One other city clergyman, of the A. M. E. Church, did not favor the method taken by the conference of dealing with this question. He said tobacco was largely a personal matter with preachers, and no one could pretend to say that sin and misery flows from the use of tobacco, as they do from the alcohol habit. A minister who does use the weed is generally a little touchy on the subject, and he should be respected in his peculiar beliefs. He did not look for a reopening of the subject at the next annual conference, at least he expected it to be treated lightly if it did come up again.

An Example for White Ministers,

The reporter asked a well-known white clergyman his opinion of the movement. "Very good," he replied, "and I hope it will bear results worthy of the stamina required to put forward a resolution of that kind and pass it. Now, such a thing as that would be impossible in the particular denomination which I represent. Our preachers are largely inveterate smokers and chowers-in this district, I mean, for I know nothing about the habits of preachers in other districts. Many of them are extremely sensitive about it, and would probably de ride the man who had courage to pose as a Perhaps; sincere reformer in this respect. Perhaps, after all, though, it is better to avoid formal action on such a delicate subject, and rely upon a general raising of the tone of the church for the same good results. In this way offense would be averted, and the practice of questionable domestic habits quietly but firmly discouraged. My word for it, when a smoking preacher goes to a congregation where cleanly parishioners frown upon his habit, he will find it out in a more severe way than his brother preachers can tell him of it. Still, if oar colored brethren are in earnest about this matter, it will set a conspicuous example to the white minis-

YACHTSMEN HELD AS SMUGGLERS.

An Uppleasant Expressing to a Pleasur Craft Party in the Port of Honolulu.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19-A letter received in this city from Honolulu reports that a great sensation has been caused there by the arrest of the owners of the British vacht, Beadle, who were charged with smuggling 30,000 English sovereigns into that port. About September 1, the yacht, containing Messrs. Bloom and Douglass, the owners, and a young man named Joseph Byrne, arrived in the harbor. The party rentee a fine residence, furnished it hand-somely and entertained royally. On the arrival of the steamship Australia from the colonies came a detective and a story of the robberv of a bank at Sydney of over £50,000. The detectiva left a photograph in the possession of Marshal Wil-son, which tallied with the appearance of one of the parties here, and left on the Ansralia for San Francisco, for the purpose, as he said, of cabling to Sydney for further instructions. It was the intention of Bloom and Douglass to spead a few months on the island, but they suddenly changed their minds and prepared to leave November 5. At soon as the clearance papers were given, a charge of smuggling was prepared against the men, and they were placed under ar-rest. At their trial the Crown asked for further time, requesting their detention un-til the steamer arrived, which would bring the detective or the desired evidence. The cabins of the yacht were searched, and no overeigns were found. Being unable to the charge of smuggling the Crown dismissed the case against the owners, and they sailed away on Monday. Their destination is said to be Japan, but it is in-timated that they will touch at San Fran-£1900.

POOR CORRIDOR LIGHTS.

Electric Illumination Badly Needed in the Postoffice,

There is a good deal of dissatisfaction among the employes and the people over the poor lights in the postoffice corridors. Through an oversight no money was provided for wiring the building, and at present gas is used. For the last two nights they have had no light at all, and the busi ness men and others have had to strike matches to find their boxes. The air circu-lating in the corridors condenses the gas in the pipes and the lights go out. It became the pipes and the lights go out. It became necessary to lock the doors during the cold snap on the Fourth and Third avenue sides, and only one door was used on the Smith-field street entrance. There was a good deal of grumbling from people who had to walk around to the front of the building. Postmaster McKean has tried various de-vices on the jets without success. First they had chandeliers, then the Seaman lamp was used, but as usual the cold air put the was used, but as usual the cold air put the lights out. Mr. McKean thinks that electrie lights should be supplied for the corri-dors at once. The light for the employes in the mailing departments is sufficient; but electricity is preferred, as the gas flickers too much.

Another cause of complaint is the lack of railings around the stamp windows so that only one person could pass through at a time. At present a crowd gathers, and women are jostled unpleasantly. It would not cost much to supply electric lights for the halls and railings for the windows.

ALMY SENTENCED TO HANG.

The Conclusion of the Trial of the Murderer of Christie Warden.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 19 .- When the Court House doors were opened this morning the waiting crowd entered with a rush. packing the building to suffocation. Almy, the murderer of Christie Warden, came into court wearing a haggard look, but he tried to appear unconcerned and took his accus-tomed place. The court was called to order quickly, and Counsel Burley began his argument for the defense. He admitted murder, but only in the second degree, the pen-alty for which is 30 years in State's prison. The jury at 2 o'clock this afternoon returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. Almy was sentenced to be hanged on the first Tuesday in December, 1892

The latter may be real ized at any rate judging from the only well, in the valley to the east which has yet reached the Gordon sand. It is Davis & Brown's No. 1 on the brickyard lot, located east of 45-degree line through the Rend well. Yesterday the brickyard well was drilled deeper into the Gordon sand and increased its production from 150 barrels a day to 360 from the Gordon formation. More Men Than Needed.

Operators are not the only ones who have been disappointed in the McDonald field. Ever since the field was first opened up men have been pouring in from all parts of the country looking for work. Dozens of them had just enough money to get there, and, consequently, after the first few days were compelled to rely on the generosity of their friends to live. While speaking of this state of affairs yeswhile speaking of this state of affairs yes-terday, a contractor said: "There are six men for every job. We cannot hire all of them, and it is really pitiful. There is lit-tle or no work being done in the other fields, and all of the idle men in them who could when a fare have a smart N when the raise car fare have come to McDonald. A good driller is nearly always in demand good driller is acaly aways in demand under ordinary circumstances, but when all of the drillers in the country pour in upon us the supply greatly exceeds the demand. On several wells that I know of old-time On several wells that I know of old-time and trusty drillers are working as tool-dressers, where two or three years ago they would have scorned the job. There is scarcely any chance for a general roustabout down here, and new men cannot get work as tool-dressers when old drillers can be employed. It would be a very good thing if the men in the other fields understood the situation so that they would not come flowing in here that they would not come flowing in here promiscuously without first securing a job in advance. Should a new field be developed in the southwest as anticipated it is very likely that many more men would be employed than there are at present. You employed than there are at present. You see when operations are active it takes a good many men to supply the demand. First, there are the teamsters, then the rig builders, the tank builders, and then comes the drilling crew of two drillers and two tool dressers, who are em-ployed on every well in this country, from 35 to 50 days. Thus in putting down a well eight or ten men are given employment " ranging from a lump the size of a walnut to found on shore, in black soil where trees are growing, at considerable elevations above the water.

More Oil near Woodsfield.

A piece of this strange substance has just been submitted to expert examination in New York, and is declared to be what is known as mineral wax. This substance has for years been known to exist in the lignite beds of the Northwest. The quantities found on the Oregon coast would seem to indicate the existence of a tertiary lignite bed in the neighborhood. It belongs to the hydro-carbon series allied to the retinites and ambers-fossil remains of resinous trees of the tertiary age.

Lake Dwellers of the Present Day.

It is a singular fact that in our day there are lake dwellers whose habitations are almost exactly like those of people who lived in Switzerland thousands of years before the dawn of European history. Thousands of the natives of New Guinea build their houses over the lakes and rivers, on poles stuck into the bottom and connected above the water by withes or thongs. Above these the houses are constructed. The floors are made of bamboo or palm branches, and the sides of the dwellings are formed of poles, interlaced and bound together. Villages having several hundred houses each, and each sheltering from 10 to 30 persons, are often found in places naturally sheltered from high winds. The villages are connected with the shore by bridges that may quickly be displaced in an emer-gency. The lake dwellers of New Guinea, like their ancient prototypes in Switzerland, and, like the cliff and cave dwellers, aimed primarily at safety from attack by hostile tribes and carnivorous animals.

Niagara May Be Utilized.

Many an inventor has lain awake nights puzzling his brain with the problem of util-izing the mighty energy that is wasted in the waterfall of Niagara. This great power is now made serviceable, to a limited extent, near the falls; but the dream of th inventor has centered in the transmission of the power to distant points, even to the ex-tent of operating engines in the city of New York with energy drawn from the waterfall.

waterfall. From Germany we have just received much encouragement for the project of utilizing Niagara at long range. Lauffen-on-the-Neckar is 108 miles from Frankforton-the-main. At the former place electric energy has been successfully generated by waterfall power and transmitted to the lat-ter with a loss of only 25 per cent. When we consider that in the generation of steam only 14 per cent of the energy can be utilized, and that only this fraction can be conveyed to the dynamo for producing elec-tricity, it will be seen that the Niagara project is something more than a dream. man could not finish the work in time, as Messrs. Weigand and McLaran are in after some ten days' work while occasionally in times past three assessors spent about three times as much time. The Commissioners took the ground that one man could do the work sooner than three, as he would not be obliged to stop and debate values. It is said the returns made by the two who have reported show a considerable increase in valuation, and it the rest of the assessors 'do as well justice will be in a great measure attained, and some districts will not escape taxation at the expense of their neighbors, as has heretofore been the case.
