ages. She alleges that he obtained $100 from her on January 1, 1891, by falsely represent-ing to her that he owned property. NOTES FROM THE COURT CORRIDORS

The doors of the temple of justice were closed yesterday. There was but one case of marital infelicity b fore the court and that had changed to felicity, the case being withdrawn and costs paid.

Stayton-Wyman Contest.

There was an echo from a famous case beard by Judge Ewing. It has already been told how a grand jury found an indictment against Kate McNamara, charging her with forging her parent's name to a mortgage, and what trouble and ex a morigage, and what trouble and ex pense it caused to all parties concerned—her mother who found the estate involved, the $2,000 damages. He alleges that on October mortgagee whose mortgage would not hold, and the man to whom he had assigned the mortgage. The mortgagee is out absolutely the money advanced and court costs; besides Kate's mother was put to the expense of hiring a lawyer and attending to the case, and the assignee, his lawyer's fee and his time. The cost entailed on all parties was greater than the sum the festive girl secured by signing her parent's

This was followed by a sharp controversy This was tollowed by a snap controversy between Judge Ewing and Attorney Bren-nen, counsel for Stayton vs Wyman in the controversy regarding the Allegheny Mavoralty. Mr. Brennen took exception to Judge Ewing's peremp-tory order that the case should be closed this month, and male a statement that of the 12,000 and more votes cast 2,070 were il-legal, as shown by the records in the Prothonotary's office. Judge Ewing contended that unless a prima facie case could be made out without examination of the ballot boxes the case must fall, while Mr. Brennen contended that the records in the Prothono-tary's office were public, which contestants had a right to examine.

Don't Want the Ballot Boxes Opened. His Honor seemed to doubt this position but being assured that they were not sealed, wavered somewhat, but still contended that the intent was that the ballot should be secret and bexes only opened where it could be shown outside of them that fraud had weu perpetrated or there was good cause

Finally Commissioner J. D. Shafer was sent for and directed to examine the list in some districts and ascertain whether there was good cause for the opening of the boxes and whether trands found were such as would likely change the result of the elec-tion if eliminated, and report the finding tonorrow. Judge Ewing said the case ought o be thrown out of court on account of dilatory man which been prosecuted. Mr. Brennen insisted that the following up of the fraud was an extensive undertaking, much more difficult than the Judge supposed. Mr. Bennett, one of Wyman's counsel, was present, but said nothing.

Turkish oppressions of the Christian in-habitants of Crete have at length become intolerable, and that either Greece or the powers nust intervene "in the interests of humanity," but similar representations have been made ever since Europe made Greece a nation, yet the Sultan still reigns over Crete.

The Cretans Ready for War.

The Creaters Ready for War. Insurrections fomented from Athens oc-cur as frequently as in South America, and much blood, Turkish as well as Christian, is shed from time to time, with the calculated intention of keeping the Cretan question alive. The Cretans are this moment ready to take up arms once more, and Greece is prepared to help them, if the great powers will keep the riog and allow a fair fight. But Greek notions of fairness have always been particular. In this instance a force of Greek volunters and supplies of arms are to be landed in Crete, under cover, if need be, of the guns of the Greek warships. The fleet is then to blockade the island and prevent Turkish reinforements being landed, while the European powers are to bring pressure upon the Sultan to prevent him from overruaning Greece with his armies, which he could easily do. The danger, of course, is that rash action for streach and bring about a general war. That that peril is not remote is proved by the fact that the British Government has considered it necessary solemnly to warn Greece not to make a fool of herself. [EY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.] LONDON, Nov.7.-[Copyright.]-It has long been a grievance of Greek patriots and of the stock that we are able to fit and please people with all styles and shapes of foot. Our trade in Ladies' shoes, particularly in fine goods, grows steadily, and few and far between are any complaints in regard to the quality or wear of the shoes we sell. Shoes for all ages and both sexes.

He has just re-ceived a letter from Brazil, offering him a large sum of money if he could rid the country of a species of ant which is very destructive to crops. To-day he received a proposition from a-milling firm in Minneapolis offering $1,000 to come to Minnesota next summer and kill bugs for a few weeks. The letter stated that the average of wheat in Minnesota had been greatly reduced on account of the farmers fearing the destruction by chluch bugs, and the millers were afraid their busi-ness would be damaged by the decrease. This.process of exterminating the bugs by infection will be introduced in several States next year.

End, on the following article:

PITTSBURG'S GREAT EMPORIUM.

Gusky's:

A place of ceaseless activity and perpetual bustle: An emporium in which can be found everything in the line of wearing apparel for man or boy. It is a home place, too, where people can feel comfortable while making their purchases, for they know they will not be cheated.

It is a great sight to watch Gusky's on a busy day and see the crowds of people coming and going. It is like a regular procession from morning to night. Sometimes I wonder why so many people crowd in there, while other stores that sell the same goods have plenty of room to spare. The reason is that the other stores do not sell the same goods for the same money. Value for the dollars draws the crowd, and year by year Gusky's grow. They deserve success and they get it.

All the boys especially go in for Gusky's on account of the grand presents they give away. This is only natural, for the older folks are just as anxious to get something for nothing as we are.

The second prize goes to WILLIE J. DYSERT, 40 Locust street, Allegheny, Pa., on this article:

GUSKY'S STORE.

It is most attractive, especially the beautiful windows, filled with every make of wearing apparel known, as well as all other articles that go to make up a wardrobe for men and boys. All goods of the finest and best quality. The interior, as one enters the main building, is dazzling to behold. It looks best at night, almost as

The interior, as one enters the main building, is dazzling to behold. It looks best at night, almost as light as day. You see every convenient contrivance for quick business; one can hardly realize where they are if unnecustomed to such a bustling life. You are met in every direction with polite clerks and all those connected with the business. It would take a volume to tell all the good Gusky's have done and the inter-est they have taken in the welfare of all the people, of all creeds and colors. Especially the boys. They give presents for educational and other purposes, and, because they ask the people to come and buy, some say it's only a scheme to make money. But this is not proven. Of conree, every business must make money to succeed and to make it extensive. So with them. But they have done many charitable things in a thousand different ways, consuming much cherished time and an immense amount of money. In conclusion I say to all the boys to land Gusky's to the skies, that their business may increase ten-fold and that the general public may stand by them, for they have always lived up to the golden rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do to you."

The third prize has been won by EDWARD M. MENTZER, Natchez street, city, whose article is as follows:

GUSKY'S AS SEEN BY A BOY.

Gusky's store is certainly a great benefit to the city of Pittsburg. Every time I visit it I find things clean, neat and in good order. The piles of goods in every department show that they must buy a great deal and this must e able them to buy cheaper than other merchants who buy less. By buying cheaper they are able to sell goods cheaper than other stores. I know that I have bought better suits there than I could get at other stores for the money. Same way it may hats and shoes. If they do that with the boys they will do it with the men. Everything they ever promised to do for the boys they did, and that is why the boys like to buy at Gusky's. Some stores promise a whole lot and when you go they fool you; their excuse is that you are too late, or some other lie. Now, Gusky's don't do that, but those that do will fool you in the goods. Gusky's will always have the boys with them, and likewise the men, because we grow.

None of the prize winners are over 14 years of age, and yet their articles are decidedly better than many received from older boys. We think the public will agree with us that they have done well.

Trade keeps increasing season by season. The reason is plain to all who patronize us for hats; that is about half the male population. It is this: We save them money. Our enormous sales enable us to buy by the hundred cases from the manufacturers direct at first cost. Our retail prices are in proportion. Try us for your Fall Derby and be convinced.
