SPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH.] BOSTON, Dec. 11.-Interest in the mysterious bomb thrower of New York was transferred to Boston to-day, and from the evidence thus far obtained it seems certain that the identity of the unknown stranger, whose head alone remains, has been revesled. Instead of the wild crank which people have been pleased to fancy him, the man who is without doubt the bomb thrower was a well-known Boston note broker, Henry L. Norcross, who never before showed any violence or insanity in any form. He was eccentric and energetic, but as far from being a crank in the popular ceptance of the term.

The indentification rests solely on the brods of clothing found in the wrecked room. The photograph of the dead man's head has been shown to several of Broker reroes' friends, but while it bears a strong resemblance to the missing man, it is not a stitive clue to his identification. But there seems to be no doubt about the clothing. That has been indentified beyond any asonable doubt as the clothing worn by Henry L. Norcross when he left his home in Somerville, Thursday morning December 3, the day proceeding the bomb throw-

Identified by His Clothing. The man who furnishes this important bit of confirmatory testimony is Charles C. Hill, who is a cutter for Walter C. Brooks & Co., the tailors who made Broker Norcross clothes. As has already been stated, the buttons found on the fragments of clothng which unquestionably was worn by the amb thrower bore the name of "Brooks, Tailor, Boston." There is but one tailoring firm of that name in Boston, and with the fictitious name given by the bomb he wearer, but the scraps of clothing brought to Boston to-day bore a number, and Mr. Hill says that that number cor spands with the number of Mr. Norcross' on the firm's books.

Hill stated to a DISPATCH man to-"Mr. Norcross was a customer of our

as a very quiet, gentlemanly person, and ne whom no one would dream of connectwith such a terrible crime as this recognized the goods as similar to which had been sold to Mr. Norcross October last. The cloth was made up to pantaloons, and was of striped twilled d by other houses than ours. The Buttons Marked Positively.

The goods were entered upon the books er entered against the name of Mr. Norross on the books, and the pattern of the we been found upon the body of the dead conmiter are identical. The buttons tarked with the name 'Brooks, Boston tailwere also put upon those pantaloons, ed one of these buttons so marked was mi on these shreds.

It was not impossible that Mr. Norcross, her selecting the goods, might have marged his mind about the cloth and made new selection, but there is no record on ir books of any such change, and none of r men remember his so doing. There can e no doubt of the identity of the goods as whibited with those sold by number to Mr. orcross. In August Mr. Norcross also ught a cont and vest of black diagonal l, of a pattern common to many These also corresponded in pato the remnant of the coat found on the

at from Mr. Hill is the only ve identification which has yet been but the evidence is so strong that the ne man's venerable father and mother pted it as the truth, and to-night bowed down in sorrow over the e affliction which has come upon They, too, recognized the fragments thing as being the only clew connect-New York. They saw the photograph of the dynamiter's head, but they could not occamize the disfigured member as the face

They readily produced a photograph of Henry taken a short time ago, and the father saw the striking resemblance between the two faces. The mother had identified the fragments of coat, pantaloons and underwear as the property of her son, and Mr. Norcross, too, was shaken by the un-

y a mighty effort, and discussed briefly his on's recent actions. He said he had see nothing unusual in Henry's behavior. He had had no sickness and he had never acted weerly. He was utterly at a loss to account for his son's sudden development into a fiend, except on the ground of insanity. When he left home Thursday he was happy and apparently contented with life. He d he was going to Providence business and would be gone a few lavs. There was not much anxiety ore, until within a day or two. At there was a little nervousness on acof the big railway wreck in Connectiot, but as their son had given Providence o his destination they did not give the matter any serious thought. The revelaus to-day came upon them like a thunder-

Henry I. Noveross disappeared from Bos. on Thursday, the day before the bombthrowing. There is but one person who told a different story, and that is the elevator boy at No. 12 Pearl street, where Mr.

Many of his acquaintances spoke of him as a smooth-faced man. His parents, however, state that two months ago he let his beard grow, and when he went from home last week the lower part of his face was concealed by a heavy growth of hair. A Former Schoolmate Knows Him.

A dispatch from New York says: Willism D. Southworth, the alleged accomplice of the bomb-thrower in Russell Sage's office has been pronounced sane by the physicians at Bellevue Hospital. He will be discharged from the institution to-morrow and will probably be put under arrest by the Another telegram from New York says:

After the identifica-tion to day in Boston by his tailor and par-ents of the buttons and remnants of cloth-ing found after the explosion make the chain of evidence complete, a re-porter persuaded H. M. Howes, a former schoolmate of Norcross, to come to this city to-night and examine the bomb-thrower's head at the morgue. Mr. Howes strived at 9 o'clock. He was met at the Grand Central station and taken to the morgue. He positively identified the head morgue. He positively identified the head as that of his former schoolmate, Henry L.

FUNDS FRITTERED AWAY.

ALL RUSSIA IS NOW A SEETHING MASS OF DISCONTENT.

The Half-Hearted Measures of the Govern ment Increasing the Distress-Morey Diverted to War Purposes-Nobles Won't Pay Their Bills to Tradesmen, Sf. PETERSBURG, Dec. 10.-Matters here are drifting from bad to worse. The whole energy of the Department of Finance seems centered in manipulating funds on the Berlin and Paris exchanges. Despite the gold imports the Imperial Bank return does not show an increase. There is nothing to show whether the gold is locked in the war chest or what has become of it.

All classes are discouraged because of the half-heartedness of the measures taken by the Government to cope with the famine difficulties. The consequences of the famine are only beginning to be realized. Merchants complain that the prohibitions of grain exports have locked up capital, and there is no circulation of money. The nobler are unable to collect their revenues, and therefore, decline to pay what they owe shopkeepers. The cessation of court fes-tivities causes dire distress to small trades-

The famine funds have been frittered away by local authorities. The grand remedial measures exist only on paper. Complaints of enormous expenditures on the army and navy have been taken advantage of by those unfriendly to the Government. The whole Empire appears to be a seething mass of dis-content. Rev. M. Francis, the pastor of the British and American church, in an interview after his tour of the famine districts, affliction were yet to be described.

Why the Home Insurance Company Withdrew From the P.ol.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.-Insurance people are still talking about the withdrawal of the Home Insurance Company from the pool. President A. A. Heald, of that company, spoke freely on the subject to-day. "This company," said he, "has simply cancelled certain risks on the cotton-bear such a tremendous crop that it has been such a tremendous crop that it has been piled sky high, so that it would not be possible to reach much of it in case of fire. The railroads have been working their men night and day in the effort to transport the cotton, and can you wonder if the engineer falls asleep beside his machine? A TENEMENT HORROR AVERTED. Fire Drives Forty Families Into the Street of New York. NEW YORK, Dec. 12, 1 A. M .- [Special.]-At a few minutes before midnight fire broke out in the big double tenement house 314 and 316 Delancey street. About 40 families occupy the premises. The tenants were awakened by the screams of the occupants of the burning floor. Nearly everybody was asleep at the time of the first alarm. They rushed down the starr way and out upon the fire escape in their night clothes. The upper part of the building caught fire from the flames that roared up the air shaft Nearly all the tenants were Polish Hebrews with large families. They escaped into the street in their bare feet. There were many parrow escapes. At 1 o'clock this morning the fire was under control, and it did not appear then that any of the tenants were missing.

NOT ARSENIC, BUT A BAD COLD.

The Probable Line of Defense in the Graves Poisoning Case. DENVER, Dec. 11.-[Special.]-The work of proving that Mrs. Barnaby died of arsenical poisoning was continued in the Graves trial to-day. Mrs. E. S. Worrell was examined early this morning by several medical experts, who claim that she is still suffering from arsenic.

Judging from the line of examination pursued by the defense to-day, they will probably not admit that Mrs. Barnaby died Norcross on the afternoon of the when the court convened this morning, and Everyone in Pittsburg possessing a turnout was at " Auditorium last night, and at the same time a great many not so blessed,

Society was there and all its numerous relatives. When the people arrived they good-naturedly selected the best seats they could find the ushers soon agreeing. By 8:30 there were rows of carriages along Penn avenue to Sixth street, down Sixth to the bridge and up again to Liberty street. Inside the hall for three hours masters and mistresses stood on each other's toes to see a curious condensation of their country's history, and on the street the coachmen lounged about, told yarns, ate apples from the little huckster's shop by the Auditorium and had an al fresco entertainment all to

The domestic happiness which reigned could have been taken as a lesson by a blase age which has discovered that "marriage is a failure." The fifth tableau, "A Reception to Washington and Lafayette—The Minuet," appealed to the artist and the lover of dancing. The company of distinguished people danced to the time of the beautiful "Don Giovanni" and the exquisite dressing, as well as the rythmical turn of the dance, made it a most attractive scene. CONVENTION OF STATE DELEGATES

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.-Twenty-one State delegations in the World's Fair State Convention voted to-day for a resolution asking Congress to appropriate $5,000,000 for the Exposition. Five other State delegations that had not authority to vote on such questions put themselves on record individally in favor of the resolution.

Delegate Farquhar, of Pennsylvania, introduced the resolution. Considerable discussion followed, during which the position of the Board of Control was defined by Commissioner St. Clair. He said that the Board was barred from approving an approprintion outright by the action of the Commission, which had recommended a loan only; but in the face of this he did not see how Congress could refuse to grant liberal support to an exposition it had inaugurated. The resolution concludes as follows: It Is a National Enterprise.

The advantages of the exposition are to be reaped by the citizens of the entire United States. The people of Chicago have contributed $5,000,000, the city $5,000,000, and t certainly would be reasonable, under the circumstances, for the rest of the country o contribute an additional $5,000,000.

to contribute an additional $5,000,000.

This is a national enterprise and the credit of the country is at stake. If it falls it will do us incalculable injury: if successful, incalculable good. The work should be completed in a manner commensurate with the greatness of the nation and the importance of the event celebrated, or it should never have been attempted.

The jar between the State delegates and the Board of Control as to jurisdiction over application for space and selection of exhibits, was finally settled. The long dehate ended in the appointment of a committhe contract. Decision was reserved.

bate ended in the appointment of a commit-tee of six—three delegates and three mem-bers of the Board of Control—to reach an agreement. The committee reported the following resolution, which was adopted How Space Is to Be Allotted.

Resolved, That the World's Columbian ommission or its Board of Control, should adopt such regulations as may be necessar o enable such of the said State or territorial boards as may so desire or request, to inquire into and consider the propriety of all exhibits that may be offered by any citizen or resident of their respective States or Territories; and it is the opinion of this conference that such State or territorial board snould be empowed to pass upon and forward to the Director General all applications for space with such recommendations and information as they may think proper; and it should be provided that in case any proposed exhibitor shall apply directly to the Director General, the application should be referred to the board of his State or Territory, and final action thereon deferred until such board shall have had fair and reasonable opportunity to consider and of all exhibits that may be offer and reasonable opportunity to consider and report upon the same.

The Chicago Board of Directors assembled in regular meeting on the adjournment of the convention, and declared its position on the appropriation question. In effect, the board proposes to ask Congress to give the Exposition $5,000,000, to be repaid in the same ratio as the city of Chicago and private subscribers.

AT Albrightsville, W. Va., John C. Crane's dwelling and contents. Loss, $3,500: unin-sured. Mrs. Crane was horribly burned. One hand is rendered useless and the other was burned to the arm. Her hair and eye-brows were burned away, and she is badly burned about the face. Her condition is critical. Her siter is also seriously burned, but will recover.

At Scottdale early yesterday morning the people were aroused by the whistles sound-ing the fire alarm. A small building in the rear of the Geyer Hotel, used by A. J. Geyer rear of the Geyer Hotel, used by A. J. Geyer as a store room for paints, caught fire from an overpressure of gas. A stable across the alley and the hotel building also caught from it, but prompt work saved them. John Hawthorne, an employe of the hotel, jumped from the window of his bedroom, in the secatory of the hotel, through fright, but escaped serious injury. Loss about $500, partially covered by insurance.

Contractor Says $50,000 Is Due Him-The Congregation Head Over Heels in Debt-Talmage's Big Salary Must Always First Be Pald.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 11.—[Special.]— The Brooklyn Tabernaele has always been backward in paying the assessments levied on it by the Brooklyn Presbytery, to which it belongs, and now it is in debt $840, its share of the assessment for General Assembly and Synodical purposes. Each member in the Presbyterian Church is assessed about 7 cents to pay the expenses of the General Assembly, and the Presbyteries are re-sponsible for the collection of this amount. Dr. Talmage's church is credited with a membership of 4,000, nearly a quarter of the membership in the Brooklyn Presbythe membership in the Brooklyn Presov-tery. The sesesment this year was reduced from $440 to $400, but Treasurer J. M. Ham could not collect this nor last year's amount. He made repeated calls on the church's treasurer and on the clerk of the session, but he could get no satisfaction.

This state of affairs caused a great deal of indignation among the representatives of the weaker churches, who saw they would have to pay a heavy additional assessment to make up the amount for which the Presbytery was responsible.

"The secret of the Tabernacle's failure to pay" "says a Presbyterian minister. "is hepay," says a Presbyterian minister, "is be-
