IMITATOR OF BRIGGS.

Dr. Parkhurst Will Be the Next Victim of the Heresy Hunters.

Have Already Marked the Doctor for an Ecclesiastical Trial.

A BITTER ATTACK ON THE ASSEMBLY

PERCHAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Sept. 6.-The Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, of the rich and fashionable Madison Square Presbyterian Church, has tempted fate by a little book of sermons just issued in his name. Heresy hunters may find rare browsing between its resthetic covers. Dr. Parkhurst is not in thoroughly good standing with the Presbytery that brought about the trial of Dr. Briggs, and the least additional weight is like to break the camel's backbone. He is one of the inner coterie that shares with Dr. Briggs the hidden mysteries of the Chi Alpha Club. Others of this circle are the half dozen young divines in possession of the pulpits of the most fashionable Westside Presbyterian Churches in the city.

They are Henry VanDyke, Jr., Wilton Merie Smith, George Alexander, Charles L. Thompson, James H. McIlvaine. Dr. Parkhurst first distinguished himself and paralyzed his brother Presbyterians by announcing publicly that he had never read the Westminster Confession of Faith until his attention had been called to it one year ago by the agitation over the proposal to revise it. As a minister, Dr. Parkhurst had taken years ago a vow to receive and adopt this Confession as his rule of faith and practice; and as a director of the Union Theological Seminary, he had sworn to up-hold the same. The effect of this announce-ment therefore may be imagined.

STRONGLY FOR REVISION. When at last Dr. Parkhurst did read the Confession the enthusiasm with which he went in for its revision struck even his friends as singular, and excited the resentment of the Conservatives. He wanted re-vision badly, and was quite free to say so in the most picturesque and emphatic language of which he is capable. The impression was not lacking that Dr. Parkhurst's re-vision of the document would have stopped little short of its complete annihilation. In this he did not share the opinion ascribed to the Chi Alpha coterie: to let the Confession remain untouched as a sort of whitened sepulchre, and to construct another and shorter creed, in the Briggsensian style of architecture, to mark the progress of thought at the close of the nineteenth cen-

After revision was disposed of, Dr. Park-hurst came in for a share of attention at the time of the Briggs trouble. He referred, one Sunday morning in his pulpit, to the nction of the anti-Briggs men, and his language was printed the following morning in every daily newspaper in the country. To put it mildly his sermon was a tirade against the modern church.

SAWDUST FOR BRAINS.

He asked the church if the young preachers were to "pump out their brains and fill their heads with sawdust" to qualify for a front place in the procession. He turned his back on David and the Psalter, which the standards of his church positively direct him to use twice during each service. He announced to the public that he had been obliged to have an expurgated edition of the Psalms for his private use, so often had he found David in conflict with Christ and his own reason. He cast reflections upon Princeton, the pet school of the church. But worst of all, he upbraided the New York Presbytery for "sniffing heresy," where none existed. He said: "When history composes herself to write the history of this affair (meaning the Briggs affair) may the tears she sheds be sufficient to obliterate the record." This last sentence is now pasted in the scrap books of more than one member of the New York Presbytery, ready for a day of reckoning.

During the Briggs debate at Detroit Dr. Parkhurst gave further offense to the New York men that sat beside him on the floor of the General Assembly. One of the speakers, Dr. Dickey, of Philadelphia, assured the commissioners to whom he was pleading for mercy to Dr. Briggs, that "he would hold an opinion until his church should tell him that it was a wrong opinion and then he would surrender it." This expression of good will from the mild and gentle advocate of Dr. Briggs called forth some applause. Not from Dr. Parkhurst, however, who turning to his colleague be-side him, exclaimed: "Dear, dear, that an intelligent man should say that." ATTACKING THE ASSEMBLY.

Still greater grew the distance that separated Dr. Parkhurst from his Presbytery when a few weeks later he published a long and bitter attack upon the General Assembly for attempting to force Dr. Bricgs from the faculty of Union Seminary. Now comes this volume of sermons, under the mysterious title "Three Gates on a Side," that reflects the attitude of the eloquent and poetical pulpit orator of Madison Square oward the Presbyterian Church and her

The sermons are not controversial; they are quiet talks to his people, of the kind that has made his pulpit famous, full of light and disparaging references to the sacred dogmas of the modern expounders of Calvanism. Nothing particularly contra-confessional is in them when viewed through the ChiAlpha spectacles, but much that requires explanation, when placed under the powerful microscope in use at Princeton. The bacillus of heresy s there. In the present temper of the New York Presbytery this book cannot

This style of preaching has become popular in this city, especially in the pulpits of the young divines above mentioned. There is a tree and independent spirit developing in handling the topics of the Old and New Testaments, that certainly answers in every particular the eclecticism and rationalism that condemned David Swisg. The remark of Dr. Parkharst about his expurgated edition of the Psaims is an example. The eustom of gliding over the imprecatory sent-ences in that part of the Bible is almost uni-

There are stories, too, in the Old Testa-ment, which in former days the mothers taught to the son at her knee as a first duty of motherhood, that are never reserved to in modern pulpits, except to prove the erranev of the Bible. the corner of Ashland Boulevard and Mon-roe street, was dedicated this morning. Dr. George C. Lorimer, formerly of this city but now in charge of Tremont Temple, Bos-ton, delivered the dedicatory sermon, taking his text from the meeting of Christ with the woman of Amaria who was drawing water at the well—"The hour cometh and now is when true worshipers shall worship Him in spirit and in truth." In the course of his address, Dr. Lorimer HIS VERY RADICAL UTTERANCES advanced some theories which, had they been uttered in the days of the Puritans, would have caused their author to be would have caused their author to be branded as a rank heretic. He asserted that Sunday, being the first day of the week called to remembrance the day of resurrection, but that while man should cease from manual labor on that day, he should not consider it as a sacred day, but should not consider it as a sacred day, but should amuse and rest himself as he saw fit, not forgetting the significance of the day. Emotional worship was deprecated, as was the theory that all worship should be conducted in places set apart for that purpose. No place was considered as especially sacred when man desired to worship God. It could be done in one place as well as another. Dr. Lorimer also asserted that the sacraments were not a means of grace or remission, but instruc-tion, which those desiring to learn of the grace and goodness of Goo should attend.

FIFTH SAND OIL WELLS.

THEY HAVE BEEN STEADILY INCREAS-ING THE PRODUCTION.

The Market on the Decline-Review of the Big Wells of the Past Week, and Those About Completed - The Drill Is Still crease in new production, which has had a decidedly bearish effect on the market. Prices have been steadily declining, but the downward trend of the market creates little comment. The reason for the break is only

It would be a singular market, indeed, that would strike a bullish attitude in the face of such field reports as are being recorded every day. With an increase in the new production last month of nearly 7,000 barrels, and indications for as much more this month, it is not surprising that the value of crude is decreasing. The pro-ducing territory is increasing in scope, and when that which has already been outlined when that which has already been outlined is drilled over it will be, without exception, the largest white sand pool ever developed. During the last week several important wells were drilled to the fifth sand. Shaffer & Co.'s well on the Fanny Johnson lot, at McDonald, was drilled into Johnson lot, at McDonald, was drilled into the fifth without greatly increasing its pro-duction from the Gordon sand, which amounted to about 150 barrels a day. It seems to be east of the fifth sand belt by about 100 feet. It is not over that distance east of a line drawn through the Cook lot well of the Wheeling Gas Company to Sauters & Co.'s big well on the Sauters prop-erty back of the hardware store. One of the Unexpected,

The Peoples Natural Gas Company's well on the Johns lot, located 200 feet east of the Butler lot well, caused considerable surprise when it reached the fifth sand and comwhen it reached the fifth sand and commenced to flow at the rate of 30 barrels an hour. There is a dry hole a short distance northeast of it on the Smith lot, of Weixel & Co.'s and 500 feet directly southwest is the Shaffer & Co.'s small well on the Smith lot, while directly east of the Johns lot well 150 feet is Kelly & Co.'s dry fifth sander on the Davis lot. Christy & Co. got practically a dry hole in the fifth on the Richards precently, 2,000 feet west of the Cook lot well. Then the big Sauters well is a product of last week. It is located 200 feet northeast of McDonald station and about 500 feet from the Cook lot well. It started off at 175 barrels an hour and is now making 100 barrels an hour. Guffey. Murphy & Co.'s venture on the Elliott farm, northeast of the Miller and Mevey farms, also reached the fifth sand within the past six days. It is flowing at the rate of 40 barrers an hour, with the bit scarcely in the sand. What it will do when agitated is only a matter for conjecture, but no one doubts but that it will be big. Hardman & Co.'s well on the Sauters property and 100 feet east of the Royal Gas Company's big Sauters 3, was almost a failure in the fifth.

There is one redeeming feature about this field and that is the fact that there have been no absolute failures, with probably one There is one redeeming feature about this field and that is the fact that there have been no absolute failures, with probably one exception. It there was no oil in the fifth sand there was sufficient in the Gordon to let the well pay out, and when both sands were light, the two combined are usually enough to make the well a fair pumper. No Limit to Theories,

There has been no limit to the theories regarding this pool. Nearly every operator has had an opinion which appeared plausible for the time being, and then it would suddenly be exploded by the result of some well. The theory most prevalent for some time is that there is a vast pool underlying the Matthews farm and including the territory southwest as far as the southwestern boundaries of the Miller. Mevey and Mary Robb farms. It is believed that after leaving the latter farms it branches out into numerous streaks like the fingers of a hand. Some of these have been proven to be immensely rich, while others are almost dry. For instance, the line on which the Co-k lot well and the well of Sanders & Co. are located is remarkably productive, while 200 feet to the west on a 45 degree line is a dry streak. West of this latter line again is a rich streak, which includes the Butter lot well of Clark & Bannister, LaCombe & Vallilee on the Short lot, Boscher & Co. on the U. P. Church lot, and the People's Natural Gas Company on the Johns property. These wells show the streaks very distinctly.

Wells Almost Completed. There are a number of wells which will reach the fifth sand in the borough limits this week. Among these are Garland & Co.'s well on the DeRoy lot, located 150 feet southwest of the Fanny Johnston well.

It is now making 200 barrels a day from the Gordon. Boviard & Seyfang's well, northeast of the Ewtet lot, is almost due in the fifth. Clark & Bannister, on the Sauters property, is just above the last sand. Mellon, Wilson & Sparks should reach the fifth sand early this week in their well on the McCarty farm at Primrose. Farther to the Northeast.

OakDale-The only development in the vicinity of this place was the well on the Gamble farm owned by the Woodland Oil Gamble farm owned by the Woodland Oil Company. It is doing from 35 to 40 barrels an hour, and is also at variance with the prevalent theories which were formed of this territory after Greenlee & Forst's well on the Miller farm, and Guffey, Murphy & Co's light well on the Wettengel, were divided.

The Mertz Farm Locality. McCuapy-One of the biggest wells of the week was Gardiner, Fitzgibbons & Co.'s, on the Mertz farm, which came in late Friday done in this field at present. A well that will do 100 barrels a day in this territory will do 100 parreis a day in this territory is a big one, and at the present price of oil operators do not feel like risking their money for wells of this caliber, which in the McDonald field would be considered almost failures. The Hervey Oil Company will bring in their No. 2 on the Linton, and

IT SPURTED FROM AN OIL WELL. Boss Yarn of the Season Spun for the Benefit of an Ohio Crowd.

JUST LIKE A BALL IN A FOUNTAIN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH.1 St. MARY'S, O., Sept. 6.-At the Fountain Hotel yesterday a large number of prominent oil men from the various fields of Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and West Virginia were telling their experiences in the oil fields. The one that mostly attracted attention was a thrilling one by Joe English, a well-known contractor. His story was as follows: "I was about 20 years old when the oil excitement broke out in our country, and was leading the uneventful life of a farmer's son. We lived on a farm of 140 acres within two miles of a prosperous town in Pennsylvania, and there was little excitement for any of us until some of the oil men from Oil City came down and built a rig on the Davis farm, about a quarter of a mile from our place. our place. The greasy fluid was struck in paying quantities. A grand rush for terri-tory followed, and in a very short time the farms around us were dotted with derricks, The developments in the oil fields of the southwest have been prolific during the past week. There has been a steady in-

ONE WELL ACTED STRANGELY. "I believe we had drilled in four wells, and all very good producers. No. 3 acted strangely on us. The day it came in it filled two 250-barrel tanks in four hours, and we lost considerable cil. because of a lack of tankage. The well settled down, however, to about 300 barrels a day, and kept flowing at that rate for about five days, when it petered out altogether. Just 12 days after that well quit flowing I had the strangest and most peculiar experience that ever fell to the lot of man. "One day I was walking about the farm when some delayed figure work occurred to me, and I resolved to do it then and there. The abandoned well was near by. Knowing I would be secure from intrusion there, I walked into the derrick. An empty candy box, which I placed over the casing head furnished a good seat. Producing pencil and paper, I proceeded in my own way to solve the problem of petroleum produc-tion. In just about two minutes the well began spurting salt water at a furious rate, and with such tremendous force that I was hurled high into the air, box and all. There is no use trying to describe my feelings. I was too thoroughly frightened to have any. All I know, a man of 175 pounds was

LIFTED VIOLENTLY HEAVENWARD. 'The column of water evidently struck the box exactly in the center, for we went up as straight as a plumb line. What is more, I never changed my seat, and in the very nature of things it was impossible to do so. The spurting water was of sufficient volume to entirely fill the box and send a pretty heavy appears wall on every side into the to entirely fill the box and send a pretty heavy aqueous wall on every side into the bargain. The box was not large, and, of course, my feet would naturally hang over under ordinary circumstances, but in this case the water threw my legs upward. This put me in a peculiarly uucomfortable, yet singularly safe, position. I sat there, head and legs inclined, so that I resembled the letter V, and was firmly held in that posi-tion by the outpropring to recent tion by the outpouring torrent,

"I must have gone up fully 45 feet, but he initial force carried me higher than it could hold me, and I settled back about 15 feet, all the while maintaining the same position.
When I reached that coins When I reached that point where the attraction of gravity exactly counters the force of the water I stopped. The point was fully 30 feet from the ground. It was impossible for me to fall to either side, and equally impossible to fall straight down, for the spraying water played into that hox ring water played into that box with terrific force.

RESIGNED TO THE SITUATION. "The only movement I felt was the alternative rising and falling of the box occas-ioned by the contention between the attraction of gravity and propulsive force of gas and water. The only pain I experienced was in my legs, which soon became numb from the constant pounding of the water.

"The roar and the spurting water soon attracted the attention of the folks at the house, and after them came the neighbors, oil operators and others, until there was a crowd of several hundred peo-ple standing around within safe distance of the descending water. I couldn't see much of them, and of course couldn't hear a word they said. Gradually the pain seemed to grow less, and the next I knew I was in bed, and in a dreamy way saw the folks standing

"They told me how my final rescue came about. The well ceased flowing gradually, and finally petered out altogether. As the column of water dropped, the box, with its now insensate burden, came down with it and rested exactly over the mouth of the well whence it started. I fell over on the derrick floor and was picked up and carried out, and then into the house. I learned that instead of being up in the air for several hours, as I had supposed, I was up less than a minute."

SUICIDE IN A DREAM.

A Man Cuts His Throat and Claims He Did It When Asleep.

NEW YORK, Sept., 6.—An attempt to commit suicide was made by Jacob Hartvig, a former hardware merchant, 51 years old, of Brooklyn, yesterday morning, and he says that he cut his throat while dreaming, for he has no remembrance of the act. He lived with his wife, but they occupied separate rooms on the top floor of the house.

About 2.30 A. M. yesterday he entered his wife's room and told her that some one had put tar over him, and he wanted her to get up and wipe it off. She told him he must have been dreaming, and to go back to bed, but he persisted in his statement, and finally his wife got up and got a light and found that he was covered with blood, which was streaming from a wound in his neck.

"Jacob, who cut you?" she asked, and he

"Jacob, who cut you?" she asked, and he replied, "I don't know."

The horror-stricken woman then wiped the blood from the jagged cut in her husband's throat and bound it up with a towel. A doctor was sent for, and he found that the throat had been set with a reconfine. the throat had been cut with a razor from under the right ear to the windpipe, just under the right ear to the windpipe, just missing the carotid artery, and that a smaller out had been made in the left side. He thought recovery doubtful. The razor with which the wounds were made lay on the bureau. Mrs. Hartvig said that her husband was in the hardware business in New York until recently, when he sold out and opened a store on Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, and then he sold that and bought two houses which were rented in flats. But he only succeeded in getting a few tenants, and became discourin getting a few tenants, and became discour aged. He would wake up from horrible dreams and think they were real. In regard to cutting his throat he could tell nothing, so his wife believes that he got the razor in a dream. His mind has appeared
