UNFERMENTED WINE AT COMMUNION

Boston, Nov. 18.—The morning session of the last day of the dual convention of the World's and the National W. C. T. U. was opened this morning with the usual devotional exercises. First came the report of the Social Department under the charge of Mrs. Anna M. Hammer, of Pennsylvania, the subject being "What Are the Departments of Parlor Meetings, Flower Missions, State and County Fairs and Unfermented Wine Doing for the Prevention of Intemperance?"

The first report was given by Mrs. Hammer, who said: "This is the time of the fulfillment of prophecy, when the spirit is poured out upon the daughters and the women have gone into the vineyard to grapple with the subject neglected by man. This is our work, and for it we claim the aid of the cultivated women of the land in settling the question of temperance. This is not an esthetic department, but one of earnest effort."

Flowers as Silent Missionaries.
The Department of Flower Mission, under the supervision of Miss Jennie Casseday, was reported by Mrs. Hammer. "Flowers are distributed in the prisons and hospitals, and many a man has been led to think of home and many more to see the errors of their life by the innocent and silent workers." She paid a glowing tribute to Miss Casseday, of St. Louis, the originator of the idea.

Mrs. Nichols, of the State and County Fair Department, said that if you want to reach people for the temperance cause go to the fairs, and if you want to make money go, also, to the fairs, for there the people congregate. In England they have made great work in going to the fairs, both national and international. In speaking of the Paris Exposition she said that President Carnot expressed great delight in the corner devoted to the work.

COMMUNION WINES IN PENNSYLVANIA.

In Pennsylvania fully one-third of the churches use fermented wine, but this proportion is being gradually reduced by the local unions. The people are being awakened to their duty through the churches.

Mrs. Theresa A. Jenkins reported for the Legal Department. She made an earnest plea for the unrestricted enfranchisement of women. She said that every State should reported progress. A free ballot for women is only a question of time.

A poem dedicated to Miss Frances Willard, by Miss Ella G. Ives, and entitled "O God Save Our Queen," was read by Mrs. Partridge.

Mrs. Hannah J. Bailey spoke for the Peace and International Arbitration Department, and her remarks were full of hopeful outlook for the future. "Standing armies will exist so long as the world runs, if people will continue to use alcoholic drinks." It was voted that a telegram be sent to the Executive and Legislative branches of the United States against any belligerent action on the part of the United States against Chile.

Prayer and Bible reading followed. "Conquerive me, O Lord, in Thy Service Now," was sung by request of Lady Somerset.

A CONGRESSMAN LOSES HIS SUIT.
The Case of Hon. James L. Belden Versus Ex-Judge Brock Decided for the Latter.
New York, Nov. 18.—Judge Ingraham, of the Supreme Court, to-day took up the suit of Congressman James J. Belden as the holder of $50,000 in bonds of the Columbus, Hecking Valley and Toledo Railroad Company against Judge Stevenson Brock and his associate directors of the road, the railroad company, Winslow Lanier & Co., Drexel, Morgan & Co. and the Central Trust Company. Belden seeks to recover his money, charging fraud on the part of Brock and others in connection with the execution of a consolidated mortgage of $14,500,000 and an misappropriation of $8,000,000 of the proceeds.

The array of legal talent on either side is quotable. Elihu Root opened the case for the plaintiffs. At the close of Mr. Root's argument, Hon. C. C. Cox, representing the railroad, said the whole matter had been submitted to arbitration in Ohio, and Judge Ingraham decided against the plaintiff.

FOR CONSUMPTIVE SOLDIERS.
The Commander of the G. A. R. Asks Uncle Sam to Buy Mt. McGregor.
ALBANY, Nov. 18.—In speaking of the proposition that the Government assume the ownership of Mt. McGregor, on which stands the Drexel cottage in which General Grant died, John Palmer, Commander in Chief of the G. A. R., to-day said:

"We believe and have recommended that the National Government ought to take this property for a Government sanitarium for consumptive soldiers, thus securing also the Drexel cottage, which is now situated on the G. A. R. property, consisting of about 250 acres at the top of Mt. McGregor, on which stands the cottage and the hotel Baltimore, having accommodations for 500 people. I understand the price is put upon the property, therefore the Government could acquire it by commission at a reasonable figure."

Gay's Library Given to Princeton.
PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 18.—Prof. Libbey has presented to the college library the library of the late Prof. Gay, which consists of 8,000 books, pamphlets and maps. This collection came into Prof. Libbey's possession through Ernest Sandoe, Prof. Gay's nephew. The collection is very rich in books of early dates, and contains complete sets of scientific magazines.

Route Railroad Business.
The Pittsburgh Freight Committee met in the Lake Shore offices yesterday to dispose of a lot of routine business. They were in session the greater part of the day, but the agents declared nothing worth noting was done.

Another Canadian Boodler Arrested.
OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—J. R. Arnold, formerly mechanical engineer of the Public Works Department, was arrested this afternoon charged with conspiring to defraud the Government. He was immediately bailed out.

TO-DAY we offer special inducements in new imported French carriage wraps, mostly richly fur-trimmed. On first floor of cloak department to-day.

A GIFT TO THE CITY.

Henry Phipps, Jr., Donates $100,000 for a Conservatory in Schenley Park—Partial Decision on a Site—May Result in More Gifts of a Similar Nature.
Henry Phipps, Jr., of Carnegie, Phipps & Co., on Tuesday, in a letter to Mayor Gourley, donated to the city $100,000 to build a conservatory at Schenley Park. It is further understood, though not stated in the letter, that he will double the amount if necessary, in order that Pittsburgh will have the finest conservatory in the country. The letter contains no stipulations, as the following copy will show:

NOVEMBER 17, 1901.
DEAR SIR:—If the city grants me permission I shall be very glad to erect a conservatory in Schenley Park at a cost of say $100,000. In the event of favorable action, my good friends, Messrs. E. M. Bigelow, Chief of Department of Public Works; Oliver P. Scaife and John Walder, have kindly consented to act as a committee to aid me in the matter. We shall endeavor to erect something that will prove a source of instruction as well as pleasure to the people. Respectfully yours,
HENRY PHIPPS, JR.

The Mayor replied last evening, thanking the donor in suitable terms on behalf of the people, and promising to properly submit the matter to Councils. Chief Bigelow is undecided where the new building will be placed, but has intimated that a point 1,500 feet southeast of the Forbes street entrance bridge would be the most convenient and otherwise desirable location. Mr. Phipps in an interview gave it as his desire that the conservatory when built shall be kept open seven days in the week, though he does not say so in his letter. It is understood the ministers will not make any move in opposition to this.

The gift has caused much rejoicing in the city, and everyone thinks it will greatly increase the city's beauty spots. There is already a popular Schenley Park. Chief Bigelow is particularly happy. Controller Morrow thought the gift most timely and the donor most generous. Said he: "I have expected to hear from other public-spirited men since Mr. Carnegie's magnificent gift. This last will probably cause still others to open their purse strings in behalf of the city's beauty spots. There is plenty of room at Schenley Park yet for other gifts, that will not only beautify the place, but make monuments to the generosity of the donors that will endear them to the people. Handsome fountains, monuments, entrance gates similar to the Allegheny Cemetery entrance, and in a few years, a manager building, are some things that would be suitable and appreciated."

Charles Clark last spring expressed an intention to donate $50,000 to build a conservatory at Schenley Park, but for some reason he has not yet fulfilled his intention, although he and Chief Bigelow went West a couple of times to examine similar buildings there.

DEATHS HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

Rear Admiral George H. Cooper.
George H. Cooper, Rear Admiral in the United States Navy, died at his home, Brooklyn, Tuesday. He had been ill only a short time, his death being due to heart trouble. Rear Admiral Cooper was born in Fort Dinwiddie, N. Y., in 1821. He became a midshipman in the navy at the age of 16 years, and went with a fleet to the coast of Florida to co-operate with the army engaged against the Seminoles Indians. From 1852 to 1857 Midshipman Cooper served on the Constitution in the Pacific squadron, and in 1858 he became a passed midshipman and went on the "Tiger" to the Mexican war. He led a successful attack on Point Isabel, and was captured at Montevideo. He was later exchanged, he was present at the attacks on Tobasco, Alvarado and Tuspan. From 1847 to 1851 he served at the Norfolk Navy Yard, and then joined the East Indian squadron for five years. He had become a lieutenant on May 8, 1851, and in 1853 he was promoted to the rank of commander. He served on the frigate Koonoke until July, 1856, when he was made a commander and given charge of the supply ship Massachusetts. He commanded several vessels during the war, and for seven weeks was on the monitor Sanguinetti inside Charleston Roads constantly shelling Fort Sumter and Sullivan's Island. In 1867 he was appointed Captain, and in 1874, because of gallantry, from 1880 to 1882 he was commander of the Brooklyn Navy Yard. After that time, in 1881, he was promoted to the rank of Rear Admiral, and upon leaving the yard was given command of the North Atlantic squadron. He was retired in 1881.

Mrs. T. M. Bohrer, Musician.
Mrs. T. M. Bohrer, one of Erie's leading musicians, died suddenly yesterday morning. Mrs. Bohrer had been in poor health for some time, but her sudden death was unexpected. Mrs. Bohrer had been the organist and musical director at St. Patrick's Cathedral for over 20 years. She leaves a husband and seven children. Mrs. J. P. Bohrer, of Oil City, and a sister, Mary, of the Sisters of Mercy, in Latrobe, are also sisters. The deceased was one of the best known lady organists and musical directors in Western Pennsylvania.

J. O. Straub.
J. N. Straub, of the Eberhardt & Ober Brewing Company, died at his residence on Mt. Troy, Allegheny, yesterday morning. Mr. Straub was 81 years of age and was one of the oldest brewers in the state, having been in that business in Pittsburg and Allegheny since 1832. The deceased was the father of Edward F. C. Horner, Mrs. John and Miss Margaret Straub and Mrs. F. Krebs.
