case. She rapidly changed her outer garments in full view of her audience, and star spangled banners fell in folds all over the building. Everybody wore yellow and showed the beauty of the new system, which goes ahead of the Jennes Miller She denounced in turn high beels, narrow shoes, high collars, senseless gloves, and all kinds of corsets and garters, and told the audience that it , was a greater sin to deform the body than it was a greater sin to de-form the body than it was to tell a lie. Dante's "Divine Comedy" was neither divine nor a comedy, but an infernal trag-edy, and the same could be said of the horrible style of dress among women. It is ab-surd to say that a French dressmaker can improve upon what God has created. The speaker recommended her hearers to supply themselves with photographs of Venus Di Milo and Titians figure in the picture of "Sacred, and Profane Lives," and study them till their beauty was literally felt.

After Husbands and Brothers. Then came a long discussion, and it seemed hard for many ladies to renounce the garters, particularly the one honored by Edward the III., of England. One lady said it was a shame that women disfigured themselves so much as to compel their husbands to go to see actresses in order to behold a heautiful form. It was simply disgraceful to have brothers and husbands to a theater to admire the female ure. Another lady said that the go to figure. ason why so many women are ill-natured because they are clothed so badly. Women were certainly superior to men, it the doctrine of "the survival of the fittest were true for a man could not survive in he garments that most women wear. Altogether it was a great day at Chau-tauqua. The Knights of the Garter are on a regular crusade for dress reform, and the cooking school and woman suffrage are in

MARK HOPKINS - SEARLES BREATHES HER LAST.

The Builder of a Magnificent Palace and the Dispenser of Munificent Charities-The Origin of Her Enormous Fortune A Woman of Marked Character.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) METHUEN, MASS., July 25.-Mrs. Mark Hopkins-Searles, wife of Edward F. Searles, the New York architect, and widow of the millionaire, Mark Hopkins, of the Pacific slope, died at her mausion here this morning as a result of an attack of the grip,

Mrs. Searles was one of the richest women n America. Her first husband, Mark Hopkins, who died in 1878, was one of the five men of California who built the Central Pacific Railroad and made each thereby a princely fortune. He left an estate that was inventoried at $21,700,000, but that was said to be one-third below the real value. Mrs. Hopkins received all but $4,000 of it, and a year or so ago she was said to be worth $30,000,000. Mrs. Hopkins was born in New York City. Her father was William Sherwood, a | which were lost in the harbor of Apia two teacher and author of some repute. He went | years ago. Great Barrington, Mass., when Mrs.

Hopkins was a little girl. Some years ago Mrs. Searles bought land surrounding the old Hopkins homestead in Great Barrington, and in the rear of that structure she erected a palace whose mag-nificence was talked about in all parts of the country. In its grandeur the main hall eclipses many a European castle. The floors and walls are of imported mar-ble. In the left tower is a cloakroom, and in the right tower a reception room. The floor is of marble and the ceiling of stucco wood, polished to imitate ivory. The side walls are paneled with costly mosaics, illuminated from the back by electric lights.

Mrs. Searles gave a good deal for charitable and benevolent purposes. The greater part of her gifts went to the Congregational Church in Great Barrington, of which old Dr. Samuel Hopkins, an ancestor of her husband, was made pastor in 1741. Mrs. Searles was a woman of great strength of character. In mental characteristics, as well as in appearance, she was rather mas-

Ex-Congressman Niedringhaus Says Thousands of Tin Plate Men

WILL HAVE TO BE IMPORTED The Workmen in Wales Will Be Glad to

Come, as They Are Idle. OWENS' DECISION IN THE MATTER

St. Louis, July 25 .- F. G. Neidringhaus, of tin-plate fame, was in a much better humor when called upon to-day than he has been since the strike at his rolling mill was begun. He read the report from Washington concerning the decision of Commissioner Owens, under which he can import alien labor, and expressed surprise at its publication, evidently thinking the matter a secret. "I was very much surprised to see that article in the newspapers and do not know how they could have got it," began Mr. Niedringhaus. "It is not exactly correct, however. In the first place, I did not write Commissioner Owens a letter at all. I telegraphed him. Furthermore, I did not ask whether I could import labor; I knew I could do that. The law passed in 1885 is very plain on that subject, and I knew under it I could import labor. What I did ask Commissioner Owens in my telegram was whether it would be necessary to go through any form in importing labor, and if so, what it was. He telegraphed back that it would not and that he would write me particulars. I am now waiting to receive

"That I cannot tell just yet, but from what I can learn there will be a few thou-sand all told come to this country. The Tin Plate Manufacturers' Association in this country has 22 members, and I have seen it stated in newspapers that thousands of workmen would come here to work in the various mills to be operated. All the members of the association are not going to make finished tin plate, some making only the rough goods." "How many men will you employ at your

"Well, if you include the rolling of the iron from the pig, which is really part of the industry, we will probably have 300 or 400 men, and probably as high as 500. In the iron department, however, we will not need foreign labor, as American workmen can do that part of the job.

Foreigners Need to Instruct Americans. "It is only in the tin plate work proper that we will need foreigners, as the workmen of this country do not understand that branch of the business, it being a new industry. It is necessary for us to secure skilled labor at the outset, and we can only do so by importing workmen. Americans can learn it afterward, and we expect to employ American-born workmen whenever we can We feel it our duty to do so. The foreigners are needed to instruct our workmen, however, in the business. Nearly all the mills in Wales are shut down, and the workmen on the other side will be glad to come to this country, as they get nearly 100 per cent better pay here, and in some instances even more than that."

"In what particular branches of the tin plate work are skilled laborers necessary?" "They are needed in several departments, as the industry is a new one in this country. On that one roller we now have at the works we employ Americans, and it is American boys who make the tin plate we now turn out."
