TARENTUM'S BIG FAIR

Opens With All the Requirements of a Successful Exhibition.

BARNS AND SHEDS INADEQUATE

To Supply the Demands for Space to Show Off the Fine Stock.

GREAT INTEREST MANIFESTED IN IT

In the one year of its existence the Allegheny county fair at Tarentum has grown all out of proportion. The sheds and stables which were ample for last year's exhibit of fine stock, proved this year to be wholly inadequate to the demands. Early yesterday morning every available space had been taken and a score of carpenters were at work building stabling accommodations.

Some Pumpkins.

It is believed that the exhibits this year will be double those of last, and there is no doubt that the association is on the right road to success. Yesterday was the opening day of the second annual meeting and about 1,500 people were present. All the departments are rapidly filling up with articles interesting to the farmers and city residents as well. The art hall contains some excellent specimens of the ladies' handiwork, on which they put in their long winter evenings. A daily fair bulletin is printed from this building.

PINE STOCK ON THE GROUNDS.

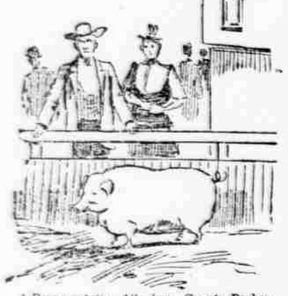
In the stables in the lower end of the inclosure is to be found fine stock. The farmers of Allegheny county have not been especially ambitious in this line, but the showing made yesterday develops the fact that they are making rapid advancement. A fair is an educational institution for the agriculturists, as well as to enlist their pride in the exhibitions. The Tarentum fair seems to be doing its work in this line well. Exhibits have been received from four counties, but Allegheny seems to have the lion's share. More interest is manifested than a year ago, and more applications for space were received than could possibly be given.

The stock shown is a credit to any farming community. Cattle of several breeds in the best possible condition, big domestic and imported draught horses, pigs and sheep are to be found in large numbers. The sheep exhibit is an interesting one, inasmuch as it is sometimes claimed that only the coarser wool can be produced in this country, and foreign wool is needed in the manufacture of cloth. Nearly a dozen breeds of fine wool sheep are shown, as well as the more common breeds. There are also exhibits of fine chickens, turkeys, guineas, geese, etc.

BUSHELS OF LUSCIOUS FRUIT.

The fruit department contains everything that could be properly placed there. There are big rosy apples of every variety, early and late, sweet and sour. Some of them are larger than any ever before grown in this or adjoining counties. Peaches and plums, which look like they were just aching to be made into pies, are also there in prominent places and hence much admired. The ladies also exhibit cans of fruit "put up" for winter and wish for a prize, which every one of them doubtless deserves. Alongside of the fruit are the potatoes, tomatoes and other vegetables. This is a department that attracts much interest.

The committee and judges will begin today awarding the premiums. They will find their hands full to cover ground in good time, but their decisions will surely give satisfaction, as they are prepared to do good work. In fact the fair is under excellent management throughout. Nearly every member of the Board of Managers is present and doing everything in his power to insure the success of the fair. On the opening day in a county fair everything is usually in a state of turmoil, but at Tarentum yesterday matters had shaped themselves nicely. The President, H. M. Brackenridge, is away in Europe, which throws considerable of the extra work on the shoulders of Secretary R. S. P. McCall, but he succeeded by a good deal of hustling in holding his end up.



A Representative Allegheny County Porker.

A Combination That Makes Good Pies.

WILL BRING GOOD ROADS.

"It is an education for the farmers to meet together and compare stock and farm products," said the genial Squire. "While I have been driving around over the country booming the fair I have talked to scores of farmers about it, and they are becoming greatly interested. What we want is good stock, and when we get good stock we can easily secure good roads. No farmer who has good horses wants to drive them over rough, ugly roads, which we have in this county. It's like the young fellow who has a nice girl. When he comes to a mud puddle he throws down a plank for her to walk on.

"We propose to make some improvements between this and the next fair. We hope this year's income will pay off the debts of the association, and we propose to spend next year's money on improvements. The grounds will be enlarged by moving the fence back, taking in the land owned by the association, but not fenced in. We will also build a large number of new barns in place of some of the temporary sheds we were compelled to put up in a hurry this year. We will also be compelled to put up more accommodations for stock than we now have, as we expect a big increase in the exhibits of next year."

THE AFTERNOON RACES.

The afternoon's races furnished the chief sport, though they were won in straight heats. Some very good two and three year olds were shown. In the three year olds Butler Chief won without a shift in two heats. It is evident that if he had been forced along he could have clipped nearly if not quite 10 seconds of his time, 2:44. In the two year old class Star Pointer was not pushed and made very slow time.

The farmers' race was the greatest of the three. There were thirteen entries and every man wanted every other man ruled off because his horse did not show a collar mark. One was ruled off and later when

Winner of the Farmers' Race.

Susie S had won two heats there was a general kick made and the driver, John Stoffal, an old man with long white chin whiskers and general rustic air, was ordered out, but a big kick fixed things up and he went in and won. The race results follow:

THE THREE KINGS

Still Lead All Others.

And why shouldn't they? Decker Bros., Knabe and Fischer pianos are household words all over the land, and with the celebrated Estey organs are telling their worth to over 400,000 people who have purchased and are using them. Is this not enough to convince you of their merits? Hamilton's, 91 and 93 Fifth avenue. The only place in the city to get them. Low prices and easy terms the rule.

TO SEE THE HOLY COAT.

A Large Number of Pittsburg and Allegheny People Leave To-Day for Treves—The Party to be in Charge of Father Braun, of Rochester, N. Y.

Great preparations are now being made by a great many Pittsburgers for a journey to Treves, Switzerland, where the holy garment of Christ will be shown this year, the first time since 1844. The occasion of this pilgrimage to that ancient city will bring people from every civilized part of the world, and the delegation from the United States will be much larger than it has ever been before on any occasion in the Old World. On this side of the Atlantic they are going from every State in the Union, Texas, Mexico, Canada and South America. The United States will be alone represented by more than 8,000 people, and over 100 of these will be from this diocese.

A party of 38 from Pittsburg and Allegheny will leave to-day for New York. The most to go from this country have already left, some even several months ago.

The first of the regular delegation of excursionists, which includes all those from around here, will leave for across the ocean, on the line of the Netherland Steamship Company. The first party will take passage in the steamship Oldam, which will leave Hoboken Harbor Saturday. The excursion party will be under the general management of Father G. H. Braun, of the Holy Family Church, Ames street, Rochester, N. Y. In a circular of many languages Father Braun states to the public all the necessary directions for the long journey, to go and return. From now on no more time is to be lost, as the exhibition of the holy garment commenced on August 23 and without interruption will be continued to October 1, when it will close with divine services of great solemnity.

Father Braun has made special arrangements to hold divine services on the ocean voyage. Mass will be celebrated every morning, and he will deliver a lecture on the holy garment. Every evening there will be a lecture by one of the priests in the party.
