

take things in their own hands, and then the epidemic will be abated. Much of the present epidemic of sore throats and sore tongues is due to this terrible chemical solution we are drinking. In justice to the people our city government should act immediately. It can be stopped. The sooner the better.

DEMOCRATS AT WAR.

The Ex-Government Employees Loudly Condemned for Their Active Efforts. THEY SHOULD ALL BE LOCKED UP. Is the Harsh Judgment Which Chairman Brennan Passes on the New Organization's Leaders.

J. M. GUFFEY DOES PLAIN TALKING. This Oil Magistrate States His Position and Severely Reasns Mr. Harrity.

The organization of Democratic clubs by ex-federal office holders in Pittsburgh threatens to create considerable confusion in the party's ranks. Already the anti-office holder element of the party is arranging to organize clubs also, and a lively fight is promised from now until the delegates to the National Convention are chosen.

"What on earth do the ex-Democratic office holders mean," asked Chairman Brennan in reply to a question yesterday. "If the movement is intended to help ex-President Cleveland, then somebody should take charge of the ex-office holders. At least, that is the way I look at the matter.

"In politics," Mr. Brennan continued, "people are guided either by hope or by fear. They are either hopeful of good government, and that they or their friends will profit by their course, else they are fearful that the government and its various branches will not be safe in the hands of those they oppose, or that persons for whom they have a dislike may profit by the success of the other side. If those who hold office under President Cleveland are to take charge of Mr. Cleveland's campaign, that hope have we that those who did not hold office can be induced to remain in the party. It is obvious, even if the ex-office holders are popular, and I am free to say they are not, that as a rule they are condemned not because they are not good men, but because their success meant some other man's disappointment.

Too Big a Load for Cleveland. In my judgment it would be simply suicidal to encourage the ex-office holders to assume charge of affairs in and about Pittsburgh in the approaching national campaign. Mr. Cleveland is a pretty strong man, but he is not able to carry that load.

Mr. Brennan will leave for Washington this evening to attend a meeting of the Democratic District Chairman of Pennsylvania, who will assemble at the Windsor Hotel in that city on Thursday for two purposes. The first will be to discuss the date for a meeting of the State Central Committee, for the purpose of naming a successor to the late William L. Scott on the Democratic National Committee. Then it is expected that they will devise ways and means to assist State Chairman Kerr in his campaign for the Chief Clerkship of the Lower House of Congress. They will endeavor to secure for him the united Congressional delegation from Pennsylvania, and they will probably arrange to assist him in other ways.

The committee which meets at Washington, Mr. Brennan says, will not have authority to act on the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Scott. The vacancy, he says, must be filled by the whole committee. The report will be made on Saturday last to the effect that Mr. Harrity will be chosen to succeed the late W. L. Scott on the National Committee, and that J. M. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, would not be a candidate for the place, is emphatically denied by Mr. Guffey himself.

Guffey Severely Reasns Harrity. "It is true I have not asked a member of our State Central Committee to support me for Mr. Scott's place on the National Committee, but it is just as true that a great many members of the State Committee have written me their objections to my support for the place, and asking me to stand as a candidate.

"I want to say now," Mr. Guffey continued, "that Mr. Harrity will not be chosen for that place in preference to me. By personal appeals he has secured pledges of support probably from a majority of the State Committee, and I have not yet asked any of them to vote for me. I may and I will be made a candidate, but Mr. Harrity is hardly big enough for me to go into a contest with."

Mr. Guffey will probably go East to-morrow. He believes that he could be of great service to the party if he can put in it, and not for what he can get out of it. He has no political ambitions. He will, it is conceded, be chosen a delegate to the National Committee without opposition, and it is not likely he will be asked who he will support for President.

The sentiment in Pittsburgh and in Pennsylvania, it is said by those accepted as authority, is in favor of Grover Cleveland for President, but it is hinted by others that Governor Hill and his friends will not only control the New York delegation attending the ex-President, but that they are quietly making an effort to secure control of the Pennsylvania delegation.

The Straightshots at Work. The new Democratic club promised by members of the State Committee to meet during the last campaign will be organized next Monday night. The movement has been a strong one from the start and has recently found its most powerful exponent in the addition to the ranks of Attorney W. A. Sipe. Mr. Sipe's greatest promise was gained last summer, when he ran for the nomination for judge in opposition to the Governor's appointees and is said to have had promises from a majority of the delegates in spite of the bitter opposition of the party leaders. He withdrew just before the convention, and since then has not appeared on the political board. It was supposed by many that he had gone into the O'Leary-Larkin camp, and his announcement that he will throw his influence with the faction opposed to the present Democratic organization is the biggest surprise that has been expected in the camp of the Randall Club and County Democracy. Mr. Sipe's ability as a fighter was shown last summer when even Judge Kennedy's friends admitted that he had nearly 200 delegates, and that he had more country friends than any other politician in the county, and will now advance on Richmond by changing his residence to Allegheny. When asked his views yesterday, Mr. Sipe said:

"I will join the new Democratic club and use all my efforts to release the Democratic party from the dictation of a few bosses. It will be a fight against the ring and against the party. The organization will not be formed to defeat any one man or promote the interests of a few. The club will be for the masses and will place the initiative fee at a figure that can be met by the rank and file of the party.

dope in the coming Condemnation fight. I will probably move into Allegheny, however, and will be on hand in the struggle for election of State and national delegates. We are not going to let against our party. I will not go to Allegheny to defeat the schemes of the men who have been selling out.

J. B. Larkin, the Democratic leader, whose political scalp is most desired by the men who have sold out, says that he does not think the threatened movement will have much weight. He said disconten is one of the characteristics of a minority party. The explanation he gave for the present outlook was that there are no official favors to be given to party workers, and consequently many become dissatisfied. "When there is a big jack pot," continued Mr. Larkin, "all the players stay in game and take chances, but when there is little to be won they fall out. I don't know what strength the new club will develop, but I don't think there is any reason for getting scared."

Among the prominent Democrats who are going into the new club are Attorney Charles O'Brien, John Huckenstein, T. J. Keenan, Frank Guiry, Frank McGirr, John R. Large, W. D. Moore and William Walk. The meeting Monday night will be held in either Attorney O'Brien or Attorney Sipe's office. Steps will be taken to get club rooms and to secure members.

C. L. Magee was asked his opinion of the movement of these ex-office holders in Mr. Cleveland's behalf, and said: "If the movement is in the interest of Mr. Cleveland it is a very bad thing for him. The organized influence of such a body of men would ordinarily be of great benefit to a candidate, but if the positions are to be mortgaged before the election to the men who previously held, the other fellows will have little hope to stimulate them in the contest. Mr. Cleveland has made such a bargain with the ex-office holders it will be a handicap to him in securing the nomination and will be a still greater one if he should be so unfortunate as to get the nomination."

SCARCITY OF HEAVY OAK. Almost Impossible to Secure Any Large-Sized Hardwood Timber. Engineer Arras, of the Government service, states that the beginning of the end has come so far as white oak in Pennsylvania is concerned. The Government lately gave a contract in this city for some square white oak timber, of a size that a dozen years ago could have been found in the hard lumber yards hereabouts in an hour's search. After a persistent search the contractor then turned up his contract, stating that he could not fill it. It was then given to another and at the end of a fortnight he reported that he had secured all but two pieces, and that they were not to be had. Mr. Arras then got the order modified, and as changed it was filled after all the log rafts lying in the river had been inspected.

Owners of what hemlock timber is left about the headwaters of the Allegheny have finally learned sense enough to refrain from allowing the trees to rot after the bark is peeled, but a few years ago that country was covered by half rotten hemlock and rock oak trees. Now, too, the immense freight on bark is saved. The main is extracted in the woods where the bark is obtained. It is estimated that there are still between 1,300,000 and 1,500,000 feet of merchantable timber in the Allegheny National Valley. This is equivalent to 500,000 horse loads, but while somewhat bewildering in a "figurative" way it will not be many years until the last tree is slain. In this State, that is, in the Allegheny region, and meantime, the railways are consuming all the hardwood large enough to make a tie, so that there is no prospect of a renewal of our hardwood timber in a century and the wood which the other persistents do not readily recollect the wastes. But worse than the loss of timber, for which substitutes may be found, is the fact that since the denudation of the forests our climate has become so uncertain that even with the aid of the signal service no business calculations can be based on the weather and birds and animals have not yet acquired new instincts such as will enable them to seek the shelter of caves. Even the hoot owl misses it as often as the weather bureau.

McKinley Returns Home. Major McKinley passed through the city yesterday morning on his way home from California. The Major is a Presidential candidate, and he maintained a discreet silence of political subjects. He discreetly Mills has the strongest backing, and will be the next Speaker. He had nothing to say about the Senatorial fight in Ohio. He says the tariff and silver questions will be the issues in 1932. New York has quieted down since the election. He added that Tammany was too well organized for "fast" men, and he is anything for the rest until the inauguration. As expected the contest for some of the offices which he will fill by appointment is growing warm. It is thought that James H. McGraw, a Columbus newspaper man, will be the major party secretary. Boyle expected the job from Foraker, but was disappointed. He served McKinley faithfully during the campaign.

Slow Passenger Business. The Lake Erie road sold six round trip tickets to Los Angeles yesterday. General Passenger Agent Clark says the Pacific coast business is dull, but he thinks it will improve a little about the holidays. While a great many people spend the winter in California, the number is not so large as in former years. The steamship companies are also complaining of slow traffic. The vessels are crossing the ocean only half filled. Were it not for the Italians and Hungarians going to Europe, the steamer also would be very slow. The winter business season was not large, owing to the strike, and the Hooking Valley got the cream of the traffic to the lake.

To Maryland for Love. Joseph Pringle, Jr., and Miss Maggie Dwyer, after escaping the vigilance of watchful parents, were married in Cumberland, Md., yesterday. The bride is but 18 years of age, and lived with her parents at St. Albans, Md. The groom is 22 years of age and is connected with the Jarecki Manufacturing Company, and lived next door. They are expected home to-day, when they will probably be forgiven.

School Teachers Want an Advance. About 45 of the 132 Grammar teachers in the Pittsburgh sub-district schools held a meeting at the Central Board of Education rooms late yesterday afternoon. Miss Lizzy Finney, of the Allen schools, was Chairman, and Miss Annie Asper, Secretary. A request for an increase of salary from $60 to $70 a month was formulated and will be presented to the salary board.

The Immigration Question Discussed. About 600 members of the J. O. U. A. M. assembled at Bainbridge Council last evening to hear Colonel W. A. Stone's address on immigration. Speeches were also made on the subject by G. E. Cochran, W. T. Keen, A. D. Wilken, W. H. Graham and others.

VICTIMS OF THE STATUTES. GEORGE BOYD, of McKeesport, was arrested yesterday, charged with robbing the grocery store of Mrs. Annie Speelman, of that city. POLICE OFFICERS SHULTS and Gausman, of Allegheny, were apprehended by Superintendent Muth last night for having helped empty a beer keg while on duty.

WANT HIGHER PRICES. A Suit Entered to Force the Putting Up of Natural Gas Rates.

NO EQUITY IN THE EQUITABLE. Is the Claim Made by the Minority Members of the Company.

TRUSTEES ACCUSED OF PARTIALITY. There has been an explosion in the Equitable Gas Company. The minority stockholders claim that they are not being treated with as much equity as the name of the company indicates they should be, and in order to get a fair show they want the court to declare that the present Board of Trustees is a misdeed.

The complaint made is that a few ill-edged capitalists have grabbed up the majority of the stock, and that they furnish gas to themselves at prices away below the sky high figures of other companies. The minority men say they want to be in fashion and hang their gas rates to a balloon like their rivals do, but they claim, the people in power, with eyes single to their own pocketbooks, have persisted in keeping prices as light as the gas itself. The President of the company, R. B. Brown, acknowledges that the stockholders are heavy consumers and that the rates are not as high as in some other companies, but he adds that the rates are not being organized for and if the minority stockholders want to ask for the same price, all they have to do is ask for it. The company sells almost exclusively to mills and factories.

The bill in equity was filed yesterday by J. T. Keil, W. A. Heyl, A. Frauenheim, C. H. Read, W. Van Buren, N. A. Hemphill, J. Powell and V. Black, shareholders of the Equitable Gas Company, against the Equitable Gas Company, R. B. Brown, George Trautman, Reuben Miller, J. B. Brown, L. M. Morris, C. H. Zug, F. B. Robinson, James Hemphill, A. F. Keating, the Crescent Steel Company, McIntosh, Hemphill & Co., Zug & Co., Pennsylvania Drop Forge Company, Windsor Glass Company, Carbon Iron Company and J. Brown & Co.

Plaintiffs Stated that the Equitable Gas Company, in which they are shareholders, was incorporated in October, 1888. The directors of the company are R. B. Brown, Trautman, J. S. Brown, Morris, Zug, Hemphill, Robinson and Keating. The corporations named as defendants and L. M. Morris are consumers of natural gas furnished by the company. The other defendants and directors, it is stated, are all interested in one or more of these concerns. Under an agreement of April 2, 1890, all the shareholders assigned to Miller, Keating, Hemphill, J. S. Brown and Trautman, as voting trustees, 72 per cent of the stock held in one or more of these concerns. The directors and the defendant corporations in which they were interested finally managed to acquire 11,200 shares of the 20,000 shares of capital stock, giving them the majority. The directors, it is alleged, have since that time used their power to the benefit of and to the detriment of the company and the other shareholders. They have supplied gas to the manufacturing establishments of the defendant consumers, in which the directors and the other defendants are interested, at less than its market price and actual value. R. B. Brown, it was alleged, as President of the company, bought and sold stock, and thereby profited largely to his personal interest not to oppose, but set in harmony with the other directors. The defendants treated the gas company merely as an auxiliary to the defendant consumers' interests and to supply of gas for an inadequate sum.

Glit-Edged Customers Refused. The defendants were given a preference in supplying gas, the supply of others was stopped when there was a shortage, and they paid less than one-third of its market price. Also they kept up the high pressure they desired at their works, an extraordinary and unnecessary expense of $100,000 was gone to in boring new wells, etc. Gas was also refused to customers offering better terms than those paid by the defendants. The court is asked to have an account taken of the gas supplied the defendants and its value and order them to pay full value for and hold the directors liable for what is due, and to have the voting trust declared void, or if it is not declared void to have the present trustees removed. The appointment of a receiver to manage the company in the interest of all the stockholders, it is also asked.

Lyon, McKee and Sanderson are the attorneys for the plaintiffs. Mr. Brown when seen last night had not heard the details of the suit. He said the company has about 40 wells from 6 to 12 miles on the other side of Harveyville. The plaintiffs in the suit, he thought, were principally small shareholders, and he did not see what reason they had for being dissatisfied. The company, he said, was organized for the purpose of giving the consumers gas at low rates, and those who are not consumers had gone in with that understanding.

Taken to Philadelphia for Burial. The body of Jacob A. Phillips, the dead clothing man, was taken to Philadelphia last evening for burial. A young man from the store sat up in the baggage car watching over the corpse. A number of his friends had come from the Quaker City, and they returned with the body last night. In the party was Dr. Leopold, William and Robert Eisner, Jacob Himmelfrich and J. D. Bernd, of this city, who will attend the funeral. A number of sorrowing friends followed the corpse to the depot.

WORLD'S FAIR COMMITTEE. The Chamber of Commerce Hears a Long Report From the Executive Committee of the Columbian Exposition—It Thinks the Appropriation Large Enough.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday afternoon. On the call of the committee, John B. Jackson, Chairman of the World's Fair Executive Committee, submitted the following report: "The resolution of the chamber, passed at its last meeting, authorizes this committee to report on the organization of a permanent committee to work in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State Commission with a view to having the best representation of the interests of Western Pennsylvania at the World's Columbian Exposition. A general call has been made by the State Commission upon railroad companies, mining and manufacturing companies, educational institutions, trade exchanges, labor organizations, etc., to assist in the way of exhibits of such inventions, mechanical contrivances, agricultural and mineral products, scientific apparatus, works of art, etc.

"There can be no doubt but that the ample fund appropriated by the Legislature, viz., $300,000, for the above named purpose will enable the State to make a very creditable exhibit. It is believed that a large and representative committee were appointed by this chamber, it might be the means of securing many valuable exhibits that might not otherwise be obtained. We have in our midst many scientific societies, labor organizations, schools and colleges, all within their respective spheres, working for the advancement of knowledge and the improvement of the welfare of our people. All these various organizations should be appealed to by representations on a general committee acquainted with their aims and object to work in harmony with the desires of the Pennsylvania State Commission and the same means could be taken to reach and interest those directing the affairs of our leading industries and commercial establishments. It seems quite reasonable to believe also that Western Pennsylvania might in some form of a united exhibit attract more attention than would possibly result from the efforts of individual firms, no matter how meritorious their private displays might be. It is believed that a committee composed of representatives of our leading industries and commercial establishments, with her marvelous natural resources and unequalled developments, has entered the field to supply the world's demands in many commodities, and that she intends, with the increasing growth of foreign commerce, to push her wares into many new markets.

"Your committee would recommend the appointment by the President of the Chamber of a permanent committee, to be known as the 'Columbian Exposition General Western Pennsylvania Committee,' acting in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State Commission, and that the committee be authorized to increase its membership, as circumstances may require; to raise and expend funds in the furtherance of its prime object, and that its general chairman report from time to time the progress of its labors to this chamber."

REVERSING THE ROUTES. Changes in the Schedule of the Pleasant Valley Road. A change will be made to-morrow in the manner of running the cars on the Pleasant Valley Street Railway. The Irwin avenue cars will leave Federal street at Montgomery avenue and run along Montgomery avenue to Arch street, up Arch street to Jackson street and thence to Irwin avenue. The California avenue cars will go up Federal street to North avenue, down North avenue to Monterey street, up the latter to Jackson street, and thence to Fremont street. This is a practical reversing of the routes now followed, as the Irwin avenue cars have heretofore gone down North avenue while the California avenue cars have used Arch and Jackson streets. In addition to this change the route along Taylor and Irwin avenues, heretofore used by the Irwin avenue cars, will be abandoned. The change is made because the officers of the company believe it will better accommodate their patrons and enable the cars to make better time. The California avenue cars carry the largest loads, and the delay caused by the grade on Arch street will now be thrown on the lighter loaded Irwin avenue cars.

The Pleasant Valley Company has one improvement it might make that would give more satisfaction than any other. That is, the placing of a stove in the all-night horse car. The car used has neither cushions nor stove, and a ride in it is more conducive to colds and rheumatism than a night out of doors would be. The Manchester line has not yet started up its winter stove, either, on the night cars.

FIVE CENTS, PLEASE. That Will Be the Rate on the Fifth Avenue Cars Again To-Day.

STILL ONE MORE CONFERENCE. All of the Details of the Deal Have Not Yet Been Arranged.

THE STATEMENT MADE BY C. L. MAGEE. This morning 5-cent fares go into effect on the Fifth Avenue cable road. There will be a big reduction in the traffic in consequence, and the Duquesne line will hereafter carry more passengers. Many people in the East End living along the Duquesne have been walking several squares to save the difference in fares, but with the fares equalized will patronize the nearest and quickest line to the city.

It is evident from the statements of the Duquesne representatives who returned from Philadelphia yesterday that the deal between the two companies has not progressed as far as has been anticipated. The indications are, however, that the programme mapped out by THE DISPATCH a couple of weeks ago will be fully carried out in a short time. C. L. Magee's statements in published interviews, and the fact that W. L. Elkins and P. A. B. Widener, of Philadelphia, are to come here again within a few days for another conference seem to fully justify this presumption. Mr. Magee still insists that no actual consolidation has taken place, but says the deal is shaping itself that way and may come in the future. The present arrangement is nothing more than one of harmony and mutual benefit in the traffic business which will be of equal benefit to the public. Colonel Elkins will not assume the management of the Duquesne line yet for a while, according to Mr. Magee. It is evident that the Philadelphia conference caused a postponement of this change, but it will come very shortly there is no doubt. One significant remark made by Mr. Magee was that the two lines will be done on a basis of equality and with the full consent of the stockholders. The management of the lines will be kept separate, but each company will have representation on the board of directors of the other.

REVERSING THE ROUTES. Changes in the Schedule of the Pleasant Valley Road. A change will be made to-morrow in the manner of running the cars on the Pleasant Valley Street Railway.
