Of course, Oelrichs felt victorious, although he did not say much, but his friends were still far from convinced. The fact that one shark had not bitten a man HE WILL GIVE $500 FOR PROOF fact that one shark had not bitten a man when he had the chance was no proof that all sharks would act the same way, they said. Judge Clancy ventured the opinion that there were certain sharks that were man-eaters, while the rest were timid. Let a shark once taste human blood, he said, and he would thereafter be a terror to all humanity that came his way. Man-eaters, he thought, were more plentiful in Southern waters, where natives were constantly fall-waters, where natives were constantly fallwaters, where natives were constantly lan-ing into their jaws. Another man recited an instance, related by Bayard Taylor in his travels, where a shark hung around the vessel for hours in the hope that someone on board would accommodate his taste for human flesh. That shark had a record of 21 human draw have dimension of guy numlives, and may have disposed of any number of unknown. DOUBLED THE OFFER.

"All bosh!" said Oelrichs, "mere gossip and hearsay. The fellows who told Taylor and hearsay. The fellows who told Taylor that were stuffing him. The shark was look-ing for scraps from the table." Then Judge Cluncy related his experi-ence in catching sharks and told how with one had been dragged on to the beach a short time before he had snapped at an oar placed near him, and had almost bitten through the blade. "Oh, of course," replied Oelrichs, "when he is out of water he will snap at anything that comes near him, but let a moving, liv-ing human body come near him in the water, and away he'll go, frightened out of his wits."

his wits." Other men told of their experiences, and one related how, when he had gone to Haiti a year before, the officers on the vessel described the way in which a brother of the English Consul had lost his arm to a shark off Jacmel. Still Oelrichs pooh-poohed all doubts of his theory, and said that he would make his offer of $250 for an authentic case of shark bite good at any time. Since then Mr. Oelrichs has doubled the offer, so that anybody who has been bitten by a shark, or can prove that any one else has suffered this inconvenience can earn $500 by applying to Mr. Oelrichs at his office in Bowling Green.

Mr. Oelrichs may frequently be seen along the water front in search of sailors who have been alleged to have had encounters with sharks. He has spoken to many of the officers and crews of vessels that visit the Southern waters, especially the West Indian seas, and says he feels more confidence than ever in the truth of his theory. The knowledge of the reward he has offered has been spread throughout the merchant marine and hundreds of seafarers have their eyes and ears open for opportunities to earn the $500.

NEARLY DESTROYED HIS FAITH.

One of the stories that reached Mr. Oelrichs' ears came very near to destroying his faith. Two boys had been in bathing in New York Bay, off South Brooklyn, when the better has occurred and southwest Me-ourdy may yet prove productive. Up in the old field there is still considerable terrione of them was seized and almost disap-peared. - He was rescued with difficulty, peared. He was rescued with difficulty, and when brought to shore was almost in-sensible, while blood was pouring from a large wound in his back. The boy was re-moved to a hospital, where a number of physicians examined the wound. Both boys asserted that it was the result of a shark's bite, and several of the physicians declared emphatically that the marks of the benue's teeth were alking withing. vances sufficiently to warrant drilling. The firm of R. G. Gillespie & Co. has several hundred acres almost in the center of the old pool which they have only partially developed. The Orion Oil Company has property which they are waiting to drill, and this field is "not brute's teeth were plainly visible. The other doctors were not so certain. As soon as Mr. Oelrichs heard of the case he began an investigation. The boys stuck to their story, and both gave detailed descriptions of the shark. They even produced wit-nesses, who declared that they too had seen

Then Mr. Oelrichs saw the physicians, who strengthened the boy's story and cor-respondingly lessened Mr. Oelrich's belief in his own theory. But he was determined to sift the story thoroughly and so he examined the boy's back himself. The scars of the wound were plainly visible and Mr. Oelrichs at once decided that they could never have been made by a shark's teeth. He had prepared a careful diagram of a shark's teeth and compared it with the The former were marks of the wound. regular while the latter were not. Then he had the bay dragged where the boy had been seized, and a lot of a jagged tin was found on the bottom. MORE OIL FROM THE GORDON SAND

The production of the McDonald field vesterday was not 500 barrels off of the point which it reached the day before, namely, 73,000 barrels. It possibly showed a slight decline, but not enough to make any noticeable change in the runs. Notwithstanding the howls of the element which is patiently waiting to see the wells play out, and is continually spreading bullish reports concerning the output, the wells continue to force the golden grease into the tanks. Nothing has been struck which will compare with this remarkable field. A territory in which a well is counted almost a failure unless it produces hundreds of barrels an hour is far beyond the ordinary. Even the old-time oil men who have been through all kinds of experiences and fields fail to fully appreciate its wonderful resources. It is the tenderfoot who is now appalled by the enormous production of these wells. ness and in the field since it was first opened look on these gushers as a matter of course. When they put down a well they expect a gusher, and a well which would be a market breaker in any other locality is disappointing in this. When the wells at McDonald are all pumping, when wells at McDonald are all pumping, when the wild-catter is perforating the earth, try-ing to find another such a pool, when the operators in general have fallen back on the small but reliable territory, when McDonald is a thing of the past and a part of history, then the oil men will look back and wonder that the big multiplication of the part of the star that the big wells did not create more ex-citement than they have.

The Standard is keeping a close watch on the new field and in the matter of building now making about 75 barrels an hour. These wells have revived the hopes of the tanks seems to be starting in on the same line of policy which it followed there. A operators in that region. For a couple of weeks previously things in this locality had large force of tank builders have been sent into the vicinity of McDonald and tanks will be built as rapidly as possi-ble. A gentleman connected with the tank-age department of the Standard said to me been looking very blue, as the wells which were being brought in were either dry or so nearly so that they would scarcely pay out at the present price of oil. A change for age department of the Standard said to me to-day that if the McDonald field should prove another Bradford they would save its oil all the same. New tanks would be erected in Washington county, the oil pumped to other tank districts and every effort will be made to keep the wells clear tory to be drilled as soon as the market adeffort will be made to keep the wells clear. "We never had such wells as these to con-tend with," said the Standard man, "and, what is more, we never expected to have in this country.

I do not find many oil country people who expect McDonald to develop into a Braddead but sleeping," as an operator described it yesterday. There is also a long strip of territory between the lower end of Meford, though oil men about the New York exchanges hold to that view. The oil coun-try opinion is that it is "fourth sand" oil, and the wells will be of about the same life Curdy and the northeast end of McDonald which is only slightly developed. The first wells which were drilled were luckily all gushers, and the owners of the leases have and the wells will be of about the same life as the "fourth sand" gushers on the "cross-belt" in Butler county. Some of these wells were short-lived, it is true, but there were others of them, as Butler county operators will recall, which led long and prolific lives. The old "Rob Roy," between Karns City and Petrolia, was one of the longest-lived and most productive wells of the en-tire oil country. For a long time it headed been slow about putting down others. Mr. Oelrichs lazily withdrew his perfecto from between his lips and allowed a volume of smoke to curl lazily upward before he said: "Bosh! Sharks don't bite."

Then he replaced the eigar in his mouth and puffed contemplatively. His listeners looked at him for a moment in smaxement. Then one of them said:

"That was a strange remark, Herman." "I meant it," said Mr. Oelrichs.

"Do-vou-mean-to-say - in - sober - earnest-that-sharks - won't - bite-a - human-being?" asked Judge Claney, with the deliberation hefitring his official position. "That's just what I mean," replied Mr. Oelrichs. "I have given the matter a great deal of study, and I know that no shark has ever bitten a human being."

"Nonsense," said everybody at once, and several began to tell of friends who had friends who had seen sharks bite off the limbs of unfortunates, some of whom had afterward recovered and were living evidences of the incorrectness of Mr. Oeiricha's assertion. At the close of their remarks Mr. Oelrichs said, quietly:

A BOLD WAGER

"I will bet $250 that there is not a single authentic instance of a man, woman, or child having been bitten by a shark. I will give that amount to any person who will dvance the evidence to prove a single case of shark bite."

The others looked at him blankly. Confident as they felt of the incorrectness of his position, none of them dared to take the het; and the more they pondered over it the more they felt that he had the advantage of them at that time, because not one had ever seen a shark bite a man or felt sufficient ever seen a shark bite a man of felt sufficient confidence in the assertions of others to feel warranted in staking any money upon them. Nevertheless, they not only declined to be convinced, but even ridiculed Mr. Oelrichs

As if to put Mr. Oelrichs to a test of his theory, just at that moment, a big shark appeared in the inlet. It was in plain sight of the party on the veranda, and sent a thrill through everyone except Mr. Oelrichs. The latter got up lazily and said, as calmly as ever: "There, gentlemen, is a chance to test our opinions." Without another word he ran down to the water's edge, stripped quickly in sight of his horrified friends, and jumped in boldly. The shark was not far away and swimming toward Oelrichs. As he came on, his body was visible from dorsal fin to tail fin, or two-thirds of his entire length. The smallest estimate placed on his length was ten fect. The tide was running flood, but the shark could not get over the bar in the

QUITE AN ADVENTURE.

Oelcichs, who is a strong swimmer, didn't find much difficulty in getting out to where the shark was visible. As he came close to the monster, his excited friends on the veranda arose from their seats and stood in painful anxiety, expecting every minute to see the monstrous jaws close around an arm or a leg, or perhaps engulf the whole body. A few of the witnesses grew faint and cov-cred their eyes, while the more courageous shouted for boats to go to Oclrichs' rescue. Even as they stood there the big mass of fish began to move quickly. In their ex-chement some of the witnesses thought they say the shark turn over and dart for Oelaches in accepted style, with the cavernous outh open and the cross-saw teeth visible. Was the foolhardy man going to be the first victim of his ridiculous theory? Presently a unanimous sigh of relief showed that their fears had been gre indless. Instead of moving toward the daring swimmer the monster him. The truth of this theory was proved to the satisfaction of everybody connected with the case, even the boys being less sure about the shark when they saw the later developments. So far, therefore, Mr. Oel-rich's assertion has not been destroyed.

on about a 45 degree line with the Butler lot well, Short lot, the Church lot and the old Sauters No. 3, but there can be no connection between these and the McDonald well as there are at least half a dozen wells intervening which were very light in the fifth. The well of Black & Co., on the Sauters property is in the eastern end of the borough, and is a Gordon sander. It is evidently on the Gordon sand belt which runs through the territory east of the fifth sand territory. Yesterday afternoon it was drilled deeper in the Gordon, and its production went from 10 to 25 barrels an hour, and is one of the biggest Gordon wells in the field. Thompson & Co.'s No. 1 on the Towney lot is a fifth sand well. It is located about 200 feet southwest of the Miller No. 5. Last evening the reports from it were to the effect that it was one bit in the fifth sand and making 35 barrels an hour. It is about on a line between Miller No. 5, and the Druart failure.

Being Closely Watched.

A well which is being closely watched be longs to the People's Gas Company, and is one location southwest of Conklin & Fertig's well on the Christy lot. It will prob-ably be completed this week, and as it is the farthest well to the south-west in that part of the field operstors are anxious to ascertain its caliber. The drilling of a large number of wells below it will depend upon the amount of oil which it will produce from the last sand. The Wallace Oil Company's well, on the lumber vard lot, is only a few feet above be present. the fifth sand. It is doing 250 barrels from the fifth sand. It is doing 250 barrels from the Gordon. Hoffman & Co.'s Gordon sander, on the George lot, will also get the fifth in a day or two. Kemp & Co.'s No. 1, on Wade farm, located a couple of hundred feet east of the George lot well will be completed Saturday or Monday. Hays & Gartland have two wells on the Miller farm which are due to get the fifth sand to-day or to-morrow, and Guckert & Steele have reach the greasy reservoir before many hours. The Devonian Oil Company's No. 2 Elliott, and their No. 4 Fayall are on top of the Gordon. Guffey, Murphy and the Oakdale Oil Company's No, 1 on the Wallace farm, is nearing the fifth sand, and watace tarm, is nearing the first sand, and their No. 2 on the same farm is not far be-hind. Judging from the wells which are nearly completed the production of the field may not get below 70,000 a day for a week wet, if the new wells are half as large as their locations warrant. Probably the most important well drilling in the field at the present time belongs to S. J. Fisher & Co., and is located on the slaughter house lot, a few hundred feet west and north of Oakdale. It is now drilling be-tween the Gordon and fifth sands, and if it proves oil in the latter formation it will treble the value of land in the vicinity of Oakdale, and also operations in that vicinity.

Preparations Under Way by the Committee Appointed at Baltimore.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.-[Special.]-The committee appointed by the Catholic Con-gress held in Baltimore in 1879, to arrange for the next congress, which will be held in Chicago in 1893, met yesterday in this city. The members are Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, Patrick Farrelly, Daniel Dough-erty and John D. Keiley, of New York; M. W. O'Brien, of Detroit; M. D. Fausler, of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; W. J.-Onahan, of Chi-care, Edward E. Dupac, of Klaide cago; Edmund F. Dunne, of Florida, and M. J. Harson, of Providence, R. I. It was determined to hold a formal conference at the Catholic Club Friday morning, and to invite representatives of the hierarchy to

Mr. Onahan and Major John D. Keiley were made a sub-committee to go to Balti-more and invite Cardinal Gibbons and the other prelates of the committee, Archbishop Elder, of Cincinnati; Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco; Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul, and Bishop Janssens, of Belle-ville, Ill., to be present at Friday's meet-ing. These members of the hierarchy are expected to be at the celebration of the cen-tenary of St. Mart's Seminary in Baltimore to-morrow. The Catholic Club will to-night give the Congress Committee a reception at their club rooms. It will be the last func-tion of this kind before the opening of their splendid new club house at Fifty-ninth street and Sixth avenue.

THE ANDOVER CASE SETTLED.

Prof. Smyth Reinstated in His Chair by a Decision of the Supreme Court.

Boston, Oct. 28 .- The decree of the Board of Visitors has been set aside in the famous Andover case. The decision of the Supreme Court is on the grounds that the trustees are not made parties to the original proceedings. The merits of the case are not passed upon. The decision means a victory for Prot. Egbert E. Smyth, and doubtless ends a struggle that has been before the public for over five years. The decision of the Board of Visitors, now set aside, was rendered in June, 1887, and was to the effect that "Rev. Egbert F. Smyth, D. D., Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the Theological Institution, in Phillips Academy in Andover, be expelled from his chair on account of heterodoxy in teaching, as such professor's doctrines are contrary to the creed of the institution, especially respecting the inspiration of the Holy Scriptures and a probation after death for some souls that have not had the gospel in this life." An appeal was promptly taken to the Supreme Court of the State, in taken to the Supreme Court of the State, in accordance with a provision made by the founders of the seminary, and a complicated and world-famous series of legal battles went on, culminating in the final hearing before the full bench last November.
