MONEY FOR A MASTER

Of the Organ, if One Were to Locate Just Now in the Twin Cities.

WHAT LOCAL MUSICIANS THINK.

They Say the Salary Attached to the Allegheny Office Is

DIDICULOUSLY SMALL FOR THE WORK

The discussion of the organ question, which was started by the article in THE DISPATCH last Sunday, has been taken up warmly by musicians and others of the city. The position taken by THE DISPATCH writer was that it would be well if some organist were to be brought to the city who would devote all his attention to establishing an organ school for the development of the musical talent that is allowed by every one to be latent in the city.

A DISPATCH representative yesterday visited several well-known musicians to ask their opinion about the advisability of placing the teaching of the organ in the ands of some man who shall have made the study of that instrument his life occupation. This teacher should be established in the city as a player as well as teacher, and his work should be so good as to serve for a standard for other musicians. He should be properly paid, and he should be worth a

In response to this argument, Joseph H. Gittings said that there were plenty of musicians in Pittsburg and Allegheny who could easily reach this high standard in organ music, but that the cities would not pay enough to make it worth the while of a good musician to get up a repertoire of organ music and play and teach the instru-

DOESN'T PAY WELL ENOUGH.

"The organ is a very difficult instruent," said Mr. Gittings, "and it does not pay men to give the attention to it that it mands to get the best out of it that is in it. The City Organist of Allegheny ought to get more than $1,200. The salary is not high enough, and yet the city will not pay even that sum. There is no encouragement or a thorough study of the organ in this part of the country."

Someon Dissell said he would like to see a good musicina at the keyboard of the city organ. The position should pay $3,000 a vear, and it should be occupied by an or-ganist of world-wide reputation, such as arenes Eddy, for instance. Pittsburg is me to become good organists and at the ans in the city are compelled to do. first-class organists in this city, as there be elsewhere. We must have patience, ad it will come in due course. I should nd it will come in due course. I should the to see a virtuoso established in Pitts-turg who, would devote his attention ento the organ, but we cannot expect it mill we offer some inducements to such a

ORGANIST ECKER'S ENDEAVORS. H. P. Ecker, at present organist of the armegic Music Hall, Allegheny, said: "I try to give the people the music they want. Were I to give a programme of classical music for a whole evening, the audience would get up and leave the hall, with the exception of a few educated musicians, who the masters. I mix my programmes so that there will be a little of everything. I play avottes and marches and waitzes, with a few classical numbers interspersed. I find this gives general satisfaction, and I do not see reason to change the policy I have pted. It is all very well to talk about ting the people in music, but if they want to be educated you cannot do anything with them. Perhaps in the course of time the public will get to enjoy classical music, if they get a little each evening of it to make them acquainted with its the State, is of the opinion that there are perhaps two men in the city now who, with wo or three years' practice, could play the est works of the masters on the organ sat-

There are not more than two," said he. They might, with long practice, sit down to an organ and do justice to it. The people of Pittsburg are not satisfied with their tesme taleut, no matter how good it might be. They want strangers. The organ is such a difficult instrument that a player must have eyes and ears everywhere. The people want those eyes and ears to belong or a stranger. Let us import a competent organist and let us pay him a decent salary. A city organist should be paid not less than 5,000 a year. He is worth that if he is od, and if he is not worth it he should not playing the organ in public at all." Henry Kieber said: "The music rendered
