THE ADVICE OF DOCTOR PATTON

Earnestly Urged. CHANGES MADE IN THE CONFESSION

"SPECIAL TRUEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. 1 NEW YORK, Sopt. 1 .- The troubles of the Presbyserian Church over the revision of the Westminster Confession of Paith are increasing. An explanatory letter from the chaffrman of the revision committee, the Rev. Dr. William C. Roberts, of Chicago, is to appear in the denominational papers of made in chapter 10 is, in the judgment of New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco to-morrow. Dr. Roberts represents the majority of the committee, which stood 16 to 9 in favor of the most important changes in the confession proposed. These changes involve the practical abandonment of the fatalistic doctrines of Calvanism that distinguish the Westminster Confessionthe destruction of the human will, the damnation of dying infants, the foreordination to sin and to its cousequences.

This interpretation of the symbols, Presbyterians have long repudiated, and now a great majority of the churches are working for a complete reconstruction of the Confession, which shall eradicate the offensive words and forever silence these criticisms. A two-thirds majority is necessary to secure this, and Princeton at the head of a strong minority of Ultra-Calvanists, is striving to prevent revision. This opposition, which began in a speech of Dr. Francis L. Patton, hegan in a speech of Dr. Francis L. Patton, a member of the committee, at the Detroit Assembly last May, and which has continued quietly during the summer, has called forth an explanation from Dr. Roberts. CHAIRMAN BOBERTS' REPORT.

The letter of Chairman Roberts deals with the provisional report of the committree. This report was accepted by the last General Assembly, and sent back to the 216 Presbyteries for amendments and ap-proval. The committee was continued to ilate the votes and amendments of the Presbyteries and to report finally at the next Gene al Assembly. Each change pro-posed must receive the approval of 145 Prosbyteries before it is effected; and to get and to prevent this vote is now the strife between Princeton and the liberals. The important changes proposed are in three chapters of the Confession. These are: Chapter 3, on God's eternal decrees of predestination, forcordination and preterition; Chapter 9, on free will and the impu-Adam's sin; Chapter 10, on the effectual calling of the elect and the damnation of all others, including dying infants not elect and heathen without the means of knowing Christ. The great fight is over these chap-ters. Dr. Roberts urges the adoption of sweeping changes, completely restating these doctrines. He refers first to the unanimity of the committee. He says: "The unexpected agreemen arrived at in regard to nearly all proposed amendments is regarded by the entire committee as less due to human wisdom than to the leading of the Holy Spirit."

The lines that have long divided the church into revisionists and anti-revisionists were not drawn into the committee There were differences of judgment as to the changes, but the objectors were not always anti-revisionists, and many of the changes now criticised were supported by these known as anti-revisionists.

Says Dr. Roberts: "Notwithstanding these differences, the unanimity was so great, that all agreed to send to the Assembly a report of progress, reserving any

AIMED AT DR. PATTON. This sentence is aimed at Dr. Patton. The letter gives no names. But it is an open secret that the course of Dr. Patton has greatly offended some of the committee. His speech at Detroit advised the church to "tear the report in pieces," when the agreement was, according to the Chairthat the report was to be upheld by all the committee as a unanimous report. The minority was to hold its peace while the report was before the Assembly, withholding objection until the matters came up for final action next year. This was a conand to force the fight on its adoption upon the last General Assembly. As the last General Assembly was pretty well torn up over Dr. Briggs' case, any further disturb-ance was to be avoided. There is a difference of opinion in the any such action taken. The matter was discussed at the end of the final session of the committee last February. Dr. Patton left the meeting to catch a train half an hour given the right to a formal protest against any change proposed by the majority, and to have his protest printed in the report and go before the Assembly in that way. No such protest was made by any one, although the secretary sent to each member of the assembly in the secretary sent to each member of the committee copies of the report. At an informal meeting of the committee at Detroit, the matter of the agreement of Allegheny, Pa. unanimity was again gone over. Efforts were made to dissuade Dr. Patton from making his speech. The chairman would have made this statement to the Assembly in reply to Dr. Patton, but refrained, lest his speaking would open a general debate. The report was accepted and Dr. Patton's speech was forgotten, until the fight was opened publicly a week ago by Princeton. Then Chairman Roberts decided to make his statement. He says:

GREAT LIBERTY ALLOWED. "It should be known to the whole church that representatives of the revision and the anti-revision Presbyteries alike, had the widest liberty to represent, advocate and vote in favor of the views entertained by their constituents, and none of them hesitated to do so.

"Opportunity was granted not only once, but a second time, and after an intermission sufficiently long to afford members time for full consultation in regard to any or all of the points at issue. A large number of the proposed changes were carried unanimously proposed changes were carried unanimously in the committee; a few were passed with two or three negatives, and nearly all by at least a two-third vote."

In another place he says: "The report now before the Presbyteries is the result of the joint efforts of the entire 25 members representing the church on the committee."

The intermission for consultation referred to by Dr. Roberts was for the nurpose of giving the minority an opportunity of getting advice on the changes proposed. It hasted two months, during which time the proposed changes were submitted to Dr. William G. T. Shedd, of New York City, a venerable and learned dogmatician of great influence in the church. The proposed changes were examined by him and promounced to be within the Calvanistic lines. Thus assured, the minority returned to the work of the revision. work of the revision.

Leforting to the added words concerning the evidences of the divine origin of the libble. Do. Roberts says: "The words, the truthfulness of the history, the faithful witness of propingy and miragle, were not insected, assome have feared, to meet a present energency, or to furnish any future tribunal with constitutional warrant."

TO SAVE PRIEGS. This is a reference to Dr. Briggs. A much more emphatic declaration as to the authorny of the Bible was proposed in the committee but it was rejected as being too plainly pointed against Dr. Briggs. Further on this point Dr. Belbert care. this point Dr. Roberts says:
The theological and ecclesiastical differences, supposed to have existed in the two branches of the church, prior to the happy reunion of 1868, were not represented, nor yet at any time referred to for the purpose of influencing anyone's judgment. No sympathy with, or objection to, any men or institutions of our church, appeared during the long and sometimes heated discussions."

Dr. Roberts, continuing, refers to the objectionable words used by Dr. Patton at Detroit, in which he expressed the hope that some parts of the report could be "torn in pieces." The committee never intended to invite the Presbyteries to tear any important parts of their report in pieces. The portions most strenuously objected to by a few received the approval of more than two-thirds of the committee. Those held by a number as not needed by the theological exigencies of the day were deemed at the To Cling Close to the Ancient Forms exigencies of the day were deemed at the same time by more than two-thirds of the committee necessary to meet the views of the church and to aid in the practical work-two-thirds of the Revision Committee, the one most likely to satisfy the church. THE CHANGES PROPOSED.

"When the committee ask the Presby-"When the committee ask the Presby-teries to 'consider' their report, they mean, of course, that these bodies shall go over it, item by item, to see that the changes pro-posed are in keeping with the teachings of scripture as understood in our day; that they do not invalidate the integrity of the Reformed or Calvanistic system, that they are needed in the light of the progress in knowledge and duty made by the church during the last 200 years, to the end that it during the last 200 years, to the end that it may be determined whether they are or are not, on the whole, the best alterations, substitutions and amendments that can be made without disturbing the balance or destroying the harmony of our venerable con-

Dr. Roberts closes with an earnest appeal to the Presbyteries to go at the work of ex-amining the report in a friendly attitude, criticising it and amending it and aiding in its final adoption by a two-third vote. Says he;

WORTH WORKING FOR. "Such a result is worth praying for, la-boring for and sacrificing much for. Pa-sonal preferences, the adherence to favorite and it may be time-honored modes of ex-pression, should not be allowed to hold blace against whatever the church clearly calls for, within the teachings of God's Word. A spirit of kindly censideration and of mutual concession in regard to all amendments offered to the confession may well dominate the meetings of Presbyteries, as it has thus far the sessions of the committee. Let all dissensions and divisions be avoided.

"The brother or the Presbytery that will persistently object to the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't' on the ground that they personally are satisfied with the standards as they are, thereby disregard the judgment of the majority of the church and assume a responsibility they can hardly be conscious of."

Since they were printed Mr. Banta has been subjected to lively criticism from certain quarters, but he was silent under this until a few days ago, when he replied to the criticisms in a letter defending his position and reiterating his charges of mismanagement and dishonesty on the part of Mr. Beers. The reply of the Board of Trustees to this last letter is a resolution directing the dismissal of Mr. Banta.
