STEALING A SENATE.

That Is the Charge New York Republicans Make Against Governor Hill.

OF NATIONAL INTEREST.

If Democrate Rule the Legislature a Gerrymander Will Follow.

NEW ELECTION LAWS PROPOSED

Which Are to Make It Impossible for the Unterrified to Lose.

ACTS THAT LOOK LIKE REVOLUTION

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.-In most of the States the campaign of 1891 closed on election day, November 4, but not so in New York. It is since that date that the most bitter contest has been carried on, and the end is not yet. The struggle is for the Legislature of the Empire State. For years, no matter who elected the Governor or other officers, the Republicans have managed to retain control of one or both branches of the Legislature. Last year the able party measures. If the Democrats had a majority in each branch they would at once proceed to make changes of national importance. The State would be redistricted for Congressmen and Legislators in a manner that would insure Democratic majorities in the future, and a Democratic successor to Senator Hiscock. An immense amount of State patronage would be secured, and to crown all, changes in the election laws would be made, which would make it practically impossible for the Republicans to carry the State, even in a Presidental year.

Desperate Methods Employed.

These are the prizes at stake. The day after election, in the face of the returns, the Assembly was seen to be very close, but slightly Democratic. By the returns as handed to the County Clerks of the State by the Inspectors of Election, the Republicans had elected 17 and the Democrats 14 Senators, while one-J. F. Edwards of the Thirty-second district-was an independent. supported and voted for by independent Republicans and Democrats. Under orders from Governor Hill and the advice of Dpe-uty Attorney General Isaac H. Maynard, proceedings were at once begun in several Senate districts to throw aside the will of the people and to permit the Democrats to steal a sufficient number of votes to insure to them control of the upper body of the Legislature.

For two weeks several Senate districts were so beclouded by the contests of both parties, by the unlawful proceedings of Boards of County Canvassers, by the issue of writs of mandamus, and by the revolu-tionary proceedings of the Boards of Canvassers in refusing to acknowledge the power of the Supreme Court, that even the best-informed politicians of either party were unable to form an idea as to which party would organize the Legislature. The Democrats, however, inspired by advice and encouragement from Albany, from the outset claimed both branches, and predicted and threatened that they would organize them.

Governor Hill at Work.

On the face of the returns the Republicans have certainly elected 16 members, counting Dr. Edwards with them. Seventeen votes control. Governor Hill can rely upon 14 votes, honestly elected. To secure his plans it will be necessary for him to get two more in order to tie the Senate and give Lieutenant Governor Sheehan the deciding vote in that body. He gave orders to stea one district, Senator Deane's, and he will take his chances on the courts giving the Democrats another, Sherwood's, district. One more theft would give him an exact majority.

It is possible that the courts will decide that Franklin D. Sherwood, Republican, elected as the successor of J. Sloat Fassett, is ineligible on the ground that he was an officer of the City of Hornellsville within 100 days of the election, in violation of the Constitution; for the Attorney General, in a written opinion, declared him to be in-eligible, and copies of that opinion were posted throughout the district.

There was curious figuring done in Dutchess county. The returns electing Osborne from that district now filed with the Secretary of State are suspicious on their face. Flower, who ran ahead all over the State, is given but 8,409 votes, while Osborne for Senator is credited with 8,462. Fassett has 8,334 and Deane, for Senator, but 8,278, while the blank votes for Senator reach the unusual total of 183 and but 79 blanks are reported for Governor. This counts on its face anything ever achieved in the palmiest days of either Albany or Rensselaer county.

Republicans Denounce the Scheme. "If the people of New York will submit to the Dutchess county outrage liberty of the ballot is at an end," said Cornelius N. Bliss. "It is the result of a conspiracy which would justify revolution. It is useless to talk of amendments of the ballot laws, when men could be found who openly and in defiance of law and public opinion, and in obedience to the orders of a Governor who is a disgrace to the State, will steal a Legislature. Democrats and Republicans are alike interested to prevent the crime from being consummated. If such a crime can be successfully perpetrated our liberties are in danger." Ex-Congressman George West expressed his disbelief in the possibility that any such fraud as that attempted in Dutchess county fraud as that attempted in Dutchess county would be tamely submitted to by the people. "It is not the first time that the decision of the people has been reversed by Democratic trickery in this State," said Mr. West, "but the chickens are sure to come home to roost, In 1882 I was counted out after I had been fairly elected to Congress by the Republicans, and the seat was given to Edward Wemple, the present State Controller. Two years later I was renominated against my expressed wishes, but my friends were deterpressed wishes, but my friends were determined that the wrong should be righted, and I beat Mr. Wemple by 1,800 majority. I know Governor Hill well—served with him in the Assembly in 1872—and I would like to say to him that he is attempting too much. He has not got the Senate yet, and he will not get it either. He will find that there is such a thing as law in this country, can have everything his own way at Al-Some Remarkable Returns.

and judges who dare enforce it. Mr. Hill has many obstacles to overcome before he

To-day there was made, public here by Secretary of State Rice the remarkable election returns sent by the Democratic Board of Supervisors of Duchess county. As is well known, Mr. Hill dispatched Denvisor Attenue General Mayard to Deputy Attorney General Maynard to Poughkeepsie to instruct that board as to the ways and means of increasing the os-tensible vote for Osborne, the Democratic candidate for Senator, and to diminish that cast for Gilbert A. Deane, the Republican candidate. The election returns stated that Mr. Deane had 83 plurality in the Senate district, composed of the counties of Dutchess, Columbia and Putnam, In Dutchess county, before Mr. Hill began his manipulation, the election returns stated that Mr. Osborne had a plurality of 43 votes. When Mr. Hill completed his manipulation yesterday a plurality had been manufactured for Osborne amounting to 184. A sufficiently large plurality was thus created for Osborne to surpass the plu-ralities of Mr. Deane in Columbia and Putralities of Mr. Deane in Columbia and Putnam counties.

It is a sufficient indictment of this forged plurality to say that one of its most scandalous features was the discarding of 31 Republican ballots cast for Mr. Deane because some printers' leads had become displaced, and thus the ballots were slightly marked with ink. This fault of the printer, for which, surely, the voters ought not to be held responsible, is made the basis of transferring the certificate of election to Mr. Osborne.

The Democratic Position The Democratic justification for these revolutionary acts may be found in the following extracts from an editorial in today's New York World:

day's New York World:

The Constitution of the State of New York prescribes, in article 3, section 4, that: "An enumeration of the inhabitants of the State shall be taken, under the direction of the Legislature, in the year 1885, and at the end of every ten years thereafter." This mandate, incorporated in the Constitution to secure equal representation of the people in the Legislature, has been defied and disregarded for the past six years. The enumeration due in 1885 was not made. The Legislature insisted upon a complete and costly census. The Governor, a part of the law-making power, maintained that a simple "enumeration of the inhabitants," as required by the Constitution, was sufficient. But the mandate stood. The obligation was a continuing one.

But the mandate stood. The obligation was a continuing one.
Yet year after year Republican Legislatures neglected to perform ther duty. Last winter the Democratic Assembly passed an enumeration bill so fair that even partisan criticism was silent before it. It was suffered to die in the Senate. The higher Legislative body trampled upon the Constitution and denied justice to the people.
The Constitution of the State, in article 3, sections 4 and 5, decrees that "the said districts shall be so altered by the Legislature, at the first session after the return of every enumeration, that each Senatorial district shall contain, as searly as may be, an equal enumeration, that each Senatorial district shall contain, as nearly as may be, an equal number of inhabitants. The members of Assembly shall be apportioned among the several counties of the State by the Legislature, as nearly as may be, according to the number of their respective inhabitants." The State has not been reapportioned since 1875. As a consequence, 1,300,000 of the inhabitants are without representation in the law-making and tax-rating body. "Taxation without representation is tyranny" as much now as it was in 1776. The nullify a provision of the Constitution in order to prolong minority rule is treason to the republican principle of government. Democrats had a majority on joint ballot, but the Republicans held the Senate, and of course were able to shelve all objection-

Such are the claims of the two parties. The importance of the issue can be seen. The final outcome is still in doubt.

One of the little girls announced her intention to take to the old lady a basket of food. The other scholars quickly fell in with the idea, and yesterday afternoon nine little girls, each armed with a big basket filled with all sorts of eatables, from reast turkey to mince pie. made a descent upon Mrs. Nolan. The old woman was, of course, taken completely by woman was of could only say, with tears in her eyes: "God bless you little girls. SHE FLIES TO A NEIGHBOR'S HOME. The Bold Burglar Failed to Find the Hidden Family Savings.

NEWSY NOTES FROM NEARBY TOWNS

ALTOONA, Nov. 25.-Last week one evening during the absence of Mr. C. T. Holsinger, who lives near Ore Hill, his wife, who was alone with her three children, noticed a man standing in the road in front of the house, but, supposing it to be some person passing by, she paid no further at-tention to him until she saw him in the yard behind the house; but, supposing it was some neighbor on an errand, she lit a lamp and seated herself at a table. She was, however, soon surprised to otice a man looking in at the window, yet

she supposed that some neighbor, perhaps was looking in to see if her husband was at was looking in to see if her husband was at home, and as the man disappeared she re sumed her work. But soon after the man appeared again, gazed in at the window for a moment and disappeared. Thethought that some villian might have known that they had $1,000 in the house with which to make a payment on farm recently purchased now terrified her. Alone with three small children, about one-eighth of a mile from her pearest neighbor, what to do she knew not. children, about one-eighth of a mile from her nearest neighbor, what to do she knew not.

Again the face appeared at the window, and by pushing the lamp up close to it she noticed that the man was masked and that a revolver gleamed from his coat pocket. She hurriedly caught up her two smallest children, and, followed by the oldest, slipped out of a back door and ran to her nearest neighbor, James McGregor, and notified him of what had happened. Mr. McGregor, with Mr. Holsinger, a young school teacher, hurried to the scene of the trouble, and on their way met Mr. Holsinger, who was on his way home. The three searched the house, but found no one in it, but upon investigating if anything was missing, they found that a trunk in which $600 was kept had been ransacked.

Fortunately the thief, in his hurry, failed to find the money, it having been hid in some clothing. Four hundred dollars more was undisturbed in another part of the house. Mrs. Holsinger is now confined to her bed as a result of the shock. The would-be thief was evidently some person who knew considerable of Mr. Holsinger's business affairs.

The company asked for a four-year extension, with six per cent interest, one fourth to be paid annually. Yale Men Expect to See an Exciting Struggle in New York To-Day.

The New York trains on the Pennsylvania road were crowded again last evening with people going to see the football game. Half of the delegation were Prince-ton men, and the talk was not so strong in favor of Yale as on the evening before. R. V. Messler, a Yale man, said that the game would not be as one-sided as people expect. He had been watching the papers and college periodicals closely, and he thinks Princeton will give Yale a close fight. Harvard, he said, made a great mistake in not adopting Yale's style of team work. Princeton has been playing after the Yale pattern, and the Jersey fellows are posted on all the tricks.
