BIG SHORTAGE IN THE HOME BOARD

Great Reform That Is Being Done by the

Church Abroad. COLORED METHODISTS IN SESSION

The second day's attendance at the First Synod of the West of the U. P. Church was for better than that of the previous day. Moderator J. C. Wilson held devotional exercises, after which the reports from the different institutions of learning which are under the jurisdiction of the Synod were heard and referred to the proper committees. The next half hour was given over to devotional exercises led by Rev. D. F. Mc-

The afternoon session was devoted to mission work. Rev. T. L. Scott, a mission. ary from India, made a short address. The work there is successful and, he says, is more appreciated than that done by other enominations. Special attention is paid to the conversion of children and the organization of young people into Sab-bath schools. The children, he said, are easy to interest and in time will, no doubt, evangelize the country. Psalm singing, as a specialty of the U. P. Church, has some of great interest to the natives, and is preferred to the hymns. The other decommations have taken hold of the psalm singing theory, and now hold that it causes better effect among the Eastern people than

MORE MONEY FOR HOME MISSIONS. Rev. Dr. W. S. Owens reported for the me mission work. He stated that every national airs were given by Cappa's Band. All the famous melodies were rendered to an accompaniment of applause that could hardly be restrained till the end of the number, and there were as many radiant faces as have ever been seen in the Exposition at any one time. The management had determined that Welsh day should be memorable, and the large audience that was present when the first notes of the concert ang out last night testified to the appreciation of the arrangements made for their benefit. The medley in which all the famous Welsh airs occurred was really beautiful. The other descriptive piece, "The Blacksmith in the Woods," however,

To-day the principal feature will be the playing of the "Battle of Gettysburg." Captain Hunt, with his Battery B boys, will be present, and there will be cannon animents to the music to render the accompaniments to the music to render the proper military effect to the composition. This will be the last performance of this famous piece of music at the Exposition this year, and it is safe to predict that there will be a very large attendance to-night. There is to be an excursion from Cincinnati on the 1st of October. The Exposition management considers this a great compliment, for Cincinnati is a long way off, and is a big city that can have an Exposition of its own if it wants it. It is considered that the fame of the Pittsburg Exposition must have spread further than was at first sup-posed. The rain that was desired for the sake of the Exposition has fallen, and the temperature in the halls was simply delight-

Which takes the place of the grand exhibit of the handsomest fur goods in this city, in-cludes, to-day, in their large case, a choice and varied collection of the most desirable styles for this season in ladies' fall and winter wraps in jackets, in the long 34 shapes; in the stylish military-cloth capes; in long carriage and traveling wraps, such as paletots and ulsters, and an unrivaled collection of ladies' costumes, for which this house is noted, both in imported and of domestic manufacture, suitable for all occasions, for street and house wear, ranging from the ordinary and neat traveling and house dress to the grand Paris confection, adapted in style and shades to full dress occasions.

The moderate prices on all these gar-ments will surprise all such customers as have been educated up to the false belief that everywhere high-class goods meant exorbitant prices.

Not the least attractive feature of this
