PROPRIETOR OF A BUCKET SHOP. Believed to Have Been Swindled by His FOR EACH INSERTION when paid for in vance either at main or branch offices. Gambler Patrons.

CONSCIENCE MONEY RETURNED BY ONE

The mystery of young Frank Doyle's suicide increases with investigation. Mr. Doyle's father, who is a prominent insurance man in Cleveland, returned home yesterday after making inquiries among his son's associates, and has come to the conclusion that some deep plot was the cause that led to the rash act. Attorney Marron is the administrator of the young man's estate. It has been discovered that he with several others had been running a bucket shop in one of the upstairs rooms at 411 Smithfield street. The place was well atronized and claimed to have a Western nion wire. It has been closed since Dovle's suicide, and his associates, whoever they were, have remained strangely silent.

Kept a Diary Written in Cipher. All efforts to get trace of them have failed, nd in order, it possible, to find out how the business was conducted, a cipher diary, which was found in Doyle's possession, has been sent to New York experts for transla-tion. Doyle was a short-hand writer, and the diary was kept in a system adopted by

As was stated in THE DISPATCH the day after the suicide, Doyle was a medical graduate and an expert electrician. He formerly was interested with George Carter an electrical store at 125 Fifth avenue, t last August he disposed of his interest to his partner in order to go into the bucket shop business. He had previously been a heavy dealer while the place was run by Wilson and later on when Alexander was proprietor. The place was purchased from Alexander, and since Doyle took charge was doing a good business. It was the rendez-vous of that class of gamblers who have little money and hope to get a stake ahead for the more exciting games. A few clerks patronized it and the others were Believed to Have Been in Debt, When Doyle went into the business he had about $2,000, but when he died nothing could be found but notes aggregating between $600 and $800. The opinion is held that he was cheated out of his money and also got in debt to his gambler friends who patronized the bucket shop. The latter class refuse to talk, but it is believed all information will be got out of the diary.

Since the suicide the people who have patronized Doyle's place have been worked to a fever of excitement over the fact that an investigation is to be made. Like all camblers they are superstitious and one of them became so badly frightened that h took some money to Attorney Marron and confessed that he had got it from Doyle in a dishonest way. He said his conscience troubled him and he wanted to return it.
