Heresy Hunters Are at Present Having a Rest, but It Is at Best

ONLY A QUESTION OF SHORT TIME

When the Orthodox and Heterodox Conflict Is to Be Decided.

GLEANINGS FROM CHURCH PIELDS

The heretics are having a rest of late, but there is little doubt that they will come to the front later on. The conservative element of the Presbyterian Church seems reluctant to enter upon the trial of Briggs. But the orthodox party are determined to force the issue, and it is only a question of time when the heretics will be called to judgment.

What the final outcome of the contro versy will be, no man can tell. That the Christian denominations are on the eve of a crisis is undisputed. Doctrines that were unquestioned a generation ago are now subjects of sharp controversy, and present disputes in the ecclesiastical world are bound to shake the old faiths. Truth is sure to win in the outcome of these anxious ques-

MORE THIRD SAND OIL CHESS.

The Gordon Pool East of the Mc Donald Is Proving Very Prolific.

TWO NEW WELLS JUST FINISHED.

Many Wells Which Are in the Third or on

Top of the Fifth Sands. POOR SHOWING AT THE MALT HOUSE

There were two more big Gordon sand wells added to the list yesterday. The first belongs to the Liberty Oil Company, of Pittsburg, and is located on the Jernell lot, just west of the trestle leading across the valley from the Nickel Plate mine, in the eastern part of the borough. It started off at 30 barrels an hour and was immediately shut down until the boiler could be moved back. The other belongs to Davis, Brown & Co., and is their No. 2 on the brickyard lot north of the original Rend well. It was showing for at least 20 barrels an hour yesterday. Rend & Robbins' well on the slaughterhouse lot, located 400 feet northwest from the Rend well, was shut down on top of the Gordon yesterday until connections could be yesterday until connections could be made to the tanks. W. P. Rend's Nos. 2, 3 and 4, on his own property around the Laurel Hill coal mines, are all on top of the Gordon sand, and will be drilled in to-day or Monday. Clark & Bannister's well, on the Huleret lot, located 400 feet northeast of the Jewell well, was drilling in the bottom of the Gordon sand yesterday without showing any increase. A light pressure of gas was found in the fifth sand. This well started off at over 200 barrels from the Gordon sand but has now dropped to half that amount. The fifth sand was fine and white and devoid of any indications of oil. Moyer & Co.'s No. 2, on the U. P. Church lot, is down 1,200 feet. Clark & Bannister are drilling at 1,100 feet on the Walker property. Brownyer & Co. are down 1,100 feet in each of their wells on the Duquesne and Wellington lots, and have commenced to drill No. 3.

The Mevey Has Gordon Oil.

The Mevey Has Gordon Oil. Guckert & Steele's No. 6 on the Mevey farm is making 250 barrels a day from the ortheastern corner of the farm, and near he Elliott farm. Their No. 9 is drilling in the Elliott farm. Their No. 9 is drilling in the third sand. Hays & Gartland's No. 6 on the Miller farm is putting out 100 barrels a day from the Gordon sand, and No. 8 50 barrels a day from the same rock, with a string of tools in the hole. They have given up their efforts to get the tools out and will now try to drill past them. Black & Co's well, on a lot located 400 feet west of the Jewell well, is on top of the Gordon sand. Greenlee & Forst have started to drill on the Wade f. rm, about half a mile south of McDonald station. The Moorhead well of the Venture Oil Company is making from 250 to 300 barrels a day, as near as can be estimated. The tanks were all full and the oil was running off, until vesterday afternoon when the Southwest Pipe Line Company completed a line to the well. As soon as the tanks are emptied the well will be drilled deeper. There are a good many people in McDonald who believe that the town is yet in its infancy, and that operations around it have only been commenced. They base their calculations on the work which is already in contemplation between McDonald and the Moorhead well. McNall & Co. expected to reach the fifth sand last evening in their well on the slaughter house lot, west of Noblestown. Their well on the Church lot is down 1,800 feet. Hawley & Co. are down 1,750 feet on the schoolhouse lot. Guffey, Jennings & Co's Nos 2 and 3 Mathews are in the Gordon. Guffey, Murphy & Galey's No. 4 Elliott is light in the Gordon. The Oakdale Company's No. 4 Morgan heirs, and their No. 4 Wailsce are on top of the fifth sand, and their No. 2 Baldwin is on top of the Gordon. In and Near the Fifth. the third sand. Hays & Gartland's No. 6 on

In and Near the Fifth. The Forest Oil Company's No. 9 Shaffer is in the fifth sand. Greenlee & Forst's No. 1 Bailey is fishing on top of the fifth sand; their No. 1 Marshall should be in the Gordon Monday, and they are rigging up at their Gamble No. 6. The Oakdale Oil Company is down 900 feet on the Gormley farm. W. L. Mellon & Co.'s No. 4 Neeley was drilling in the fifth sand yesterday. Their Metz No. 4 was in the fifth, and the hole stands full of oil, Brighton & Co.'s well on the Stickney property is six feet in the Gordon, with 100 feet of oil in the hole. W. P. Rend & Co.'s well on the Stinkmeyer farm, a mile and a half northwest of Noblestown, has been drilled a few inches in the Gordon sand and the hole is standing full of oil. This farm is just north of the Gabriel Walker farm, on which the Oakdale Oil Company and Bartlett are fishing for the tools in the Gordon sand. Gordnier, Snyder & Co.'s well on the malt house lot at Oakdale is in the bottom of the Gordon and has only 200 feet of oil in the down 900 feet on the Gormley farm. Gordnier, Snyder & Co. 3 well on the mait house lot at Oakdale is in the bottom of the Gordon and has only 200 feet of oil in the hole. It was looked upon as a failure in the third sand last evening. Mechlin & Shaffer's well on the Collins property back of Oakdale should be in the Gordon to-day. Patterson & Jones expected to get in the fifth sand at their No. 2 Shaffer last evening. Riddle & Co. will start a rig on the Fife farm Monday. The Royal Gas Company's Nos. 5 and 7 on the Santers farm were reported as below the level where the fifth sand should have been found without getting a showing of oil. The stratum where the sand should have been was cut up by streaks of slate. The formation is said to have been much the same as in the Druart well in the South, which was alternating layers of sand and slate for nearly 30 feet. These wells were southwest of Hays & Gartland's big Miller farm wells from 400 to 500 leet, and between the latter and the big Sauters No. 3.

J. C. R., Wilkinsburg—Your contribution would have been thrown into the waste basket, because you failed to give us your name, but we are ever ready to correct mistakes that appear in our department, and as you direct our attention to what you seem to think, in your ignorance, a great affair, but to one accustomed to reading checkers from figures sees at a glance that at the twenty-first move of game No. 192, "Bristol," that instead of 11-16, 12-16, was the move played, as the twenty-sixth move shows by the jump 26-12, forming the following pos the jump 26-12, forming the following posisition: Black, 1, 2, 3, 11, 13, 15; white, 12, 21, 22, 30, 31, 32. Black to play, and from the twenty-seventh move we have one of as pretty endings as is published, until the seventieth move was made, which was an oversight and lost white a pretty game.

B. McFaulds, Courtney, Pa.—Your favor of the 23d, in solution to problem No.35, at fifth but we are satisfied white can win. Try it

GAME NO. 199-SINGLE CORNER. The following game was played in Mercer, Pa., between George W. McBride, Attorney at Law, and the editor of this column. The game is very old and the trap which white goes into at the eighteenth move seems to be little known outside of book players. We deem it worthy of diagram, for no less an authority than Lawrence Armstrong, of Blythsdale, Pa., was caught in it three times by Mr. B. G. McGrew on his last visit to Pittsburg. to Pittsb

VABIATION A.

Mr. John Mulholland, in practice, throws the man on 21, and often draws, but the win for black is still here, as the following from A. D. P. shows. 21—17 | 22—18 | 18—9 | 25—22 | 31—25 | 22—12 14—21 | 16—14 | 1—5 | 5—14 | 13—17 | 14—17 VARIATION 2.

We give the following play as the strongest for white, and we would advise our friends who do not claim to be experts to study it carefully as the play leads into what is termed first position, and there are very few outside of those who study publised play can win it, though William Payne's published play, showing a win in 1756, 135 years are.

BLINDFOLD CHECKER PLAYING. Mr. J. P. Reed, of Chicago, the famou Mr. J. Reed, of Chicago, the ramous blindfold checker expert, entertained the visitors to the State tournament to a feast after the playing in the tournament had come to a finish for the evening, it having been decided by the two principals for the final round to postpone their contest until friday evening at 8 r. x. Six of the visitors were then invited to sit down and play Mr. Reed, and the following gentlemen came forward: Mr. Nesbit, of Tarentum: Mr. Ripper, of Beaver Falls; Messra. Stewart, Smith and Gibson, of Washington, Pa. and Mr. S. E. Johnson, of Allegheny City, and after a contest of one hour and a half's duration the games were brought to a close, with the following result: Reed, 3 wins and 3 draws. It was enjoyed immensely by the many patrons of the hotel, and by none more than the genial proprietor himself, who gives to the use of the checker players his large and well-lighted rooms gratis, even going to the expense of furnishing tables and boards for their use; giving to the players an advantage and privilege not enjoyed in many cities in the Union.

WYLLIE AND BARKER. WYLLIE AND BARKER.

The following letter was received by Robert McCall, of Glasgow, Scotland:

With regard to Mr. Wyllie's remarks in your issue of November 7, they sound to me as ill-judged, to say the least, after the manly and conciliatory utterances of Mr. Barker. I surmise that Mr. Wyllie has construed the American champion's words as indicating a want of courage, which I assure him is not the case, as I will explain.

The day that I left Providence, R. I., Mr. Tilinghast, who is Mr. Barker's princinal backer, said to me: "Barker does not dispute Wyllie's title, neither will he challenge him; but if the veteran is persistently anxious for a match, you may say that I will back Barker for £100 or £200 a side, the match to be played in any neutral town in England, Barker to be allowed £20 for traveling expenses, and the stakeholder to be Mr. McCall, of the Heraid."

This should convince Mr. Wyllie of Barker's courage: if he still doubts it, and persists in a contest, let him deposit £20 with you, and it will be at once covered by Mr. Tilinghast, in behalf of Mr. Barker.

I should have sent you these facts earlier, but Mr. Barker's intentions had already reached you, and as they were evidently meant to be pacific, I had no wish to create controversy. I am in no sense a partisan to either champion; I honor Mr. Barker for the manly way in which he repudiates what he considers a spurious title, and returns it to the rightful owner, when he might have chosen a less honorable course.

And I acmire the unconquerable spirit which impels Mr. Wyllie to hurl defiance at his talented compeer, even though he be past three-score-and-ten, and against the advice of his genuine. well-wisher, who may desire to see him emulate the example of Anderson, and retire with his laureis intact.
