A promissory note, dated 1832, shows the evanescent character of Pittsburg manu-facturing establishments generally in times past. Samael Byers, grandfather of A. Z. Byers, got a fanning mill from Messick, Thomson & Green and gave his note at three months for $20 without interest. The note states that" the above obligation is given for a fauning mill warranted to be good and to do good business: if not good, signer has privilege to return." There was no swindle in that offer. This is only 59 years ago, but who can recollect Messick, Thomson & Green?
