CLAIMS OF INSANITY

To Figure Preminently in the Coming Trial of Frank Gerade.

OBJECTIONS TO LAYMEN JURORS.

A Physician Says None but Experts Should Judge Such Cases.

YESTERDAY'S DOINGS IN THE COURTS

The case of Frank Gerade, twice convicted of murdering his little daughter, will be argued in Criminal Court to-morrow, with a view to having it again tried. About a year ago Gerade was first tried and convicted of the kilting. The case was carried to the Supreme Court, where a new trial was ordered. The second trial in the lower court was concluded a week ago yesterday, and again he was found guilty of murder in the first degree. Hanging is the only penalty for the crime. At both trials before the lower court insanity experts testified that the accussed was positively insane. Their testimony was not contradicted. There was no rebutring evidence offered. The case, in view of all the facts, is said to de attracting the attention of medical experts and legal lights throughout the country.

Dr. C. C. Wiley, who appeared with other expert witnesses at both trials of Gerade, was seen yesterday at his Penn avenue office. Dr. Wiley was for many years physician at Dixmont. He hesitated at discussing the Gerade case, but he was positive in his belief that physicians and not laymen should sit in judgment in cases of mental derangement. The law of Pennsylvania governing the trial of such cases, Dr. Wiley contends, is all wrong, and he says it should be amended in conformity of the law of New York State, where the undisputed evidence of experts is sufficient in the law to determine a man's irresponsibility.

Only Physicians Can Judge.

"I contend," Dr. Wiley said, "that the law is glaringly defective that allows 12 laymen of no experience, with crude ideas and frequently superstitious notions to determine a man's sanity or insanity. Insanity is purely a medical question depending entirely upon physiological conditions. It is a physical disease just as much as is fever, smallpox or cholera. There is no such thing as diseased mind. The mind is a ma-terial thing, and cannot, therefore, be dis-

'There is," the doctor went on, "a dis ease, or perverted function, of the brain through which the mind acts. There are now recognized and distinct symptoms to one having and experience, that are positive indications of a diseased brain, and a man familiar from large experience with such cases can say as positively that this is a case of dementia, this is a case of paresis or this is a case of acute mania as easily as a general practitioner can say from manifest symptoms in a given case that this is a case of smallpox or that this is case of tesis, consumption, whooping cough or measles. "In the case of Gerade it was shown that he was perfectly correct in his habits of life until some weeks before he had a paroxysm in which he killed his step child. It was conclusively shown by those who saw him that within an hour before the killing he had all the symptoms of an insane man. His conversation and his actions were at variance with his former habitude. Immediately after the killing ble was found to be equally insane and oblivious to his surroundings and actions. He was taken to the jail, where he was un-der constant watch. There his conduct was that of, and in conformity with, a distinct case of profound dementia.

Says He Is Totally Den

"He was examined by several experts, who subjected him to severest crucial tests, and in their examination at his first trial testified positively and unequivocally, giving solid facts for their opinion, that he was not simply insane, but totally demented, his case not even rising to the plane of the ordinary demonstrative in-sane. Regardless of this evidence, as well and the prependerating testimony of daily and almost hourly observers who testified positively to the man's insanity, he was found guilty of murder in the first degree.

"The mistake made in such cases is the jurymen fail to separate the insanity from the crime, and they find that he committed the crime, which nobody questions, but which, unfortunately, hangs the accused without regard to his condition. The jury of laymen try him as they see him, taking no notice of his condition at the time the crime was committed. The fact that a man improves in mind is a real detriment to him. It would be better for him in his experience with juries if he grew worse instead of better. It is just as possible for a man to improve after being totally de-mented as it is for him to recover from an attack of typhoid fever with delirium, and he is equally as irresponsible for one as for

"My idea," the doctor concluded, "is to bring about the trial of such cases before a competent jury of expert or medical men to determine a physical disease, controlling and directing mental operations, and not by a jury of inexperienced, totally disqualified and unlearned laymen to decide a purely medical question."

A Board of Viewers Asked For.

City Attorney Moreland yesterday filed petitions on behalf of the city for the appointment of viewers to make assessments for street improvements and sewers constructed, which were contracted for under the unconstitutional acts as Assembly. The appointments are asked for to make the assessments under the curative act of Assembly. The improvements in question are the grading, paving and curbing of Kirk street, Tioga street, Bertha street, Howe street, Fifty-fourth street, Grandview avenue and Westminster street, paving and curbing Boquet street, and for a sewer on Summerlea

Must Let the Workmen Alone,

A bill in equity was filed yesterday by Allegheny City against Christ. Beckert asking for an injunction to restrain Beckert from intertering with the construction of steps from McClure to Lecky's Road, which under a contract with the city are being erected by the Pennsylvania Company. Beckert, it is alleged, interfered with the workmen and because the steps projected on to the sidewalk caused the arrest of the men on a charge of violating a city ordi-nance by obstructing the sidewalk. The court granted a preliminary injunction.

The Maxwell Case Still on Trial. Judge White has still on trial before him the suit of E. A. Maxwell against the Pleasant Valley Electric Railway Company. Colonel Stone, attorney for the defendant company, yesterday made a motion for a non-suit, on the grounds that the declara-tion of the plaintiff was defective, in that it did not allege negligence on the part of the defendant company. The point is held under consideration.

Alderman Doughty a Winner.

In the case of Margaret Ward and David Doughty against Edward Lafferty, a contest by the defendant of the will of the late Harry Lafferty, a verdict was given yester-day for the plaintiffs. The verdict sustains the will under which the plaintiffs are the
