Operators Another Surprise.

Secretary Hall Says He Will Hold Out Until Next May.

NON-UNION PRINTERS COMING HERE

The miners of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois

are to be ordered out on a strike for eight hours. This action has not been definitely decided upon, but a member of the General Executive Board intimated before leaving Pittsburg on Wednesday evening that such a proposition would come before their meeting in Columbus, and that in all probability the miners of the three States would be ordered out before the end of the week. The following telegram received from Columbus last night explains the situation: The National Executive Board of the United Mine Workers began their quarterly session to-day. The members came here from the convention of river miners in the Pittsburg district. The board was in Pittsburg district. The board was in executive session all day, and had under consideration the eight-hour question. The eight-hour day was to have been inforced May 1, but for various reasons was declared off for a time. It was stated then that the craft had not receded from its position regarding the advantages of the eight-hour day, but it had been postponed to be taken up at some later date. It is believed that the time deemed opportune for demanding an eight-hour day in the mines throughout the country is very close, and that the present conference will definitely settle the date. This is strengthened by the fact that the board will, before adjournment, have reports from every District President in the country regarding the situation, as they country regarding the situation, as they have all been summoned to appear here Saturday and meet the Board for instruction.

ON THE STILL HUNT PLAN. It was learned last night that the officials the United Mine Workers have been working on this matter continuously since May 1, and while the operators and all others concerned were resting easy on the assumption that the miners would not be eard from for at least a year, the officers in assumption that the miners would not be heard from for at least a year, the officers in every district where the organization is represented were gathering statistics and information regarding the wages paid and the condition of the coal trade. All the time there were reports of bickerings and internal wrangling among the miners, and while the operators were being thrown off their guard by rumors that the miners were assuming a disorganized condition, they were on the other hand drawing up their lines and unifying their forces for a crisis that seems to have arrived.

About three weeks ago, Mr. Rea was quoted in an interview in The Disparcy that the miners would not wait on the Federation to dictate to them again when they should make a move for shorter hours. He also said at that time that when the miners would get ready to act the operators would not have such a long notice, or be given so much time as they had last spring in which to prepare to meet the demands. His prophecy has already come true in respect to the Pittsburg district, and the indications are that other operators are to be taken on short notice, just as the Pittsburg men were.

W. A. Carney, First Vice President of the Federation of Labor, said yesterday that Mr. Rae should not criticise the methods of the Federation, because the miners' repre-sentatives had requested that they be de-signated to make the eight-hour fight on May 1, 1891.

President Costello and Secretary McQuaid took up headquar-ters at 66 Third avenue yesterday, and were busy all day receiving reports from the va-"They want us to furnish names, do they?" said Mr. McQuaid, in answer to the statement made by the operators to the effect that if the miners could cite instances where there were any grievances, the operators would be brought before the Arbitration Committee, and if his books showed that the miners were entibooks showed that the miners were entitled to an advance they would be compelled coal for 4 cents and let the dealers sell it for

There are operators who are not paying the price. They go into the market and cut cases a conversation something like this took place between the spokesmen of the employes and the head of the various firms: Spokesman—Well, can we go up to work! Employer—Yes, your places are still open for you, if you want them.

Spokesman—At nine hours?

Employer—Yes, at the old scale.

This settled it. In many instances the printers had contemplated the result and removed from their shops everything belonging to them Wednesday evening. National Organizer Williams, who is in charge of the strike, is confident of winding. He says the printers are in condition to stand a long fight, while the opposition is not.

The employers talk very differently. Information was given out last night that about 200 printers and from six to eight pressmen will be in the city this morning. They will be distributed among the shops proportionately where jobs are most urgent. Other men will be here in a day or two and by the middle of next week everything will be running along smoothly. The association advertised in Philadelphia and other cities a few days ago and on Wednesday evening acents started for the West to look up men. A humorous incident occurred in connection with the strike at the Monongahela House. Eichbaum & Co. furnish a daily menu card for the hotel, but yesterday morning notified the hotel management that they could not get the card out. A representative of the hotel was about to hustle around to one of the newspaper offices to get the card "set-up," when he was informed that all the printers in the newspaper offices were union men and would not do that class of work while there was a strike on. In the meantime Eichbaum & Co. secured a few printers, set up the mena, and took the form to Percy Smith, where one pressman was on duty. Type-written menus were called into service at the hotel until the others were furnished.

AGREED UPON THE SCALE.

How the Sliding Agreement Has Worked at Homestead. The Homestead scale was agreed upon resterday, and $25 was decided upon as the basis of the scale for the next three months. This is the same as it was for the quarter just closing, and is considerably lower than it was during the early quarters of the scale's existence. At the expiration of the first six months, according to the agreement of December 30, 1889, all tonnage men received an advance of 16 per cent over their former rate; and at the expiration of the three months ending March 31, 1890, another advance of 10 per cent was obtained, making a total advance of 26 per cent over the rates paid at the $25.50 average basis of the quotations per ton of billets as specified in the agreement of July 15, 1889. Since then several reductions have occurred and still the men just closing, and is considerably lower ductions have occurred and still the me are ahead. The present agreement will ex-pire July 1, 1892.

Improvements on Old Methods-No Im ported Men Needed.

Edwin R. Jones, of Swissvale, has patented an improvement on the Moorewood tinning pot, which he claims will dispense with the service of one man. The pot is a combination of a tinning pot and rust pot. The plate is fed automatically into the flux and then carried by guides under the rolls and through the grewel. The capacity of this combined pot, according to Mr. Jones, would be 40 boxes of either tinned or terne plate

The diffit resolution, as adopted as above, is not the one offered by the committee, but is a substitute offered by Dr. Robinson. The original resolution on this subject recommended that Mr. Bausman continue in his present charge, and that judgment be suspended as to the dissolution of his concetion with the congregation until it should be demonstrated whether or not, by diligent study of the Scriptures and confession, he could not succeed in reconciling his interpretations and views with those taught by the Presbyterian doctrines. This resolution caused greater discussion than any other, and considerable feeling was aroused. The straightout Democrats of Allegheny county will have a full exclusively Democratic ticket in the field this fall. This state of affairs was brough about by about 300 oldme Democrat, and a boundless amount of enthusiasm at Lafayette Hall last night. Mixed in with the audience and the enthusiasm was a long-drawn fight, lasting over two hours, which ended in the ap pointment of a committee of 21 to nominate a full ticket. The action of the Presbytery was consided by the most of those present as ving a tendency to bring about a speedy dissolution of Mr. Bausman's storate. Mr. Bausman's position is clearly monstrated by the remark made by him sterday. "I do not accent the doctrine of Chairman Keyser, in taking the chair, remarked: "There are now really three parties. They induced her to drink some beer, and while under its influence she went to the county buildings, got the ficense and was married. I believe that if to night we nominate a ticket of straightout Democrats, not allies of Chris Magee's ring, it will win. We can put up such men as Patterson, Leasure and Alcorn for Judges, and such a man as O'Brien or Reardon for District Attorney. Still, I don't know but that it would be well to let the rascals fight it out themselves. l certainly will not vote for the straightout Republican ticket or the original rotten Republican ticket. Charles A. O'Brien then spoke as follows:
"Had the Democracy been a party of expediency instead of one of principle we would not have a Governor and a Democratic Congress. A non-partisan judiciary is impossible. The confidence of the Governor has been grossly abused when he was made believe the men he appointed were non-partisan. You know who named W. D. Porter. [And a dozen voices named "Chris Magoe."] Who would have believed that with the Republican party divided the Democrats would not have nominated a ticket, especially when the vinifier and traducer of John H. "Whence came this idea that there is no whence came this idea that there is no use to bominate because there is no certainty of winning. Did it come with years, and is this the year it reached Pittsburg?"
William Walls talked next and pulled so many fail teathers from the eagle with his oratory that a feather brush had to be brought in to save the noble bird from becoming bald.

A PROHIBITION RALLY. Ex-Governor St. John Addresses an Audience at Silver Lake Grove-Some of the Arguments He Advances-What He Proposes to Do. About 500 people assembled at the opening of the Prohibition campaign in the twin cities last evening at Silver Lake Grove by ex-Governor John P. St. John, of Kansas. The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. George W. Chalfant, of the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church, after which George H. Garber was nominated for Chairman and the following gentlemen for Vice Presidents: Thaddens Steutzel, L. T. Yoder, John R. Bush, Rev. Mr. Stevens, L. L. The gentlemen were all given seats on the platform, after which the Chairman presented the speaker of the evening, Hon. John P. St. John, who said that the reason why they could not reach the great mass of the people was due to ignorance and prejudice, and that they were in league with both the Democratic and Republican parties. both the Democratic and Republican parties.

"I would venture to assert," said he, "that is not one in a hundred of either party in Allegheny county who ever see a prohibition paper, therefore they cannot help being ignorant on this great question. The prejudice comes from those who are interested in the business, and are hard to fight, but with the help of God we will win. Just think of it! There are 200,000 saloons in this country, which, if placed side by side, with an average width of 22 feet, would reach 850 miles, over whose counters are spent annually over $1.280,000,000, to say nothing of the 150.000 lives that are lost, the misery that it brings, the crime and vice it creates, and the souls that are lost through this great evil.

They say this is a land of liberty, of the people, for the people, and by the people. It is not so. Why, a man cannot even make for himself a little beer or set up a small tin still to make a little bit of whisky for medicinal purposes for his own use, but the Government pounces down on him for its share in the way of a tax, and you call that liberty! Why, in these days a man can't kick even his own dog but the Humane Society gets after him. You can't shoot birds at certain seasons of the year, and the buzzard not at all.

"What we want is something to protect our boys from this growing evil. If it comes to that, which would you rather save—the dog, the buzzard or the boy? Why, the boy, of course. We want a government to protect the boys, not dogs, or buzzards, or tin plate, or wool, if it be on the hide or not."

THE VISITING DEMOCRATS. They Are Slow to Leave Pittsburg and Are Delighted With Their Entertainment-

Last Night's Work and Pleasure, Chiefly the Latter. The air of Pittsburg is still laden with Democracy. But few of the Democrats who attended the convention of clubs in this city Wednesday have as yet returned to their homes. They all seem delighted with Pittsburg and her hospitality, and fully 1,500 of them have postponed their going until this morning.

Last night Chairman Kerr and W. J. Brennen addressed a house full of Pemocrats at the George R. McClellan Club, of Lawrence-ville. Local lights talked to a crowd at the County Democracy's headquarters, and the County Democracy's headquarters, and the landall Club gave a musical entertainment and lineh to all comers. Fatal Accident on the Duquesne Traction Road Yesterday. The first fatal accident on the Duquesne Traction road, since Chief Brown's order to stop at crossings, occurred yesterday after-noon. Katie McCormick, 8-years-old, on her way home from school yesterday evening got on a market wagon going out Forbes got on a market wagon going out Forbes street with some others. At Moultrie street the children began to jump off, and car No, 3s on the Duquesne Traction line was coming along in the same direction. Katie jumped from the wagon and fell across the track in front of the car. Owing to the steep grade it was impossible to stop the car until it had completely passed over her body, mangling it horribly. Death was instantaneous.

The body was taken to the home of the parents in the rear of No. 508 Forbes street. Motorman James Beatty, and D. F. Culhane, a new man learning the road, and who had charge of the motor, were arrested. They were taken to Central station and released afterward on bail furnished by the Traction Company. The Ceroner will hold an inquest to-day.

There is a decrease of 188 deaths, 612 having been recorder during August. The deaths for last month were not caused by any particular disease, diphtheria being slightly in the lead, but not enough to cause any uneasiness. for September.

AFTER THE OLD SITE.

The opening of Pittsburg's new postoffice has already had a marked effect on the condition of affairs in this vicinity. The great streams of humanity that day after day surged about the old, black building at Fifth and Smithfield have turned their steps toward the new attraction. The southern portion of Smithfield street was crowded with people hurrying to and from the postoffice. Business in that part of town was on the boom. Several gentlemen who frequent the street most of the day said they saw thousands of strange faces. Lively Fifth avenue has lost considerable of its patronage, and from this time on will have a very popular rival. But the change can only result in good all around, dividing the crush that has heretofore made one or two entral streets uncomfortable for pedestrians. Hundreds of people yesterday absent-mindedly walked up to the old postoffice to deposit or receive mail. They were met with sealed doors and the deririve hoots of a little army of street urchins, who derived great sport out of their forgetful elders. THE OLD BUILDING'S FUTURE. Everybody is speculating on the disposal of the old structure. The Government will have no more use for the place after the new building is entirely completed. As a business location it has scarcely an equal in the city, and already a dozen or more wealthy firms and individuals have bid for it. One man is after it for a site for a the ater. Several parties desire to secure the ater. Several parties desire to secure the location for the erection of a big hotel. Others are anxious to convert it into an office building. One of the largest merchant firms in the city would like to open a mammoth store there. Still others want the place for various purposes and its final disposal will be hotly contested. Amounts varying from $600,000 to $800,000 have been offered. $00,000 to $800,000 have been offered.

According to Assistant Custodian Colville the Government will have to retain possession of the building for over a year at least. A special act of Congress will be necessary, authorizing the sale, and appraisors will have to be appointed to fix a value below which it cannot be sold. Until July 1, 1892, the building will be fully occupied. The new building will not be finished before that date and until then all the Federal offices, except the postoffice, will be quartered in the old one. They will all be moved at the same time.

The Fifth avenue side of the old postoffice will be used by United States Revenue Collector Warmeastle. Surveyor of Customs Dravo has moved into the old money order department and postmaster's office. The mailing room has been taken for appraisers' stores, formerly located at the old recruiting station. station, at Penn avenue and Garrison avenue. The United States Court, United States District Attorney and other occupants of the upper floors will remain as they are until all are ready to move to their new quarters next summer.

OPENED WITH A HOUSEWARMING. Postmaster McKean, Assistant Postmaster Edwards, Assistant Custodian Colville and others connected with the office had all they could do yesterday to shake hands, receive the compliments and make themselves agreeable. During the day 50,000 people inspected the new apart-ments. Half as many more were there in the evening. While the whole office was the subject of close scrutiny the beautiful private apartments of the Postmaster received special attention. The rooms were full of flowers and plants and were admired by everybody.

Postmaster McKean has received letter and telegrams of congratulation from President Harrison, Private Secretary Halford, Postmaster General Wannanaker, Marshall Cushing, of the Postoffice Department; Second Assistant Postmaster General J. Lowrie Bell. Superintendent of Money Orders at Washington C. F. Macdonald, Hon. A. B. Nettleton, of the Treasury Department; Assistant Washington C. F. Macdonaid, Hon. A. B. Nettleton, of the Treasury Department; Assistant Secretary of the Treasury L. Crounse, Secretary of the Treasury Foster, Commissioner of Customs S. V. Holliday, Hon. F. W. Smith, Hon. Fred N. Stokes, of the Treasury Department; Hon. J. B. Foraker, Governor Pattison, Frank Hatton, Hon. J. D. Cameron, Superintendent of Railway Mail Service R. C. Jackson, of New York; Superintendent of Railway Mail Service A. Burt, of Cincinnati; Third Assistant Postmaster General A. D. Hazen, Chief of Salary and Allowance Division Albert H. VISITORS FROM CINCINNATI

Take in the Exposition and Greatly Enjoy

All They Sec. The Exposition was crowded yesterday, there being at least 4,000 strangers in the city on the various railroad excursions. The people came from Cincinnati and other points, and that they enjoyed the big show at the Point was evidenced by the way they applauded the music and the close attention they gave to the various exhibits. It was French day, and the favorite airs of La Belle France echoed and re-echoed through the hall in the finest style of Cappa's Orchestra

"The Marseillaise" and "Boulanger March" were the favorites, and they are to be re-peated to-day in response to numerous remests.
Friday is always classical day. That is the orchestra renders selections from the works of the great masters, and keeps popularairs in the respectable minor-ity. The inmates of all orphans' homes and charitable institutions are invited to attend the Exposition on any morning except Saturday. October 14th is to be Royal Arcanum day, when it is expected the members of the order will turn out in large numbers to make their celebration a success. Only a little over two weeks more of the Exposition for 1891 remain.

A Servant Spoils a Home. The Humane Society will to-day notify Seorge Richardson, of 245 Juniata street, Allegheny, to take better care of his wife. Agent Berryman who investigated the case Agent Berryman who investigated the case says Richardson took $1,600 from his wire and gave it into the keeping of the pretty servant. Mrs. Richardson also told him that her husband refused to give any explanation, and soon after gave her a beating. She also says her husband is now spending all his money outside and not giving her proper attention.

Investing City Money. Controller Morrow is reducing the city surplus, represented by the sinking fund, rapidly. On September 14 he reported to Councils that already in that month he had invested $150,000 of the sinking fund money in city bonds of various issues. Since that time, during September, he has invested $200,000 more, making the September investments $550,000.

The U. P. Synod, which has been in session at the First U. P. Church, Allegheny, concluded its session yesterday afternoon. The entire forenoon was taken up discussing the appeal of Rev. J. R. Wallace from the action f Lake Presbytery. The discussion was animated and participated in by a large part of the membership, but was devoid of feeling. The argument used by Mr. Wallace's friends was, that if the action of the Presbytery was sustained, Mr. Wallace would suffer an irreparable injury. When the vote was nken Mr. Wallace was sustained, and now it is optional with him whether he continues to serve the Jamestown congregation or whether he resigns. In case he continued it is not unlikely the church will divide, and those opposed to him will leave the congre-gation.

those opposed to him will leave the congregation.

There was nothing other than routine business transacted. It was decided to meet again on the last Wednesday of August, 1892, at Conneant Lake, and the Synod resolve itself into a Chautauqua Institute. Revs. N. E. Brown, H. H. Hervey, J. A. Balley, D. G. Snodgrass, W. R. Wilson, E. M. Shontz and Miss Bella Dennis were appointed to arrange for the institute, and Revs. John S. McKee, J. J. Porter, J. C. Wilson, D. F. McGill and N. E. Brown to prepare a programme. The records of the various Presbyteries were examined and approved. A vote of thanks was passed to the people of Allegheny for their kindness and entertainment. The Synod then adjourned.

The hearing in the Amoskeag case was no held yesterday. It will probably be resumed next week and possibly finished. A LONG JOURNEY

After a Pair of Artificial Legs.

That Pittsburg has superior facilities for farnishing artificial limbs and that her productions in this line are appreciated in all sections is shown by the fact that Mr. F. B. Flanders, of Gofftown, N. H., is in the city, having come from his home via Boston, New York and Philadelphia to be fitted with a pair of artificial limbs. The Artificial Limb Co., 909 Penn avenue, are doing the work.

outlook is for a good fall and winter trade in the coal business, and the operators can't afford to lose it. They won't lose it, that's ali. The gas is declining and people must have coal. If the miners all strike the operators will be compelled to pay the price. Of course, the consumer will eventually pay it. It won't make any difference to the operator."

When Mr. Hall was seen yesterday he insisted that the operators wanted to be fair in their treatment of the miners. They want in their treatment of the miners. They want to live up to the agreement of May 2 in every particular, and if the miners can prove any of their claims the arbitration committee will see that justice is done to all concerned. "I have been misrepresented," said he, "in one or two things. The operators are not in a bad predicament. We want to stand by the present agreement, and will stand by it, whether our mines are operated or not. We cannot afford to grant the advance asked for and we will not grant the advance asked for and we will not do so. The following was received from West Newton last night: "The miners of the Yough district will hold a mass meeting on Saturday, at Scott Haven, to act on the 13-cent advance asked by the Pittsburg district. The general view of all the mines is that the Pittsburg advance will be insisted upon. At the mines at Dravo 200 men went out this morning."
