There was some decidedly pretty sport in the last race, the 2:15 trot, in which Roga-lind Wilkes, Whiter E and Alvin battled for a $500 purse. Rosalind Wilkes was the favorite all through, and while she had no great trouble in winning, she was once or twice pushed just hard enough to make it in the first heat Alvin ran from the start to the quarter and then trotted home ahead of Wilkes, but was set back on account of the advantage he had thus ed. The second heat was much the most presenting of the three because of the beanthe way around, but in the stretch the horses came down almost alureast. The winner did not have more than a neck the 'ndvantage and the other horses were neck and neck. All the drivers gave their horses the whip' but it availed othing, as the positions were not changed in the least, Wilkes winning while Alvin and Walter E had a dead heat. The third heat was also close and interesting.

The State law permits glove contests in the regularly chartered clubs, but it seems the present grand jury, which is a very moral one, is endeavoring to get around it. High police officials have been before the jury, and it has closely examined the laws on the subject. The ontlook is that the jury will make its report to-day, in which it will call upon the police to stop the coming fight.

ELECTRICITY ITS OWN MOTOR.

A New Castle Man Thinks fils Invention Will Dispense With Steam. New CASTLE, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—William Gumprey, of this city, is working on an in- vention that will surprise the electrical- world. It is in the shape of a dynamo that will be self-propelling and will generate its own motive power. Such a contrivance would immediately place electricity in the lead of steam as a motive power on rail- ronds and steamboats, and would be of great benefit for stationary engines. For a num- ber of years many electricinas have sought for the secret that would canble them to build a dynamo or electric motor that would furnish its own power. Mr. Gumprey, in experimenting with elec- trical contrivances, claims to have acci- dentally stambled upon what he thinks is the great secret, and he has already accom- plished much with the crude contrivance he has made to justify him in the opinion.
