"It must be treated with he extremest deliberation and the rarest dir lomatie skill. It would be indeed unfortunate if two such great and prosperons nations as Great Britain and the United States were to engage in war."

It seems, on the other hand, to be considered exactly the proper thing for so great a nation as the United States to plunge into war with so contemptible a people as the Chillenns,

The Difficulty a Serious One.

"I am well assured, however, that President Harrison, Secretary Blaine and others who on account of their prominence and experience, would sit on the bench of the Court of Last Resort, will encourage no fizzing and skyrocketing in Congress if the direction of the affair be transferred to Con-

The President and Secretary now look on the difficulty as one of much gravity, not so much on account of the prime cause of it as because of the remarkable treatment of it by the Chilean Government. There is something behind they do not fully understand, and the influence and effect of which they deprecate far more than any show of influence is at the bottom of the belligerent attitude assumed by the Chilcan Government, and that it possibly is even largely responsible for the fomentation of that anti-American feeling which led to the attack on the sailors of the Baltimore.

Egan Kept Too Long as Minister.

If this be their conviction, it becomes all the more curious that the President and Secretary should persist in keeping at Santingo as Minister an Irish patriot compelled by his own interests to assist his eternal antagonist, Great Britain, in her deeply planned schemes. Certainly they know from very bold and open utterances by British newspapers and individuals that it is the unanimous British thought that this is the one chance left for Britain to checkmate the great advance made by the United States recently toward capturing the South American trade, and which but for some untoward event would soon be entirely sucrestal

1 am assured that the administration is becoming more convinced each passing day that the spirit of the Chilean Government, in its new and curious and increasing aningonism toward the United States, is but the surface evidence of a scheme of foreign Governments, led by Great Britain, to cause a rupture of friendly relations between the United States and all of the South American Republics.

secret meeting of the Republican State Cen-tral Committee of Illinois was held in Chi-cago a few days ago, at which it was re-solved that the 44 votes in the next Repub-lican Convention should be cast for Senator Cuilom, if Mr. Blaine was not a candidate. There seems to be no question of ability of the central Committee to redeem its prom-ise, for Senator Cullom is not only very pop-ular in the State, but he has a firm control of the Presidental machinery. This is the first intimation of the definite launching of his prospects. In conversation with his first intimation of the definite hunching of his prospects. In conversation with his friends the Senator has made no secret of his ambition, and seems to have carefully considered the situation. He realizes, of course, that with Blaine in the field his nomination is an impossibility, but he also believes, on the other hand, that Mr. Har-rison, if nominated, cannot be elected.

He returned to this city Thursday night from a successful busi-ness trip, but instead of going to his home he went to the Grand Hotel and was assigned a room. His wife or rela-tives here knew nothing of his being in the city until he was found this morning, an hour before he died. His family relations were of the most pleasant nature, and his reputation as a business man was first-class, he having been in the employ of two of the largest wholesals drygoods concerns in Texas before his connection with the firm of Farwell & Co.
