An address was made by T. Harry David, President of the local assembly at Philadelphia. This order is a general church organization and was started in Chicago by James Houghtiling as a local organization, but has since ex-tended all over America. The are 650 chapters in this country and 50 in Canada. The organization is also to be carried into Brit-ish Honduras. Its object is to do Christian work among young men. The national con-vention is to be held in St. Louis on October 22. A big meeting will also be held here in St. Andrew's Church on October 27.

The Monongabela House last night looked like the machinery hall of a world's fair. Electric appliances and street railway fixtures of every design were displayed throughout the corridors, in private rooms and wherever an available corner could be

To-day the exhibits to be made on the steamboats Mayflower and J. M. Gusky will be placed in position. Tracks will also be placed along the wharf at the foot of Smithfield street, and cars of various designs placed on exhibition. The members of the association will not commence coming to the city until to-day.

All Pleased With Pittsburg. A number of the supply men were taken through the city yesterday by local street car mon. They were all well pleased with Pittsburg, and during the evening gathered in groups about the hotel corridors to talk shout the city's wonders. Among the most enthusiastic was H. I. Carill of the enthusiastic was H. L. Cagill, of the Thomson-Houston Company, who is stopping at the Duquesne. "Pittsburg is the throwing a stone into a store on Webster advance guard of civilization," he said.

"I never saw such energetic people," he continued; "their faces bear the evidences of determination and push and every action of the average Pittsburger shows him to have some object in life and the ability to carry it out. Take C. L. Magee for instance; a man who is the embodiment of nineteenth century energy. When he walks along the street he sees everything; his countenance shows that he is watching all the movements of the shuffling crowd, and they tell me that he is never known to pass a man he knows without recognizing im. It is the same with all the leading men. They are not cynical, as the people in speculative Chicago. They are not exacting in formality, although the society in the city is recognized in New York as being of the best, and in every way human- day, ity is placed on a high plane.

Marvelous in Its Manufactories, "It is a marvelous city in a manufacturing way, having all the natural products at hand, and to me it seems like the trip-hammer that shapes the products of the world for other hands to finish "The first thing that attracts a stranger's eve is the numerous crowds on the streets Last night I noticed that every down-town pavement was filled like a convention hall. But still I found no trouble in getting through. I just got close to the cont-tails of a Pittsburger who was going my way, and he cleared the path. It seems to me that, with the exception of New York and Chicago, all the cities of the country will soon be following Pittsburg's cont-tails in much the same way that I followed one of The street railways in the city are remarkably good. The people should be proud of them. I know of no other city as hilly as Pittsburg that has as good means for transportation. The convention of street railway people will be very interesting and will benefit the city in that it will call the attention of prominent men to its great industries. Everybody Hustles in Pittsburg.

Mr. J. Sullivan, who is in charge of the Edison General Electric Company's display, was equally well pleased with Pittsburg is a native of New York. In comparing Pittsburg with his own city he said he noticed that the people here seemed to be on one plane of equality, while in New York there are the rich, the indolent and the business people all in separate classes. "Every person instles here," he continued, "but still they don't seem to tramp on each other's toes. Of course, I am very much interested in manufacturing and look forward with pleasure to the excursions the eal committee has promised. Referring to Mr. Edison, Mr. Sullivan said he was well acquainted with the great inventor. He said that Edison had promised to be present at the convention, but it ting worse, but whenever he gets in a directors' meeting it is always noticed that he catches everything that is said. He despises flattery, and he finds the general belief that he is deaf very useful in disposing of unwelcome visitors. His health is good, and he is working on new discoveries that will some day startle the world."

All Anxious to See the City.

Elmer P. Motris, of the Thomson-Houston Company, is one of the hustlers among men. He anticipates a large convention from the fact that the railway men of the South and West have never visited Pittsburg, and will all be anxious to see the city. His first impression of the city was that it was a good asiness town, but not a very pleasant

Rapid Transit at Its Best.

Perhaps the best known man among the visitors at present on the ground is Clarence business manager of the Stre Railway Journal. He has made street rail ways almost a life study and said he considered those in Pittsburg on a par with any in cities of its size in the country. He thought the means of transit were remarka bly rapid, in view of the fact that the city is built on hills as steep almost an Alpine mountain. He will keep an intelligence bureau at the Monongabela House during the week.

The neeting will be held in the convention hall of the Monongahela House and will be called together at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. It is expected that 600 delegates will be present.

Six Small Boys Who Will Drink.

John Dillon, James Fresh, John Carroll, "Bunty" Kronan, Robert Parker and John Dugan were arrested yesterday morning by Officers O'Neill aand Dutton. The prisoners are boys, each about 15 years old. The were drinking beer and acting disorderly on Twenty-sixth street. Dillon is a boy whom the police have been looking for for a long time, it being alleged that he was implicated in several small robberies. All the boys are at the Twelfth ward station.

One of the Alvin's Enemies.

The hearings at Central station were few in number, only 20 prisoners having been brought in Saturday night. Seven workhouse sentences were administered. Claude Duval disclaimed relationship with the notorious original of that name but said he was out of work and could get none. The officer testified that Duval had been arrested several times as a vagrant or a drunk and made no effort to get work. A 30-day sentence was prescribed. Saveno Ferraro had been arrested by Officer Conners early Sunday morning while pasting up small notices referring to the Alvin Theater boycott on windows at Wylie avenue and Washington street. Manager Davis, of the Alvin, had heard of the arrest and appeared against the prisoner. He testified: These notices have done my theater a great deal of harm. Many of them have been posted in all parts of the city. I have tried for some time to find out who was doing this dirty work on me. I would not care so much if I was in any way to blame. But I am not, and will a 30 days' sentence to the workhouse. Charles Richards, colored, who lives near the Tenth Street bridge, also came in for a 30 days' sentence. Officer Moan, at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, heard a cry for help from just below the bridge, and, starting in that direction, met John Roberts running away. Roberts was drunk and hatless. He said Richards had knocked him down with a billy, and was dragging him toward a shanty boat on the wharf when he escaped. Richards had no defense to make. Jerry Williams was pointing a revolver at a man on Smithfield street when Officer Maxwell caught him and prevented him from shooting. Senator Washburn Says Blaine Will be the Next President.

CHATS WITH PEOPLE WHO TALK WELL

As an inventor of political tricks the West comes to the front with a man who darkens the past history of the sharpes gamester in Eastern politics and challenges the future of all aspirants. The scheme was described by L. A. Barnberger, a Philadelphia merchant, who stopped at the Seventh Avenue Hotel over Sunday on his way home from a two months' trip through Missouri, Iowa and Minnesota. "In Iowa," he said, "as in Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio close political contests are in progress and every method is taken by each party to gain a point. The candidates for Governor are Wheeler for the Republicans, and Governor Boies, the Democratic candidate for re-election. The issue of the campaign is prohibition, the Democrats being for the repeal of a law they consider obnoxious, and the Republicans for sustaining it. While in Des Moines Governor Boies was out of the city, and a friend of mine occupied his room. I stopped at the same hotel, and was invited by my friend to go into the Governor's quarters. GOVERNOR BOIES' RED BOOSTER. "The first thing that attracted my attention when I entered the room was a huge red rocster, the emblem of the Democratic party, on a mantlepiece. I examined it, and the conversation that followed naturally led us into politics. My friend ex-plained that prohibition was a failure, that all kinds of intoxicating liquors could be purchased in every drug store and that, as he enthusiastically claimed, the Demo-crats would be sure victors be-cause the people were tired of a law that is a dead letter. 'To show you,' said my friend, 'that prohibition does not prohibit I will give you a practical il-lustration. We have here,' he continued, 'a red rooster, and,' as he touched a button we have here a buffet.' At the same time the rooster's wing flew up and revealed—well, as a matter of fact I couldn't have told an hour after what was in it, but there was a lot of it and it was as good as any Old Monongahela' I ever struck. The red rooster, I was told the next day, is an in-vention of the Governor's, who is something of a campaign trickster. PROHIBITION THAT DOESN'T WORK. "I am a Republican, but I must confess that Iowa looks very doubtful. Prohibition is undoubtedly a failure. I was a stranger to almost every one, but I had no trouble whatever in getting all I wanted to drink, and I didn't have to go into back alleys to get it, either. The drugstores sell everything that is kept in licensed barrooms, and make no effort to conceal the fact that they are breaking the law." On his trip Mr. Barnberger stated that he had visited the St. Louis and Minneapolis exhibitions, and that he had been at the Pittsburg Exposition Saturday night. The latter, he said, had finer exhibits, but not so many of them as the others. At Minneap-olis, he said, they had the Mexican Band, composed of 56 Mexican Government officers, dressed in their native costumes. Mr. Barnberger thought the attraction would be a good one for Pittsburg next year, and that there would be no trouble in

REAL ESTATE SALES AT NIGHT.

How a Suburban Minister's Roommat Greatly Surprised Him. Owing to the late crowded condition-of the hotels, the boarding houses here come in for a very fair share of transient trade. A suburban minister whose salary is not munificent enough to allow him to pay $5 a day for board took advantage of one of these "furnished rooms" Saturday night. Even this establishment was more than filled with sleepers, and the obsequious "was sorry that he would have to share the bed with another gentleman." The minister saw no alternative, and bade be shown to his room. This was 9 o'clock. He had never met his to-be-bedfellow, so concluded he would await his coming, in order to not disturb or suprise him by being found in his room. He read and waited. The city clock struck 12. No bed-mate bad shown up. Nor had he an hour later. The minister's eves were blinking, and he concluded to retire. He was soon dreaming. The belated bed-fellow came tripping in at 2 A. M. He is a real estate agent and was not a whit surprised—they never are. He disrobed himself, and soon the snoring was "horse and horse." The minister was the first to arise, but the real estate man's nocturnal transactions the night before compelled him to remain under cover. When the D. D. was met by the landlady she asked him how he rested, upon which he told his experience. "Oh," said she, surprisedly, "you shouldn't have waited for him; he's a real estate agent."

"A real estate agent? But heavens on earth they don't don't sell property by moonlight in Pittsburg, do they?"

Many delegations had the congressmen from their districts present with them, and when the resolutions are with them, and when the resolutions are presented to Congress they will be able to help the cause along. Several cities have been suggested for the next convention, but the matter has been placed in the hands of a committee to make the selection. The exhibition of river appliances was very fine. One thing the Captain mentioned in particular was a portable dam, which can be used to divert the course of the river over shallow places with such force as to make a fairly good cannel. The dam can then be taken up and the boat go on its

Mr. Bergstresser bought the relie and a many years ago from a Scotchman who had served under Wellington, and whose friends preserved the first accounts received in England of that decisive engagement. The bulletin shows how long a time elapsed at that period between the occurrence of an event and its transmittal to the public through the press. In this case seven days elapsed, the battle of Waterloo being was Michael Muldoon, who was filled with bad liquor. Officer Shook undertook to arrest him, when the prisoner showed fight. A Mr. Jones tried to take Muldoon away from the officer. At this juncture one of the female residents of the neighborhood the female residents of the neighborhood went to the officer's assistance, and grasping Muldoon by the arm, hustled him along to the patrol box. Sergeant McQuaide happened along at the time, and they managed with the aid of the woman to land both Muldoon and Jones in the Thirtysixth ward lockup.

A Colored Man Loses His All. Ralph Struthers, an old colored man, who for years has been a character of Lawrenceville, was robbed Saturday night of all his the case to the police. He was almost over-come with emotion when reporting the rob-bery, and said that he "wouldn't minded it" if they had left him his tall hat. He lives on Thirty-third street.

Raid on a Soho Speak-Easy. Last night about 9 o'clock the police made a raid on a speak-easy kept by a man named Cohn, on Forbes street, Soho. Although they approached the house very quietly, they were not quick enough to get the proprietor, who, on their appearance, made a dive for a window and jumped through, carrying sash and all with him. Four visitors were lodged in the Fourteenth ward police station.

Run Down by a Bleycle. Last evening a young bicycle rider named Kirker ran down Mrs. Anderson at the foot of Soho hill. The woman, who is 50 years of age, had her ankle sprained and her head scratched. Similar accidents have occurred in the Cathedral, "I am the King of Glory, the owner of the world. Listen to me. That man cannot These words startled the worshipers at the Cathedral yesterday morning, and as G. Michael Murphy stood up in his pew waying his arms and declaring his divinity, he was the center of attention. He was indulging in some rather objectionable language in reference to the presiding clergy-man. In addition to this, Murphy had taken possession of a pew and refused admission to the owner.

Erratic G. Michael Murphy Creates a Scene

Everybody in the church was shocked, but no one could succeed in quieting the man. As a last resort Officer Nikirk was called in and Murphy was hurried off Central station, protesting loudly all the way. With an unbalanced mind and a erazy notion that he owns the world, Murphy has several times disturbed the Cathe-dral ceremonies, the last time being about Every undertaking establishment possessing one had it in use from three to four trips. Several children's remains had to be conveyed to the cemeteries in black or adult hearses. Mr. Vogel, of Sampson's under-taking establishment, remarked that he never witnessed such a demand, when the mortality was so small. There is no great prevalence of disease generally noticeable, but the fact that all the white hearses were called out and in constant demand, shows an increased death rate in children. There are about 15 white hearses in the two cities. The dominnat disease is thought to have been diptheria among the children and cannot own a trademark.

Another feature of the decision is its discussion of the social claim set forth in terms upon the union eigar label, to the exclusive right not only to the use thereof, but stig-matizing all workmen not permitted to use the trade mark. The label describes the eigars it accompanies as being made by firstclass workmen, adding that all cigars not having the label are of "inferior, rat-shop,

Legitimate competition rests on superiority of workmanship and business methods, not on the use of vulgar epithets and personal denunciations. The International Union in this case has an avowed purpose to do harm to non-union men; to prevent the sale of their work; to cover them with opprobrium, and they ask a Court of Equity to say they have a right to do it.
