He was not accompanied by Mrs. McKinley, she remaining in New York, where she will be for several days. Major McKinley went directly to his rooms at the Hurford House, where he was seen by a reporter this afternoon. The Major was looking in the best of health, and the cordial greeting extended the caller was proof that his looks and spirits were in concord. He said he had re-turned to remain in this city until his inauguration, in January. The Major positively declined to talk regarding his probable appointments.

A CARD.

It was the latter part of last month that we completed our arrangements to present to the people of this market the most elaborate and best display of seasonable Drygoods, Carpets, Curtains, etc., etc., that it had ever been our privilege to show.

Five floors (including basement) of our complete Drygoods and Carpet House were packed as never before to accommodate our ever-increasing trade. These goods had been opened only a few days when the disastrous fire and explosion occurred. Clouds of smoke filled our large well-filled store to suffocation. The entire stock is more or less damaged by either smoke or water. We have made some great sacrifices to move these goods quickly-to make room for an entirely new, fresh stock.

over to him as trustee of the Tarrytown Presbyterian Church, is missing. He was Treasurer of the association which owns the Washington building, collected $35,000 in rents and sunk the money in his struggle to avert impending doom. Field ran a long race with the fates. It is no wonder that his intellect could not stand the strain. At a family conference to-day in the home of Cyrus W. Field, the situation in brief was found to be this: Edward M. Field's liabilities, to satisfy the claims of his creditors, would require Cyrus W. Field's entire fortune and considerably more. It was finally decided, in view of the fact that even if Cyrus W. Field should sacrifice his entire fortune, he would not be able to meet the liabilities of his son; that he should not make the sacrifice. tion. W. S. Certain transactions show that his partners, Wiechers and Lindley, were perfectly honest in all their dealings, and had no idea of the financial aberrations of E. M. Field,

The Union Pacific Transactions,

Regarding the transaction between the Legarding the transaction between the Union Pacific people and the firm, the lat-ter loaned the Union Pacific $900,000 orig-inally, taking as collateral bonds worth at par value $1,600,000. The bonds to-day are worth about $1,100,000. The Union Pacific people have taken up so far $200,000 of this oan, and to-day owe the firm some $700,000. The bonds are scattered everywhere, having been rehypothecated by the firm in lots to solt their convenience. The amount thus disposed of sggregates $500,000. By this method the firm made an average gain of 20 per cent.

A number of innocent holders of the Union Pacific stock disposed of by the firm held a meeting this morning and drafted a petition to the Committee on Securities of the Stock Exchange, requesting them to re-scind their action making the stock non-deliverable. The interests of the Union Pacific have been placed in the hands of A. H. Holmes. Mr. Holmes realized that it would be impossible for the Union Pacific to regain possession of bonds that had failen into the hands of innocent holders, and requested the Committee on Securities to release such bonds from their order of Satur-day. Upon his order it was done, and the stock can now be handled on the Exchange. There still remains a good number of the bonds the ownership of which will likely have to be settled in court.

Many Grumblers on Wall Street. The action of the Stock Exchange in stopping delivery of the Union Pacific bonds was severely criticised on Wall street, and many seemed to think a bad pracedent had been established. Mr. Ely, the secretary, tried to make it plain to the tickers that the best thing had been done. He said that by the action of the Stock Exchange a speedy adjustment was effected, whereas if the bonds had gone on changing hands lawsuits would have been the result, and the bonds would have become so scattered that it would have been difficult to have found them.

It was rumored that Daniel Lindley would be disciplined or expelled from the Ex-change for selling the bonds on the floor, but the President says no such action could be taken without a formal complaint, and none has been made.

S. V. White denies owing anything to Field, Lindley & Co., but, on the contrary, that firm is indebted to him. Assignee Gould admits that there has been crooked transactions, but attributes it all to Mr. Field, and says he is confident that his part ners knew nothing of it. He says Mr. Lindley could have handled all these bonds on the Stock Exchange without knowing their history.

Only $500 in Assets Yet Discovered.

Mr. Lindley, on account of the serious ill. ness of his wife, who is now at the point of death, went directly to the Stock Exchange from his home and did not go to his office for weeks at a time. in paying clerks their salaries. He denied having had a conference with Cyrus W. Field with reference to helping his son, but thought he would naturally

Judge Ewing handed down an opinion yesterday refusing to grant a petition for the creation of a fifth election district in Elizabeth township. He said that if the number of votes cast was a test there was no necessity for more than four predicate. The pe-tition should have been for a redistricting of the whole township.

Valuable California Land of Romantic History Now in Litigation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30 .- A land suit involving the title to 900 acres near Monterey, valued at $1,000,000, will be brought here early this week. In 1837 Marcelina Escober, who lived in the old Mexican settlement of Monterey, secured a grant of two leagues of land lying directly south of town called Rancho San Jose y Chiquita. His grant was approved in 1840. Soon afterward he started for Old Mexico, abandoning his wife and his two sons. The deserted wife waited one year, then pressed by poverty, she sold the Chiquita ranch to Senora Abrigo for $250 in silver—a small fortune in those days. The deed was signed by the wife and the two sons in the name of the husband and father. Escober returned later, and entered no protest against the sale. He died in 1848. At the time of the sale Colonel Jose

At the time of the sale Colonel Jose Castro, who afterward drove Fremont from the Gabilan Mountains, was commander of the garrison of 25 soldiers at Monterey. He, so the present claimants allege, in-duced his soldiers to pool their earnings, and they bought the Escober ranch from Senora Abrigo. Castro afterward bought the charge of some of the soldiare write Senora Abrigo. Castro afterward bought the shares of some of the soldiers, until finally he owned 17 shares out of the 25 shares. It is alleged that after the Ameri-can conquest, when Castro was very poor, he sold the whole ranch to Joseph Semery and Abner S. Bassett, giving the deed for $700. They subdivided the ranch, and sold the sections to about 200 small holders.

the sections to about 200 small holders. The land is now estimated to be worth $1, 000,000. In 1887 the present owners ob-tained a United States patent to the prop-erty, a precaution that had been overlooked. This, if uncontested for five years, would give them an undisputed title.
