It is almost needless to say that the sluggers were laid out. Tunt was their fate, and Latham and his pals walked away with three of the four games played. The visitors put up a fair article of ball, but the home team, with one or two exceptions, made the spectators very tired, indeed.

PEFFER'S WORDS OF CHEER.

He Predicts That the Democracy Will Be Downed in the South.

The letter is written from McKinney, Texas. In speaking of the camp meetings now being held in the South-ern States, the Senator says: "Nothing like ern States, the Senator says: "Nothing like it ever occurred anywhere, except in Kansas last year. The uprising is altogether beyond precedent, and it is everywhere. If it continues at the present rate of progress, we will all be surprised at the results. The tide is flowing toward us with regular and increasing volume. It is wonderful how men are breaking away from the restraints which have held them. The people are weakening on all hands."

The people are moving everywhere and party ties are weakening on all hands."

The Senator finds that the people are overwhelmed with debts, and in no better condition than the people of Kansas. He ridicules the idea of tariff reductions and free coinage of silver providing a sufficient remedy for the Southern people. "While a reduction of the tariff," he says, "would save something, the saving would be in driblets, a cent on a pair of socks, 5 cents on a hat, 15 cents on a cont, and so on, coming in such an irregular way, and in such small amounts that while the aggregate might be considerable it would not be kept apart and applied on debts: and the care of this great trouble is our debts. The more I travel the more widespread I find this burden of indebtedness."

SALISBURY'S REVIEW

Of the Achievements of His Party During This Parliament.

BALFOUR'S SUCCESS IN IRELAND.

Europe Tranquil, and Only Poor Little Chile Troubled by Mars.

HE KNOWS OF NO WARLIKE TREATIES

LONDON, July 29 .- Lord Salisbury, in his speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet tonight, reviewed the labors of the presen valuable work had been done, and that the struction formerly hindering legislation had almost disappeared. He rejoiced at the passing of the education bill as calculated to support the system of religion which the people loved.

Regarding Ireland, Lord Salisbury said that the Government had applied a successful remedy to evils long suffered there, and tion. Five years ago he had expressed the belief that Ireland must be governed resolutely. Mr. Balfour's success was largely due to the fact that those under him were assured they would be supported and not handed over to their enemies. Mr. Balfour's administration owed its success to persistence and resolution. [Cheers.] Respect for the law followed, the people believing that resistance to the law was futile. The land act would be found not to be a temporary palliative, but a permanent cure for the abuses of many generations. It would draw closer the bond uniting the two countries. "England at the last election declared against the severance of the bond, and I believe the decision is irrevocable." (Cheers.) Referring to foreign powers, Lord Salisbury said he never knew a period when Europe was more tranquil than at the present time. In South America altone was there a weary quarrel and constant fighting. The English Government had been pressed to arbitrate in the Chilean trouble, and in the adjustment of the Argentine finances, but England could not undertake either task. Referring to the Eastern question, Lord Salisbury said that the problem had not yet been solved, but that Egypt and Bulgaria were showing such rapid development that they promised to settle the difficulty without any external interference.

The Premier next spoke of the value of the visits of Emperor William and the Prince of Naples, in assuring the world of the peaceful bins of the Great Powers. He hoped in the course of a few weeks to welcome to England the fleet of the French Republic. [Cheers.] There had been talk of certain treaties threatening the world, but he knew nothing of them. He believed that the nations would work in harmony with each other—more on account of their kindred interest than on account of mere paper treaties.

Referring to the seal and lobster disputes, and lutely. Mr. Balfour's success was largely due to the fact that those under him were paper treaties.

Referring to the seal and lobster disputes, Lord Salisbury said that they dragged their slow length along with the calmness and slowness suitable to these animals. It was useless, he added, to imagine that the luxury of carrying on these negotiations would cense for any minister for a considerable number of years.

The Whole Town in Mourning for the Vic tims of the Rallroad Wreck. All the houses were draped with crepe emblems, half-masted flags and other signs of mourning.

Gossip of the Wharves. RIVER matters are becoming very dull, ALL interest is centered on the safe arrival of the various fleets at their destination. The pool boats are filling up the various landings for the next rise, which is predicted by some for the first week in August. The boats are all late getting to Cincinnati, owing to the heavy fog at night, com-pelling them to tie up. It is feared that there will not be sufficient water for the boats going below Cincinnati to get cut, which will compel them to tie up at that port. The marks on the wharf show 2 et 6 inches and falling.

AN ENGLISH LORD MISSING.

He Mysteriously Disappears From a Bost Hotel and From His Sister. Bosrox, July 29.—On Tuesday, July 21, there came to the Hotel Thorndike in this city, Lord Oscar Haldon, of England, accomthere came to the Hotel Thorndike in this city, Lord Oscar Haldon, of England, accompanied by his sister, who, although registering as from New York, is known to have been in this country but a short lime. The next day the couple went to Magnolla to pass the summer, and on the following Sunday Lord Haldon mysteriously disappeared from the hotel where he had been staying. Since that time his sister has seen nothing of him.

It is learned, however, that last Sunday he made his appearance in the Thorndike, where he remained but a few hours, but during which time he borrowed a sum of money from the proprietors, who knew nothing at that time that he was being sought for by his sister. He left his magnificent gold watch as security for the loan and disappeared from the hotel as unceremoniously as he had come. No trace of him has since been found. It is said by his sister that he has been subject to fits of melancholy, and at times has acted strangely. There is no reason for his sudden departure. He is reputed to be very wealthy, and his name is said to appear upon the peerage book of England.
