THE PITTSBURG DISPATCH, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1891.

patches from New York City which stated that the League and the Association were on the eve of making peace. Mr. Phelps said he had received no propositions or communications from the League. What was more, he did not expect any. In his opinion there was little or no chance of a national agreement being made for a long time, not for a year at least. This was on account of the League's demands. It wanted the Association to lay down arms and submit to whatever the older organization would ask. This the Association would never do and hostilities were likely to be kept up for years.

The Association Circuit.

Mr. Phelps was next asked in regard to the Association circuit. He thought there would be ten clubs. That was the general wish of the Chicago meeting. It would certainly be either 10 or 12 clubs, but the chances were 10 to 1 in favor of the smaller number. That would mean only the addition of a club in the East, as there were al-ready five in the West.

Mr. Phelps was asked what city would probably be admitted. That matter was yet doubt, but Brooklyn would probably be the town. The President of the Association was asked if the addition was to be made by Byrne's Brooklyn League team jumping. There had been talk of that, but upon this subject he did not care to commit himself. In answer to a question if the schedule would not be very difficult to arrange for a ten-club circuit, Mr. Phelps answered in the negative. It had been done before. The Association once played with six clubs, which was an odd number in the East and West.

Thinks it Practicable

This matter had been discussed at the late meeting and decided to be perfectly practi-cable. The solution was to have six Eastern clubs and four Western teams. Columbus was to be placed in the Eastern clubs were placing in the East and the Western clubs were placing in the East and the Western clubs in the West, no team would be idle. Mr. Phelps thought a ten-club organization would be a perfect success, besides being a grest novelty. When would the circuit question be de-He thought within at least two weeks. The members of the special com-mittee were instructed at the late meeting to get together and decide the important matter as soon as possible. Mr. Phelps did not think another meeting of the Association would be necessary before the circuit was fixed. A vote on the committee's re-

No such arrangement as this will be made by either English or American clubs; besides, prize fighters do not usually carry backers around with them. Anyway, I will go to New York and see whether Sullivan will really fight. If he puts up a forfeit with the Herald he can rest assured that I will attend to it. I shall expect the club giving the purse to furnish me my ex-penses. I would see that Sullivan got his expenses if he fought in England or Australia.

English sporting men are betting 3 to 1 that Sullivan will never go into the ring with Slavin.

A. A. U. NEW YORK, Nov. 2 -[Special.]-An athletic war, second only to the fight between the Amateur Athletic Union and the old National Association of Amateur Athletes of America, promises to shake the world of amateur athletes in this country before many days. It will be bronght about by Frederick William Janssen, of the Staten Island Athletic Club, and the chief motive will be revenge. He proposes to form a

A blow is aimed at the smaller clubs, which, if specessful, will ultimately freeze them out of existence. Mr. Janssen's scheme is worked out under belief that the large clubs owning property are tired of being governed and dictated to by the smaller but no less important athletic or-ganizations. Incidentally, he incorporates in his scheme one or two side issues calcu-lated to mislead those clubs which would not like to antagonize the Amateur Athletic Union. The most important of these is the formation of a free masonry between the individuals forming the representative clubs of this country and Canada.

It has been said that at a later date Mr. Jamssen proposes to do some more schem-ing and develop an arrangement by which every individual member of the new league Manager Chapman will leave for his can carry $5,000 worth of life insurance at Brooklyn home next Tuesday, and will be absent from Louisville until next spring. an astonishingly low rate. Just how suc-cessful he will be is yet an open question, cessful he will be is yet an open question, but it is said that he feels much encouraged at the support he has been promised.

When the doctor was attending him after the game he suggested that the football man would be benefited by a little brandy. "Will it interfere with your trainlug?" asked the physiclean. somebody ran for brandy. The innate snap so noticeable in the Yale and Princeton clevens of 1880 has not put in an appearance yet this fall. The men have to be urged on with cries like: "Now, fel-lows! line up quick!" "Get a move on there!" and "Hurry np, boys; they're winded." It is not pleasant to always refer to old times, but think of "Snake" Ames, "Sport" Donnelly, Cash, Cowan, Janeway, George, Poe, Chan-ning, Black and Warren together for Prince-ton, and also, of the '88 men, Corbin, Bull, Beecher, Terry, Gill, Rhodes, and the rest for Yale!

SUPERSTITIONS OF PARNELL.

He Abhorred Green and Would Allow No. One to Hand Him Salt at Table.

It is strange that many great men have had a tinge of superstition in their compos ition. Mr. Parnell's colleagues tell curious tales illustrative of this weakness in a man of so otherwise strong character, and some of them have got into print, says James O. G. Duffy in the Philadelphia Press. He had a strange aversion to the color green, as he always believed that it brought ill luck new association to be called the United States League of Athletic Clubs, which it is borne in mind that the House of Commons is all upholstered in that hue. When he was in Kilmainham some admirers were admitted to make a presentation to him of a silk dressing gown and slippers and cap. In all of these articles the dominant color was green, and one of his colleagues who was with him during the presentation describes the contrast between the delicate courtesy with which Mr. Parnell acknowledged the presents and the anxious expression with which the very instant the deputation had left the cell he implored the said colleague to "remove those green things, they bring ill luck," and he refused even to look at them any more. Parnell also had a great horror of anyon passing him the salt at table. During a late sitting of the House of Commons Mr. Par-nell was having a hurried supper at the bar, when one of his colleagues offered him the salt, but Mr. Parnell pushed his hand back CLARION'S GAS WAR.

Made Glad by the Annual Distribution of the Philadelphia Fund.

JOHNSTOWN, Nov. 2 .- [Special.]-An interesting annual event took place to-day, being the regular distribution to the orphans of the Johnstown flood of the fund in the hands of the Philadelphia Trust Company. There was 302 orphans present, each of whom received $75, requiring the total of $22,650 to make the rounds. There were 341 beneficiaries last year, but in the interim a beneficiaries last year, but in the interim a number had outgrown the benificiary age fixed by the fund—16 years—while five had died in the past 12 months, their annuity going to the Flood Memorial Hospital.

STEUBENVILLE, Nov. 2.-[Special.]-Mrs. John Hanlon, wife of a saloon keeper, committed suicide last night. Because of this 12 Mbeing the second attempt to end her life the affair has some sensational features. Last summer, while Mrs. Hanlon was sobering up after a spree, she walked down Logan street and threw herself into the river, but was pulled out by some railroad men. She had been indulging in the excessive use of liquor for the past three weeks, in which her husband joined. Yesterday her husband was taken to jail to sleep off the effects of his debauch, and while his wife was alone she attempted suicide, but was cut down in time to save her life. This morning she made another attempt and was more successful. After taking a large dose of paris green she had mixed with whisky, her and came after great suffering.

ELECTRICITY CURES.

Its Marvelous Power Even More Notable in the Practice of Medicine and Surgery

The more thoroughly one studies electro-therapentics in all its relations, medical and surgical, the clearer it becomes that the real scientific basis for the use of electricity in medicine and surgery is found in electro-physics more than in electro-physiology. It seems paradoxical to say they are both dear and cheap; but the "dear" has no reference to price. The "cheap" has! as you will allow when

Now that electricity has become popular in medicine, there is, in some quarters, a temptation to overdo the application, not only in strength, but in length and fre-quency; to treat all cases alike by routine, mechanical applications, regardless either of the disease or the follosynerasies of the patient: hence in not a few cases come in-jurious results with disappointment on all sides. The dorage of electricity is a special study of the greatest practical importance; the difference in result between a very gen-tle and short application and a very strong and protracters one being, in some cases, all the difference between agreeable success and painful failure. you see the Here are a few inklings, ideas and items of our assortment: All-Wool Scotch Cheviots

EXTRAORDINARY DEMANDS.

Richardson and Connor Simply Astound the New York Club Directors-Not Content With $4,000 Each a Year for Three Years, They Demand Other Conditions That Are Preposterous.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 .- [Special.]-Richardson and Connor have gone to the City of Brotherly Love and large promises. They practically made up their minds to sign with the New York club, and went to meet the directors with that intention. As the discussion progressed the players tacked on a iot of conditions that made it impossible for the directors to do anything but bring the conference to an abrupt close. Messrs. John B. Day, E. B. Talcott and J. W. Spalding were present at the meeting. The offer made by Mr. Day to the two players of a three years' contract at $4,000 a year, which the other directors considered a triffe generous, was open to the men this morning when they met the directors.

In addition, the players insisted that heir stock should be taken off their hands, that their salaries should be paid in full in case of sickness or injury, no matter what the cause, and wound up with a demand for a personal guarantee that their money would be paid to them. When the directors of the New York Baseball Club, which has always paid its players liberally, if not extravagat atly, heard the astonishing proposition, they simply adjourned the me ecting sine die, and announced that any offer they had made to Richardson and Connor was olf, and that any further negotiations must be conducted on an entirely different basis. Thereupon the players said they would go to Philadelphia, and withdrew.

The directors are unanimous in the opin-ion that they have gone to the extreme limit of generosity in their proposals to the two players, and that the latter have not acted reasonably or fairly. As a result of the selfichness displayed by the players they have failen in the esteem of metropolitan patrons of the game. Upon leaving for Philadelphia the players said they would not sign there unless the terms offered were quite satisfactory.

LOCAL BASEBALL GOSSIP.

Manager McGunnigle and Secretary Scandrett Confer on the Former's Contract.

Manager McGunnigle and Ed Haulon had a long conversation yesterday and it resulted pleasantly to both parties. The manager assured the player that as soon as he, the manager, had completed arrangements with the club and was definitely signed, he would talk business with Hanlon. That means that Ed will be signed after Manager McGunnigle signs his contract.

Secretary Scandrett and Manager Mc-Gunnigle had a conference yesterday afternoon, and, after discussing a few details of the latter's contract, it was agreed that they meet to-day at noon. The manager expects to leave for the East this evening and if he does he will be gone seven or eight days. Billy Alvord, the third baseman, was in

Think Well of Maher.

Local sporting men, particularly those who take an interest in pugilism, are begining to think that Peter Maher is a good man. One prominent authority said last evening:

"So far the Irish champion has not met good man in America, but he has polished off the second and third raters in such easy style that one of our best men must at least face him next. They should give him a show because lots of worse fighters than Mnher have been pushed into prominence in this country.

THEIR HEADS GOT TANGLED.

Two Belles Who Do Not Like Each Other Have Trouble in a Car. New York Letter.]

Have you ever 'seen two dogs with their heads close together, showing their teeth and not moving a muscle, or have you seen two men who have no use for each other standing shoulder to shoulder in front of a grate fire, each determined not to vield the other the infinitesimal part of an inch? If you have, you know how two women look when they sit on the cross seat of an L train back to back, and each is trying to lean her head back. Two such whiled away the tedium of a half-hour ride on the Sixth avenue. Miss Snappy-eyes, with the precision that goes with genuine tailor-made clothes, advanced to the seat, unhinged herself, and sat down. According to instructions from the beauty-culture woman, she sat erect and threw her head back slightly. Her back hair hit the blonde's back hair, and the fun began. The blonde was there first, and wasn't going to give way to any woman, even if she was tailor-made. Miss Snappy-eyes wanted to hold her head back, and was determined no one should prevent her. The necks of both stiffened and their eyes glittered. The blonde pressed her head back a little harder, Miss Snappy-eyes resisted her with all her might. They shifted a little this way and that, and one or two passengers peeped at them over the top of their papers. Just as we were sliding into the Fourteenth street station the blonde thought she'd had enough, or else she was on the trail of a bargain, and made a sudden Novement to rise. Horrors of horrors! Her hair was caught fast. Snappy-eyes felt the tug and started forward, pulling the blonde almost over the back of the seat. They gave each other two or three tugs, and an old lady with a reticule and a mohair ulster came to their rescue and untangled the golden tresses from the mischievous filigree pin. The the blonde said something about "no lady and Miss Snappy-eyes sat down to look steadily out of the window and bite her lip

THE INSTINCT OF HOME.

A Fox Beturns Three Times From Points Seventy Miles Away.

The remarkable way in which both dogs and cats will find their way their way home from long distances has formed the subject of many an anecdate; and most persons can

It is not generally known that the fox also pos-sesses this power of finding its way back to its usual haunts. But a well-authenticated instance of the kind is gnoted by Mr. Harting in an inter-esting article in the Zoologist. He tells of a fox which returned three several times to its "issue".

Sleeping Passengers Badly Frightened. ERIE, Nov. 2.-[Special.]-The sleepers on a Lake Shore passenger train got a severe shaking up this morning in the Erie yard. Careless yardmen had left three freight cars standing on the main track, and as the passenger train came in at 30 miles an-hour rate the train was on to the ob-struction before Engineer Haskins was aware of it. Fortunately the momentum of the passenger train saved it, although the engine was stripped of her rigging. No one was injured. The passengers were thrown from their berths and badly frightened.

Equelching Liquor at the Polls.

MONONGAHELA CITY, Nov. 2 .- [Special.] -A ludicrous event is likely to occur here in the county to-morrow. The Women's Christian Temperance Union has heard that there will be a large amount of liquors sent here into a prohibition county by the managers of both parties in the county, and the good ladies have determined to put a stop to this by appearing either in person or by attorney at the polls and prevent the liquor from being distributed. Politicians promise to give them a warm reception.

A Murder Committed by a Farmer.

PARKERSBURG, Nov. 2 .- [Special.] -Word reached here to-day that Albert Weaver was shot and almost instantly killed at St. Mary's yesterday. Newto Hubbs had a hog-killing on his farm and Weaver was present. He was a desperate character, and after the day was over quar-reled with Hubbs over some trifling matter. Soon after Hubbs fired and Weaver fell. Hubbs claims to have fired in self defense, while others claim that he shot Weaver through a window.

A Centenarian to Vote for McKinley.

STEUBENVILLE, Oct. 2 .- [Special.]-William Richards, the only centenarian of East ern Ohio, was 100 years old Saturday and the occasion was celebrated at the residence of William Lewis, at Alikanna, this county, where Mr. Richards has made his home for years. He is in very good health and was so vigorous that he came to this place and had his picture taken. To-morrow he will east his first Australian ballot in favor of Maior McKinley. Major McKinley.

Allegheny County Sunday Schools.

MCKEESPORT, Nov. 2)-[Special.]-To-day the Allegheny County Sunday School Association held several sessions in this city and a final meeting to-night. A number of Pittsburg ministers and Sunday School superintendents were present, and interest-ing reports were read showing the great growth of the attendance in schools in Alle-gheny county during the past year.

Banker Dill Saves His Property.

CLEARFIELD, Nov. 2 .- [Special.]-The personal property of W. H. Dill was sold here to-day by the Sheriff on a writ issued by Mrs. Dill. There were very few pres-ent, and the attorney of Mrs. Dill had little trouble in bidding the property in at a total valuation of $14,200. This places the prop-erty out of the reach of other creditors.

AT Martin's Ferry yesterday one of the worst fires in the history of the Ohio Valley occurred. The Mears keg and barrel factory occurred. The Mears keg and Darrel Inclory, with its large warerooms and other build-ings, were consumed. Several cars on the Cleveland, Lorraine and Wheeling Railroad and 200 vards of trestle were also destroyed. About 150 men are thrown out of work and traffic on the railroad will be suspended for several days. Loss $60,000, well covered by insurance. Origin incendiary.

To Keep From Growing Old.

Pharmaceutical Ers.]

A swindling firm once advertised that it would send, for the small sum of $3,a recipe, which, if followed to the letter, would keep folks from growing old. Some credulous persons answered the advertisement, remitting the required fee, and received the fol-lowing reply: "We would advise all such fools as you to commit suicide at about the age of 25."
