MINOR NEWS FROM THE THREE STATES

"SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH, 1 WHEELING, Sept. 13 .- This city has long been known as a town where any gentleman of gambling proclivities could risk and lose his cash with every assurance that the nuthorities would not disturb the layout during the progress of the game, but it has remained for the past few days of fair week to demonstrate how wide open the places can be run. Not only were poker rooms, keno and fare shops running all over town, just as usual, only more so, but on the Fair Grounds everything "went" with a vengeance. In consideration of the sum of $3,200 received by the association, no less than seven wheels of fortune were openly running during the entire week, and in addition the shell game, chuck-a-luck, monte. The word was passed around the grounds during the fair that anybody who had $50 or $100 could start a game, and they were all in it to such an extent that the short-naired fraternity from Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland and other places voted Wheeling the liveless town they had struck during the season. The gamblers scooped in thousands senson. The gamblers scooped in thousands of slollars during the week, while the back country snekers went home in disgust, for any tale of bunks he had to tell was poured into deaf ears in official circles here. The air was a glorious success to everybody, excepting, of course, the producer.

A. R. Day. Steele, who has served a term n the penitentiary, has no nose. He wears an artificial nose which is held in place by a pair of glasses. William Richardson has so served a term of imprisonment in the

The farmer, however, swore that Richardson was the man who picked his pocket. A true bill was found in the two cases. At the hearing Steele showed great anger when Richardson was testifying against him, and the greatest precaution will be taken to prevent the men from meeting.
