COINCIDENCE OF THE DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1. R. C. J. REYNOLDS, of Oil City, Pa., was in New York this week on his way home from Asbury Park.

Dr. Reynolds, besides having reproduced in miniature the "Coal Oil Johnny" all farm, on Oil creek, which will be exhibited at the World's Fair, probably knows more about rattlesnakes than any other man in Pennsylvania, excepting only Pete Gruber, of Oil City, known far and wide as "Rattlesnake Pete."

Reynolds and Gruber, are fast friends and associates in the critical business of catching rattlesnakes alive. At one time witnessed the operation as performed by these two snake experts of chloroforming a monster rattler and removing his fangs. It was an exceedingly interesting operation and was done successfully.

Dr. Reynolds, while in New York this week, gave me some new points about snake catching and snake culture, and also kindly supplied me with some photographic scenes of the last snake hunt by himself and Gruber.

"The favorite Rattlesnake ground," said Dr. Reynolds, "is in the vicinity nine miles above Oil City, on the Allegheny. We make a trip up there once a year, and always catch a lot of snakes. This year we went May 11, driving over the ground in a wagon, and we were accompanied with all the necessary paraphernalia for a chase, which consists simply of a forked stick each, with which to pin the snake to the ground and a box to put the reptiles in after we have caught them."

"The snake stick we cut in the woods and it answers the purpose of a cane. It is about four feet long, with a handle at one end. When a rattler is encountered a dextrous stab with this stick pins him to the ground without hurting him. When that is done my business with his snakeship is done for I have no desire to take a live snake in my hands. That, however, is precisely what 'Rattlesnake Pete' likes to do. The snake's head may not be pinned to the ground, but that makes no difference to Gruber. So the snake isn't free to run in all his holes, and watching his chance he seizes it back of the head with his naked hand and after amusing himself with it awhile he puts it into the box. Of course, the snake does its best to bite him, but his hold is so close to its head that it can't do it. All it can do is to show its fangs and darting tongue, but Pete got used to seeing these long legs."

"The best snake den in the vicinity I speak of is on a high ridge on Stewart's farm. There is a ledge of rocks on the ridge and every year snakes are plentiful here. There are, I dare say, thousands of them, nearly all rattlers, but on account of the many rocks affording them hiding places, it is possible to secure only a few at a time you see. At first sight they scamper for the rocks and you have to be alert to intercept any of them. This year we captured twenty. Last year we captured 21. All of these Gruber caught in his naked hands. It is frightful to see the way a big rattler twines himself around the arm of his captor, making his horrible noise all the time. The longest snake captured this year was exactly 6 feet, and it had 16 rattles. The shortest was 4 feet 10 inches. The smallest snake was a male, with dark, diamond-shaped spots, and was exceptionally lively. He made a much more desperate fight than any of the larger ones."

Ammonia as a Snake Antidote. Dr. Reynolds said that the only precaution taken by Gruber before handling his rattlesnakes was to rub ammonia on his hands, so as to cover any cut or abrasions of the skin. The poison of a snake is harmless so long as there is no wound. "Some of these big rattlers," said the Doctor, "will throw the poison out of their mouths a distance of four or five feet. If any of it gets into a cut in your flesh it is just as dangerous as the bite of a snake, so we always take the precaution to use plenty of ammonia. I have seen the poison running from a rattler's mouth down over Gruber's hand, but he never experienced any ill effects from it. The poison is a yellowish, acrid substance and not a very pleasant thing to look at, particularly when running from a big rattlesnake's mouth over a man's hand."

In the photographic scenes accompanying this article the man in his shirt sleeves is Pete Gruber, the other his friend, Dr. Reynolds. Gruber keeps a saloon in Oil City, and in the rear of his private museum where he keeps all his snakes and every conceivable creeping and crawling creature he can get hold of. All this for the benefit of his customers, though the presence of such a variety of snakes would not seem to be a particularly drawing card for a saloon. However, Gruber is satisfied to have these reptiles there, and he goes to a great deal of trouble and expense to get them, besides the risk of being bitten.

The Doctor's Miniature Oil Farm. Dr. Reynolds belongs to one of the oldest and best known families of Oil City. He is a dentist, with a skill for making almost anything that it is possible for any mechanic to construct. His genius in this direction is shown in his miniature mechanical oil farm, where a dozen or more pumping wells and a train of cars run automatically. Dr. Reynolds has been offered $1,500 for his oil farm, which makes it even more valuable than many of the old farms on Oil Creek. Gruber has in his private museum what he calls his "Happy Family," which consists of one opossum, one raccoon, one house cat, one monster blacksnake, one hen, several white rats and other animals and birds—all of which live together without a break in their domestic felicity. In the museum proper there are over 30 rattlesnakes, 9 copperheads, 7 blacksnakes and many snakes that are not venomous. Besides the snakes there are alligators, a brown bear, a 4-month-old coyote, many varieties of owls, parrots and scores of other curiosities, all going to make a very respectable country museum. If a big snake, a strange animal or bird is captured anywhere within a hundred miles of Oil City it is pretty sure to find its way to "Rattlesnake Pete's" museum.

Handled 600 Live Snakes. "Gruber has been catching snakes for nine years," said Dr. Reynolds, "and in that time he has certainly handled 600 live snakes of every kind. He thinks no more of handling a live rattlesnake or a copperhead than I would of handling a canary bird. As for blacksnakes they are not venomous, and I have seen him thrust his naked hand into a cage containing one of them and let it strike his naked hand just for the fun of the thing. The first time I saw him do this it made the chills run down my back."

"Just see how hard that fellow strikes," he said, and, holding the palm of his hand toward the snake, it would strike him a dozen times. Holding his hand perpendicular to the snake it would not be able to do more than simply strike it head against his palm, but this it did very easily.

"In all the snakes that 'Rattlesnake Pete' has handled, he has been bitten but once. This was last fall. Gruber was showing I. C. Boyle, of Oil City, and some friends through his museum one day, and while carefully handling a big rattler, it fastened its fangs in his right hand, and he loosened the snake from his hand, put it back into its box and then sucked the wound with his mouth. Some ammonia was brought and put on the wound, and then Gruber drank three or four glasses of whisky. Boyle had a doctor there speedily, and the wound was cauterized. The hand and lower part of the arm swelled considerably, but in three days Gruber was well as ever. The marks of the snake's fangs are still there, but he suffered but little inconvenience from the bite after the third day."

A Snake Man on Snakes. Dr. Reynolds states that there are snakes in Gruber's museum that have been bitten for three years without a bite of food. It is offered to them, but they take nothing but water. At the same time they are fat and slick as when first captured. It is not true, however, that rattlesnakes will not eat in captivity, as some naturalists claim. Some of Gruber's rattlers eat occasionally, their preference being for chipmunks, swallows, English sparrows, mice, etc.

The female rattler is the only snake that gives birth to her young alive. From 10 to 15 young rattlesnakes will be brought into the world at one time. All other snakes lay eggs from which the young are hatched. R. W. C.

GOSSIP OF THE GUARD. LIEUTENANT ALBERT EASTON, of Company F of the Fourteenth Regiment, returned from Chattanooga last week.

CAPTAIN CHARLES E. ROSSIGNO, who has been sojourning at Atlantic City for the past month, returned home yesterday.

COLONEL BRILL and Colonel Grey have rented a cottage at Arnold station for the use of their families during the coming camp.

Ten McKeezer carriage boxes will shortly be issued throughout the Second Brigade, as well as new haversacks and bayonet scabbards.

W. R. KURT, the caterer, has decided to run a restaurant at the Arnold camp next week. He has obtained the privilege from Major A. J. Logan.

COMPANY A, of the Fourteenth Regiment, has worked one time. All other companies, legions, and at the coming tour of duty will be the only company in the regiment so supplied.

The Board of officers of the Fourteenth Regiment meets to-morrow evening. The meeting will be the last before camp and considerable business of importance will be transacted.

The Board of Control of the Eighteenth Regiment met last evening in the Diamond Street Armory. The meeting was well attended and final arrangements for camp were settled.

The monthly meeting of the Washington Infantry will be held next Tuesday evening. The meeting for camp must be at the armory the same night as the company meeting.

ARRIVAL J. A. LOAN, of the Tenth Regiment, spent a few days in the city last week. Captain Loan is the gentleman who received such unpleasant notoriety in connection with the strike of the regiment.

LIEUTENANT BENNETT GOOZE, of Company D, Eighteenth Regiment, has tendered his resignation to Colonel Smith. Mr. Goetz was a heavy-weighted man, tipping the scales at close to 300 pounds.

An election has been ordered in Company I, of McKeesport, for August 11, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of First Lieutenant Thomas Wiley. This election will occur while the company is in camp.

ANONYMOUS CHARLES REBER, of the Eighteenth Regiment, who has been traveling through the eastern portion of the State for some weeks in company with Major Alex. McDaniel, of the Fourteenth Regiment, will be back in the city next Tuesday.

MR. A. J. FRICK has recognized the services of the First Sergeant of the Tenth Regiment at Ft. Pleasant during the recent strike troubles by presenting them with a complete new outfit of uniforms, together with a bag and set of crumpled equipments. The bill came to $1,000.

MR. FRED TURNER, formerly an officer of Battery B, died suddenly, at Oil City last week. He was in the company located at Wilkesbarre, Pa., has been acting as Quartermaster Sergeant of the Ninth Regiment for some time, and was elected Second Lieutenant of Company D of the same regiment last Friday evening.

The Second Brigade Examining Board meets at the Monongahela House to-morrow evening at 8:30. All candidates for commissions who have not yet appeared before the board should be present at this meeting, as it is the last before camp, and no officer will receive pay for the coming tour who does not hold a commission.

MEMBERS of the Third Brigade Examining Board have evidently not been held as frequently in the past as they might have been. Several officers in this brigade who have been re-elected to commissions have had trouble in holding their original rank on account of the failure of the board to examine them within the six months allowed by the code.

MAJOR THOMAS B. COWELL, of the Sixteenth Regiment, died suddenly, at Oil City last week. He had been connected with the National Guard for many years. Special orders were sent out from Harrisburg to fill the vacancy caused by Major Cowell's death and the resignation of Colonel Foster. Colonel Hulings, of the Sixteenth Regiment, returned to Oil City yesterday after an absence of some weeks.

The official attendances at the inspections of the First and Third Brigades during their recent camps were as follows: Gray Legionaries, 88; State Fencibles, 97; City Troop, 81; Battery A, 87; First Regiment, 99; Second Regiment, 85; Third Regiment, 85; Sixth Regiment, 85. Total number of officers and men present in the First Brigade, 2,599; in the Second, 2,599; in the Third, 2,599; in the Fourth, 2,599; in the Fifth, 2,599; in the Sixth, 2,599.

GRAND AUGUST CLEAN-UP SALE! FOR FIFTEEN DAYS!

During which time we shall make our last, great, determined and successful effort to clear out every vestige of summer stock. These fifteen days will be trying on our bank account, for we have made reckless reductions, and in naming the prices we have the value of an article has not been considered, and its original cost entirely lost sight of. Our store for the next two weeks will be a bargain-hunter's paradise, for, our word for it, we've made prices which will cause a flurry and give an opportunity in reliable merchandise which you cannot afford to miss.

CLOTHING FOR MEN. IN THE OTHER DEPARTMENTS: BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING. WHITE VESTS, FANCY VESTS, COLLARS & CUFFS, STRAW HATS, LIGHT DERBYS, TRUNKS, VALISES, SATCHELS, HANDBAGS, UMBRELLAS, TRAVELING SETS, DRESS SHIRTS, NIGHT SHIRTS, HAMMOCKS, SHIRT WAISTS, SUSPENDERS, HORSE CLOTHING. Men's Suits, Summer Clothing, Men's Pants, Boys' Suits, Boys' Pants, Children's Suits, Negligee Shirts, Underwear, Neckwear, Hosiery, Handkerchiefs, Men's Shoes, Ladies' Shoes, Misses' Shoes, Boys' Shoes, Children's Shoes. We bought for a hotter summer; the weather has not kept up its record, and we'll wait no longer but give you the goods at prices which you will be only too willing to pay for them. 250 more of those Sack Suits which we sold a short time ago at $5 are now in and offered at the ridiculous price of $2.90. Complete Men's Suits, $2.90. One lot of Union Worsteds Men's Suits will be offered during the sale at $2.20. At $5 we show a number of styles in sacks and frocks, somewhat broken in sizes, but we can fit you in some one of them. Not a suit in the entire lot worth less than $10. Our $8 and $10 lines can't be duplicated in any store in the city under $14 and $16. IN MEN'S PANTS. We offer 350 pairs of Blue Chevot fit for evening wear, camping or fishing, for 98c, worth double. Twenty different styles of Cassimere Pants at $1.50. You'll have to put another dollar to the price to match them elsewhere. $2.50 gives you choice of 1,000 pairs of pants left from suits, not a pair of which is worth less than $3.50, and some worth $5. At $3.50 a fine assortment of medium and light-colored Pants, the regular price of which would be $5 and $6. Three lots of good Cassimere Pants, sold all the season at $3, now $1.80. IN FURNISHINGS. The bargains are so many that we scarcely know which to select to place before you in print. We'll take a few at random. Scores of others of equal value could be named did space permit. Here's a Chevot Negligee Shirt, one of the best makes, drops from 63c to 39c. Take a look at the French Flannellets in fancy stripes, good value at $1—sale price 63c. Black Silk Negligees down from $3 to $1.98. HERE'S AN Underwear Chance. Odds and ends of plain and fancy Colored Shirts, sold at 63c and 74c, now offered at 29c. A line of fancy Striped Bal-brigan Shirts and Drawers, actually worth 74c—yours for 49c. Boys' Drawers, odds and ends in 50c goods, go at 24c. NECKWEAR. Is also in it. Take as an example the Flowing-End Silk Scarfs, bought to sell at 50c, now offered at 45c. The price on the Silk Windsors has shrunk from 24c to 13c. HOSIERY. Is in line heel and toe. Fancy Striped Half Hose, cheap at 49c, go for 34c. Silk Half Hose, 75c goods, will be sold during this sale for 49c. BOYS' WAISTS. Boys' fancy Percalé Waists drop in one minute from 35c to 19c. Boys' Blouse Jersey Waists come down the ladder from 74c to 39c. Finest Star Waists, regular $1.25 goods—sale price 89c. STRAW HATS. Thousands here yet. But they must not and shall not remain. They would be more becoming on your heads than on our tables, and if price is any inducement they will soon find their way thither. Not what ought they to bring, but what will they bring is the question of the hour. We'll lose on every one you buy, but we are going to sell them regardless of loss. ...SHOES... Reliable Shoes will be as low during the sale as you can buy trash for elsewhere. Ladies' fine Kid Oxford Ties, 98c. Ladies' fine Kid, Common Sense and Opera Toe—buton—$1.25. Men's B Calf, Congress and Bals, $1.85. Fine quality Men's Dongola, Congress and Bals, $2.50. BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING. Same story here—the goods must go. Price is the only lever which will lift them. We've made the prices and we believe you'll do the rest. Here's one or two specials for Monday. We say Monday because we don't expect the goods will last over that day. 1,500 Blue Sailor Suits to be slaughtered at 49 Cents. About a hundred and fifty Sailor Kits marked down irrespective of cost to 98c. Numbers of styles of Children's Short-Pant Suits at $1.50. (Sold all the season at $2.50). The Short-Pant Suits we now offer at $2 are worth from $2.50 to $3.50. Our $5 lines of Short-Pant Suits in medium weights and dark colors (Suitable for wear right on into the fall) Go during this sale for $3.50. Similar and proportionate reductions have been made on all the higher price goods. We cannot, for lack of space, name any more examples. There are also extra bargains in Boys' Long-Pant Suits and great catches in Boys' Pants, both short and long.
