Now that everybody is getting back to the elty with the tan of the seashore and moun tains on face, neck and hands, the few that within themselves whether they have had as pleasant a summer as the supposed lucky people who have been away. As for the tan, that can easily be obtained. There are several preparations sold by druggists that will roduce the required shade upon the flesh, and if one does not care to use such prepara ions, it is not difficult to get the real thing y walking about the streets of Pittsburg ithout a sunshade. A few days of persistent walking in the sun, without regard to the possibilities of sunstroke, and without caring whether one is fried alive or not, will be certain to produce a good share of tan upon the most stubborn skin. Then one can shine as a complete specimen of the ummer resort habitae, and keep one's fash-onable reputation without difficulty. But how about the pleasure of going away, compared with staying at home? There are many sensible people who will say that it is foolish for people to submit to the inconveniences and discomforts of summer hotel and boarding house life when they can have all the pleasures of the country, and none of its discomforts, by spending their summer evenings on their own porches their summer evenings on their own porches in the East End, while being among their riends and business during the day. They will say that a business man wants to be within touch of his business even in summer, or he will be misemille. It is all very well saying that they should go away and forcetit. They cannot forget it, and if they say away they are worried until they return and know just what has been done in their absence. The same way with the thrifty housekeeper, to a certain extent. She is anxious to know how her house is getting along—whether burglars have broken in, whether her canary is being properly cared whether burgars have broken in, whether her canary is being properly cared for by her neighbor, and whether the boys have broken the shutters and windows. When the balance of pleasure is struck at the end of the summer season it is possible the result will show that the stay-at-homes have not had so much the worst of it, after all.

Ladies with time on their hands cannot do botter than devote some of it to the benefit of the poor waifs of the city who never know what it is to get into the country, save with the aid of the charitably disposed. The Fresh Air Fund has engaged the attention of many of the good women of this part of the country, and the lives they have part of the country, and the lives they have saved can hardly be computed by those who have not given the matter much thought. New it is proposed to purchase a farm in the mountain district near Pittsburg, where tables can be taken when it is evident that they need good air and fresh milk. A number of cows will be kept there, and their milk will be brought into the city for the essenance of the babies who are obliged to remain at home. Money is needed for this excellent scheme, and the young girls of their time to gathering subscriptions likerefor.

Doesn't Concern Decent People Somebody has tried to make people believe that a bag to hold tobacco is part of the cos-tume of some decent girls. The girls are said to be in the habit of smoking cigarettes. Women that smoke cigarettes are not gencrally discussed in the columns of respectable paper or in respectable society at all. What they wear or do not wear can be of no concern to ladies.

A Pretty Trifle. One of the new fads in the way of trinkets is a silver box to hold postage stamps. It is in the form of an envelope with a red stamp in the corner and a Pittsburg postmark.
The box is a pretty trifle, and, besides, is and pupils will wend their way to their ro or if all work and no play makes Jack dull boy" what a grand effect must an "all play" programme have, which has been the lot of the school folks for the past nine days before both teachers and pupils that hake hold with the vim that has made the Pittsburg schools of world wide fame.

The opening of the school year this September is expected to mark one of the most important events in the history of Pittsburg schools, namely, the introduction of the Lloyd or Swedish system of manual training. The experimental school will be formally opened at the Forbes School September 7. Its cost when compared to the systems employed in other cities makes it eminently practicable, and the success of the Pittsburg school will be watened with interest by all prominent educators.

Superintendent Luckey when questioned as to the prospects of the coming school year in Pittsburg, answered: "Elegant." Continuing, he said: "At no time in the history of the Pittsburg schools has the city been so free from epidemics of all kinds as now, and I look for a remarkably great turnout of pupils next week. Ever since the grip siege in the spring with its train of evil effects, the attendance in some districts has been irregular, but during vacation the grip patients have had plenty of time to recuperate, and we have every prospect of an exceedingly big attendance."

All the school buildings of the two cities have been treated to brush, paint and other brightening effects for their occupants, and some have received additional touches. The new seats almost throughout the building. The High School class will hereafter be The High School class will hereafter be located on the second ficor instead of the fourth. The Hancock school, Fifth ward, has been entirely reseated, but it is the teachers and pupils of the Franklin school who will be superlatively happy. The handsomest building in the States, if not in the United States, will be their domicile in the future. Other districts, during the year, have been taking steps to accommodate the ever increasing attendance. The Oakland School Board are now in possession of a large lot near Linden Grove, on which a large building is to be erected the coming year. The citizens of North Homestead of the Colfax District, Twenty-second ward, have petitioned the Board of Directors for a new schoolhouse. Three rooms have been added to the Greenfield avenue school, Peebles district; likewise to the Humboldi school. An addition to the lower building of the Luckey school will be ready this fall. Both the Allen and Homewood districts have each large buildings in course of construction that will not be ready before the end of the school year.

To the majority of teachers the vacation has been full of brightness and pleasure, but around some of the homes the dark angel of death came for his harvest. Two bright death came for his harvest. Two bright lives of the profession were called to solve the mystery of our after life—Miss Lindsay, of the Grant, and Miss Gardom, of the Forbes schools. Among the teachers who lost near relatives were Miss Lizzie Edwards, the well-known primary teacher, whose name is a household word in the homes of the little ones of the Hazelwood school, who mourns the loss of her father. From the far away west the brother of Miss Nellie Fox, of the, Mt. Albion school, came in the script to discussion, his loved ones in coffice. Secretary Scandrett has returned from his visit to Catawba Islands, and gives interesting information about the Allegheny schools. The changes in the executive heads are: Prof. Daniels, who was for 17 years principal of the Second ward school, resigned and will have charge of a private school in the East End; Prof. E. E. Miller, of the High School, gets the Principalship. Prof. Miller's position at the High Schools will be filled by Prof. J. E. Morrow; Prof. Kalienbugh, of the Third ward, will be principal of the Eighth ward schools, and Prof. Woods of the Third, Prof. E. P. Johnston, late of Pittsburg, will have charge of the Seventh ward school, Prof. A. H. Gilchrist holds forth at Bellevue. In the High School Prof. Nolin will be teacher of Latin. Prof. Hoods, the last incumbent, is reading law. Prof. Farrar is an additional teacher. The Allegheny schools do not open till Thursday morning. It is expected the High School will be tested to its capacity, 350 pupils. The attendance has increased 25 per cent in the last year "It is only of late," said Mr. Scandrett, "that the people of Allegheny could recognize our High School. Two years ago we had such poor accommodations that the people after their children finished the ward school course were sent to private schools. Now the High School course is considered a natural sequence to the ward. At the present rate of increase other High School accommodations will soon have to be secured. A plan has already been presented. As the school is in operation but four hours during the day it is suggested that there be two corps of teachers, one class of pupils to be in school from 8 to 12, and these to be succeeded from 12 to 4 by a set of new teachers and pupils."

The great pleasure to the Allegheny teachers will be the best paid in the country. This will entail extra expense of $15,000 to the city, but the increased State appropriation will not only offset this, but enable the Board of School Control to be free of debt and decrease the millage, after next June. school, who mourns the loss of her father. From the far away west the brother of Miss Nellie Fox, of the, Mt. Albion school, came in the spring to die among his loved ones in vacation. Earlier in the summer she loss her mother. Miss Aggie Glover, of the Soho school, mourns her father.

A number of strange faces [will be seen at to-morrow's opening of school in Pittsburg. Marriage, retirement, both voluntary and involuntary are the reasons. The changes noted are: At the South School, Second Ward, Miss Wilson and Irene Jones succeed Miss Haley and Grace Coles, the latter havmarried; at the Grant, Miss Uncks was elected to the position of Miss Lindsays, decessed; in the Hancock School, Miss Kelly was married, Miss Crowley being the new teacher. Prof. Sullivan will be the principal of the Raston School instead of Miss Neumont, Miss Nann Mackrell will be principal of the Moorhead school, Eleventh ward, in place of Mr. Johnston; Professor Dewar succeeds Miss Hancock as principal of the Springfield school, Twelfth ward. There are two additional teachers in the Minersville school in the Ward, and Miss McMullen is a new principal. In the Oakland schools Miss Hively was married, Miss Alice Alderson being elected to the vacancy, while in the Lawrence school, Fifteenth ward, Miss Fundenberg goes to the High School as teacher of history, and Miss Payne will be assistant principal.

Miss Fox was elected to a position in the Howard schools. In the Knox School, Thirtieth ward, Miss Meisinger resigned and Miss Welch gets the position. Miss Emma McElwain is a new teacher in the Lincoln School; Professor J. R. Elwood follows Professor McKee as principal of the Colfax School. In the Peebles School Miss Mitchelen was married. The other vacancies noted, but whose names and those who succeeded could not be learned in time for publication, are: Two resignations in the Howard School, two in the Humbold, one in the Mi. Washington. Two additional teachers were elected in the Minersville.

Superintendent Morrow, of the Allegheny City schools, is still absent in the country, though he has made occasional visits to his office. Secretary Scandrett has returned rom his visit to Catawba Islands, and gives Superintendent Hamilton, of the Allegheny county schools, was being congratulated on all sides on the success of his big institute. When approached by a Disparch representative and asked about any proposed changes, he said: "Hereafter I will not be in my office at the Court House Saturdays, but a secretary will be there to give information to teachers and directors. It is my intention to organize about 15 large institutes in the Regiment, 50; Fourteenth Regiment, 50; Fourte

There were 30 new buildings constructed in the county last vear and according to our attendance we should have 150 more teachers employed. It now averages one teachers employed. It now averages one teachers to every 50 pupils, which is too much. In Butler county it is but 40."

When asked what will be done with the school appropriation which was increased by the last Legislature, he replied, "Allegheny county did roceive about $75,000. She will now get two and one-half times that amount. Of course we do not receive any of it till after next June. Increased salaries for the teachers! What delightful news this will be to the county teachers! A longer school term and better school facilities are among the uses that the directors may decide to do with the increased appropriation."

Miss Bese lius, teacher of the Sloyd school, spent the summer in 5weden, visiting relatives and inspecting the manual training schools of her country. She sent word to Superintendent Luckey that she would be a passenger on the City of Rome and would likely be in Pittsburg on Friday. She had not arrived yesterday. The materials for the new school are all ready to be placed in position under the supervision of Miss Esselius.

Within a week's time the people can view the High School exhibit at the Exposition. There will be none from the ward schools this year. During their vacation the young ladies and gentlemen of the people's college have been collecting rare flora, bugs, beetles, etc., that are to do duty in the Botanical. Zoological and Scientifio Departments, that with 'rawings constitute the exhibit. Several of the High School teachers will next week arrange this attractive educational feature of the Exposition.
