Burrato, Aug. 4.-John E. Madden, the shrewd dealer in well bred trotters, used to be a fast sprinter and he showed a touch of his old form when he ran down and stopped a runaway trotter this afternoon at the Driving Park, preventing what might mve been a serious accident to a valuable horse. Charley Wilkes, a speedy bay stal-lion, and got tangled with the Kentucky geiding New York Central in scoring for the first heat of the 221 class, and the former's sulky tipped, landing the driver over the inside rail. (harley Wilkes got off and galloped round to the home stretch where Fisher, his tminer, met him and made a grab for the reins. He did not get a grip of hem, but stopped the horse's way a little so that Madden was able to keep with him and get him under control. E. D. Wiggin, of on, who owns the stallion, was a grategot off without a scratch. John Splan who ens behind New York Central, kept his seat and came out of his second accident in two weeks with his usual luck. WASN'T A PROMISING DAY. It was not a very promising day for the organing of the grand circuit meeting, but the clouds did not do more than threaten and the three events were disposed of at dark. Happy Bee had the easiest kind of a where the cases kind of a victory in the 227 class, going faster each time, as her opponents tried conclusions with her. The first heat was so slow that T. TOOK THEIR DOSE AGAIN.

Our Big Sluggers Get Another Walloping From the Brooklyn Players-Mr. King Has a Very Disastrous Inning, and the New Manager Somewhat Disappointed

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] New Your, Aug. 4.—Anticipations of at cast breaking cosing spell made Manager McGunnigle feel hopeful this afternoon, and as Silver King was feeling rather strong in that right arm of his prior to the game, it made the manager bold enough to wager a $1 necktie that the Smoky City team would win. "I want to wear that tie when I reach Pittsburg," he remarked. But Manager Mc-Gunnigle will not get it this time, for the Pittsburg's again lost, and they were de feated quite easily at that. A very small crowd was present, the threatening weather keeping the attendance down to 476. King began well, but in the final innings he was laced out rather hard. There were no bril-liant plays, the balls being hit at the fielders. Ward and Pinkney, however, picked up a number of rapid moving ground hits, both also throwing well. J. O'Brien did not do as well at second base as has been his custom, but only one of the errors were costly.

BEGAN IT ALL RIGHT.

The visitors began the game in a promisne manner. They retired the Brooklyns in one, two, three order, and in their turn sent one around the circuit of the bases. Hanlor filed out, but Shugart merely pushed the ball just far enough over J. O'Brien's head. Shugart cleverly stole second, and ran for third when Beckley hit to J. O'Brien. The third when Beckley hit to J. O'Brien. The latter fumbled and as he was unable to pick up the bail the Pittsburger kept on running and easily crossed the plate. A double play, in which Ward, J. O'Brien and Foutz were the factors, put a damper on all further scoring in this inning. While at occasional times each team would get a player on the bases, none could cross the plate until the fifth inning, when threatening clouds made the Brooklyn players feel somewhat tieklish, for a rain storm after the inning was completed meant deteat. Griffin waited patiently, as only Griffin can, and for the second time would not bite at any wide balls, and as King could not find the plate, Griffin trotted to first base on called balls. John O'Brien knew it was time to do something, and responded in a lively manner. He laid his stick up against an inshoot and the ball shot to left field, where neither Shugart, Reilly or Miller happened to be. "Did you see it?" yelled Burns to Manager McGunnigle, who was jumping around uneasily in his seat. Kinslow tipped the ball just faintly and though thrown out at first base, the other men moved up a base each.

One of the Pittsburg fielders was mean enough to remark "two out, boys," when Lovett stepped to the plate. It was the third ball pitted that the doughty pitcher took a liking to, and he almost latter fumbled and as he was unable to pick over the bench by smashing his bat against ning along the ground toward Hanlon. On hit Griffin and J. O'Brien crossed the plate. The visitors tied the score in the folplate. The visitors tied the score in the fol-lowing inning when Miller found himself on second after hitting to left, and he felt so de-lighted that he gave his langs full power in yelling, "Wow, wow. wow." But he stormed with madness when Umpire Hurst declared him out at the plate while attempting to tally on Mack's bunt to Pinkney. The latter threw too late to Foutz but the first base-ness got it home in time to retire Miller threw too late to Foutz but the first haseman got it home in time to retire Miller. Carroll dropped the ball just inside the left field foul line and although the ball was returned in time to catch Mack at the plate, Kinslow dropped the ball. The seventh inning was a hummer for Brooklyn and the ball was fairly raining in places where the fielders were not. Griffin singled and stole second on Mack's low throw. Kinslow also hit safe, while Lovett dropped the ball in short left, sending in Griffin. Ward banged out a double letting Kinslow score, and Foutz also got to second on a hit to left on which Lovett and Ward crossed the plate. Pinkney was the last to hit safely and on his Pinkney was the last to hit safely and on his effort Ward tallied. A base on balls to Grif-fin and two steals gave the home team an-other run in the eighth inning. Score:

This makes the fourteenth victory won by the home team, without a single defeat. The weather was pleasant, and 1.500 people attended the exciting game. Pitcher Altman was in fine form, and struck out 17 of the visitors. Sterling was handicapped, having a bad finger. Withelm led in batting with two singles and two two-baggers. The visitors played very well, and gave the home team the hardest fight they have had this season.

To-Day's East End Game. The famous Jeannette Grays, who claim to be champions of Western Pennsylvania, will try their strength against the great East End Gyms, the leaders in the County League race, to-day at East End Gymnastic Club Park at 4 o'clock. The Grays are a strong club, but have in their claims been ignoring the Allegheny County League clubs which they one and all resent, and the Gyms will endeavor to-day to show them where they are wrong. A large crowd will no doubt be present, as a close and exciting game is sure to be seen. The Larimer and Lincoln branch of Duquesne Traction will take care of the crowds going and coming. Thompson or Gumbert and Lehman will be the battery for the Gyms.

Ex-Congressman Butterworth responded to the remarks of Herr Von Boetticher. He declared that the assent of Germany to take part in the Chicago Fair had evoked the greatest satisfaction in the United States. He felt convinced that the Exposition would contribute to knit more firmly the ties binding the two countries. After the interview with Herr Von Boetticher, the committee visited Chancellor Von Caprivi, who warmly received them. Subsequently the committee held a conference with Herr Wermuth, the German Imperial Consul, in regard to the matter of negotiations to be conducted with German merchants and others whom the committee desire to exhibit at the Fair.

SOLDIERS' RATIONS BURNED.

They Were Stored. Benlin, Aug. 4.—The commissary of the German army has suffered a severe loss by fire. A heavy thunder storm prevailed this morning at Rathenow, 34 miles from Potsdam, and during the height of the storm lightning struck the building in which the stores of the garrison were kept. The store-house was filled to its utmost capacity with oats and straw for the use of the cavairy horses and other animals belonging to the garrison regiments and with thousands of tins of preserved meats for the use of the soldiers.

DEATH FROM A FALL

A Cruel Husband Neglects and Maltreats His Injured Wife.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH 1 BUFFALO, Aug. 4.-Three and a half miles from the village of Clarence, about 16 miles south of this city, lives Joseph Eckhart, a well-to-do farmer said to be wort $25,000. His wife was obliged to do duty in the hay field, and last Tuesday she sustained injuries resulting in her death. She and her husband were on top of a haymow, when she lost her footing and fell to the ground. Some allege that her husband pushed her off, but he denies this. In falling Mrs. Eckhart broke her leg and lay groaning at the foot of the mow. When the twilight fell Joseph dragged the half-conscious and suffering woman into the woodshed, and there he kicked and cursed her and struck her with the handle of a pitchfork, after which he ate supper and retired to the only bed the house afforded and went to sleep.

SUGAR PRICES GO DOWN.

BITTER FIGHT BETWEEN SPRECKLES AND THE GREAT TRUST.

The War Was Instituted With a Small Cut. Followed by Another-Brokers Interested in the Outcome-Rates Lower Than Ever Before. New York, Aug. 4 .- A bitter fight was be gun to-day by the Sugar Trust against Claus Spreckels, who has been a thorn in the side of the sugar refiners on this coast for many years. About ten days ago the President of the years. About ten daysago the President of the Sugar Trust was called away from the city by the ultimately fatal Illness of his father, F. C. Havemeyer. While he was away the sugar Trust maintained its price for granulated sugar. but Claus Spreckels, who had been keeping his rates up to those charged by the trust at once anuounced a reduction of 1-lec perpound. He cut seriously into the trade of the Sugar Trust, but no action to meet the cut was taken, as it was believed that as soon as Spreckels' supply was placed he would reas Spreckels' supply was placed he would re-tire from the market. He kept on filling or-ders, however, and practically supplied all

Yesterday President Havemeyer returned and at once ordered the sugar trust price for granulated sugar reduced one-eighth or one-sixteenth below the cut made by Spreckels. The latter to-day then made another cut, bringing his price one-sixteenth below the price asked by the trust. The reductions made bring the price for granulated sugar down to to 4 teents per pound in Philadelphia, on which 2 per cent is allowed off, making the net cash price 322-100 cents, the lowest on record. The price made by the Sugar Trust is 41-16. In Angust, 1889, after the formation of the trust, sngar sold at 8% per pound. A curious feature of the fight is that in the raw sugar market both parties are urgent buyers and the sugar trust to-day bought raw sugar at 35-16 cents. This brings the profit of refining down to a very low point. In lower Wall street great interest is shown as to whether the trust will to-morrow meet the last cut made by the Spreckels. New York Speculator. NEW YORK, Aug. 4 .- The failure of A. F Stockwell was announced on the Consoli-dated Exchange to-day. He had been allowed till 11 o'clock to make good his con tracts for 200 shares of stock. The time was subsequently extended until I o'clock, when under the rules. The 200 shares represented about $400. The decline of A. B. Stockwell at one time noted as a most daring and venturesome stock speculator has excited much sympathy among the people in Wall much sympathy among the people in Wall street.

Mr. Stockwell's connection with Wall street began over 20 years ago, when he came here from Cleveland, O., with a capital estimated at a round $1,000,000. He was at the head of the then famous Howe Sewing Machine Company, a position that he acquired through his marriage with the daughter of the well-known inventor. For a long time he cut a big swath in Wall streetaffairs. He became President of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and of the Panama Railroad Company. Then reverses came, his fortune crumbled away like ashes. Misfortunes followed each other in quick succession until his fortune was swallowed up in the maelstrom of speculation.

It was Bartel's turn on duty to-night, and it was about 6 o'clock when he was killed. One of the party called for a drink. Bartels was then leaning over the motor. At the instant the call, was made for a drink the man straightened up, recled and fell over on the floor. The three men and Mrs. Feldstein ran to him. He had not uttered a sound. His eyes were wide open and turned upward. Dr. Richardson, who was summoned, said there was no doubt the man had been shocked to death. The motor did not carry

A STRANGE EXPERIENCE.

The Bullet a Captain Carried in His Head

for Years Drops Out of His Nose. [FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.-Captain J. R. Mc Connell of the General Land Office, had a curious experience to-day. He had been carrying a bullet in his head ever since the when he was shot during an engagement. The bullet has from time to time let the Captain know that it was still making its quarters in his head. He has suffered occasionally twinges of pain, but it has not incapacitated him for work.

He was bending over to-day when he felt something in his nose, and then it passed out and fell on the floor. He picked the substance up, which proved to be a bullet, somewhat flattened and rusty, but still a bullet. The Captain was naturally glad to see his hitherto invisible companion of long years. It was the first time he had a chance. Where it had been effectly during the 25 years or more that he had given it a shelter ment. The bullet has from time to time let

The Murdered Goodwin Was Writing to His Wife When Shot.

A TENDER AND PITIFUL LETTER.

His Slayer Still at Large and the Latter's Alleged Wife Held.

THEIR MARRIAGE A THING OF DOUBT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] New York, Aug. 4 .- When Charles E. Goodwin, heretofore supposed to have been a bachelor, was shot in the Percival on Sun-day night by Bertram C. Webster, he was writing a letter. This is the letter:

"I never sat down to write you with my neart so full of tenderness, sympathy and needed your love more than now, and yet I don't know when or how to begin my letter. It seems as if I had lived years in the last few days, and yet I don't know when or how to begin and yet I don't know when or how to begin my letter. It seems as if I had lived years in the last few days, and as if the experience of a lifetime had been crowded into them. My brain seems like a tangled skein, and it is impossible to find an end that I might follow up, without intersection, any particular thought. Everything crowds upon me in tumult, and it is only by this preface that I can hope to unravel my thoughts and lay them down separately and side by side, to take up one by one until I have mastered them all, and have them on paper for you my beloved Essie, to read and understand.

A PANG OF REMORSE. "I have not appreciated in the last two or three weeks the damage I was doing you; the state of mind I was putting you in. If I the state of mind I was putting you in. could not very well write you when I ought to and want to, darling, I said, "My wife could; knows that nothing wrong is keeping me from her, and will fret at keeping me from her, and will fret at the obstacles in my way, but hold me blameless. I did not know what I was doing. I did not know the doubts, anxieties, fears and tortures I was causing you. You know why I did not, dearest, for I have already written you at length and by degrees.

"I (we) want to drop the subject and put it all behind us. But not, dear, until I have dwelt on it sufficiently for you to understand how keenly I feel the sorrow untold that I have brought to you. It was not at once, dear, that I grasped the situation. I could not appreciate at first the true state of your feelings, but soon I did and then came my agony. All the time I thought of you, nestled in that little home, with our dear babies around you, fixed of purpose, confident, unswerving."

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY. At this point he was killed. While Goodwin was lying on the tounge in his room after he was shot he asked Mrs. Simpson to take charge of his papers, and mentioned this unfinished letter. Mrs. Simpson locked the desk where the letter was lying, and the desk where the letter was lying, and later in the evening took charge of all the papers. This morning, when Detective Hays asked her for the letter, she refused to give it to him, and only surrendered it when he threatened fo arrest her.

The police have not yet located the murderer. This afternoon Betty Green, or Evelyn Granville, or Mrs. Webster and the Percival chambermaid, whom she calls her Evelyn Granville, or Mrs. Webster and the Percival chambermaid, whom she calls her maid, and all the other witnesses in the case were at Jefferson Market, where Justice Hogan is sitting. It was after 5 o'clock when the Justice decided to take an affidavit against Webster, and to hold "Mrs. Webster" and the chambermaid on the affidavit of the detective that they are material witnesses. After Justice Hogan finished the examination of the witnesses, Lawyor Dittenhoefer asked him why the women were detained. Justice Hogan replied that he thought that the women were material witnesses. "But Mrs. Webster cannot be a witness for the prosecution," said the lawyer.

"Why?"
"Because the statute says that a wife can-

No one at the Percival knew anything about Goodwin's wife or where she is. He has lived there for nearly a year, and has always appeared as a bachelor. The fact that the letter is broken off as it is in the middle of secretaries is locked, when it is in the middle of a sentence is looked upon as bad for the story of Mrs. Webster that Goodwin came in her room on Sunday night. She said that when Webster opened the door Goodwin ran back to his own room and Webster followed.

The shooting followed immediately.

A bright-eyed and nervous wom A bright-eyed and nervous woman, accompanied by a man and a chambermaid walked up to the box office of Paimer's Theater to-night. The nervous woman was about to apply for tickets for the play, and the man and the chambermaid expostulated with an earnestness that attracted the attention of all the loungers in the lobby. She walked away finally. Manager Askin said afterward that he recognized her as "Evely Granville," the exactress of the Casino, who has been living with Webster.

MONEY IN CIRCULATION. crease Since the Year 1860, Washington, Aug. 4.—A statement has been prepared at the Treasury Department in regard to the amounts of money in circulation on July 1 of the years 1860, 1865, 1885, assertion that there has been since the war

a great reduction of the amount of money in circulation is without foundation. The "All the statements furnished are made upon precisely the same basis. The amount of each kind of money in the Treasury and the remainder is given as the amount in circulation. The amount of money in circulation in 1860 was about $455.090.090, and the amount per caniffm was $13.85. In 1865 there tion in 1860 was about $435.000.000, and the amount per capita was $13.85. In 1865 there was $172,000,000 in circulat on and the per capita amount was $20.82. Twenty years later the circulation was over $1,222,000,000 and the per capita was $23.62, while on January 1 last the amount was nearly $1,522,000,000,000 with $24.10 as the per capita allowance.

"Owing to shipments of gold to foreign countries, there has been a decline since January 1, 1861, not only in the per capita amount, but in the total circulation, which, on the first instant, notwithstanding the outflow of gold, was about $1,500,000,000, and the amount per capita was $23.37."

WOOL IN THE TARIFF ACT. An Impostant Decision of Interest to Ohio Wool Growers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 .- The Board of Genera Appraisers to-day rendered an important decision on the construction of paragraph 383 of the new tariff act, which has recently became a live subject of controversy be-tween the wool growers of Ohio and New England. The verdict was rendered by Judge Sumerville, who reached the conclusions that the "sorting clauses" referred to in paragraph 383 apply to all wools, including wool of the third class. Sorting is here in effect defined by the statute to be a process of separation which increases in value the imported wool by a rejection of a part of the imported wool by a rejection of a part of the original fleece.

The phrase in paragraph 383 "shall be twice the duty to which it (the wool or hair) would be otherwise subject" means that the duty on the sorted wools, "when separated otherwise than as to colors, and increased in value shall be twice the duty to which the fleece in its unsorted condition shall be liable. Any "sorting" or manipulation of wools made with the intent to evade lawful duties in a fraud on the law and subjects the wools made with the intent to evade lawful duties is a fraud on the law and subjects the merchandise to the penai duties imposed. The board reserves the collectors' decision in both of the cases under consideration.

Well-Known Residents. OVERWHELMING PROOF

Of the Superior Skill of the Electropathic Physicians at 507 Penn Avenue.

Mr. J. Palmer, one of Pittsburg's most estimable citizens, living on Lawn street, near Craft avenue (Fourteenth ward), in speaking of the rapid and wonderful recovery he made from a case of rheumatism that had sorely afflicted him for over eight months, says:

"Only those who have been afflicted with a similar trouble can have any idea of my sufferings. These pains, sometimes dull, other times sharp and shooting, made every muscle and nerve throb with aches that were unbearable. My joints felt stiff, and every movement was attended with EXCRUCIATING SUFFERINGS. "Even my most quiet moments were dis-turbed with the twinges of an aching body. I tried different so-called cures without avail, though some afforded me a temporary relief.

"I saw several articles in the newspapers regarding the physicians of the Electro-pathic Institute at 507 Penn avenue, and, as a last resort, concluded to consult the physi-cians in charge. They at once diagnosed my case as chronic rheumatism, and as

THEY COULD CURE ME. "That their promise is fulfilled beyond my highest expectations is proved by my present condition. I can walk easily, sleep well and my every movements are without pain. Each treatment has benefited me more than the last, until now I am convinced that the electrical treatment as administered by the physicians of the Electropathic Institute is the most scientific and rational, and productive of better and more permanent results than any other. My strongest words of approval and recommendation shall at all times be used in their behalf."

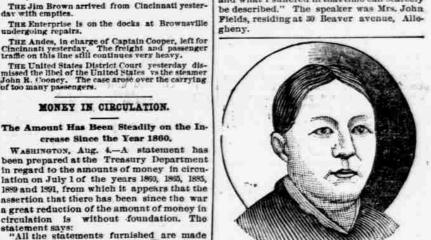

PARALYSIS CURED.

Bed-Ridden and Suffering for Years a Paralytic, Yet Mrs. John Fields, Unable to Move Her Limbs, Is Finally Relieved by the Physicians of the Electropathic Institute.

"It has been over five years since I was first stricken with this malady, paralysis,

Mrs. John Fields, 30 Beaver Avenue, Allegheny, "I had been feeling very well all day, when uddenly, without warning, I received the stroke which made me perfectly helpless. I stroke which made me perfectly helpless. I could not make any movement without assistance. My whole body felt as cold as ice, For I4 months I lay down stairs, my relatives fearing to move me. During that time a number of physicians were in constant attendance, and, while I would seem to rally, there was never any perceptible permanent change for the better. Often times I wished at the close of the day that before morning came a merciful Providence would END MY SUFFERINGS.

END MY SUFFERINGS.

END MY SUFFERINGS.

"My husband had spent vast sums of money in trying different cures, but to no avail. I concluded to try, as a last resort, the efficacy of the electrical treatment as applied by the physicians of the Electropathic institute, 307 Penn avenue.

"The first treatment I received benefited me so much that I was able to lift my arm above my head. For six months before that time I had been totally unable to mise my arms at all. I gradually improved until now I can do numerous duties that I never dreamt would be my good fortune to do again before I died.

"I unhesitatingly recommend these physicians and their methods, and feel sure that they will effect a permanent cure where relief is at all possible."
