New YORK, Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Charles Reid, the proprietor of the Fairview stud, Gallatin, Tenn, electrified the 1,000 persons

t Tattersall's to-night when the last draft of the Hon. August Belmont's thorough bred race horses were sold, by bidding $100,000 for the famous sire St. Blaise, son of Hermit and Fusee. This is by a long ways the highest price ever paid for a thorough-bred stallion in a ring sale, and Mr. Reid, bred stallion in a ring sale, and Mr. Reid, who was determined to have the horse to head his stud, bid his limit at the outset. For months speculation has been rife as to what St. Blaise would bring, conservative judges placing the price at anywhere from $50,000 to $75,000. St. Blaise is a rich, dark chestant with a narrow white blaze on his face, both his rear legs being whi e nearly to the knee and hock, while the coronet of his hind foot has a band of white about it. He stands about 16 hands and half an inch. When St. Blaise entered the ring the auctioneer took his hat off and sat saluting him as king of earth.

"Gentlemen, what do I hear?"
Someone cried, "Fifty thousand dollars,"
"I am bid $100,600," was the triumphant cry.
Mr. Reid was the bidder.
"It is the most sporty bid the world has ever known. It has stopped you all" cried Mr. Easton. There was dead silence in the vast assemblage. The bids were stopped and the king of stallions was knocked down to Mr. Reid.

During the entire sale the stallions, brood mares, weanlings, yearlings, 2-year-olds, and horses in training brought more than $625,-600. Yearlings sold for $30,000 and weanlings commanded $7,500. The sale has occupied three days, December 27 of last year and Friday and Saturday. October 16 and 17, 1891.

He undoubtedly has offers from Association clubs in his pocket. The Athletics are after "Bug" Holliday, and Billy Rhines has also been approached. The latter is not anxious to get into Association company, and he pressed President Brush to answer one question, viz.: "If I sign with you is it to play in the League or the Association?"

He was assured that it was League, and then he significantly observed: "I want to stay in first-class company."

"You see, Drs. Copeland and Hall had cured my son, Frank Hennemann, of a bad case of catarrh over a year ago, and he stayed cured. PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. BRADFORD, Oct. 17 .- Though the excitement following the poisoning of fully 80 lady delegates to the State Convention of the W. C. T. Some of the delegates were taken down immediately after dinner, but not until 4 o'clock were the full effects of the poison manifest. Physicians gart were retired. Miller came with a single to center, and Steen allowed the ball to get past him, and both Hanion and Miller scored. Hitting and errors netted four more runs in the inning. In the sixth three more runs were made, and then Thompson went in to pitch. Thompson was thumped hard, and he gave seven bases on balls. There was a large attendance at to-day's session. Most of the delegates who were taken ill yesterday have sufficiently recovered to be again in attendance. The sessions were of purely a business nature. Mrs. Jones announced that she had a letter from Mrs. Washburn, the cateress, which she thought would clear up the mystery of the sudden illness of the delegates yesterday. The communication stated that a portion of the pressed chicken served at dinner yesterday had been boiled in a boiler having a new copper bottom. It was decided by resolution that the ladies would take dinner with Mrs. Washburn to-day, thus exonerating her from any blame.

Changes in the constitution were considered; the first amendment proposed that the basis of representation be reduced, allowing one delegate for every 75 members, but was lost. The next amendment was carried. It was to the effect that the words "informal ballot" by struck from Article XI., and made to read, "The officers shall be elected by ballot," etc.

The report of the State Headquarters was received. There are at the present time 17, 000 members in the State, which allows for 300 delegates in the convention. Of this number 289 are present.

AFTER EFFECTS OF LA GRIPPE. A Word of Warning and a Word of Counsel-The Proper Time.

Before the winter with its la grippe and pneumonia comes on, those who are subject to the catarrhil conditions which excite and provoke those diseases should see to it that every trace of the disease is eradicated. Those who suffered last winter from la grippe for the second or third time were invariably the most serious sufferers. If many of these people had last autumn thoroughly removed from their systems the catarrhal conditions in which the first attack of la grippe left them, much suffering might have been avoided. It is a pressing duty that devolves on every man, woman and child who has been subject to this disorder to see that the result, the catarrhal condito see that the result, the catairhal condition that it leaves, is thoroughly cired, while the conditions of elimate are favorable and a cure is possible.

Catairh is often the condition that in the first place invites and causes La Grippe. It is the condition La Grippe leaves behind, inviting fresh attacks, making, as it were, a home for itself for next season.

This is the proper time to take special treatment for La Grippe and itsafter-effects, such as masal catairh, bronchitis, incipient consumption and chronic coughs, as the acute inflammatory symptoms have given away iong since to the sub-acute and chronic forms.

Results of the Trotting Events at Lexington-General Sporting News of the Day.

It is a very long time since there was such an exciting football game in or about Pittsburg as that of yesterday at Recreation Park. The contest was between the Pittsburg team and the Homesteads, both of the Association League, and it was a championship game. There were about 600 people present, and the best kind of Association football was seen. The home players were beaten, although they played with great skill and remarkable pluck. But there were two elements, and very important ones, that contributed aimost entirely to the home defeat. One was the fact of the Homestead team being much | The Harvard Team Think They Bave Plenty stronger than they were when they played a tie with the McKeesports on the 10th, and the other cause was the fact that the home team had three of their best players absent. This was A VERY FOOLIST THING on the part of the Pittsburgs, particularly when they had such a strong lot as the smestends to tackle. It was an experiment and it was a bad one. The Pittsburgs will need all the cames they can get to win the penuact, and at all times they should have eir strongest team on the field. The umpires were: For Pittsburg Harry Penn, and for Homestead J. Ferguson. Fred Goodwyn was referse and he did extremely well, not one of his decisions being complained of. favor of the Homesteads.

The second half had not proceeded far be fore the Pittsburgers scored by Wardle send ing the ball beautifully post the Homestead goal keeper. The home players then braced up, and played as if they were going to eat the visitors up. They continually had the ball close to their opponents goal, and some of the most remarkable kicks were made to score but bales who had cheeper of the control of the most remarkable with the control of t core, but Isles, who had charge of the innestead cori, was determined that nothaz more should pass him. He played bril-iantly and stopped some of the most skillinntly and stopped some of the most skill-ul kicks seen in Pittsburg. It was, without Joubt, his playing at this stage that gained the day for Homestead. The Pittsburgers the day for Homestead. The Pittsburgers tried and tried until they were weary, and they could not get the ball past Isles. The home players then somewhat weakened and the visitors without much trouble got the ball to the Pittsburg end. In a short time two more goals were recorded in favor of Homestead, and when time was called the score stood Homestead, 2. Pittsburg, 1.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 17 .- [Special.]-The most important game of the season so far was played this afternoon between Harvard and Williams, and the former won by a score of only 25 to a. The game was important, beand comparsions are always significant. In this case they were odious for Harvard. Capitain McClurg, of the Yale eleven, who was a spectator of the game, smiled in his sleeve as he saw the weakness of the Harvard center, and the successful working by Williams of her little 'criss-cross' tricks. It was the most terrible severe game that he was the most terribly severe game that has been seen on Jerris field this season. Three men were disqualified for singging, and the Williams men especially took every opportunity of showing their spite by hitting and foul tackling.

IN VERY BAD FORM.

Yale's Football Team Sadly Out of Condition for the Approaching Contests. NEW HAVEN, Oct. 17 .- [Special.]-The Yale football team has had a full month's practice and are now at a standstill. With accidents to Captain McClung and his side partner Bliss, Hefflefinger's indisposition, and Mills' sprained ankle, little advancement has been nade during the past ten days. The excellent work done early in the season has faded into almost nothing, and it is doubtful if the university team could to-day make a better showing against the freshman eleven than it did against Stagg's team last Wednesday. In that game Van Leuren showed remarkable power, and many a Yale man, wished that he could in some way find a place on Yale's eleven. The team is also in an unsettled condition. Stanford Morrison's failure to appear and take his place in the rush line has kept the position of right guard a doubtful quantity and the men, including Beard, who have done good work have simply played with the idea men, including Beard, who have done good work, have simply played with the idea that on Morrison's return to college they would be returned to the ranks, which means the privilege to play on the "college side" and endure the brunt of hard work forced on the "Varsity." CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Oct. 17 .- [Special.]-The daily practice of Harvard football candidates is showing two or three triings which has been somewhat apparent from the start. They are that the eleven is oing to be strong back of the rush line, in fact very strong, but wofully weak in the center of the center of the line. To-day the team showed better football in the game against Williams than it had been capable of until now. The raw material which had only been used in the rough until this week is now being put through a course of sprouts, which is de-veloping the men into some sort of players.

Captain Trafford has 20 men at the training table.

Much is being said and written about the probability of Harvard and Princeton playing a game this iall. The feeling here is that for Harvard men the game with Yale is the great event of the year. They do not believe in playing Princeton before they play Yale, and running the risk of losing valuable men by injury. They do not think that after Thanksziving Day, when Yale and Princeton play, it will be possible to arrange a game, and the season will be too late if extended to that date at any rate. Though no final arrangements have as yet been made for the Harvard and Yale game, it is among the students considered as an *Captains.
