LOUISVILLE, Nov. 9.—Business dull. Continual

The Monongahela Very Shallow. The Monongahela Very Shallow.

MONONGAHELA CITY, Nov. 2.—The Monongahela river, owing to long drought, is practically impassable, and navigation has become difficult. Coal boats going up and down the stream are obliged to hug the narrow channel very closely, and even then sometimes get aground. So shoal is the water that some of the lipples on the river bank cannot be reached, Further up the river it is still more shoal. At Brownsville there is not a point from which the bottom cannot be seen, while in West Virginia above Morgantown it has dwindled away to a sluggish stream with hardly enough energy to move. Even now boats find it difficult to get enough water to keep them off the ground, aithough the packets seem to be able "to travel on a first-class dew." The tributaries of the river are in such a condition that it is likely that it will take a long time for the river to gain in height.

DIFFERED AS USUAL.

Northside Minds Have Varied Opinions With Regard to Mayor Gourley's Move-Mr. Parke Thinks It a Good One and

Over in Allegheny opinions differed as to he wisdom of Mayor Gourley's move, Thomas A. Parke, Chairman of Common Council, thought that the Mayor should be the responsible head of all city affairs. He believed Mr. Gourley's request was for the best interests of the city, and that it was a good lead for Allegheny to follow. "To me, it seems," said Mr. Parke, "that the Mayor occupies a position similar to that of the President of the United States and that the heads of departments are as Cabinet officers. Secretary Blaine would not think of taking a step in the Chilean matter without consulting the President, and neither should Chief Murphy or Chief Brown do anything of importance without first getting orders from the Mayor, under whom they are supposed to work. It is all nonsense for them to say they are under Councils and not the Mayor. Councils is a legislative body, and the Mayor is the executive power. As such, he should receive all complaints, direct what-operation in Allegheny and Pittsburg is good enough, and I am not in favor of throwing it overboard to make room for a system that is simply an invitation for bossism."

When Dr. Gilliford was asked his opinion, he replied that the plan proposed would be a good one under an honest mayor, and a bad one when the mayor is dishonest.

Mr. Henricks thought it a good plan, but he was too busy explaining the auditors' report to give his reasons.

Mrs. De Croix Tells How Her Husband was

An elderly lady, with a striking face partially concealed behind a white veil, attracted considerable attention at the Union depot last evening. She was accompanied by pretty maid with dark eyes, who attended to all her needs. The woman was Mrs. Helen Aldrich De Croix, a blind authoress of some note. She said she had no home, but was now on her way to Canton, to visit friends for awhile, and from there she would go to Ft. Wayne. She has just completed a the novel, "Foreshadowing." Mrs. De Croix is a woman with a remarkable history. She is now 73 years old, and was born in Rochester, N. Y. According to her story she was married 46 years ago, in New York, to a Frenchman named De Croix, and while returning from the church in a carriage, the horses ran away, and her husband of only a few minutes was thrown out and killed. She escaped unburt, but the shock and her grief were so great, that she was attacked by a severe fever. After six weeks of suffering, she arose from a sick-bed will cover it and meet Long nere at any time to make a match.

Invalid mothers, especially nursing mothers, can avoid that debilitating, languid feeling, and look well and hearty instead of peaked and thin, if they will only use the genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract. The effect is most excellent, as not only the breast of the mother, but also the milk organs are strengthened. This extract causes the secretion of milk to increase, so that even feeble women need entertain no apprehensions that milk will be lacking for the child. The entire nutrition of the body is improved. But by all means avoid counterfeits. See that "Johann Hoff's" signature is on each bottle. The medical fraternity of the world recommends "Johann Hoff's Malt Extract." Eisner & Mendelson Co., Sole Agents, 6 Barclay St., New York.

Local Rugby Teams Will Be Offered a Valuable Silver Cup for a Series of Games.

RIVALRY AMONG THE PLAYERS.

Interesting Rumors About J. Palmer O'Neil and the American Association Magnates.

SOME NEW BASEBALL MOVEMENTS.

Mutrie Confident About His New Team-Baseball News of General Interest.

Probably there is more rivalry among football players in and about Pittsburg now than there ever was in the history of the city. There are numerous teams within a short distance of each other, both Rugby and Association. The teams of the latter class have a season's contest new going on by which it will be proven which is the best team, and it will be interesting to know that efforts are being made to get a valuable silver cup to be held by the best Rugby aggregation in this vicinity. Mr. Brainard, of the Three A's, stated vesterday that the cup will certainly be on head shortly, and then local Rugby teams would have to face each other in order to prove what team is the best, and therefore should have the cup. A Very Good Idea. This method of competition was suggested by THE DISPATCH the other day, and it will be exceedingly interesting to all if it is carried out. At present we have at least two local Rugby teams who each claim first honors. These teams are the East End Gyms and the Three A's. The former, who are hustlers of the most hustling kind, emphatically contend that the Three A's won't play against them for fear of defeat. The Three A's declare that they have no open date, and, therefore, cannot play the East

Enders, and so the case stands. If the cap notion is carried out, the Three A's will be compelled to find a date or submit to the Gyms not only having the cup but the title of local champions. Undoubtedly the two teams are the two best hereabouts, but it is hard to tell which is the better of the two. A contest or two between them is necessary to determine this. To some extent there will be opportunity given next Saturday to judge of the comparative merits of the two teams. The

Before the season is out there will be some really good Bugby teams, but the best of them have only to meet the Three A's. This is unfortunate if it is true that the Gyms are a better team. There is another feature and one which a well-known local fostball player spoke well of vesterday. It is to have an all-Pittsburg team to meet the best teams that come to this city. If the ques-tion of superiority between the Three A's and the Gyms could be settled then some thing could be done toward organizing an all-Pittsburg team.

FOOTBALL RULES.

An Eastern Authority Explains Why Some Changes Should Be Made.

Discussing football rules a writer in the New York World says: The American game of football has now been reduced to a science. Every team of any pretentions plays the general style of game. What is needed is a clear and coneise set of raies. The changes which are made from year to year are welcome, but they come slowly. As they now stand the . rules are but skeletons. Last fall they voted to make the ball dead after a try at the goal from a touchdown. This was a sensible move, but there are many more formal and senseless strictions which should be stricken out. Take, for instance, the rule which, by the way, is only an implied rule, which forces a man to hold the ball from the ground before a place kick for goal. Why not let it it on the ground and wriggle it around to suit the taste of the kicker, stend of holding it on two fingers and let-ting it drop just before the kick? It is only a formality which does no good to

Then there is the rule or the punt out of bounds, the kick out after a touch-in-goal, the vagueness of the word "interference" when a player is trying to make a fair catch, and many others. All these things should be changed. At some future date when the smoke of many battles has disap-peared I shall dwell further on this subject.

The team has been badly crippled of late, but expects to show up in full strength on Wednesday. A good many alumni are coming back to see the game.

The Brooklyn Trouble. New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—F. A. Abell, of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, was yesterday asked by a DISPATCH reporter if there was any serious differences between the managers of that club. He said that there was some friction, but that the trouble was all between Mr. Doyle and himself. His relations with Mr. Bryne and the other gentlemen connected with the club were of the friendliest character. What would be the outcome of his trouble with Doyle it was impossible to say. He had no doubt the Brooklyn team would play in the

Mr. Abell is of the opinion that unless baseball is soon put on a business basis the game will die out. He thinks the League and Association are making a great mistake in continuing the fight. Mr. Abell further says that no New Yorkers will go into their pockets for the purpose of putting an

BASEBALL MATTERS. Rumors That J. Palmer O'Nell Has Been Asked to Join the Association-What He Says About It-A New Move at New York-The League Meeting. A well defined rumor was circulated in local baseball circles last evening to the effect that the Association magnates, or at least some of them, are making overtures toward getting J. Palmer O'Neil interested in the American Association. Mr. O'Neil was seen and spoken to regarding the matter, and, while he would not deny he had been approached, he stated that he did not intend to have anything more to do with baseball as soon as he was out of the National League. He was also shown the following special from New York to this paper: "It is understood here that New York will be taken into the Association, and that all the former Giants now signed with the American Association will play in the proposed New York's. Phelps, Von der Ahe, Mutrie and J. Palmer O'Neil are said to be engineering

Mr. O'Neil, in reply, said he could not prevent people talking, and he insisted that at present he has no intentions of going over to the Association, although his treatment in Pittsburg has been of the most un-grateful and meanest kind. Mr. O'Neil may not go to the New York meeting as one of the directors, as he wired President Young yesterday asking if it were necessary for him to go. If it is not necessary he will remain at home. Without doubt, matters are now becoming exceedingly interesting between the Ameri-can Association and the League, and those who have money invested in the latter are acting very foolishly in weakening their forces at present. Whatever may have been the faults of Mr. O'Neil, nobody can deny that he was one of the best advocates the League ever had, and just such a man that is a tower of strength to a party at a time like the present.

utrie Says He Will Have a Good Te and Plenty of Money. NEW YORK, Nov. 9 .- [Special.]-Jim Mutrie does not appear to be at all disheartened because he was deposed from the management of the New York Basebail Club. On the other hand, he bobs up as smilingly as ever. He says that the national game will be booming in this city next year, and that the present New York club will not receive all the patronage. "There will be an American Association club in this city as sure as guns." he said, "and I will have the entire management. Right now I can place my hands on $25,000 that have been subscribed by a few prominent men of this city and vicinity, and I am confident that I can get all the money I want to place a first-class club in the field. That will be done, and I am going to work hard to perfect the arrangements at once. When asked whether he would have any trouble in obtaining a franchise, Mutrie re-plied: "None whatever. We have a fran-chise now, The American Association has told us to go on. That's enough, isn't it?"

TRAINING

Interesting Pointers About Short and Long Distance Running.

HOW SPRINTERS CAN START WELL. Methods of Daily Exercise to Be Followed by Amateur Athletes. GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

Frequently amateur athletes want to know ll about how to train for toot races. The following advice by an Eastern authority is sure to be interesting and to a great extent

No printed instructions can make an as piring athlete a good runner, and the absurdity of telling at long range, with no information but the writer's age, the class of running he is best adapted for must be apparent. As to "systemizing" a way, that is entirely out of the question, for the system or course of training which would benefit one runner might produce a harmful effect upon another. The beginner himself must determine which branch of running suits him best, assisted by the advice of an experienced clubmate or trainer. If he shows fairly good speed, has good lung power and sturdy highs and legs, sprinting would be his forte. If he is not especially qualified as a sprinter, it would pay him much better to enter the ranks of the distance runners. First-class sprinters, like poets, are born while perseverance in training will do much to bring the long-distance runner into the front ranks, always provided that no organic or other physical ailment is in the way. Distance running has also the advantage of being far more conducive to good health than the lightning, heart-breaking, muscle-rending spurts of the short-distance

Learn to Start Well. If sprinting is decided upon, the most important thing to learn is to start well, which is at times half the race. Practice starting with clubmates, and, in addition to getting away quickly, endeavor to reach the top notch of speed as soon as possible after leaving the mark. Beginners should be careful to select clubmates who are steady on their marks in practicing this most important adjunct of sprinting. Forty to 50 yards is enough to run at each practice start. In training for a sprint it would be well to run two-thirds of the distance at top speed one evening and the full distance the next.

Practice starts of about 40 yards each should be sandwiched in. In distance running the beginner cannot be too careful not to overdo the thing at the start. The first object should be to cultivate a good stride. Perfect this in easy jogging. The style should be natural; speed will come later. A practice spin of a mile on evening at an easy logging goit will soon an evening at an easy jogging gait will soon condition a man. In training for say a mile race, the proper amount of work for a week would be: Monday, three-quarters of a mile at fair speed; Tuesday, a fairly fast 600 yards; Wednesday, a mile at a steady pace; Thursday, half a mile at almost racing speed; Friday, three-quarters of samile at a steady pace; Saturday, a few short sprints of 100 yards. Keep up training until two days before the race, just taking enough exercise in the two days to keep the muscles limber. If training for three to five mile races, about half the distance one day and twothirds the next at an easy, jogging gait is recommended, and for a ten-mile race in proportion. Some trainers advocate only three times a week. There can be no fixed rule, because, as said, what will do for one man will not answer for another. Let the athlete run as long as he enjoys the exercise, but exhaustion is to be avoided in practice as well as finishing up a distance run with a sprint. Sprinting short dis tances and running fast quarters at times is to be recommended. Walking at all times cannot be other than beneficial. Dieting Days Are Past, The days of dieting an athlete are past, and trainers permit their charges to eat most anything they fancy. The restrictions against pastry and tobacco are still enforced, however, and these would be good things to taboo. Beefsteak, chops or eggs, with catmeal several times a week, for breakfast, roast meat or fowl, with vegetables, for dinner, and chops, toast and tea for supper is the customary fare. But any wholesome food that the athlete fancies may wholesome food that the athlete fancies may be eaten. Several glasses of ale, porter or stout during the day will not retard the

After exercise a light shower bath may be taken, or a sponge bath with plenty of rock salt in the water would be better, as it hardens the flesh. After the bath a good rubdown with a coarse towel or flesh gloves is in order, and is very beneficial and invigorating, hardening the flesh and reducing the

The foregoing are simply a few of the principal rules used by the best runners. The way to win races, trophies, and fame will come with experience. With the injunction to remember that a race is never over until the tape is breasted, and that success is the result of patient, faithful work only, the correspondent knows all that can be told at long range.

The Derby of 1393. CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The list of entries to the American Derby of 1893, which was given out to-night, includes the names of the young horses that something less than two years hence will contend for the richest prize ever offered for 3-year-olds in any country in the world. A HIPPODROME AT COLUMBUS.

The Gorman-Comer Lightweight Meeting No Good at All. COLUMBUS, Nov. 9.-[Special.]-Ed Gorman, of Buffalo, and Tommy Comer, of Cincinnati, two lightweights of some note, fought at the Casino to-night for $1,000 a side and the gate receipts. It was a hippodrome in all the word implies. Many sporting men had been called here from Buffalo, Cincinnatt, Chicago and other points, expecting to see a finish fight, and there was promise that such would be the case. It developed, however, before the contest was on, that Comer had been lushing all day and was in no condition to enter the ring, and Gorman did him in short order by forcing the fight. The two first rounds consisted of an effort on the part of Comer to avoid punishment, and in the third he was forced to the grass. As he tried to get up he received another side cut and feigned exhaustion. The fight was then given to Gorman. Every one connected with the affair was denounced as fakirs, and it is generally understood the close was arranged in advance. Gorman is the man who was put in as a ringer at Buffalo on which contest Elton Chamber lain made a winning and litigation followed over the affair. EASY FOR JOHNNIE

Griffin Knocks a Good Man Out in One Short Round. BAY St. Louis, Nov. 9 .- [Special.]-Johnnie Griffin and his trainer, Jimmie Carroll, walked 16 miles on Wesdnesday, part of which was made over the big bridge of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad that spans the bay. They returned to their quarters fresh and strong. Griffin then sparred with one of the best boxers on the seacoast and knocked him out in the first round. The amateur said: "I tell you he can hit hard, and is as active as Fitzsim-Carroll has grown very enthusiastic over his man and says: "I will bet a pile of money that Griffin will win. I know what I am talking about." When asked as to what he thought of the Olympic Club's $2 admission fee to the contest he said: "It will not be a men less."

will pay. There will not be a man less than 4,000 present." than 4,000 present."

Carroll says that Griffin is easily managed, and is always willing to do his duty.

Jimmic further claims that he never bothered Fitzsimmons in his training, and it is the same way with his feather-weight. He says his experience is that the more a trainer dogs the footsteps of his man the more inclined he will be to evade his work.

Attached the Money. John Quinn, the backer of George H. Smith, in his footrace with S. J. Farrell, of Connecticut, at Recreation Park, Saturday, went before Judge Stowe yesterday and obtained an order restraining A. R. Cratly, the stakeholder, from turning over the stakes. The race was 300 yards for $500 a side and the gate receipts. Smith lost, but his backer claimed the race was not fair and went into court. Judge Stowe granted the restraining order and fixed the first Monday in December for a hearing. Nathan Jink's Ceallenge. MCKEESPORT, Nov. 9 .- [Special.]-Nathan Jinks, the quoit pitcher, who recently defeated Ryan, has issued a challenge to Charles Wheatman, of West Elizabeth, to pitch him a game for $200 under conditions similar to those of Saturday's match.
