COMPLIMENTS FOR THE GAS CITY.

Numerous Orders for Fine Carriages Sent to Pittsburgh Nowadays From All Over the World.

Chairs Remembered by Reporters and Retailers Reading on Sunday.

Sitting in a down-town cafe yesterday, at lunch, was a Jerseyman. A DISPATCH reporter sat opposite him. The gentleman from Jersey gave his order and settled back in the chair in an anticipatory mood, awaiting fulfillment. A plate of fruit adorned the center of the table. He picked out an ordinary peach from the bunch and held it up scrutinizingly before the reporter.

"How much do peaches like that sell for a basket here?" he asked.

"About 80 cents," he replied.

He chuckled and carelessly back into the dish, and smiled lazily.

"You can buy them for 10 cents a crate down here I come from."

This was the opening for the reporter, and he inquired where this Utopian place that luscious fruit could be purchased so cheaply.

"N. J., and his name was Aaron Hart, and his business was a lumber dealer. He was a plain looking, reserved sort of man, dressed in a negligee way, but his conversation told him to be a shrewd and close observer of men and things.

A GREAT DRUG ON THE MARKET.

"Why," said he, "that grade of peaches would not be saleable down here. It looks like a walnut, and the chances are when it is shipped it will be lost. You folks out here don't get the good and true Jersey peach, because when they are ripened ready for picking it is impossible to ship them further than New York and Philadelphia. The crop has been enormous this season, and lucky is the man who got out financially on his product. As an instance to show how 'drugged' the market was, a friend of mine sent me 15 crates of peaches to a fruit dealer in Fulton market, New York, to sell for him. He could not keep them at the orchard because they would spoil. He waited for his check from the dealer, and when he received it it amounted to the non-existent sum of 80 cents. This seems incredible, but it is absolutely true. The fruit dealer in New York could not dispose of all of them and they had to be dumped into the East river."

"What will be the production of peaches this season in New Jersey?" questioned the reporter.

"About 7,000,000 bushels. Only the half of these will be used for table purposes, not to say anything of the loss caused by spoiling. The remainder will go to the preserving and canning establishments.

SOMETHING ABOUT PEACH TREES.

"Peach trees are not worth anything after they have borne fruit five years. The product then becomes practically tasteless, and the owner usually cuts down the tree and replants. Out in this country I notice you use them as shade trees."

At this juncture the water served for the luncheon. Among the dish dishes was a sweet potato. Mr. Hart touched it with his fork, remarking, "There's another of our products. We have four great and grand growing industries down our way—peaches, sweet potatoes, oysters and sand. In the latter we excel."

The gentleman is a Republican, and referring quietly to politics in New Jersey he said, "I have just come up from Cincinnati."

"I have just come up from Cincinnati," he continued, and it looks very much McKinley down there."

He drew from his pocket one of the Ohio tickets, which was as large as a blank.

A REGULAR BLANKET-SHEET TICKET.

"What do you think of that?" opening it up and displaying the names of all the candidates on the four tickets, Democrat, Republican, Prohibition and People's.

"Why, a man might as well vote a paper as large as the DISPATCH. It would keep me from voting at all."

"How is the lumber business?"

"Quiet, very quiet. The people have got ahead of themselves building, and there is little demand at present for supplies. You have a great town here; its improvement since I last visited is well worth a paper as large as the DISPATCH. It would keep me from voting at all."

MODERN PICTURES PREFERRED.

The Old Masters Are Neglected Nowadays for Newer Work.

C. S. Date, a New York art dealer, was at the DISPATCH yesterday. He says that the 30 per cent duty on imported pictures does not prevent buyers from investing their money in French and English works, even when such pictures are as good as new.

In the case of steel engravings, especially line engravings, the French and English artists were very superior to the American, very much so. The artists in this work being found in this country. Public taste nowadays runs in the direction of line engravings, mezzotints and water color drawings. To the exclusion of the copies of the old masters. His home, he said, had a Titians copied abroad by a well-known artist, but there was no sale for it. He knew of another house which had old masters stored in their garrets.

There was also a good market for fine sheet engravings, but they were not made in this country. They could be printed here as well as they were abroad, but the superiority could not be obtained.

SUGARS AND STARCH.

The Annual Demand for the Former Run the Stocks Down.

"The demand for sugars has been greater in the past six months than was ever known," so said H. P. Dilworth, the commission broker, yesterday. "Just at present, however, the buyers are waiting for lower prices, but reports from all over the country show the stock to be low, and this will necessitate an unusual activity in the market with large sales at good quotations. In Chicago the scarcity of cars prevents the shipment of the sweet staple East, but we hope this will be remedied."

Mr. Dilworth leaves for Washington today to close a contract with a mammoth starch manufacturing just completed. This concern will make starch for lower prices, new process. Heretofore this essential article to the laundry has been manufactured from the rough corn, the germ being allowed to remain unremoved. Under the new invention all the deleterious qualities are eliminated, and the pure white extract of the cereal is produced. There are certain in-

PITTSBURGH'S FINE CARRIAGES.

A Demand That Has Been Accelerated by the Opening of Schenley Park.

Few persons in Pittsburgh, perhaps, are aware that this city is only second to New York in the manufacture of fine carriages and other road vehicles. In a talk with one of the members of L. Gleason & Son, he informed THE DISPATCH that orders were received from every part of the United States for carriages of a superior quality and style. It is not confined to this country, either, as many orders from Europe are on the books of this firm. Even Japan is adopting the American idea of vehicles, and no less than a dozen fine coaches and landaus are being rolled the streets of Yokohama of Pittsburgh manufacture.

Since Schenley Park opened its gates, the local demand for fine carriages has materially increased. Pittsburghers are not tardy in adopting a new thing, and the fact is daily demonstrated that their ideas are becoming more metropolitan in regard to the coaches, landaus, F. cars and buggies. Schenley Park has been the means of bringing about a new era in the manufacture of vehicles in Pittsburgh.

A TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Paid by Newspaper Men to the Memory of the Late James Rattigan.

A meeting of newspaper men who had known James Rattigan was held at the Press Club yesterday afternoon. C. E. Locke was elected Chairman on motion of W. E. Gutelius, and George H. Welshons was designated as Secretary. The Chairman was instructed to appoint a committee to prepare a tribute to the memory of deceased, and named as Secretary, Treasurer John N. Neel and G. E. Muller. The following was adopted:

It is with sincere sorrow that we, the co-workers of James Rattigan, learn of his death. Known to all as a man of high character, his untimely passing is a great loss to the community. We extend to his bereaved family our sincere sympathy.

It was then resolved that a committee attend the funeral services to be held today at the Church of the Sacred Heart.

Thornton Bros.

This is our fifth year in drug goods business in Allegheny. Since the first day we opened our store there has been a continual crowd of buyers. How do you account for such a rush of business? Is it because we treat our customers with politeness or because we cut all prices made elsewhere? It must be the latter, or both. It is a well known fact that the lowest prices are the best. We are here to stay, and the firm that can lead them elsewhere is not doing business in this city.

WATER WORKS WANTED.

By the Residents of Neville Island—The Secrecy of Gas Supplying a Metropolitan Innovation—How the Valuable Fluid Is Now Used.

Neville Island, which is also Neville township, is about to have not only water works but to enjoy the luxury of a bonded indebtedness—a thing which so near-by and yet so far-sighted locality has never enjoyed during the century, more or less, of its civilized autonomy.

Mr. Pitcock, who manages the natural gas company that supplies the island with gas, has heretofore used himself and sold to the residents of the island with which to run their engines which lift water to water their ground. It is not used as fuel, but in the cylinders of the engines instead of steam. As gas is a more efficient fuel, it becomes more costly, at least to the purveyor, consequently Mr. Pitcock no longer cares to furnish it, it being worth more for fuel, and proposes that the waterworks be erected instead, as cheaper and more effective and less liable to failure, as it is possible the gas pressure may become too weak in most times.

The proposition seems so acceptable that it is more than likely all the people on the island will be "in it" within a few days. Mr. Kerr and John Wesley Brown stated yesterday that they thought operations would be commenced very soon.

It is proposed to have an iron tank built on the Fleming property, south of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railway, opposite the head of the island, on an eminence sufficient to give the requisite pressure and pump the water to the island. The water will be laid the entire length of the island and people will pay for the use of water, either by meter or according to the size of the irrigated area. The waterworks are not intended to be used for either drinking or cooking, as the islanders have excellent wells in which the river water is filtered through gravel and sand, and the cost of tank and pipe is comparatively little.

AGAINST THE CONVENTION.

The Allegheny County Bar Association Passes Resolutions Condemning the Convention—It Sees No Reason Why One Should Not Be Held.

The regular meeting of the Bar Association was held yesterday. Judge McClung presided and E. Y. Breck noted as Secretary. H. L. Goehring and J. Koethen, Jr., were elected to membership. A portrait in oil of the late Orlando Metcalf was presented to the association by Mrs. Mary C. Bruce. The presentation speech was made by W. R. Negley. E. M. Magee presented a portrait of the late William McKim and Hon. J. W. Over. The presentation address was made by E. Y. Breck.

C. C. Dieck presented the following resolutions, which were adopted: WHEREAS, The Legislature of this State has passed an act for the purpose of submitting to the people the question of calling a constitutional convention; and

WHEREAS, After a series of decisions by the courts during a period of nearly 20 years, the provisions of our present Constitution have been interpreted in a manner which has been established; and

WHEREAS, The present Constitution is adapted to the needs of the people, and the people of the State, without the aid and expense of a Constitutional Convention.

Resolved, That in the judgment of the Allegheny County Bar Association, it is contrary to the interests of the people of the State that such a convention should be called, and the association recommends to the voters of the State that the question of calling a constitutional convention be voted negative at the polls at the election in November next.

WON ON HIS MERITS.

Inspector John McAleese Chosen Warden of the County Jail.

ELECTED ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

He Will Assume the Duties of His New Position To-Morrow.

MUCH GOSSIP ABOUT HIS SUCCESSOR.

Police Inspector John McAleese was yesterday elected Warden of the county jail at the regular monthly meeting of the Prison Board. The choice of Mr. McAleese was not a surprise, as it was expected, though some people did not expect his majority to be so overwhelming, as several of the candidates were men of influence and two of them, Smith and Gang, were men of large experience in jail management. The vote stood 9 to 4, the latter votes being cast for Leon J. Long, a clerk in the Clerk of Courts' Office. Although McAleese is a stalwart Republican it does not appear that politics had anything to do with the selection.

The meeting was held in room No. 2 of the Common Pleas, Judge Ewing presiding. The monthly bills were first acted upon, and then the election of a Warden was considered. The candidates were Leon J. Long, A. W. Smith, Felix C. Negley, S. B. Chaley, William H. Garry and John McAleese. But one vote was taken, McAleese getting 9 and Long 4 votes. The members of the board do not tell how they voted.
