HISTORY OF THE ORGANIZATION.

A Large Attendance at the Religious Meetings Yesterday.

Notwithstanding the ministerial boycott on the Tarentum campmeeting, there were over 2,500 people on the grounds vesterday. This is the largest crowd that has visited the grounds in any one day for five years. There were no excursions run to Tarentum, as the association had requested the railroad company not to make a reduced rate.

The beautiful grove was a scene of peaceful pleasure and contentment. The church tent was filled to its utmost and several hundred people lounged around on the grass close enough to hear the service. The cottagers sat in their doors and from there could bear a good share of the sermon and all the music. Hundreds of others strolled quietly through the park or reclined languidly on the grassy carpet, engaged in pleasant conversation. There was no loud talking or laughter and apparently it was a model campmeeting assemblage. Nothing occurred to disturb the quiet of the grove or the solemnity of the religious services. Tarentum is one of the most beautiful of places in which to spend a quiet Sabbath, and yesterday would be nsidered an ideal day by those who love the quiet solemnity of out-of-door religious services. There was a complete absence of

THE DAY'S RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

There were four meetings held yesterday. The day opened with an old-fashioned experience meeting. Great religious enthusiasm was displayed, and the meeting proved one of the most interesting ever held on the ground. At 10:30 Rev. W. E. Gledden, of East Liverpool, O., presched. Mr. Gledden is an evangelist of considerable reputation. He has held some excellent meetings in the coal districts of Pennsylvania and elicited much interest and was quite successful in securing converts. It has been remarked by many that his services are much like those In the meetings at Tarentum Mr. Gledden is assisted by several Pittsburg ministers, One of them is Rev. Dr. E. M. Wood: another is Rev. Mr. Fogle, a missionary among the Germans of Pittsburg, but also a very strong English talker. There are also other Pittsburg ministers in attendance, but the neighborhood ministers of the M. E. church are mainly conspicuous by their absence. However, since the trustees employed an evangelist, they do not require the services of the local ministers. At 2 P. M. Rev. Dr. Wood preached a most interesting sermon from the text, Luke i., 78-79. He was listened to attentively throughout his discourse, and apparently reached the hearts of his auditors.

A SUBJECT CAREFULLY AVOIDED. One of the best features of the services is the music. There is considerable talent among the cottagers and they have organ-ized an excellent choir. Yesterday the choir was assisted by a male quartet from Tarentum, which added greatly to the interest in the service.

The subject most carefully avoided was the recent trouble between the ministers and the association. While the directors feel that their action in keeping the grounds open on Sunday was completely vindicated by the mass of Methodist Episcopal people of the neighborhood, who showed their ap-proval by attending the meetings yesterday, they have little to say on the subject They consider that it is best left as it is.

"We really believe that this is the way to place the religion of Christ before the ople," said one of the directors, "and it s our duty to do so. It would be just as reasonable for a city church to close its doors to all but the congregation on Sundoors to all but the congregation day as for us to close our gates against peoand it shall be opened unto you would be made a mockery by any such proceedings. We feel flattered at the success of the meetings. Our only financial support comes from the hitching privileges and the collections, yet we find that financially the meetings have been most successful. This morning 100 shares of $1 each were offered in the congregation, and in ten minutes 50 had been sold. This is much better than has been the case heretofore."

FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED. On Saturday the fortieth anniversary of the association was celebrated by an interesting meeting. The big tent was beautifully decorated. Over the pulpit was displayed the figures "'51-'91," with a background of flags and evergreens. The arrangements for the celebration were con- preached an able sermon vesterday on the ducted without any reference to the recent troubles with the ministers and all were usual after communion, the church was invited to be present. An audience of 700 people were in attendance and among them were 35 who attended the first meeting in the camp grounds 40 years ago. They were aged people whose hair had grown white in the service of their Master's cause Five ex-presidents were present and among them was Jacob H. W. Alters, ex-prothonotary of Allegheny county, who, on account of his seniority, was chose, to preside.

One of the most lateresting features of the programme was the reminiscences of the older members. Five or ten-minute speeches were made by John G. Matthews, William Jackson, John Gibson and Mr. Walters, of Pittsburg; "Uncle Benny Miller and Sampson Alter, of Freeport, an many others. These gentlemen recalled dozens of interesting little incidents which were remembered by others in the audience They apparently greatly enjoyed the meeting, and it was a love feast indeed.

A HISTORY OF THE ASSOCIATION, A history of the association was read by L. E. Stofiel, ex-President of the organization. It developed some very interesting historic facts, and showed the great advance made in the religious world in the past 40 years. The organization grew out of a committee appointed by the Wesley M. E. Church of Pittsburg, which succeeded in getting the co-operation of churches in the city and the congregations at Tarentum, Freeport and Butler. That committee visited the grounds now occupied by the camp, and the beauty of location and romantic surroundings were so impressed upon their minds that they made the selection. The only member of that committee is William Thompson, the East End real estate dealer. The first meeting proved to be a remark-able religious affair and there were between 100 and 200 conversions. The only way to end it was to adjourn to the Tarentum M. E. Church where the meetings continued until late in the fall. Of that first campmeeting and those of '52, '53 and '54 much was told at the meeting yesterday by John G. Matthews. In 1855, during the campmeeting, Judge H. M. Brackenridge, the eminent author, who lived near the grounds, proposed that the grove be sold to the organization and his plan was adopted. Grandfather Kennedy and John Gibson, at present on the grounds, were very prominent in making these nego-

WHEN THEY LIVED IN TENTS.

There is quite a contrast between the present comfortable little cottages and the former canvas tents, when umbrellas were very useful on rainy nights. Ex-Sheriff William McGill was the first president. Then the members of the association were accommodated in from 60 to 80 muslin tents. The light was furnished by tallow candles, and everything was on the most primitive and temporary style. The first cottage was built by R. S. P. McCall, at a cost of $8 or $10. George Dobbs soon followed with a $25 cottage.

The expenses of campmeetings in the old days were very light. It was usually calculated so that the meetings would be held shortly after the farmers got their oats threshed, so that an abundance of straw for beds could be had cheap. The association usually paid a farmer $2 or $3 for enough straw to do all round, and he was given the privilege of taking it again when the meet-ings were over. A box of candles, costing $4 or $5, was the only other "big" expense. From the start of cottages, made by Messrs. McCall and Dobbs, grew a flourish-ing village of 118 cottages, then the largest ing village of 118 cottages, then the largest MUCH INTEREST BEING MANIFESTED comprecting grounds west of the Alleghe-nies, with the exception of Chautauqua. The National Campmeeting Association ap-plied to Tarentum in 1875 for the privilege of holding its annual meeting there, and it was while preparing for this event that the big fire swooped down and wiped the village out of existence.

A PIRE THAT SWEPT ALL. This was on the night of April 21, 1876. The fire swept everything within the grounds surrounded by the magnificent big trees and 117 cottages were destroyed, besides a number of the larger buildings. This was a terrible blow to the flourishing association and it was a debatable subject for some time as to whether the camp would rebuild. It was finally decided to do so, however, and then about two-thirds of the cottagers seceded and went to Valley Camp, where they could be nearer the rail road. There are now about 65 cottages on

The two camps—the Valley and Tarentum—are on very genial terms and visit back and forth at all times. At the reunion Saturday several carriage loads of people from the Valley were in attendance and took a prominent part. Almost every day there are visitors from one camp in the camp of the other, and notwithstanding the fact that the one camp was from a split in the other, the relations have always been mutually agreeable.

Some of the greatest preachers of the United States have visited Tarentum and the old-fashioned Methodist campmeeting scenes, but a strong religious fervor pervaded the camp.

United States have visited Larentum and addressed large audiences beneath the camp stents on the camp ground. Among them were Rev. Frank De Hass, also United States diplomat and traveler; Rev. Alfred Cookman, Rev. J. J. Sweazey, Rev. McKinley Reilly, Rev. A. B. Leanord, and in fact all other great pillars of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

CLOSING CEREMONY OF LONG AGO. The most interesting celebration of ye olden campusetings came on the last night. They were all of similar character, so a description of the closing of the camp in 1855 will suffice to show the unique character of the ceremony. At midnight a bugle sounded. Bells were luxuries not enjoyed at that time. The congregation asembled in the large tent and listened to the last sermon. Then a procession formed. At the head were 19 ministers, sometimes there were 40 or 50. They were followed by chief singers, then the ladies and last the

They walked two abreast and marched clear around the river fence of the camp grounds. The procession was always long enough to stretch clear around. When both ends came together, one line would reverse, and the two lines would march in different directions, shaking hands with each person passing. During the entire march the con-gregation sang "We Are Marching Home to

The march was kept up until each line got back to where it started. Then they were halted and dismissed, but all returned to the big tent, where, amid the faint flut-ter of the candle, they shook hands and talked until morning. Religious exercises were interspersed through the night, and it was nothing less than a night of religious rejoicing.

Mr. Stofiel delved deep into the records of the association's past to gain his knowledge of the old-time campmeeting, and those who heard him rend his paper greatly appreciated it. It will be filed as one of the valuable documents of the association.

THE JUDGMENT OF GOD

The Subject of An Interesting Sermon Yes-

"The light, that reflects from the unwrit-ten law of the conscience, gives most fre-quently a deeper impression to the soul. It is an evident proof that most of all human transgression in every age of mankind is descriptive of this character, which forces the conscience to acknowledge the dread of death, and the deserved punishment for sin. This the heathen learned without any Bible or knowledge of the true God in the soul, from whose decision there is no appeal.

An Allegheny R. P. Congregation Advised Not at All to Fret.

OTHER PULPIT TOPICS OF YESTERDAY

Rev. J. W. Sproull, of the Central R. P. hurch of Allegheny, preached on the subject of "Don't Fret" at the 3 o'clock service yesterday afternoon. The text was from Psalm 37, and the last part of the eighth verse, "Fret not thyself in any wise to do evil." He said: "Many people fret about little things. You will meet them on the street, and they complain about the weather-how hot it is, or what an enormous amount of rain there has been. How prone we are to fret ourselves over what has happened the day before. It is not right that we should. The writer of this psalm was a good man. He probably had seen a great deal of life, and found the people worrying themselves about little things. Therefore he said, 'Don't fret.' If evil Therefore he said, 'Don't fret.' If evil doers get along in this world it is no reason why we should worry about it. There is no good reason for our fretting over another's Why have I or you any complain over the success of a wicked man? What difference does it make if he lives in a big house, with all that money can secure for him? That is no reason why we should fret about it. Keep your own conscience clear, and be even ready for the account that we must all gives and he will be count that we must all give, and he will be the sufferer and not you.
"In the second place, fretting does no good. Are we any the better for it? Something has failed. Does it do any good for

PREACHED FROM THE PROVERBS.

Rev. W. A. Jones Takes a Text That Inter ests Many People. The Knoxville Presbyterian Church was filled to its utmost capacity yesterday by an interested and appreciative congregation. The pastor, Rev. W. A. Jones, took his text from Proverbs xxx, 29 and 30. The lion was here mentioned, said the pastor, as typical of strength, boldness, aggressiveness-qualities highly commendable in Christian work, when, as in worldly pursuits, success was not to be obtained by timidity and over-caution. The grayhound, fleet and sure, was emblematical of that perseverance with which a Christian should continually strive in his efforts to keep progressing and to reach the goal. The goat was sure of foot and secure in his position, no matter where placed, being as safe and as firm when standing on a jutting rock at the brink of some sharp de-clivity as when his feet were planted on the level plain. So, to-day, the Church of God wants sure-footed Christians, firm and secare in their positions, and so stable in their belief that they cannot be overthrown.

GOD'S WORD IS LAW.

Subject of a Sermon Preached by Rev. W. J. McKnight Yesterday Afternoon.

The services in the Allegheny R. P. Church yesterday afternoon were conducted by Rev. W. J. McKnight. The text was from Chronicles xii, 13. The speaker said: "I must take the Word of God for my law, and I know no other. Follow its teachings. You may use the Word of God for your guide. It will help you whenever appealed
