Released on a Writ of Habeas Corpus Because He Was Abducted.

HE WAS KIDNAPED IN MARYLAND

And Smuggled Over the State Line on a Charge of Embezzlement.

MINOR NEWS FROM THE THREE STATES.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) HOLLIDAYSBURG, Sept. 17 .- One of the most extraordinary criminal cases in the annals of Pennsylvania, and one of the most high-handed outrages against law, was heard in the Blair county courts here this morning before President Judge John Dean, when a writ of habeas corpus was heard for the discharge of Albert A. Marshall, of Towson, Md., from the Blair county prison. Marshall had been a special agent for the Ætna Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, and was located at Al. toons under Arthur B. Donaldson, of Pittsburg, general agent for that company.

Marshall left Altoons at noon September 4 for a brief visit at his home in Towson, and Donaldson arrived at Altoona the following Monday, September 5, in the absence of Monday, September 5, in the absence of Marshall, and alleging that Marshall was a defaulter swore out a warrant for his arrest, and with Constable McFeeley, of Altoona, Donaldson started for Towson without waiting to ask Governor Pattison's requisition. They arrived at Baitimore Wednesday morning and registered at the Maltby House under assumed names—Donaldson as J. R. Johnston and McFeeley as McFee. Later in the day they proceeded to Towson in a closed carriage with a burly negro driver, and finally found Marshall on a street car.

Donaldson decoyed Marshall from the car to the closed carriage. When Marshall sought to escape they both, with the assistance of the driver. forced Marshall back into the carriage, closing his mouth with their hands, handcuffing him. They even refused to let Marshall see his lawyer in Towson. At Timonium station they forced him into the cars and took him to Pennsylvania. Wednesday night Marshall spent in the Altoona prison, and then was sent to the county prison at Hollidaysburg.

Mrs. Angusta Marshall, mother of the prisoner, testified at the hearing to the actions of Donaldson and McFeeley at Marshall's home. In his cross-examination Donaldson was made to admit that violence was used and that the evidence given of the arrest was substantially correct; but he claimed Marshall was not hurt, and an important point was made when Donaldson admitted that he was acting for the company.

Marshall denied that he embezzled any of the company's money, but that he had given the found in the city. Proceedings will be to be found in the city. Proceedings will be Marshall, and alleging that Marshall was a McFeelcy to appear on the stand, nor was he to be found in the city. Proceedings will be had against McFeeley and Donaldson and the Etna Life Insurance for false arrest and imprisonment. After hearing the evidence Judge Deau denounced the high-landed action of the officer and Donaldson and made an order discharging the prisoner. Arthur B. Donaldson, of Pittsburg, and Constable James McFeeley, of Altoona, were arrested this evening and placed under $1,000 bail to answer at the October term of court for kidnaping Albert A. Marshall, at Towson, Md., and bringing him here to answer for embezzlement without requisi-tion.

A PRETTY MINISTERIAL FIGHT.

Spicy Proceedings in the Eastern Ohio Methodist Conference.

AKRON, Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Eastern Ohio M. E. Conference opened its session large to-day, Bishop C. H. Fowler presiding. It was decided to take a vote on Saturday It was decided to take a vote on Saturday on the question of admitting women delegates to the General Conference. Some excitement was created by an amendment offered that the vote be taken without debate, the evident intention being to continue the present determination of shutting out the sisters from the conference. The amendment was carried by a decisive majority, and the question will be finally disposed of Saturday.

The Central Traffic Association came in for a scoring at the morning session, when

The Central Traffic Association came in for a scoring at the morning session, when conference Secretary Keyes spoke of the reat difficulty of securing proper arrangements for transportation, and the terms of the difficulty of securing proper arrangements for transportation, and the terms of the security of the training and exorbitant. A motion was nade asking that the Secretary enter into the negotiations with the railroads next ear and that the ministers buy their tick. no negotiations with the railroads next year and that the ministers buy their tick-ets "like men." Dr. Moses Hill, the wag of the Conference, smoothed down all ruffled feelings by a joke, saying that railroads would not feel at all insulted at any action taken by the Conference, and at his sugges-tion the matter was laid on the table. Presiding Eider Haskell created a breeze Presiding Elder Haskell created a breeze by presenting the resignation from the ministry of Kev. Albert J. Hvatt, of Burton. Rev. M. Hyatt had confessed to telling falsehoods, and asked to be relieved of his pastofrate. Rev. Dr. A. H. Norcross, President of the Female College in Pittsburg, was present as attorney for Kev. Mr. Hyatt. He added furore to the sensation by rising and withdrawing the resignation, and entering a counter-charge against Elder Haskell, changing that he had violated the discipline of the cburch in not having the conduct of flev. Mr. Hyatt investigated before appearing and deliberately presenting his resignation. Several members tried to secure recognition at once, but as there was plainly a long and exhaustave argument in sight, Hishop Fowler shut them all up by referring the matter to committee.

A resolution was passed, asking the ministers to urge their people to vote in November for an Ohio constitutional convention. The reason given was that under the Australian ballot system a vote on constitutional prohibition, which a constitutional convention would undoubtedly submit to Orbisonia Miners Offer to Compromise. HUNTINGBON, Sept. 17. - [Special.] - The situation over the strike at the mines and furnace of the Rock Hill Coal and Iron Company, at Orbisonia, remains unchanged. The breatening demonstration by the miners special and developed no serious violence. At a joint meeting of the strikers, this evening, they agreed to accept a reduction from the company of 5 per cent, providing they also receive a reduction from the company in the price of coal and house rents. The officials have not taken any action on this proposition as yet.

Jumped Into the River and Drowned HARRISHURG, Sept. 17 .- [Special.] -- Henry Fischer, nged 30, of this city, carefully hung his overcoat on the canni bridge here this afternoon and then jumped into the water and was drowned. He belonged to the Grocers and Butchers' Association in Chicago, where he had been living lately. Letters were found on his person indicating that he had been robbed in that city while drunk. He acted as if insane. A Parson Gets Anonymous Letters.

CANTON, Sept. 17.-[Special.]-Great indigna-tion is felt here over the writing of anonynous letters to Rev. Dr. Muller, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopai Church. At the next meeting of the directors of the church a motion will be carried to employ detectives to ferret out the unknown writer. Meanwhile Dr. Muller says his resignation from the pastorate of the church is final.

FALL IS HERE

We may have a day or so of warm weather, but the chilly nights and mornings tell too plainly that summer is passed and our thoughts and yours turn to fall and fall goods. Such is the steady run of trade with us the whole year through that one season slips into another without any hurrah. Still, there is a turning point in trade when the general community awake to the fact of a change of seasons. Such a time is the present, and we begin to feel the incoming tide of trade. Our present steady and satisfactory trade has been obtained by honest and hearty industry; by the offering of proper goods at proper prices. The public has responded to our truthful advertising and appreciated our respect for their common sense.
