THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE

PAPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. NEW YORK, Nov. 21 .- Mr. Cleveland's friends have not been very much encouraged by the developments of the past week. They have had convincing proof submitted to them that Governor Hill is receiving in his Presidental aspirations the financial support of many of the most influential and most liberal corporations.

Hill's intimate friends have invariably conceded that the greatest obstacle he had to contend against was poverty. Hill went into politics a fairly prosperous lawyer from Chemung county. He had put away for a rainy day over $10,000 in gilt edged securities. His practice was large and growing. As a lawyer he was regarded as one of the keenest, most thorough and most resourceful in the Southern tier. He seldom lost a case. Elected Lieutenant Governor he exchanged certain success in his profession for the precarious existence of a politician. Succeeding Mr. Cleveland as Governor, his heedlessness and indifference in personal monetary matters, and his habit to chip in prodigal sums for Democrane campaign committee's uses led to the obliteration of his nest egg and the eventual dependence upon his $10,000 a year salary as Governor.

He Rues Bis Prodigality.

It is only during the past year when he became convinced of the security of his position as a Presidental possibility that he began to realize his weakness from a finanrial standpoint. All last winter to his intimate friends he wailed over his poverty and the money he had squandered. He had done favors of a positive and negative character for nearly all the financial instiintions of the State during the six years he bad occupied the Governor's chair. The policy before him was plain and its execu-tion was not to be delayed. Toattend upon these various companies and to enter upon an understanding, explicit and implicit, was a matter of the highest responsibility from his point of view to his friends.

The results have been gratifying in the extreme. Outside of the missionaries raveling in many States manufacturing sentiment for the Governor-Senator and his terary bureau, which has been working on time and under the shrewdest wire llers since election day, Hill has within he past week received assurance that he could rely upon whatever assistance can be rendered him by one of the leading insurance companies of the country.

Insurance and Politics Mixed. One of the ablest insurance men in the country is John A. McCall. For years be had been an ordinary clerk in the Insurance Impartment at Albany. In this capacity he phase of it. In 1880 John F. Smythe, the lean boss of Albany county, having pointed Superintendent of the In-Department by Alonzo B. Cornell. nted McCall his deputy, a positon h he held till 1883, when Grover Cleve-and selected him to succeed Smythe. Mcment till 1886, surrendering it to accept the $25,000 n year billet, as comptroller of the insurance company referred too.

Between Governor Hill and McCall relations of the most cordial character were established which were riveted into closer bonds in 1886, upon Hill's discovering that the man he had made superintendent to succeed McCall, namely Robert A. Maxwell, was bending all his influence to promote and strengthen Grover Cleveland's chances with the Democracy of the State. From that time Maxwell's advice was unheeded in the executive chamber and Mc-Call became the power behind the throne in all matters of insurance.

Wherever and whenever Hill has ap-peared within the past year, at a public guthering or a private entertainment, his insurance Fidus Achates has invariably nen seen at his elbow. It has only been carned what the true inwardness of this intimacy portended, since Flower's election ighout the country this insurance company, like its competitors has established sgencies that are in charge of and that employ wide awake, energetic men. A candidate for office who reposes any part of his interests in the hands of such men ought to more than satisfied with the results; for shoobbing as insurance are with all classes of people, in one town to-day, another to-morrow, they are admirably qualified to manufacture public sentiment with apparent disinterestedness and without the faintest suspicion that they are playing

Besides, it is a diversion that can be purseed without discredit to themselves or without compromising the company, while its effects upon the object of their admir-ation cannot be otherwise than gratifying. In addition to this, the rumor comes from Albany that the moment Governor Hill throws aside the cares of the gubernatorial chair, his unue will be placed on the voluminous pay roll of the Equitable as special counsel, the salary to be determined here-

McCall for the Treasury Portfolio.

It is the knowledge that he has obtained so powerful a solicitor as McCall and so important a connection as the insurance company that has given the Cleveland people so much concern this week. And what is to be McCail's reward? The Hill leaders have Iready slated him. Two contingencies are in the way, however, of Hill's nomination and election as President. Once Hill is closted President his Secretary of the Treasury will necessarily be chosen from New York. In such an event, it is claimed, Mc-Call would have the call by a large ma-

This is discounting the future with vangeance; but a politician is never happy at he is engaged in this occupation, and the successful politician is never so success ful than when he happens to work out a combination he planned a year or 18 months

Ten Thousand Copies of a Denunciatory Pamphlet to Be Issued-Special Attention Paid to Honest John's Soldier, Labor and Race Expressions.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21 .- [Special.]-There is a smoldering sensation in connection with the Senatorial contest. The Foraker faction is preparing to explode a bomb, and, if reports are true, the missile will fall Monday or Tuesday.

A large-sized pamphlet is being printed, and 10,000 copies are to be laid before an innocent and unsuspecting public. It was the intention to keep the matter secret until the document was ready, and then parade it with pomp and display. The pamphlet deals with Senator Sherman's Congressional record, and shows the Senator up, according to statements, in a rather awkward light

It will show that he was on the wrong side of the soldier question in several instances, particularly when the acreage pension bill was under consideration in 1884. Further, it will show his attitude on the labor question when bills affecting the unionists were under consideration, and also contains the quotations from the Congressional Record in which Mr. Sherman is said to have reflected on the colored citizen. The book is said to contain much of a sensational character concerning Sherman's official acts during his 30 years in Congress, and its appearance is awaited with consid-

ONTABIO'S HARVEST

The Tield of Grain This Year Is Unpre cedentedly Large.

TORONTO, ONT., Nov. 21.-The report of the Bureau of Industries, issued yesterday shows that the yield of grain in Ontario this year is extraordinarily large. Fall wheat averages from 25 to 30 bushels an acre in many sections and weighs from 60 to 66 pounds per bushel. Spring wheat and oats are also far above the average. The crops of wheat, spring and fall, are estimated at 32,584,026 bushels, nearly half as much again as the crop of 1890.

The out crop exceeds the light one of last year by more than 22,000,000 bushels, while the average per acre is the highest in ten years. The root crops are enormous, but potatoes are much damaged by the rot. The acreage of barley sown is 148,000 acres less than last year, yet the crop is 541.337 bushels larger, owing to the great yield of 29.2 bushels per acre. The acreage sown in fall bushels per acre. The acreage sown in fall wheat this fall is 15 per cent greatef than that sown in the fall of 1890, but the prospects of the yield are hardly as good as they

There May Be a Road Congress Pittsburg may be visited with a mammoth road congress this week, although definite arrangements have not been made yet. In September A. Middieswent, of Ohio, wrote to the Chamber of Commerce saying the Road Congress of the United States wanted to hold its annual meeting in Pittsburg on or about November 23, and desired to know whether a hall could be secured. He said there would be about 200 delegates present. His letter was answered, and an invitation ex-tended to the congress, Carnegie Hall having been secured. He was not heard of until last week, when he wrote saying there would be over a 1,000 delegates present if proper railroad arrangements could be made, but just now there was a hitch between the railroad companies and the congress. This leaves the matter in an undecided shape, and it is not known undecided shape, and it is not known whether the convention will be held. SATURDAY'S POLICE GOSSIP.

The Alliance at Outs With the Anti-Sub-Treasury People.

INSTRUCTIONS TO CONGRESSMEN. They Must Not Join in Caucuses on the

Speakership Issue. MANY CHANGES IN THE CONSTITUTION

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Nov. 21 .- The Alliance Council has made several changes in its constitution. The first change relates to the business agents who have heretofore been members of the council. By this arrangement the agents are disqualified from membership. The reason of this is that it may become necessary for the council to sit in judgment on the agents, and that it is not considered proper that the agents should be members of the body that is to inquire into their alleged misdoings. The second change permits females to pay the per capita tax and thus become a basis for representation the same as males. The third change refers to the matter of eligibility for membership. Hitherto persons of mixed occupations could join the Alliance. This clause was repealed, and in its place was adopted a provision that membership shall be restricted to farmers and farm laborers.

Another change refers to the matter of rocuring legislation. Hitherto there has been a national committee on legislation composed of the Presidents of the various State Alliances.

The Legislation Committee Abolished.

This committee was abolished and provision was made for the selection of a committee of five to act as an advisory board to the President. The reason for this change is that presidents of State Alliances are not lawyers, and are not selected with reference to their legal acquirement of knowledge of legislative demands. The council to-day listened to General Lecturer Wright, of the Knights of Labor, in relation to the Rochester labor troubles and then adopted resolutions denouncing the Rochester Clothing Combine for its action sgainst Knights of Labor officials.

Conference With Anti-Sub-Treasuryites. "The committee appointed to confer with anti-sub-Treasury people reported that the Chairman addressed a polite note to Mr. McAllister, giving him notice that the committee would meet his party at the Hotel Denison. The committee met Dr. Pope Yeomans, William S. McAllister and Mr. Gates. Dr. Yeomans, the spokesman for the anti-sub-Treasurvites, affirmed that the only object and motive on their part was to bring about an understanding of the dif-ferences, and to present to the Supreme Council their objections to the Ocala platform. He was requerted to proceed, which he did by reading a lengthy demurrer to our financial and railroad plank. The committee arranged for a joint public discussion upon the differences, upon equal terms, be-tween Dr. Yeomans and some one to be seferences. It is a well-known fact that two or more of the committee were Alliance men with the password and could have taken their seats upon the floor of the council.

They Will Not Be Becognized Hereafter. "This would have been an orderly and brotherly way of settlement, but without the public notoriety and scandal sought by them. The refusal of Dr. Yeomans to join in a public discussion involving his protest and the Ocala platform settles one fact that it was no desire of the anti-sub-Treasuryinform or convince this Supreme Council of errors. The committee recomfuture no attention be given or recognition granted to any one claiming to be an Alli-ance man while, at the same time, affiliating with the band known as the U. S. Hall, McAllister and Yeomans, the anti-sub-

Treasuryites."
The Committee on Confederation reported recommending confederation with the K. of L., F. M. B. A. and a dozen other orders, and advising the election of delegates to the February assembly of these confederated orders. The report was adopted, and one delegate from each State was chosen to represent the Council. The National Legislative Council was made to consist of the President and Secretary of the council and three members to be elected. The President has also the right to call into consultation the Presidents of the various States' alliances. A resolution was passed favoring the granting of pensions by the issuing of full legal tender paper money to all honorably discharged Union soldiers who were disabled or in needy circumstances.

HE SUES MRS. PARAN STEVENS FOR BREACH OF PROMISE.

The Society Lady Declares the Suit Is an Outrage-She Will Fight It if It Costs Her $20,000, She Says-Both Sides of

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 .- [Special.]-A tall, rell-built man to-day walked into the office of Lawyers Barnett and Moran and said he was Mrs. Paran Stevens' chef. She had en-gaged him for a year. She discharged him before the year was up, and he wanted to sue her. His name is Desire Schmitt. He said Mrs. Stevens had engaged him June 23, while she was in London. He was in Paris at the time with his wife and son. Mrs. Stevens brought him over and took him with her to Newport for two months.

Then the household came to New York, and Mrs. Stevens, he says, began to scold him. October 29 she called him to the par-lor and said to him: "Go! Leave this

A PLEA FOR THE TOOTHBRUSH.

Proper Disinfection of the Mouth After Meals and Before Retiring. (WRITTEN FOR THE DISPATCH.)

There is no part of the human body which furnishes a better spot for cultivating bacteria than the mouth and teeth. Up to the present time researches have made known to us 19 different pathogenic microorganisms which inhabit the mouth. Many of these organisms are non-pathogenicthat means that they do not produce any definite disease-but may aid in the development of certain diseases, of which up to the present time nothing is known.

These organisms of the non-pathogenic kind live and propagate upon the various mouth and upon the particles of food which have been allowed to remain between the teeth after meals. These last organisms act deleteriously on the teeth only. They have also the chemical power of changing the secretion of the mouth into certain acids and ferments.

Profs. Leyden and Joffe found that species of bacteria called Laptothrix Bucolls found in the mouth, under certain conditions, has given rise to severe lung trou-bles. Also that another species of bacteria found in carious teeth give rise to abscess of the neck, tooth abscesses, chronic dis-turbances of digestion, both stomachic and intestinal, tonsilar abscess, diphtheria, etc. Amongst these bacteria already known is also a species called pathogenic, that is of the special disease-forming kind, and now proved to be present in the mouth beyond a doubt. The pathogenic kind may remain in a latent condition until a time presents itself for development in a certain medium, as, for instance, after the extraction of a ooth, where a fresh wound is left.

Now, the question arises from these facts: How shall we prevent these bacteria and micro-organisms from developing? What should be done? Above all, have all carious teeth removed, or, if not removed, filled. Diseased tissues, such as enlarged tonsils, etc., should be attended to. One of the most important articles of prevention is the ooth-brush. This little and useful scrapes must be used, as well by children as by adults, after all meals without exceptions. In order to destroy such organism as are present in the secretion of the mouth, and upon and between the teeth, an antiseptic or disinfectant must be applied freely. Children as a rule swallow while gargling with fluid. It is, therefore, necessary that only such disinfectants should be used of a non-poisonous nature. The zymocide is the newest of these.

It is entirely free from poisonous vegetable and mineral chemicals, and no danger need be apprehended from the absorption through the mouth, stomach or wound. Di-lute the zymocide 10 to 20 parts with water. Other remedies, as carbolic acid, salicylic acid, corros ve sublimate, etc., act deleteriously upon the teeth, and are of a poison ous nature. The peroxide of hydrogen, (medicinal), (Marchand's) is also a very good remedy, diluted with three-fouths of water. Use either of these freely with the brush and as a gargle. E. MOUNT BLEYER, M. D.

PRPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. CLARKSBURG, Nov. 21.-The sensational shooting of young Filmore Davis last night, at New Milton, Doddridge county, is likely to bring on one of the bloodiest family feuds in West Virginia. For the past 25 years the Randolph and Davis people have been enemies, and in that time hardly a session of court occurred that there was not one or more suits brought up between these families over disputed properties. Both families are among the oldest in the State, the Randolphs being the Western branch of the famous family of that name of Eastern Virginia, while the Davis element dates back to the first settlement of this State. They

to the first settlement of this State. They have always been at variance in religion, politics, and socially, but this is the first deed of bloodshed in the long war.

The Randolphs, who are large storekeepers, have advertised their goods by placing posters along the road, which were invariably defaced, or destroyed. Finally L. F. Randolph erected a huge bill board inside his fence, on which he not only warned people from interfering, but advertised his goods. The serenading party, mentioned in these dispatches last night, in a spirit of mischief entered the premises, and while playing on their instruments, began defacmischief entered the premises, and while playing on their instruments, began defacing the bill boards, when parties concealed on the premises opened fire, killing Davis. There is no positive evidence that the Randolphs—who owned the place—fired the shots, but circumstantial evidence, including the fact that the fire was centered on young Davis, an angient enemy of their young Davis, an ancient enemy of their house, has pointed toward them the finger of public suspicion. Great excitement exists in the neighborhood, the Davis faction being wild, and further bloodshed is feared at any time.

ITALIANS IN A BAGE

They Become Wild Because Their Car Was in a Collision.

St. MARY'S, O., Nov. 21 .- [Special.]-Intelligence has just reached this city that a riot occurred at Yorkville, a village on the Chicago and Erie Railroad, 25 miles northwest of this city, last night. Fifteen or 20 Italians who were employed on a work train, were locked up in a car, which was left standing on the side track by the crew of a local freight who were on bad terms with the natives of Italy. A little later the local engine backed in on the sid-ing and striking the car containing the Italians, sent it spinning down the track, when it collided with a loaded wheat car with terrific force, knocking the stove down and upsetting the Italians. Two of them were badly burned, but will recover. As soon as they were released they swore

When the Italians saw that they had left their rage knew no bounds, and thinking that perhaps the inhabitants of the village had a hand in the inhabitants of the village had a hand in it, they armed themselves with clubs and rocks and proceeded to clean out the town. Things looked bad for awhile, but quiet was finally restored. In the fraces four Italians were badly done up, while one of the vil-lagers was dangerously hurt by flying

DETERMINED TO DIE

A Woman Tires of Living and Tries Twice

to Drown Herself. STEUBENVILLE, Nov. 21 .- [Special.]-Au attempt at suicide was made last night by Ellen Kain, of this city, but formerly of East Liverpool. About 7:30 last night William Walker was informed that Ellen Kain was waiting to see him at his saloon When he appeared she stated that she owed him $3, but that her son would pay him the amount, as he would never see her again; that she was tired of living in the way she had been and proposed to drown herself. Walker advised her to go to bed, as he knew she had been drinking heavily for the past

He left and a moment later a woman ar peared and asked for her. They went to the door just in time to see Ellen Kain going across the tracks of the Cleveland and Pitts burg road on a run. He never for an in-stant thought she was in earnest about the drowning story, but when he heard the other scream he rushed down to the river and found her standing up to her shoulders in the water. The woman fought desper-ately, but he finally succeeded in getting her to shore. During the night she made the second attempt, but was prevented from dong herself any harm.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE It Burns a Hotel and a Number of Stores in an Ohio Town. ZANESVILLE, Nov. 21.-[Special.]-A fire broke out in Cambridge yesterday afternoon. Despite the efforts of the fire department, it gained ground, and the Hotel Berwick, recently built by Hon. Joseph Taylor at a cost of $60,000, is in ashet. Ayers' clothing store, Hornbrook's shoestore and Campbell & Carlisle's hardware store, the general offices of the Cleveland and Maritta Railroad and several smaller stores ave been burned. Telegrams were sent to this city for as-istance, but as there are no fire engines here nothing could be done. The engines at Newark were summoned, but a wreck in the suburbs of that city, which required an hour and a half to clear, prevented their being sent. The loss of property will amount to $140,000. Fully insured.

SWINDLED THE PHYSICIANS. Sharp Young Man Reaps a Rich Reward

for Rognery. ZANESVILLE, Nov. 21 .- [Special.]-C. A. Hollie, a young man who gave his home as Cincinnati, and claiming to be a representative of a medical magazine published in St. Louis, has been in this city several days, but suddenly disappeared. He issued to the physicians whom he had obtained as subscribers a certificate of membership in he St. Louis Medical Association. This was supposed to entitle the holder to pooks at wholesale prices. composed of a large number of the leading business men of the city, who were highly gratified with both the general and specific howing presented.

During the course of his remarks he said:
The municipal, industrial and commercial life of civilized nations has invariably centered on its great river or inland water cities. The river cities of the Loire, the Rhone, the Garonne and Seine have for centuries controlled the destiny and added to the splendor of France. The rich and powerful towns of Germany may be found along the fertile valleys of the Aller, the Elbe, the Rhine and on the Baite, or Russia, on the Volga, the Danube and on the Baick Sea, while the secret of the wealth, power and commercial supremacy of Great Britain lies on the banks of the Clyde, the Tyne, the Severn, the Mersey and the Thames.

On the Hudson, the great lakes, the Delaware, the Mississippl. the Missouri, the Ohio, the Monongahela, the St. Lawrence, the Arkansas, the Tennessee, the Cumberland, the Sacramento, and a dozen other rivers, have sprung into existence cities that give glorious promise before the century closes; cities that can claim tribute from areas as vast in extent as some European nations and which are destined to become as populous and as opulent as the greatest centers of European population. At the rate of growth of the last decade the metropolitan districts of New York will in 25 years exceed in population the metropolitan districts of London, the area of the two d stricts being about the same, and the decade will bring the population of Chicago up to that of Berlin, of Philadelphia up to that of Vienna and St. Louis up to that of the world's great emporium of commerce on the Mersey, Liverpool.

Mr. Porter read from the division of manufactures an interesting statement in regard to the world's great emporium of commerce on the Mersey, Liverpool.

The increase is over 1880. The figures show the advance of the woolen industries in the United States during the past decade: Number of establishments, 2,652 increase, 270,000,732.

The rich manufactures, 1890, $344,299,636; increase, $77,046,733.

The year 1889 90, a comparatively dull year in the woolen manufacture, i During the course of his remarks he said: The municipal, industrial and commer-ial life of civilized nations has invariably

BROOKLYN IN DANGER.

A Break in a Big New Water Main Buries Four Workmen, and

THREATENS A PRETTY DRY TIME.

The City's Source of Water Completely Cut Off, and One Reservoir

MUST SUPPLY THE RESIDENTS TO-DAY

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Nov. 21 .- By the eaving-in at 1:30 this afternoon of the bank of the new auxiliary water main alongside of the old Brooklyn conduit four workmen were buried alive, and their bodies have not yet been recovered. Horrible as this disaster is in loss of life, the results may prove still more farreaching, and seriously impair the comfort of the one million odd residents of Brook-

The incoming supply of water of the city has been completely cut off, and unless the damage caused by the cave-in can be repaired before Monday noon the 90,000,000 callons of water in the Ridgewood reservoir will be exhausted, and Brooklyn citizens will either have to dig up old wells or draw upon the limited supply of New York City, There is one well in the pumping station at Ridgewood from which 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 gallons a day can be forced, but that would not be enough to prevent a water famine. The broken conduit is buried under 35 feet of sand, and no attempt was made to uncover it to night. The workmen refused even to go down into the trench where their fellow workmen had been buried until the big pile of sand on the side of the embankment that threatened at any moment to slide down into the trench had been removed. A Water Famine May Be Averted.

A gang of 130 Italians is working all night to remove this sand and to-morrow morning an effort will be made to recover the bodies of the men who were buried and to expose the broken conduit. Unless the break is very serious the engineers of the water department think it can be patched water department think it can be patched up so that it will carry water enough to prevent a famine. One of the mains of the Long Island Supply Company that runs into the eastern part of the Twenty-sixth ward was broken, and a main of the Union Gas Company was also broken. This last accident left Woodhaven without gas to-night. The men knew that the trench was in a dangerous condition. One of them noticed vesterday that tion. One of them noticed vesterday that the plank sheeting on the side next the con-duit had been forced out, and as he stood in the trench one of the cross timbers that ran along the the cross timbers that ran along the bottom of the sheeting broke, as if under a heavy strain. He replaced it with a new brace, and thought that he had left everything secure for the pipe men, who were to follow. When the men returned to work after dinner to-day a section of pipe was rolled down the east bank to the platform of the steam detriek directly over the and half a dozen men were shoveling away to one side to prevent it from sliding back The Cave-in Came Without Warning. Without any warning this west bank caved in, carrying with it the men who were working on the upper part of the heeting, and several of the shovelers.

Foreman Redding was knocked from the ross brace and rolled over into the trench. For a moment he was unconscious, and then he felt someone pulling him out of the trench. He was rescued. A dozen other Sr. Louis, Nov. 21.—Mr. Robert B.
Porter, Superintendent of the Eleventh Census, delivered an address to-night before the Commercial Cinb, of this city, in which he gave an extensive array of figures and facts concerning the marvelous growth of the country generally during the post decade in respect to its Further up the trench, and away from the derrick house, were half a dozen other men unconscious and half buried by the dust. F. L. Crawford, a son of one of the con-tractors, collected as many Italians as he could, and went to the rescue of the buried men. Four men were dug out and brought up to the bank. In addition to their bruises they were suffering from gas poisoning.

It is supposed that either the Long Island Water Supply Company's pipe burst and undermined the plank sheeting, or that the brick conduit, which was full of holes, gave way under the heavy weight, and that the water from the leak completed the
