

Next Thursday the monument erected in the Homestead Cemetery by General Griffin Post 207, G. A. R., will be unveiled and dedicated. Grand Army posts from all over Western Pennsylvania will attend the cere-monies. Major J. F. Denniston, of this city, will be chief marshal of the parade, Cap-tain J. H. Williams, of Post 207, will be adjutant, and Comrade L. McClure, also of 207, will be chief of staff. The procession will ot be an exclusively Grand Army affair as civic societies, school children and labo unions will participate. Thousands will turn out in honor of the memory of the boys who were the blue who now sleep beneath the sod. Colonel W. D. Moore is to be orator of the day. A. B. Hay and Rev. Colonel Danks will also make addresses. The evening is to be spent in a camp fire. Under the leadership of Chill W. Hazzard as master of ceremonies the comrades will assemble in the Opera House and recall the bloody days of 29 years are, when at Antietam creek General Mc-Clelland's army repulsed Lee's invasion of the Northern States.

Led the Great Parade.

When people open the big volumes of Harper's or other pictorial histories of the late war their eyes are sure to dwell on the ngraving of the grand review of the Army of the Potomeo as it marched down Penn-sylvania avenue, Washington, at the end of sylvania avenue, Washington, at the end of the war. The pictures always begin with the head of the column of infantry, and the first man is the captain of a company. Pittsburgers in general, and Grand Army men in particular, should feel a peculiar interest in this leader of the parade. If his portrait were given correctly in the engravings it would be none other than that of J. H. Stevenson, of Post 88, of this city. Mr. Stevenson and the greater part of his company were members of the One Hundredth Pennsylvania Volunteer Regiment and their position was due to the desire for that symmetrical regularity in big demonstrations that is the pride of all military men.

general order had been issued to A general order had been issued to colonels, instructing them to divide their regiments into even companies. The One Hundreth was very full at that time and when the division was made, it was found that part of a company, numbering about 25 men, under the command of Second Lieutenant Stevenson, were without a place. This fragment of a company was noticed by General Wilcox, commanding the Ninth Corps, the day before the grand review. He asked Colonel Maxwell to turn the men over to him. Agreeable to instructions Lieutenant Stevenson reported to corps headquarters. He was assigned to command provost guard of the First Division of the Ninth Corps. This was the division that led the review, and the Lieutenant was surprised to learn that repon that led the review, and the tenant was surprised to learn that rep-matives of the One Hundredth Pennsyl-a would have the honor of leading the agiments in the army. Mr. Stevenson yesterday the honor was something than an empty one, for hardly had the do started when he and his small com-duction of the started when he and his small com-duction of the started when he and his small com-duction of the started when he and his small comenves of which he preserves to this day, Encampment No. 6 of the U. TRADE OF THE WEEK.

Conditions Improving and the Outlook Growing Brighter.

A VERY ENCOURAGING REVIEW.

Building Operations and Record of Movements in Lands and Houses. TREND OF MONEY AND SPECULATION

A South American statesman once com plained that there had not been a revolution in his State for a month. He was not willing to "let well enough alone." Occasionally a man is encountered in Pittsburg who is dissatisfied with the business situation. A good, steady movement does not come up to his mark. He wants a boom. Happily such people are scarce. The large majority of men prefer a sure thing to the hazards that always attend inflation.

This makes it pertinent to inquire, What is wrong with business? Careful observa-tion fails to disclose any disturbing in-fluences of a far-reaching nature. There are in nearly every business center local agitations, but they have little effect upon the country at large. Locally, there is nothing to cause alarm. The dragnets which hampered an upward movement the first half of the year have disappeared, and even recent events which for a short time impaired public confidence have lost their power as bearish dence have lost their power as bearish factors. All legitimate enterprises appear to be in good shape, and the outlook for trade is full of encouragement. It could not be otherwise with the immense crops and the generally easy condition of the money market. Pittsburg is in a condition to profit from the impulse which these things will give to trade, and her merchants, manufacturers and financiers should be wakeful and watchful to take prompt advantage of the revival which is reasonably sure to come with the winter and continue through next with the winter and continue through nex year, if not longer.

waiting for the street cars almost as long as the boys "waited for the wagon," as narrated in the song, received some encouragement last week. An official of the Duquesne Traction Company, who was out there on Friday, told some of the people that cars would positively be started not later than the 12th of next month, and possibly by the 1st. It is hoped this announcement is final. McKeesport is moving forward with rapid trides. It is running over with push and enterprise, while population and capital are coming in from many quarters. So rapidly is the young city being built up, and so great is the demand for lots, that it has been found necessary to increase the supply. With this object in view, the Evans tract has been subdivided and put on the narket. It was a few years ago a farm, but market. It was a low years ago a larm, but it is now entered within the city limits, a fact clearly showing the remarkable growth of the place. Eligibly situated, and offered at moderate prices, these lots cannot fail to attract homeseekers. William M. TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK ON THE LOCAL EXCHANGE.

Investors Still Halting Between Two Opin ions-A Narrow Market and Few Changes -Gains and Losses About a Set-Off-The Situation Briefly Reviewed, Last week was a dull one in local specula

ive circles, total sales on call falling under 1,000 shares. There were none yesterday. Brokers were even careless about quotations, and the number put on the board was away below the Saturday average. Office business was light also. There was talk of some big deals, but they did not materialize. Final prices as compared with those of the previous Saturday show the following changes: Wheeling Gas gained 1/4, Central Traction, 1/4; Pleasant Valley, 1/4; Laster, 1/4. Philadelphia Gas lost 1/4, Citizens' Traction, 1/4; Electric, 1/4; Switch and Signal, 1/4; Air-brake, 1/4. There were no changes in actual conditions, and the rumor mill turned out nothing of importance. The Tractions were discussed to some extent without letting in any new light in regard to earnings or prospects. The natural gas stocks were reinforced by several new wells and occupied a stronger position.

several new wells and occupied a stronger position.

The following from a recognized authority on stocks appears to fairly state the situation as the week left it: "The reactionists are evidently doing their best to stem a fide which day after day proves its strength to be overwhelming. There is no lack of endeavor to set the current in the opposite direction from that in which it naturally flows, but the constant fallure attendant upon such efforts shows the uselessness of all attempts to resist influences whose tendency is to array the financial world against the feeble work of manipulators." work of manipulators."

A DRIVE ON RICHMOND AND WEST

POINT SECURITIES Caused by Rumors, Including One of a Receivership-The General Stock List Remains Firm and Almost Upchanged-

Railroad Bonds Quiet and Heavy. NEW YORK, Sept. 12 .- The stock market this morning opened with a confident feeling and with prices generally small fractions better than those of last evening, but there was another batch of rumors touching the condition of Richmond and West Point, and the assertion that a receiver is inevitable was louder than ever. Naturally, as an accompaniment of these stories, the bears attacked the stock and bonds with vigor right at the outset, and the common stock fell away from 13% to 10%, while the preferred dropped from 60 to 55. At the same time the Collateral Trust 5s were pounded down from 58% to 5i.

The effect upon the rest of the list was not

The effect upon the rest of the list was not what it ought to have been, considering the suddenness and force of the hammering, and, while Burlington yielded 1 per cent to 85, the others lost only fractional amounts. The foreign houses were buyers, as a rule, while there was some selling for Western account, and the local trading element were sellers almost to a man. The low prices howether acome new hurting for the long sellers almost to a man. The low prices brought in some new buying for the long account, and covering at the bottom prices was urgent, which had the effect of rallying account, and covering at the octoom prices was urgent, which had the effect of rallying the list rather sharply after 11 o'clock.

The bank statement was more encouraging to the buils than expected, and the demand for stocks in the last few minutes was specially large. Prices continued to advance, and not only were the early losses made up, but fractions in addition were gained in most cases. The best prices were not fully maintained, however, and the final changes are insignificant in almost all of the active stocks. The close was firm at slight concessions from the best figures. Richmond and West Point is down 12, per cent after a material rally and the preferred 4 per cent from the last previous sale.

The total sales of stocks to day were 137,620 shares including: Atchison, 19 025; Canada Southern, 4 300; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 2,000; Eric, 6 700; Lake Shore, 3,100; Louisylle and Nashville, 5,510; Missouri Pacific, 2,125; Northern Pacific, preferred, 8,820; Reading, 4,635; Richmond and West Point, 15,858; St. Paul, 7,710; Union Pacific, Petroleum Looking Up.

Watson & Gibson wired the following to John M. Oakley & Co.: "To-day's market would have been without special interest had it not been for the determined raid which was made upon Richmond, selling it down to 10% as against 14% yesterday. The down to 10% as against 14% yesterday. The decline in Richmond securities was based upon rumors that many loans of the company were being called, and that the debt difficulties in this corporation were gradually but surely increasing.

"The general market was inclined to weakness and the decline in prices was led by the Granger stocks, which recorded a loss of one-half to 1 per cent in the earlier dealings. "On the publication of the bank statement, which showed a comparatively small decrease of only $413,625 in the reserve, the short interest in the market started in to cover, and the natural consequence was the market closed with a sharp rully and with a more builish feeling prevailing. Erio selling at 29%, which is the highest figure it has touched for months past. The Vanderbilt stocks were also very strong and closed at the top prices of the day on large dealings. "In the petroleum market more disposition is manifested to buy and sell National Transit certificates than has heretofore been shown. The early days of this week recorded transactions on the Consolidated Exchange of nearly $60,000 barrels. With this increased activity came lower prices, which was attributed to the immense ontlook of the McDonald district, which is located near Pittsburg.

"With the increased inactivity in the

"With the increased inactivity in the stock market, the grain and cotton markets, it is natural to expect that the attention of speculators and dealers will be drawn toward petroleum, as in former years the speculation in this commodity assumed at times very large proportions. General Conditions Favorable. Henry Clews, always hopeful, has this to

"For the last few days the stock market has been subjected to the effective test of realizing profits. The sellers have included many large and influential holders, and the "bears" also have made "short" sales. These combined transactions have been large enough to try the confidence of the market pretty sharply; but their effect has appeared rather in checking the upward tendency than in producing any material decline in prices. In other words, the result has shown that the disposition to buy about available disposition to sail. result has shown that the disposition to buy about equals the disposition to sell.

The condition of the market must be conceded to be a strong and healthy one. The speculative movement is backed by a revival of the long dormant investment demand for bonds and the better class of shares, and a considerable amount of securities are going out of the floating supply into the strong boxes of permanent holders. London, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and the minor cities participate in the renewed activity, and appearances indicate that the "boom" has substantial elements of permanence. It remains to be seen what may be the attitude of the important class of operators who have been realizing. Some of them conclude that they have been hasty in realizing and are buying in again; but a larger proportion are waiting, or perhaps are using their influence to create a reaction in order to get in at lower prices. It seems reasonable to infer that, unless some unforeseen inflating element appears, the present halting attitude of the market may be continued somewhat longer without any extreme changes in prices.

"The general conditions of trade are enmarket may be continued somewhat longer without any extreme changes in prices.

"The general conditions of trade are encouraging. There are nowhere any specific complaints, nor is there anywhere a boom, but the feeling on all hands is hopeful for a good and prosperous season's business. In the iron trade, the firmer tone of prices indicates the beginning of a better demand. The increase in the current consumption of coal is a clear evidence of a growing activity in expansion of the commercial movement. The Final Figures. The following table shows the prices of active stocks in the New York Stock Exchange yesterday, Corrected daily for The Dispatch by Whitney & Stephenson, oldest Pittsburg members of the New York Stock Exchange, 57 Fourth avenue:

Make a Rush to Dispose of It-Movements of the Corn Clique. CHICAGO-Wheat was weak all day and closed 2c lower than it did yesterday. The seemed to have no friends. During the bulge yesterday many traders got loaded with wheat and they lost no time this morning in trying to dispose of it.

Cables brought no encouragement to holders, and with the domestic market generally lower, the receipts liberal and little in the way of bull news, the decline was easy. The selling was general and rather aggressive, with the demand slack and mostly confined to the covering of shorts on the break. A small-sized war rumor was thrown into the pit, but produced very tittle effect. The the pit, but produced very little effect. The clearances from both coasts for the week show a marked felling off and the exports from the three points yesterday footup only 635,000 bushels.

December opened at 973,6983,6, broke to 963,6, improved to 975,6, again broke to 96, and strengthened to 953,6. Then during the last hour, under the continued pressure of sales, reached to 953,6, back to 963,6, at which it closed, against 383,6 yesterday.

The corn clique was not actively trading in that article to-day, and the market, freed from its interference, was weak and considerably lower. It had a succession of slumps, and although there were some reactions the declines continued to reach a lower level as the session progressed. From 563,6 October got down to 533,6, and the close was 3,6 higher, but 2e lower than yesterday's close. There was a moderate trade in oats within a range of 3,6 cent, closing at the bottom figure and 52,6 cent, changed to decided weakness later in the day. Pork and ribs suffered more in prices than lard, which was upheld for some time by the reported sale vesterday for export of between 9,000 and 10 000 tierces. The failure of the frost to do injury to corn was a weakening factor in hog products. The packers sold freely of pork and ribs, and moderately of lard also. The close was at or near the lowest prices of the day.
