LANDED IN THE RIGHT OF LINE. How the General's Present Availability

Came to Be Discovered. DEMOCRATIC GUBERNATORIAL BOOMS

IFROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT, 1

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 .- David Mc-Murtrie Gregg is likely to be the next Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania. This fact, rather annoying to many, is just now dawning on the ambitious and aspiring Republicans throughout the State. General Gregg is a new feature in State polities. In fact, he is an unknown quantity, but his wonderful strength, developed in an off year when nine points in the game were against his party's success, has completely cleared the deek of all the old timber, and leaves him practically alone as General Gregg was developed politically own party who hanker for preferment claim to have discovered him. General Gobin, of Lebanon, who is himself a candidate for Governor, repeatedly stated before the election that he alone brought out General Gregg, and probably no one now more keenly regrets the finding of the hero of Gettysburg. However, to a Philadelphia Democrat, the Republicans owe their Auditor General elect. Colonel John P. Nicholson is responsible for General Gregg's can-liow Gregg Got Into Politics.

General Gregg had ever since the War been a respected and honored citizen of Reading. He had no political ambition. As a gentleman of means and leisure, he frequently visited Philadelphia, where he had constructed a rower of warm tand lasting friendships. He knew no party in his social life, and his admirers come from the business and political life of the Quaker City, regardless of political lines.

Early last summer, while General Gobin-was visiting in Philadelphia, he met Colonel Nicholson, one of General Gregg's warmest friends. The two talked of candidates for Auditor General, and Nichelson, patting Gobin on the shoulder, said: "If you Republicans are smart, you will nominate General Gregg, of Reading, for Auditor

The suggestion struck Gobin with force. Later that day he announced Gregg as a candidate, and, as he says himself, he had General Gregg was, although he recognized General Gregg as a great soldier. He found out, however, and before Gregg ever dreamed of public office he was a full-General Gobin was the father of the Gregg boom, but Colonel Nicholson, a Dem-

GREGG FOR GOVERNOR. the right of the line at General Lee attempted to turn it. The other candidates must keep off the political grass. Your own Major Montooth and the hero of Johnstown, General Hastings, General Gobin, Lieutenant Governor Wa'res, General Wiley, of Franklin, and Thomas J. Stewwart, Secretary of Internal Affairs, all pro-nounced Gubernatorial candidates, must one and all retire from the political field, as Gregg most certainly has the call on the nomination. Of course, he will not be given the nomination without a fight, and probably a bitter one at that, but it is safe betting that he will get the nomination,

General Gregg has a mighty sight more friends now than he had before his nomination, or even after his nomination and when his election was in doubt in the minds of the leaders of his own party, and these friends are already preparing his guber-natorial boom. General Gobin is not among his boomers, however. Democratic Candidates for Governor.

Nobody is yet hold enough to even sugrest a Democratic candidate for Governor, ut the woods are full of them, just the same. The rather rude nipping of Governor Pattison's Presidental aspirations did not shock the cool, calm, deliberate Secretary of the Commonwealth, and Mr. Harrity is just as much a candidate for Governor now as he was when he heard that the only part of Philadelphia he could carry was his own ward. The fifteen-odd thousand majority for the Republican State ticket in Allein a rather peculiar way. Members of his gheny county did not in the least disturb the curly-headed leader of the Democracy, and Mr. Harrity is just as hopeful now as ever that the "State of Allegheny" is with him and for him for Governor.

Adjutant General McClelland is frequent-ly spoken of by his many admiring friends as a possible candidate for Governor, but he is not ambitions in that direction. In the words of General Negley, of Allegheny county, when, in 1868, he was nominated for Congress, General McClelland "has reached the summit of manhood's expectations," and he wants no office. But when the Democrats get their lamps lighted, and goout in dead earnest for a gubernatorial candidate, they are most likely to drop in on Simon P. Wolverton, the old Democratic war horse of Northumberland county, or to call on William U. Hensel, of Laneaster, the Attorney General, who is to-day more popular than ever with his party.

A SENSATION IN CALIFORNIA.

An Adverse Decision to Be Appealed to the Supreme Court. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7 .- Assemblyman Elwood Bruner, of Sacramento, who has been indicted by the grand jury for malfeasance in office in accepting bribes, and who has also been indicted for perjury in connection with testimony which he gave before the grand jury, appeared in the Supreme Court yesterday to argue the case on his behalf. He had previously moved to set the indictments aside on the grounds to go to Bates' history to find out just who | that the grand jury was not legally impaneled; that the jurors were prejudiced against him, and that the indictment for perjury was founded on testimony given by nimself as witness.

Regarding his argument on the latter point Judge Wallace said there was nothing in the records to show that Bruner has testified against himself or that the grand jury had founded an indictment on his testimony District Attorney Barnet and Attorney General Hart quoted authorities to sustain heir contention that the grand jury was legally impaneled, and the Attorney Gor ral contended that the State Constitution; expressly provided that in the investigation of the legislation scandal the witness was Dick Conlter," the greatest living soldier in Pennsylvania, and General Coulter has obliged to testify. Bruner swore to obey the State Constitution, and consequently no political aspirations; he is content with his large family and his extensive banking grand jury or to claim such right. Judge Wallace then denied the motion to set the indictment aside, and said he would file a vanced. The State Supreme Court late yesterday afternoon granted an alternative writ of prohibition, petitioned for by Bruner, restraining Superior Judge Wallace from proceeding further in the bribery case. The writ is returnable before the Supreme Court on Monday next. The grand jury has reported, finding four indictments against parties whose names were not dis-

BANK SWINDLERS RUN DOWN.

A SHREWD GANG PLAYS ITS GAME ONCE TOO OFTEN.

Scheme That Worked Perfectly When ever Tried-Western Banking Institu tions Taken In-The Last of the Gang Runs Into a Trap-How It Was Sprung

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 .- [Special.]-The Chase National Bank has received information from Toledo, Ia., that Andrew J. Conover, the bank swindler, has been convicted and sentenced to nine years in the penitentiary. Conover's partner, James Hall, who was arrested with him, is now awaiting trial at Waxahatchie, Tex. Another of his pals, Garbutt, is soon to be tried at Traer, In. It seems probable from this that one of the most successful gangs of bank swindlers which ever operated in this country will be effectually broken up.

The gang worked a simple plan, but it was worked extensively. Their scheme was to get hold of well-engraved forms of bank drafts and fill them in indiscriminately. They made no attempt at forgery. In fact, they were careful to avoid it, always chang-ing the spelling of a word or two on the draft form, so that the ones they used would not be exact fac similes of the real forms. These forms they usually got from the stationers who did the engraving for the bank. It seemed to be easy enough for them to arrange so that the stationer would not suspect anything proper.

not suspect anything wrong.

Having secured the drafts, one of the gang would go into some horse raising dis-trict in one of the Western States and rep-resent himself as a buyer of horses. He resent himself as a buyer of horses. He would get acquainted with the farmers and agree to buy their stock at a good price. Then he would induce a farmer to identify him at the country bank, deposit a draft, draw a check against it, and skip ont. By this method Conover swindled seven banks in Northern Iowa, last spring, and several more in Southern Minnesota. From one of the Minnesota banks he got $3,400. Hall was operating at this time at Waxahatchie,

Most of the bogus checks are drawn on the Chase Bank. The officers of the bank had been in communication with their coun-try correspondents about the swindlers, and Inspector Byrnes had descriptions of the men, when they kindly came to New York to be arrested. Conover ordered from J. H. Warner a book of dratts for Clinton, Backus & Co., of Union Springs, N. Y. Manager Badeau, of the Warner firm, telegraphed Badeau, of the Warner firm, telegraphed Backus & Co. and received a reply that they had no representatives here. When Conover called to see the proof he was shadowed by detectives and arrested with Hall. The Chise Bank people say that it would be impossible for swindlers to work this game if the stationers from whom the drafts were ordered followed the method which is generally employed and shipped the draft books by express directly to the bank supposed to by express directly to the bank supposed to be ordering.

Stories About Jay Gould's Health. NEW YORK, Nov. 7 .- [Special.]-There was a rumor afloat in Wall street to-day that Jay Gould was very ill and unable to attend to business. It was said that he had had a hysterical attack similar to that from which he suffer d some weeks ago. Russell Sage sa'd to-night that so far as he knew Mr. Gould was in his usual health. George Gould said that his father had not been so well in several mouths as he is now. He drove out to-day. He is living at his hou in town. He has not been at his office for Fannie Cartwright Not Murdered. CHICAGO, Nov. 7 .- Dr. Helstoen, the Coroner's physician, to-day made a pos mortem examination of the body of Fannie Cartwright, the actress who met a mysious death in a lonesome railroad yard in this city, and who it was thought by many had been murdered and her body left on the tracks to divert suspicion. The examina-tion failed utterly to show any injuries other than those inflicted by the engine, which undoubtedly caused her death.
