Railroad Miners of the Pittsburg District Will Ask for an Increase in Pay Next Week.

NINE THOUSAND MEN INVOLVED.

A Convention Called by President Costello to Becide Upon a Rate to Be Asked For.

BETTER FACTORY LAWS NECESSARY

General Drift of Industrial Matters in and Around Pittsburg.

The railroad miners of the local district, involving 9,000 men, will shortly ask for an ndvance in wages. A convention will be held in the city next Tuesday for the purpose of formulating the demands. Yesterday a large mass meeting of miners was held at Mansfield. It was called for 10 o'clock, but it lasted all day. National President J. B. Rae, of the United Mine Workers, and President Costello, of District 5. were present and made addresses. There had been some feeling among the local miners last spring against the national officers, but any disaffection that existed vesterday was entirely wiped out by the time the meeting was over, and it is safe to say that all will be peace and harmony throughout the district in the tuture. After the objects of the meeting vesterday had been explained and the business transacted, the miners passed a resolution unaminously expressing their desire that a convention should be called for the purpose of considering the advisability of making immediate demands for an increase in wages.

BEA CALLS FOR A CONVENTION. Accordingly, President Costello issued the following late last evening: MANSPIELD, Pa., September 23.
To the Miners of the Pittsburg Railroad District,

Organized and Unorganized: You are hereby notified that a convention will be held in K. of L. Hall, Third avenue and Market street, Pittsburg, Pa., on Tuesday, the 29th inst., convention to be called to order at 10 o'clock A.M., promptly. The questions to be considered are:
First—An advance in the price of min-

Second-Question of weighing coal before screening.

Every mine is requested to take action immediately, and elect delegates. Prompt and immediate steps will bring the best results.

Mr. Coatello was seen last night and he said: "The miners of this district feel that they are not being paid Just wages, and the officers think they are about right. There are a number of inequalities that need to be arranged, and I believe this is the proper time to have it done. Of course, it will be a surprise to the operators to have the demand come now. The season is just opening; natural gas is on the decline, and I am not of the opinion they can stand a strike

President Rae was also seen last night, e said: "I cannot say what advance the iners of the Pittsburg district will ask. some sort of an effort to oppose the demands. J. Morton Hall was quoted inst week as saying that it would be a foolish move on the part of the miners to ask for an adwance now.

Fresident Rae has arranged for another week's visitation through the district. Tonight he will be in Shaner: Friday night, at Lucyville. Saturday afternoon at McDouald, and next Monday at Imperial. He will attend the convention here on Tuesday. It is expected that Vice President Penna will also be at the meeting. The general feeling is that the breach in the ranks of the local miners will be entirely healed in case they are successful with the proposed demands, and all the talk about leaving the miners organization will be known only as a thing of the past.

Say They Will Get the Men.

The strike of the hammermen's crew at Anderson, DuPuy & Co.'s mill at Chartiers is still on, but the firm is trying to make it is still on, but the firm is trying to make it appear as insignificant. A representative of the company said vesterday that the trouble did not amount to anything, and that they would have no trouble in finding men to take the strikers places. As to the charge of the men that they were compelled to work overtime, he said it had always been the custom to work the mill overtime in hore sensons.

Deputy Factory Inspector Miss O'Reilly Suggests Some Important Changes-Ir Favor of the Men-The Act Not Wide Enough in Its Scope-Some Observa-

Miss Mary A. O'Reilly, the Deputy Factory Inspectress, is still busily engaged looking into the condition of local concerns which come under the provisions of the factory act. She has discovered a remarkable fact that will no doubt receive considerable attention in her report to the State Department relative to the scope of the law. Speaking of the matter last night she said:

"My impression is that it is not so much the use in various occupations for women as the abuse that in most cases affects the physical condition; for instance, in Philadelphia, where the textile industry predomi-nates, many women are, during the fall and winter months, engaged from 6:45 a. m. until 9 r. m., leaving 45 minutes for noonday meal and 15 for supper. The portion of this industry most injurious, to my mind, for women is in the weaving department, the women are concerned, is undergoing a very radical change, insmund as women are concerned, is undergoing a very could be to be to be condition of our industrial market to-day so far as women are concerned, is undergoing a very good, the practice exists in name only, as too frequently has it been proven that the cost of a woman's position has been her desire to use the tools when wearled from over exertion.

"The position, or rather the condition of our industrial market to-day so far as women are concerned, is undergoing a very radical change, inasmuch as women are in the majority in nearly all the States and their growing tendencies are to be more dependent upon their own resources. To accomplish this they must, necessarily, do a manual labor. The employer being, as is usual, alive to the times, discovers this disposition and immediately takes advantage manual labor. The employer being, as is usual, alive to the times, discovers this disposition and immediately takes advantage by displacing the men and engaging women labor. This works disastrously in many ways. To me the two most vital, however, are, viz.: the closing of that occupation to man and the possibility of its being done at a cost of from $2 to $6 difference in the salary paid the man as compared with what the woman may receive. Yes, this is decidedly wrong. For if conditions necessitate that women must enter into the industrial world as man's competitor, then let it be upon the basic principle of equal pay for equal work and backed up by spat humane line, which appeals direct to every man and woman; Live and let live. Through legislation can be done many things for the bettering of woman's condition, but it may not be made an exceptional feature, my belief being that what is good for one is good for all, and while the factory act in Pennsylvania is purely one for the benefit of women and children, already have we felt and realized its narrow confines. Already the spirit of dissatisfaction has manifested itself, and the result will be, I hope, in a revision, when all will be covered with a shield, which, I am sorry to say, is considered unnecessary in this the land of enlightened American intelligence.

Police Superintendent Weir After the Violators of the New Liquor Law-Nothing Less Than Twelve Pint Bottles of Beer Can Be Sold.

Police Superintendent Weir will see that the liquor laws are properly observed in Pittsburg. Of late it has been brought to his notice that a large number of small wholesale dealers are violating a portion of the new law passed at the last session of the Legislature. One section expressly provides that bottlers and brewers shall not sell less than 12 pint bottles of beer at one

The property was capitalized at $4,500,000 and is owned largely in England. This is one of some half dozen similar establishments the English operators have purchased. The gentlemen comprising the party are here for the purpose of inspecting some of the industrial establishments of the city, in company with J. T. He lind not had time to draw conclusions as to the effect on British trade of the Mckinley tariff act, but he believed the iron and steel industry would not be strongly affected. The tin plate makers were not yet feeling discouraged. Mr. Smith said there was always English money for American property. He was aware there was a good deal of English capital invested in the South, and he also knew people who wished they had not invested there.

coming confused with the excitement that surrounded the trial. He said:

There is nothing so dangerous as the excitement of a public crime, or so barbarous as a public mob. We have had both—the people and the press are crying to hang someone. Is a public excitement or taste to be fed at the price of a Godgiven life? Feansylvania, rich and proud, does she demand that Mrs. Fitzsimmons, an old woman, should be hung; should be sacrificed to feed an excitement? Would you brand her so that her little daughter in womanhood will be hissed as the child of a murderer? I ask you to find her not gailty. Who among you will be provided a mother and bereaved a child on suspicion?" As Mr. Marshall finished Mrs. Fitzsimmons held her fan to her face and appeared to be crying.

This morning Judge Ewing will make his

ALL THE EVIDENCE HAS BEEN OFFERED

This morning Judge Ewing will make his charge in the Fitzsimmons murder trial and the case will be turned over to the jury. All the testimony was brought out yesterday and the lawyers made their pleas. Through it all Mrs. Lucy Fitzsimmons preserved her composure, and her quiet manner of acting won for her many friends-yesterday.

When the court opened Attorney Marshall read a report of Detective Murphy's testimony before the Coroner. He held that this testimony was different from that given in court and consequently damaged Murphy's standing as a witness.

This closed the case for the defense. The State put Detective Murphy on the stand to rebut Mrs. Fitzsimmons' testimony. Mr. Murphy said Mr. Gilkinson did not wink when he came up to the door and did not call the prisoner a "devilish woman." At no time during the fight was Gilkinson behind Murphy. The child was not in the limit and the closing argument. He denied sevent of the statements made by Mr. Marshall as to the power of Juries, the pistol shots, etc., and that the prosecution was just trying the defendant because they could not try the fugitive, and that part of the warrants. They were all sworn to by J. F. Schmidt except a search warrant sworn ont by Murphy. Mr. Robb defended the reflections cast upon Mr. Murphy and called that done his duty, was looked down upon and insuited in court because he had brought a criminal to Justice. Mr. Robb showed that the Justice. Mrs. Fitzsimmons must have been aware of its contents. He claimed that if the defendant believed her husband to be an honest man and not a thief, and was not aware of the contents of the satchel, she had no excuse for lying and telling the officers and honest man and not a thief, and was not aware of the contents of the satchel, she had no excuse for lying and telling the officers and honest man and not a thief, and was not aware of the contents of the satchel, she had no excuse for lying and telling the officers and honest man and not a thief, and was not aware of the contents of the satchel hind Murphy. The child was not in the room. Mrs, Fitzsimmons did not come between the men and say: "For God's sake stop this." Mrs. Fitzsimmons did not close the door, nordid the witness nor Gilkinson try to eatch hold of her. He did not fire after he left the house, nor did Fitzsimmons come to the door and fire after him Nor did he call Mrs. Fitzsimmons a "hell cat" when he went back to the house, Andrew Doenges and Peter Doenges who went back with Murphy, testified that he did not call her a "hell cat." Mr. Marshall submitted his points in relation to the charge to the jury. Judge Ewing glanced at them and said: "You didn't write these Mr. Marshall?" to which the answer was: "No, but they came from a good source.'

District Attorney Burleigh, in his address to the jury, said there was no mystery n the case. Gilkinson went to the house of Fitzsimmons to execute lawful warrants, and he was killed there. Mr. Burleigh made a close analysis of the testimony. .

BURLEIGH CLOSES HIS PLEA. He held it was very strange that Mrs. Fitzsimmons knew nothing of her husband's movements, as she claimed. He held that she was unworthy of credit; that she did know what he was doing, and carried out her portion of the work according to agree her portion of the work according to agreement. He asked for a verdict in accordance with the facts, and without regard to public clamor or any sympathy the jurors may feel. The court room was crowded when the trial was resumed at 1:30 o'clock, standing room itself being greatly in demand. The audience was made up almost exclusively of ladies and lawyers, and the interest taken in the arguments continued until court adjourned a little after 5 o'clock.

W. A. Challinor, Esq., of the defense, made the opening argument in favor of the defendant. He explained that Major E. A. Montooth was threatened by typhoid fever and could not be present to make an address. Mr. Challinor claimed that the casewas a peculiar one, its distinguishing fea-and could not be present to make an address. Mr. Challinor claimed that the case was a peculiar one, its distinguishing features being conjecture and doubt, that Frederick Carrolton Flizzimmons was not on trial, but his wife was, and that the testimony against him could not referor bear on the present trial and that any impressions they may have formed as to the guilt of the fugitive must be rejected. He argued that Mrs. Fitzzimmons was justified in carrying firearms even on her person, because the house she lived in was isolated to considerable extent, and that Mr. Fitzsimmons was so frequently away that the defendant needed protection. He argued further that she was not on trial for any crime she may have committed to Detective Murphy, that what she had done to him could not bear on the case, that these detectives, Marphy and Gilkinson, were at the house for gain and not for any high motive of duty nor of law. He claimed that the defendant had cause for alayre by the was of duty nor of law. He claimed that the defendant had cause for alarm by the way Murphy approached the house. CALLS THE PROSECUTION COWARDS. Thomas M. Marshall, the principal attorney for the defense, was the next speaker. In opening he said: "I am not sure what the prosecution bring them?" It was their place to do so if they wished to contradict Mrs. Fitzsimmons. There are any evidence to show that she fired a single shot. She took her husband's site against may evidence to show that she fired a single shot. She took her husband's site against may evidence to show that the prosecution bring them? It was their place to do so if they wished to contradict Mrs. S

Mr. Marshall then continued his address. He spoke of the power of the jury, and placed it above that of the court, the State or the President, saying: "These may pardon a man, but you have the power to destroy life, to take it nway, the very life given by God, the divine gift, as it were, or you may say as Christ did. 'Go, and sin no more.' I never heard of such a case as this where they ask for a first degree against a woman who is not even accused of having fired a shot, but, of course, they ask for it and are happy to get something."

The speaker then spoke eloquently of Pennsylvania's strong, great common wealth, with its 4,000,000 of people, and said: "Oh, yes, it is necessary for the safety of these people that this old woman should be incarcerated, deprived of her liberty or strangled to death with a rope. Is Pennsylvania afraid of this poor woman?"

MARSHALL ROASTS MURPHY. The Final Harvest Excursion

To Leave Next Tuesday—Local Traffic on the P. R. R. Ahead of Last Year.

The last Pennsylvan'a harvest excursion for the season will be on next Tuesday, the 29th. Colonel Moody said yesterday that tickets would be sold at much reduced rates and to all points in Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Georgia, Florida, Lowa, the Western and Southern States and the Indian Territory. The tickets would carry stop off privileges for points west of the Missouri. The outlook was for one of the biggest excursions of the year. Colonel Moody says the prospects for the California business this year are very good.

Ticket Agent Carpenter says that the local traffic is a head of last year's business. The road transit lines in jured local traffic to a certain extent, but not so much as was supposed. The matters of fare was not considered so much by travelers as the question of convenience.

Palace of Music, 77 Fifth Avenue.

Don't make the fatal mistake of supposing that because you have been down to the Exposition you have seen all the music firms represented there. Far from it, for Mellor & Hoene are having their own individual exposition and it's a "stunner." There you may examine the renowned Hardman pianos, pianos that will stay in tune in addition to all their other qualifications; the Krakauer pianos have a large popularity, and for the matter of that, so have the A. B. Chase and the Harringtons; indeed, all of these makes have their strong adherents, and only those alleged judges, who don't know a fine instrument when they see (or rather hear) it, could feel anything but the keenest satisfaction in being brought intocontact with these glorious instruments. The organ branch of this house carries itself bravely, and delicious examples in "reeds" are plentiful. The Acolian will speak for itself in the future as powerfully as in the past. A goodly array, and one that is highly valued in this community. Palace of Music, 77 Fifth Avenue.

The value and magnitude of this display would take away your breath did you not realize that their new plant covers over six acres of floor space, which enables them to turn out unlimited quantities of the delicious comestibles which go forth to all countries with the familiar brand "Keystone Pickling and Preserving Works" upon them, a trade mark well and favorably known everywhere where they have learned to know their worth. You look at the artistically arranged huge jars of pickles, etc., and admit their beauty, and the chance is given to sample them from a liberal standpoint, and you find them even better to the taste than to eye, and when that is said the whole ground is covered. The H. J. Heinz Company are the producers and manufacturers of pickles, preserves, fruit butters, mustard, vinegars and multitudinous sauces, and have been awarded numerous medals therefor. Keystone Pickling and Preserving Works. They Attempt Two Robberies in One Night California avenue, Allegheny, was entered by thieves last Saturday night, but they were overheard prowling about and frightened away by Mr. McAfee before securing any booty.

D. B. Oliver's residence on Wylie avenue, Allegheny, was also visited on the same night, but here also the maranders were frightened away and nothing was missed.

The police are keeping a sharp lookout for suspipious characters in this part of Allegheny, which is infested by a gang of sneak thieves.

Lamps and Superb China

Lamps and Superb China

Are shown by Cavitt & Pollock, at their beautiful exhibit on north aisle. It is a splendid collection of all that is newest and most fashionable in lamps, dinner, breakfast, fish and chamber sets in pure white and gold, of exceeding fineness; of cut glass table ware that is so brilliant that it makes your eyes blink when you look at it, nevertheless you keep gazing; brica-brac in all forms of bronze, bisque, and china, including the gems from Australia called Royal Hannover, with Japanese garden seats, flower vases, and umbrella stands thrown in as side issues. It would be impossible to find a prettier or more attractive display in the building than just this one, and the beauty of it is, that while the things are so fascinating to the eve, they are nearly all for practical use, a fact which the visitors appreciate and a sound reason for the admiration so freely expressed for this particular display. eran Legion Hall, on Sixth street, yesterday afternoon. The next meeting will be held at California, Pa. The following officers were elected: Frank S. Reeder, of Beaver, President; A. J. Pentecost, William H. Graham, S. J. Wilhide, William F. Graebe, E. F. Seamon, J. C. French, George McIntyre, Howard Morton, A. P. Russell, T. V. Dwyer and G. A. An Art Drapery Exhibit

An Art Drapery Exhibit

Is being shown at this time by Rosenbaum & Co., at the very satisfying display near center of main floor. Visitors get a whole series of lessons about "what is what" by carefully studying the points in these art work materials and completed articles in the same category. To day (Thursday) and yesterday were the two dates of the grand "millinery open gg" for this season, and it would be a wase, of time to attempt to depict the size of the crowds who went to Nos. 510 to 518 Market street to "assist" at this fashionable event. This firm proposes, as heretofore, to take and maintain the lead in this line of goods. Novelties of many descriptions were shown in others than the millinery department, such as wraps for ladies and children, jackets for the same, capes, and all sorts of handsome things in the way of furs. behavior, the urchin drew a bean shooter from his pocket and loading up with a leaden bullet, fired. The ball took effect in the left eye. The physicians had great difficulty in extracting the ball and express slight hopes of preserving the eyesight of the teacher. The boy is under arrest. Company and several more electric cars over the line yesterday afternoon between the horse cars. This will be continued for several days in order to "break in" the cars and machinery and give the employes a thorough training. Lemonade, Only Rival of Popcorn. Lemonade, Only Rival of Popcorn.

The warm weather of the past ten days has created a furore for lemonade, Baker's lemonade, and it is one of the sights of the Exposition to watch the people standing five and six deep for their chance to obtain some of the refreshing beverage. Even the numerous stands belonging to Mr. Baker are taxed to their utmost to keep up with the demand. The people drink that lemonade because it is good. If it were not, no matter what the temperature, they would let it severely alone. The popcorn is good, very good, and so are caramets, taffies and other candies. Jennie against William Novinsky, A. > Specialties in Iron Work. In the present Exposition the opportunity is afforded to inspect the practical valuable manufactures of Araylor & Dean. The snow here is principally of their wire products, which are of great variety and beauty, but for the big iron work it is necessary to go to the warehouse, 201-3-5 Market street, where will be shown the fire escapes, railings, cellar doors, crestings, stair-cases, etc. Messrs. Taylor and Dean invite you to call on them.

Mechanical Inventions The first exclamation of visitors to the annex, where the Oil Well Supply Co, has its exhibit, is, "how can all these tools and engines be used in drilling for gas, oil and water?" Each tool and implement has its distinct use and purpose and is a necessity in its way, from the powerful engines down to the apparently insignificant valves.

Photographic Art, As displayed by Mr. Dabbs in Art Gallery, is something to view with satisfaction, and this department is constantly surrounded by interested spectators. The new processes are wonderfully taking, especially the "sepia," which permits such a perfect finish and softness to be given to the work.

YESTERDAY'S UNFORTUNATES.

There was only one fatal accident yester-day. But several others of a serious nature occurred. Below is the list: Cazak-Nicholas Cazak, 40 years of age, and unmarried, a track walker on the West Penn Railroad, was struck by a train near

STATE ASYLUM ABUSES.

The Board of Charities Will Now Take

Hand in the Investigation. HARRISBURG, Sept. 23. — [Special.] — The Board of Public Charities will meet in this city to-morrow to investigate the charges recently preferred by the Committee on Lunacy against the management of the Har-risburg State Lunatic Hospital. The reports of the trustees declare the charges to be ab-solutely unfounded. The Committee on Lunacy, however, reports that his investiga-tion reveals the fact that the charges are all true. true.
The board will now take a hand in the investigation, and only sworn testimony will be admitted. Attorney General Hensel will be present during the investigation.

Little Criminal Business.

In Judge Kennedy's branch of the Criminal Court yesterday John Kelly and Charles N. lichards were tried for assault and battery on Patrick and Mary Cunningham. Augus on Fatrick and Mary Cunningham. August 15, on Boston street, Fourteenth ward. Kelly was acquitted and Richards convicted. William McLaughlin was tried for aggra-vated assault and battery on M. T. Murray, July 3. The affair happened on Washington street. McLaughlin was acquitted and the costs divided.

Another Keeper In It. The jail keeper whom Mrs. Clark testified efore the Investigating Committee as having attempted to put his arm about her was not Michael Price, as stated, but Keeper George McIntyre. Keeper Price says the statements of Mrs. Clark about his carrying messages are entirely wrong.

FIGURES FROM THE HEALTH REPORTS

A court official states that Judge Kennedy was partially paralyzed the other day by the length of the list of divorce applications presented him, although His Honor in years gone by has assisted in the unhaltering of a considerable number of couples. There are others who view with alarm the restlessness of some of those whom God is popularly supposed to join to-gether. Clerk Harry Armstrong's explanation that it is owing to the use of natural gas, fails at present, as people are getting in measure away from its use, in fact rapidly. His theory was that the use of this fuel relieved women of so much of the drudgery to which they had been accustomed tha their animal spirits led captive their reason and sense of moral responsibility and they became discontented with the humdrum of matrimony. Now that drudgery is again being laid on them.

A STRANGE DESIRE TO GET DIVORCED.

Possibly it is their inability to accustom themselves to the old order of things that is the cause of the present rush to avoid hymeneal responsibilities. It may be also that it is only a temperary epidimic that will come to an end as soon as the dog-day come to an end as soon as the dog-day weather is over. Certain it is that no so-ciologist encountered so far has any explanation on hand that fits the case.

Prothonotary Bradley has had his thinking cap on for some time, trying to figure out another problem that cludes his grasp so far. He is at a loss to explain why so many people are becoming insume. He way so far. He is at a loss to explain why so many people are becoming insane. He says the maindy is not confined to this country. He has been keeping an eye on the statistics of a considerable part of the country and finds that the increase is quite general. It is probable that the increase of the mental disease is caused by the high pressure under which people are living. A modest competence that would have satisfied most families in the first half of the century will not now support a single individual in the manner in which his tastes dictate and many minds are unbalanced in the attempt to manner in which his tastes dictate and many minds are unbalanced in the attempt to solve the problem of how to provide for superfluities, not absolute comforts. Gray heads on 35-year-old shoulders are more com-mon nowadays thun they were on those of 50 years, in the olden time, and the disease often goes deeper than the head thatch.

VERY FEW FOUNDLINGS REPORTED. But amid all this the Bureau of Health comes to the front with the comforting assurance that the number of foundlings is not increasing with the increase of population. It is true the record is not altogether satisfactory for a reason that read by presents itself to all intelligent and thinking people. The number of foundlings reported to the Bureau is only about 100 per annum in a population of over 250,000. The record, however, is not absolutely reliable, as it is notorious that midwives do not always fill out the records as completely as regular physicians do and County Commissioner Boyle states that there are many births in poverty stricken localities that are never reported at all to the Bureau, there being no physicians or even midwives in attendance. Mr. Boyle states that they discover this in the undertaking business, and frequently have much trouble in getting burial certificates in consequence. comes to the front with the comforting as
