Georgia's Candidate for Speaker Just Now Showing Mills His Heels.

A CLOSE RACE FOR PLACE

The Texan Dropped by Bookmakers, Who Are Offering to Bet

EVEN MONEY ON CRISP'S WINNING.

Kerr Conceded Almost a Walkover for Clerk of the House.

AN HONOR FOR A DEFEATED CANDIDATE

IFROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT, 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 .- "The air is very Crisp this evening," is a poor pun that is on the tongue of nearly all the loungers about the hotel corridors, and it must be confessed that the Crisp boom has the call to-day. The Crisp people claimed 90 votes positively, to-day, and some careful computers who are not Crisp supporters concede him nearly if not quite that number as the matter stands to-day.

Crisp stock is up everywhere. Sporting men have taken it up and are assisting to bull the market. THE DISPATCH correspondent ran against a well-known local bookmaker at the Metropolitan, this evenrag. The sporting gentleman said:

"I have succeeded in placing several bets on Crisp. I took him even against the field. How do I rate the candidates? Well, if I were making a book on them it would be at these figures: Four to 5 against Crisp, 6 to 5 against Mills, 3 to 1 against McMillir, 4 to 1 against Springer, and 25 to 1 against Hatch.

Mills and Crisp Making the Race.

It is but fair to Mr. Bookmaker to say that he has felt the public pulse as it beats to-day with very sensitive nerves. One of the keenest observers of the great battle, and one as nearly unbiased as any Democrat can be, said to THE DISPATCH correspondent this evening:

"Mills has a majority of the Democratic members. I am convinced of that. But they are scattered among the other candidates. It is possible he may not be able to mass them at the right time. If Springer and Hatch and Wilson were to withdraw now I believe Mills would come up to Crisp's vote on the first ballot, and then it would be a grand struggle for the big part of McMillin's vote when that gentleman drops out. It will be either Mills or Crisp. That is certain. No minority man will be taken as a compromise. Mills can win, however, only by the most consummate generalship.

More Honor for the Defeated Man.

"I really think that the defeated man willbe the more to be envied. He will be the leader of the party on the floor, will occupy leader of the party on the floor, will occupy a conspicuous position, will have less strain put upon his nerves, will escape the million petty annoyances of the Speakership, and will have a much greater opportunity to distinguish himself. Should Mills be deteated there will be no question in regard to his rank on the floor. Should Crisp be defeated Springer and McMillin would make a great edior to wrest from him the leader. a great effort to wrest from him the leader-ship, but he would undoubtedly be made Chairman of Ways and Means, by the Speaker, and that would carry with it the Chair's recognition of him as the leader of the party. It is a great fight. Mills and Crisp are making the running pretty close together, but Crisp is beginning to show the Texan his heels.'

Kerr, of Pennsylvania, appears to be the serenest of all the candidates for House offices. He feels every hour more and more assured of the clerkship. Colonel Maish does not know what to do. One hour he says he will withdraw at once, and the next he declares he will stick. Though he has hosts of friends, he came so late into the fight that he gets no encouragement, and will probably soon send word to Kerr that he is off the track.

Kerr's Rooms Keystone Headquarters. Kerr's rooms at the Metropolitan are the headquarters for the Pennsylvanians. Up to a late hour this evening only five of the Democrafic members had arrived. They are McAleer, of Philadelphia, successor to Randall and Vaux; Mutchier, of Easton; Wolverton, of Sunbury; Beltzhoover, of Carlisle, and Gillespie, of Greenville. None of those in town have expressed a preference in the Speakership fight except Mutchler, who is for Mills. It is reported that Reilly, of the Thirteenth district, is for Crisp, and Amerman, of Scran-ton, the Eleventh district, for McMillin, but this is not entirely authentic.

The first thought of the Pennsylvanians, as far as heard from, is to make sure the calling and election of Chairman Kerr to the clerkship of the House, and it certainly looks as if they would win. Mr. Kerr's headquarters are the most pleasant or all those of the candidates, and he is constantly surrounded by a crowd that is either genial of itself, or so by the reflection of the Chairman's abounding congeniality.

Among the callers at Mr. Kerr's head-quarters this evening were ex-United States District Attorney Allen, of Erie, and Mr. Baker, of the same city, ex-County Attorney. Both gentlemen have, in their travels, made careful inquiry in regard to Democratic feeling on the Presidency, and they say that nine-tenths of all the Democrats they meet are for Cleveland.

THE LAUNCH OF THE NEW YORK

To Be Witnessed To-Day by a Distinguised Party From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 .- [Special.] -- Secre tary Tracy will take a large and distinguished party to Cramp's shipyard at Philadelphia, to-morrow, to witness the launch of the New York. The Washington party will go over on an elegant special train of eight to ten Pullman cars, which will leave the Pennslyvania Railroad station to-morrow morning at 9:30, arriving in Philadelphia four hours later. The guests will be transferred at once to the ordinary cars, and carried directly into the The Pullmans cannot go around

After the launching a lunch will be served in the office of the company, and the Washington guests will start back in their train soon afterward, leaving Philadelphia at about 4 o'clock and reaching this city at 9:30. Among those who will go from Washington are Mrs. Harrison and a party of 10 or 12 ladies, Vice President and Mrs. Morton, Secretaries Noble and Tracy, Assistant Secretary Soley, Senator Higgins, General and Mrs. Schofield, Admirals Franklin, Crosby and Rodgers. General Bergan, Hon. John A. Kasson, Captain McNair, Sevellon A. Brown, Controller Gilkeson, Pay Di-rector Washington, Medical Inspector Van Reypen, Colonel W. B. Remey, Commo-dores Dewey, Melville, Farquhar and Brown and a number of newspaper men.

gation of Green B. Raum. WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. -[Special.]-Representative Cooper, of Indiana, who was chiefly responsible for the investigation of Commissioner Raum last winter, is in office.

Washington. He says that if Mr. Raum retires from office within a month he thinks the charges against his official conduct will be dropped, and no investigation of the Pension Office made in the new Congress.

"I went into the last investigation very unwillingly," continued Mr. Cooper, "and unwillingly," continued Mr. Cooper, "and was impelled by nothing but a sense of duty. Hostilities are for the present suspended, but if Harrison is determined to keep Raum the fight will be renewed, and, so far as I am concerned, will be supported with a large supply of the latest and most improved ammunition. It is for the President of the Pre dent or Mr. Raum to say whether there will be a renewal of strife."

M'KINLEY TARIFF TESTS.

ARGUMENTS BEFORE THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The Justices Continue to Interject Ques tions-Lawyers for the Importers Pointedly Interrogated-Solicitor Gen eral Taft Opens for the Government's WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.-The United States Supreme Court to-day continued the three suits brought by New York and Chicago importers to test the constitutionality of the McKinley tariff act. John P. Wilson, representing Marshall Field & Co., closed the opening argument for the importers, maintaining that the whole act was vitiated by the omission of the tobacco rebate section. He illustrated his position by supposing that the free sugar clause had been omitted, and asking if the sugar bounty clause would in such an event have been held to be legal. He also contended that the rate of duties had been affected by the sugar bounty provision.

Justice Harlan asked how he ascertained such to be the fact. Mr. Wilson responded that he ascertained it from the act itself, which was passed for the purpose of reducing the resources of the Government. Free sugar had cut off $60,-000,000, and the bounties to be paid from custom duties had been paid as a protection to the producers who had to compete against Difference Between Tariff and Bounty. Justice Gray inquired where was the difference between the constitutionality of a protective tariff and of a bounty.

Mr. Wilson found the difference in the fact that a protective tariff came under the clause of the Constitution giving Congress the right to regulate commerce with foreign nations, while the only authority which could be claimed for the bounty system was the general welfare clause.

There was quite a cross fire of questions and answers between the justices and counsel as respects the general welfare clause. Justice Field wished to know if weight should not be attached to the practice of a century. Mr. Wilson thought the question had never been passed on.

Justice Bradley's Pointed Queries. Justice Bradley asked if attempts had been made to destroy legislation based on the general welfare clause. He inquired if the codfish act, passed for the benefit of New England fishermen to put them on an even basis with the French and English, and not been passed under the general welhad not been passed under the general wel-fare clause of the Constitution, and Justice Harlan cited the recent fortification appropriation act passed for the purpose of couraging gun steel manufacture in the United States, and asked if Congress could give bounties to gun manufacturers why not sugar producers?

Mr. Wilson, however, did not admit that these cases were analogous to that of the direct payment for a simple production of an article.

Solicitor General Taft then followed in behalf of the United States. He directed his attention to the omission of the tobacco rebate action, and his line of argument was that it would not do for the Court to go behind the enrolled act. When they ex-amined the Journal they would find no record of the act itself, and the Court would have to supplement the record by part of the evidence, which was conflicting.

HUSTLING TO SAVE EXPENSE.

Ex-Congressmen in a Hurry to Use Their Franking Privilege.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 .- [Special.]-Many ex-members of Congress whose terms expired on the 4th of March last, and who neglected to send out their quotas of government publications and documents to their dear constituents, are doing some lively hustling, just now, to save this desirable booty from falling into the hands of their successors. They have until next Monday in which to get their frank slips deposited in the folding room, where each member's book account is kept and where huge stacks of all books for public distribu-tion are stored until ordered out. The rules of the House of Representatives permit an ex-member of Congress to control the books entered to his credit until the reassembling of the next ensuing Congress, and under the regulations of the Postoffice Department their franking privilege holds good until the first Monday of December following the expiration of their terms of office. But it frequently happens that even when books are ordered out of the folding room a considerable time before, they do not get into the mails until long after, since each man's order is taken up and disposed of according to the date of filing.

A special ruling, therefore, has been made by the Postoffice Department, silowing all such belated franked documents to go through the mails free, provided the franks have been deposited in the folding room on or before the date when the franking privilege technically expires. Accordingly, those retiring Congressmen who have got behind-hand in the distribution of their documents are making all possible haste to unload their franks in the folding room before next Monday, so that their franks may still retain their potency to carry the books safely to their destination without expense.

PROCTOR HAS HIS HANDS FULL To Clear Up His Deak Before He Leaves for the Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 .- [Special.]-It is said that Secretary Proctor, who is soon to leave the Cabinet for the Senate, will return to the city from Vermont to-morrow or next day. He will probably take his seat in the Senate immediately upon its reassembling, and therefore his resignation as Secretary of War will take effect at the end of the present week. He will thus have to clear up matters in the War Department between now and Saturday, but his capacity for work is so great that he will undoubtedly be able to turn over his office to the sharp curves that are encountered in the switches, and this necessitates the change.

After the launching a lunch will be for whose court martial was recently suspended in order that Secretary Proctor might examine the papers.

There will very likely be an inter-regnum, as it might be termed, between the resigna-tion of Secretary Proctor and the appoint-ment of his successor, as it seems to be the desire of the President to send the name of his new Cabinet officer directly to the Senate. As the resignation of the present in-cumbent must go into effect before the nomination of the coming man there can be no chance for the two actions being simultaneous, and so the War Department will have to be without an actual head for some days. This will not embarrass the office particularly, as General Grant, who many believe will be the new Scoretary, has had, as assistant Secretary, ample experience as the acting head of the Department for some months. Mr. Proctor's delay in returning to Washington is taken by some to be an indication that the slate has already been fixed with General Grant's name on it, and that Mr. Proctor, knowing this, has had no anxiety about the state of affairs in the

HUNTERS IN TROUBLE.

Four Prominent Pittsburgers Fined in West Virginia for BREAKING THE STATE GAME LAW.

Myriads of Invading Sportsmen Annoy the Patient Farmers.

NEWSY NOTES FROM NEARBY TOWNS ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

MORGANTOWN, Dec. 1 .- The Mononga hela Valley Sportsmen's Association last night caused the arrest of four prominent Pittsburgers, in whose posses found five deer and several wild turkeys, which they were unlawfully trying to ship into Pennsylvania.

The gentlemen who, for pity's sake, asked that their names be not mentioned, were taken before a magistrate and each fined $20 and costs, the minimum penalty. The maxinum penalty for having deer or turkey in possession for the purpose of shipping out of the State is $50 and costs and 60 days in ail, except the game be alive or has been killed on chartered preserves.

The eruption of hunters from Pennsylvania into this devoted State is something chenomenal and growing worse each year. Farmers and citizens all over the State have become indignant at their total disregard for the laws of West Virginia, and are assisting the Game Association in prosecuting all outside hunters who break the strict laws of this State. The season for big game closes December 15.

OLD MEMBERS SECEDE.

They Protest Against Modern Innovations and Will Form a Separate Church. BEAVER FALLS, Dec. 1 .- [Special.] -- For some time past a feeling of dissatisfaction has been growing among some few old members of the Presbyterian Church in this place owing to many things introduced by the younger spirits of the congregation. Some months ago it was decided to enlarge and improve the looks of the church, place in it a large and expensive pipe organ and introduce a paid choir. It was then these conservative members decided that things were going too far. One of the older deacons told the pastor that he would withdraw and join another congregation. Although this caused considerable gossip yet it resulted in no outbreak among the members, but at the same time quiet work was going or going on.

As the result a meeting will be held to take preliminary steps toward organizing another congregation and building another edifice, to be known as the Second Presbyterian Church. Some 50 families have avowed their intentions of joining in the movement, yet not all of these are opposed to the organ, paid choir, etc. They live at the upper end of town and would prefer a place of worship nearer their homes. A place of worship nearer their homes. A minister of this place, but who has a con-gregation in Lawrence county, several eld-ers and deacons of the old church, are the leaders in the movement. The members of the old congregation say there are enough Presbyterians in the town to support two churches, and if they want to leave they will not oppose them.

Robbed of Treasure in Tin Cans. WEST UNION, O., Dec. 1 .- Mrs. Elizabeth Simmons, a widow, aged 79, living with her son and daughter on a farm near the village of Tranquility, in Adams county, was robbed of $3,000 Saturday night. Three was robbed of $3,000 Saturday night. Three men came to the house and finding her son in the barn, bound and gagged him there. They met the daughter in the barnyard and bound her to a post. Then they tied the old woman in her chair, gagged her, and deliberately searched the house. They found the treasure in two tin cans and departed. Although masked, two of the robbers were identified by the family and way. bers were identified by the family and war-rants have been issued for their arrest,

On Trial for Body Snatching.

WHEELING, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The trial of Dr. John R. Pipes and Taylor Forman, ex-Superintendent of the County Infirmary, for body-snatching, commenced in the Circuit Court to-day, the allegation being that sometime shortly after January 18 last, the defendants stole the remains of Charles Wertzberger from the graveyard of the County Infirmary. William Kemp swore Forman told him Pipes was to get the body. Dr. L. D. Wilson testified that Pipes told him he got the body and sold it for $46. A Pittsburg and Western Wreck.

NEW CASTLE, Dec. 1.-[Special.]-A freight train on the Pittsburg and Western Railroad was wrecked at Chewton, this county, this morning, by a defective frog. The engine and nine cars were piled in a shapeless mass, and a telegraph operator named Fernbaugh was probably fatally injured by being thrown under the debris. He was riding on the train when the accident took place. This evening he had not regained consciousness, and Road Surgeon Donnan says he cannot live.

Keep Your Arm in the Car.

CHARLESTON, W.VA., Dec. 1 .- [Special.] -In the Supreme Court to-day, in the case of Carrico versus the West Virginia and Pittsburg Railroad Company, a very important decision was handed down. The case comes from Tucker county, where the plaintiff was given $12,000 damages for a broken arm, sustained while it was hanging out of a car window. In effect, the Su-preme Court holds that the plaintiff had no business to have his arm out of the window, and reverses the decision of the lower court.

Railroad Extensions Near Carlisle.

CARLISLE, Dec. 1 .- [Special.]-After the Perry county railroad extension has been completed to Landisburg, which will be in less than a month, engineers will make the survey for a road to be built from that point to Doubling Gap Springs, Cloverdale, Lithia Springs and Newville, where connection will be made with the Cumberland Valley Railroad, thus making a belt line via Harris-burg from New Bloomfield.

The Rest Day League Breaks Loose, JOHNSTOWN, Dec. 1. - [Special.]-The Rest Day League, at a meeting to-day, decided to make a crusade against the sale of Sunday newspapers, and all the news-dealers were to-day notified to that effect. People who call at the postoffice for their mail will also be prosecuted.

Mr. McClelland Has a Relapse.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Ad-jutant General McClelland, who has been confined to the City Hospital for the past two weeks, suffered a relapse to-day. The General is experiencing great pain and is very weak, and altogether his condition is not reassuring.

Chain Makers Win Their Strike.

St. Marys, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—A com-promise was to-day effected between the Bimel Standish Chain Works, and their employes, 125 in number, who struck against a reduction of wages, and work will be resumed again to-morrow. The old price is maintained.

CENT-A-WORD RATE. FIRING HOUSES AS A BUSINESS.

Two Incendiaries Who Live on Insura Money Arrested in St. Paul. ST. PAUL, Dec. 1 .- One of the most disbolical conspiracies ever concocted was made public here to-night in the arrest of two members of a gang of incendiaries, who for over a year have made a regular business of setting fire to houses and stores in various parts of the city to secure a part of the in surance money. The detectives nabbed them in the very act of applying a lighted match to a building.

Early in the fall the insurance agents became convinced that many of the numerous fires here were of incendiary origin. At 8:15 to-night Morris Michael, in company with Detective Floyd, fired a building upon which a policy of insurance had been obtained by Floyd, the understanding that Michael was to receive a part of the insurance. A gasoline stove stood in a corner of ance. A gasoline stove stood in a corner of the kitchen. The gasoline had been turned on and a pile of straw set by the stove. A lighted candle was placed on a box in this straw, and when it had burned a short time it would ignite the pile. Michael was ar-rested just as he had closed and locked the outside door and was leaving the house. Previous to this evening's fire, Floyd had trapped Michael into a confession that he has burnt five houses in West St. Paul on Michael, an uncle of Morris', was also ar-rested as being an accomplice in the busi-ness. There are three other members of the gang who will probably be arrested in a few hours.

Crafton Council Gets Roasted Over a Street Railway Deal.

Public wrath in Crafton was so thick yeserday morning that it could be cut off in chunks like soft soap. The cause was the action of Pittsburg Councils in refusing to what is known as the Friend Railway Company the right of way over Steuben street. They say the refusal is in the interest of the West End street and Pennsylvania steam railway companies, the former to save a part of their Thirty-sixth ward custom, and the latter to bring grist to the Panhaudle Railway.

John Rehman, Jr., says that the people of Crafton have as much claim on the people of Crafton have as much claim on the people of Pittsburg as any other aggregation of 3,000 inhabitants as, about all of them pay rent in the city, nearly all transacting business here and merely going out at night to sleep. Mr. Rebman says that by the proposed Friend Electric Railway they would be but 3½ miles from the Pittsburg Postoffice whereas at present under Panhandle Railway management they are, practically, Railway management they are, practically, 15 miles, taking time into account.
