NEW YORK'S LESSON. Of course the destruction of the building in New York, by which scores of lives were sacrificed in hideous fashion, will be thoroughly investigated.

ENGLAND FOR SELF AND PEACE. The visit of the French fleet to Portsmouth has been a success in various respects.

THE SHIPWRECK. The loss of the ship "The Sloop" is a tragedy of the sea.

THE MOUNTAIN OF NEARLY PURE IRON. It is the best quality and practically pure iron ore.

THE SPEED OF INSECTS. The fly makes 600 strokes a second when in a hurry.

A REMARKABLE STORY. A large portion of the space in today's Dispatch is given up to the remarkable array of evidence which James W. Miller presents.

VICTORIOUS PIRATES. Success is everything in baseball, no matter how it comes, and patrons of our national game have an insatiable appetite for victory.

QUEEN VICTORIA IS LEARNING HER COURTESY. Her diplomatic in giving her French guests even a warmer welcome than her German nephew is undeniably astute.

THE WEATHER IS UNFAVORABLE TO SPIRITUALISM. That or something else, Mrs. Mattison, the Buffalo medium, made a second attempt yesterday to project her spirit through the medium of a table.

THE CANADIAN BOOTLERS. The Canadian bootlers are coming to the United States in this reciprocity.

WITH LETHAL BREATH THE RESUSCITATED BALL CRANKS BEGIN TO MOOT THE POSSIBILITY OF THE PITTSBURGH TEAM'S CLIMBING ABOVE BROOKLYN IN THE LEAGUE RACE.

IS HYDROPHOBIA HUMBLED? Few can bear the mere thought of hydrophobia calmly. There is something uncanny as well as horrible about the word.

THE MAN RECOVERED FROM HIS LUNACY. It is not altogether fair that Major McKinley should have to do all the talking in the Ohio campaign.

THE DISCOVERY THAT THE NEW HAMPSHIRE MURDERER ALMY IS ALSO AN ESCAPED CONVICT IS NOT PARTICULARLY INTERESTING, EXCEPT AS

not admit that hydrophobia is a tangible terror at all. The cure of it, which Pasteur has effected in Paris and Ghiber in New York, according to common report, can be easily explained if Dr. Shradly is right in his preliminary. Nothing is easier than to cure imaginary complaints. And truth to tell, a very large part of medical practice even in these days of enlightenment, and not the least important, is the treatment of diseases that exist only in the imagination.

It cannot be said fairly that the arguments of Dr. Shradly to the end are conclusive, but they will add to the suspicion which many physicians do not entertain, that the hydrophobiacs scare upon very uncertain grounds. The other day THE DISPATCH contained an account of how a nervous boy was nearly frightened to death by fool-friends and relations who insisted that he had hydrophobia.

It is not altogether fair that Major McKinley should have to do all the talking in the Ohio campaign, but it looks as if the Democrats need to insist upon his supplying the larger share of the oratory. This is generous, but hardly good politics, when such a remarkable speaker as McKinley is involved.

The discovery that the New Hampshire murderer Almy is also an escaped convict is not particularly interesting, except as showing how unfortunate it is that his first crime did not call for hanging as a penalty.

It was not very long yesterday, except for the unfortunates who were brought for cooling to Central station.

The astronomers have discovered snow on the moon, and hence argue the existence of an atmosphere, just as surely as the finding of an ice-cream parlor would indicate the proximity of a lunar city.

Air ships are multiplying. So are fools. And two are more often associated than not.

Names frequently seen. BRETT HARTE'S English publishers last year paid him $15,000.

CHARLES EMOY SMITH will sail for the City of New York next week for his embassy at St. Petersburg.

YOUNG James R. Garfield is likely to be Re-elected Governor for State senator for the year 1892.

JUSTICE FIELD'S health is so much improved that he is confident he can return to the bench at the conclusion of the long vacation.

The old Duke of Nassau, who at 75 is hale and active, has a fortune of $25,000,000, and is consequently set down as the richest Prince in Europe.

MRS. O'NEEN-PARRELL is not unknown to the Queen, who at any rate up to a few years ago was a frequent visitor to her with much consideration and affection.

MRS. ALICE SHAW, the famous whistler, has demonstrated that that whistling even is hereditary. She has four daughters, one of whom inherits her peculiar talent.

The Countess of Radnor has established a ladies' string band in London, and as all the performers are pretty, aristocratic and talented, it is a success in the refined regions of Mayfair.

The summer home of Mrs. Cruger (John Gordon) on Long Island is sumptuously furnished, and there she leads a life of idleness and ease, but she has a different way of looking ahead into the twentieth century with wonder, with hope, with unbounded anticipation.

The ashes of Mme. Blavatsky are to be placed in a magnificent urn of gold and silver, and deposited in the crypt of the Theosophical Society. An effort will be made by the Washington theosophists to have the urn returned to the National capital.

RENE RAOUL DUVAL, to whom Mrs. Cruger has frequently written, is engaged to be married, is a nephew of Leon Say, the French statesman. The young man's father is at the head of the gas works of Naples and Paris. M. Duval is said to have an annual income of 1,000,000 francs.

WALTER WINANS, the American millionaire, whose deer forest in Scotland has so often formed the theme of parliamentary speeches, has made a wonderful record with his favorite weapon. At a distance of 20 yards, with a disappearing target, he scored 49 points out of a possible 50.

NEW YORK'S LESSON

Of course the destruction of the building in New York, by which scores of lives were sacrificed in hideous fashion, will be thoroughly investigated. Then the cause of the disaster which is not now clear may be certainly discovered, and it will be time enough then to apportion the blame.

ENGLAND FOR SELF AND PEACE. The visit of the French fleet to Portsmouth has been a success in various respects. The light it may be viewed. If Lord Salisbury intended to offer the impression created by the lack of any hospitalities offered to the German Emperor—and the consequent deduction that England had an understanding at least with the Dreibrund—she seems to have succeeded.

A REMARKABLE STORY. A large portion of the space in today's Dispatch is given up to the remarkable array of evidence which James W. Miller presents. This deplorable catastrophe may serve to remind the building inspectors of this city of the responsibility that rests upon them.

VICTORIOUS PIRATES. Success is everything in baseball, no matter how it comes, and patrons of our national game have an insatiable appetite for victory as far as their respective home teams are concerned. Unfortunately, however, Pittsburghers have, so far this season, scarcely had enough of that diet to whet their appetites.

MACARONI, FOR EXAMPLE. Most of the good results of the McKinley tariff are conspicuous, and the benefits derived from it are felt and recognized directly by the people at large. Here and there, however, an industry is taking on new life, thanks to adequate protection under the new law without infringing much at all upon the interests of the manufacturer of macaroni.

QUEEN VICTORIA IS LEARNING HER COURTESY. Her diplomatic in giving her French guests even a warmer welcome than her German nephew is undeniably astute. The weather is unfavorable to spiritualism. THE LOST CABIN CLAIM DISCOVERED.

The Gold for Which the Miners Lost Their Lives. Not There, However. Portland Oregonian. Everybody on this coast who has had anything to do with mines or miners has heard of the Lost Cabin mine. Five men worked in it for a year, and the story goes, never had accumulated a large amount of gold. As they were preparing to leave the cabin with their treasure which had been exhumed from the mine, they were attacked by Indians. Three of the party who were taking the tools out of the cut they had made were shot, but the other two who were out hunting the mines to pack out the treasure escaped, and it is supposed to have perished in the mountains. The other, Tracy by name, was taken to Jackson, where he told the story of the massacre and the abandoned treasure, and where he finally died without having been able to give a party to the claim, although he tried several times, but he died in Jackson, where he was nursed by a Mrs. Croton, to whom he imparted a detailed description of the appearance of the claim and its surroundings. Hundreds of prospectors have since hunted for the claim since the massacre of the original owners on November 5, 1886, but it has never been found.

AN INTERESTING LOOK BACKWARD.

It is interesting to see how the ten centuries which make up the epoch of the Middle Ages were divided into the old and the new. They had obtained a description of the place from Mrs. Croton, and a man carrying a large pack of provisions had carried so long ago and now grown up with five marks on his forehead, and the last five by an ascending line. The course of civilization went down, down and down, every year worse than the year before, till the deepest of the Middle Ages, at the year 1000. The whole Western world was in the attitude of slowing children who, with slower and slower swings, are "letting the old out of the new."

THE LATEST PHRENOLOGICAL GUESSES.

The latest phreologist, the last prophet, is William Morris. Morris is a Socialist and a free thinker, and he is also, as all good readers know, a poet.

A MOUNTAIN OF NEARLY PURE IRON.

It is the best quality and practically pure iron ore. San Francisco, Aug. 23.—By building 13 miles of track in Nevada the railroad men, who have contrived that State only to squeeze every dollar out of it and choke the public with iron, have discovered a mountain of iron ore that is nearly pure. The ore is found in a mountain of ore that is 85 per cent pure iron, and it can be run into pig iron in a furnace in a matter of days.

THE SPEED OF INSECTS.

The fly makes 600 strokes a second when in a hurry. Newswriter Times. There are many insects which one would little suspect to be furnished with apparatus light and swift and more or less continuous flight. House flies, for example, are in and out of the room, buzzing sluggishly in and out of the room. But what different creature are they when they swarm in on a hot summer day, a swarm of the little pest which propels us out of bed at 6 o'clock in the morning, and keeps us on a swift run until the sun has set.
