THE INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE.

A Discourse on the Dignity of Labor and the Effect of Strikes.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE POOR SOCIETY

Yesterday morning Rev. J. D. Sands occupied the pulpit in the Seventh U. P. Church, on Forty-fourth street. His subject was "The Present Theological Controversy and Christian Faith," taking his text from these words: "When the Son of Man cometh shall He find faith on Earth?" In the course of his discussion he said:

It is not surprising that a man living in the age that Luke did should utter such words but it is different now. The case of Prot. Briggs, now causing so much controversy in the Presbyterian Church, brings out my idea. His theory is to judge the Bible by human reason to tell whether the different passages are inspired. This has a demoralizing effect on the Chris-tian faith. It suggests doubt, as one man will argue that one passage of the Bible is inspired, while an-passage of the Bible is inspired, while another man may be of the opposite opinion. To adopt such a theory would inevitably lead to the rejection of the Word of God. All the teachings of largersoll and men of his theories have been ineffective in the destruction of the faith of a single Christian. They can go in in their way for all time, but according to my way of thinking can do no harm. The greatest destructive power to the Church is always found on the inside. There we find men whose piety has never been questioned, who advance ideas when he is a such that the control is always found to the inside. There we find men whose piety has never been questioned, who advance ideas when he is a such that the first that the control is always for the faith. Prof. Briugs was such a man.

which are destructive to the faith. Prof. Briggs was such a man.

The Scriptures were given by the inspiration of God, and it is reasonable to suppose he would so inspire us that we might be able to interpet them aright. Some men hold that the Bible may have been wrongly transcribed from the Hebrew, as the mispiacing of a single dot in the Hebrew language would change a whole passage. This I do not believe has been done and evidence can be shown to correborate me. We have hundreds of instances in the nastages where whole libraries have been swept away, but hundreds of instances in the pastages where whole libraries have been swept away, but in every case God protected the Bible.
Such theories existing in the Church and being promulented by its leaders are an evidence of a low ebb of spirituality. The way to renedy this is to let the leaders work for the confession of sinners and the upbuilding of the Church, and there will not be time for the advancement of such ideas. Let us have a closer walk with God, and instinct, guided by His power, will teach us the truth of the Bible.

REV. DONEHOO'S DOCTRINE.

The Only Question Concerning Sin Is How to Get Rid of It.

Rev. E. R. Donehoo, of the Eighth Presbyterian Church, West End, took for his morn-ing subject "Things Secret and Things Re-The text was from Deuteronomy, xxix., 29: "The secret things belong to the Lord our God, but the things revealed be ong unto us and our children forever. During this discourse he said: "Indolence any undertaking is culpable. In our daily labor, in intellectual strug-gles or pleasures and spiritual things of opens the avenues for us and invites us to follow. To cut off a reasonable being con all opportunity of acquiring knowledge could be an incalculable injury. It would e more merciful to deprive them of air, anshine and the pleasures of this life.

Inout us when we study God's word to which no answer is ever vouchsafed. Our present duty is to autend to what God has revealed to us. It is not to be decided that there are doctrines in the Bible which we are expected to accent, but which we are wholly unable to explain or understand. But when it comes to the matter of personal duty the teaching is always clear and explicit. Whatever is needed for our present or future welfare to know is plainly revealed, so that a child can comprehend. As often as men came to Christ with questions of mere curiosity He pointedly rebailed them. When His disciples asked Him. When shall the end of the world come? He replied, it is not for them to know. When Peter questioned Him as to the future of John He turned upon him with the rebuike, What is that to thee? The practical question with one and all of us is not how sin got into the world, but how shall we get and they cannot afford such a loss. Their cause may be just, but this is not the right way to battle for it. Friday evening I attended the mass meeting of striking printers in this city. I heard there eloquent and earnest speeches asserting the claims of the surikers. Much was said about the right of the laboring man to liberty of speech, and to freedom for self-culture, and to his possession of his fair share of the comforts and invaries of life. These are just claims, every one of them. The only question is, have these men gone to work to get these things in a way that is just to themselves? The meeting was full of mailiness and sincere conviction, yet I missed a certain note of broad understanding of life which I should like to have heard something to show that these men honored the opportunity of right and increasing confort and a luxury without which no other can be worthing to graph cally told and so charming that the gospel of the control of the strikers and uncersaing comfort and a luxury without which no other can be worthing to graph cally told and so charming that the gospel of the control of the control of the services of print the control of the services of the Hour.

I looken in vain for some glad recognition of the fact that man's strongest, inalicable right is the right to work. All that was said seemed to maintain that labor is simply a commodity, to be shrewdly sold to the holder's best agrantage, or else hoarded for a rise in value after the evil fashion of speculators in wheat. What a fallure to understand the true dignity of labor! Labor is far more than a mere commodity in the business market. It is the human soul's great opportunity to take purt in the world's best life, to gain strength of character and strength of wisdom, to grow nother in all hands. me glad recognition of the fact that man's

Rev. Dr. Tecfilo Gay, of Rome, Discourses to a Pleased Congregation. The "Mission Francaise" is interesting the polite world the same as heretofore. Its coud service this winter was held yestercay in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, and was attended by a representarive and cultivated audience such as has patronized the mission always since its formation. The Rev. Mr. Launitz, the ot make the address, having courteously offered the pulpit to his visitor, the Rev. cofile Gay, D.D., of the Evangelical Waldensing Church at Rome, who thereupon spake with earnestness and eloquence apon the Waldensian Mission in the United States. It is not often given to people out of France to hear its tongue spoken withall the delicate coloring of its language and the richness of vocabulary in the manner Dr. Gay poured forth to an sudience that listened with

Dr. Gay spoke for over an hour, basing his Dr. 4-ay spoke for over an hour, basing his discourse on St. Jobn the Raptist's words: "He must increase, I must decrease." The preacher contrasted the spread of Christianity in the nineteenth century with its inception in the first, showing that the influence of the doctrine of Christ continued to extend over the world in an uninterrupted course. He declared that the day was not far distant when Christianity would be universal as a doctrine. He alluded to the necessity for Christians to attend to their churches, because they afforded a means for more easily reaching the favor of Christ.

Afterward, speaking with Prof. Henri Rollin Parker, Secretary of the Mission, Dr. Gay explained that his object in visiting America was to interest the Americans in the extension of the Waldensian Church's influence, which, he said, was the oldest evangelical church in the world.

TO BENEFIT THE POOR.

The Pittsburg Association of Poor Holds Its Sixteenth Anniversary - Reports Are Read to Show That a Vast Amount of Work Has Been Done,

The sixteenth annual anniversary of the Pittsburg Association of the Poor was held in the Fourth Avenue Baptist Church last night. The meeting was addressed by Rev. George Hodges, who took his theme from Matthew xi, 5: "Art Thou He who hath come or do we look look for another?" He said this was the foundation of the whole Christian religion. Referring to those who were doubtful, he held John the Baptist as the first and the foundain head. He attributed the most of John's doubtful-He attributed the most of John's doubtfulness to the fact that he like the Hebrews, looked for a great king, and for the same reason many people fall into the same unbelief now. In a long and interesting discussion he referred to Christ's good works for humanity, laboring for the poor and down trodden. In conclusion he spoke of how the church in the past had left the question of raising the down trodden to the Socialists and Anarchists, but now they are going to bring it into the Church again where it belongs. For that reason they ought to thank God for having such a society as the Association for the Improvement of the Poor.

provement of the Poor.

The Rev. M. Applegarth followed with a few remarks on the subject of the society's work. The following is a brief outline of the annual report, as read by Mrs. S. E. Lippincott: Families added to the relief list, 139; order

The report of the fresh-air fund showed that much had been done in that direction. From June until September 18 the house at Oakmont received 450 persons. Ten outings of one day each were given by the Sunday school of Callyny Enisconel Church, Fifty Oakmont received 450 persons. Ten outings of one day each were given by the Sunday school of Calvary Episcopal Church. Fifty persons were sent out each time. Captain Harry Gould gave an excursion up the Monongabels, accommodating 1.169 persons. Thirty-four women were also given vacations by several gentlemen who were interested in the welfare of the working women.

A SERMON ON AGREEMENT.

Rev. Nevin Woodside Is Positive That

Christians Cannot Agree to Differ. Rev. Nevin Woodside, of the First Reformed Presbyterian Church, discoursed last evening on the subject "Can Christians Agree to Differ?" The text was from Amos iii., 3: "Can two walk together except they be agreed?" The minister said the prophet Amos was inspired to write the udgments denounced against the Mosbwould be an incadeulable injury. It would be more merciful to deprive them of air, ennshine and the pleasures of this life. When a prisoner can find nothing better, he will study a mouse, a spider or even a blade of grass, and when these and such like are denied him, will sink into melancholy or hopeless idiocy. There are mysteries in the asture and government of God which lie has not chosen to expiain, and which all our wisdom fails to fathom. Many a life has been wasted in striving to hay into screets which God has not thought wise to reveal. Much valuable time has been squandered in trying to discover the origin of evil and in the endeavor to account for fits cause, instead of trying to escape from its effects.

"A thousand perplexing questions controut us when we study God's word to which no answer is ever vouchsafed. Our present duty is to attend to what God has revealed to us. It is not to be denied that there are expected to accent, but which we are hold; when it comes to the matter of personal duty the teaching is always clear and explicit. Whatever is needed for our present or future welfare to know is plainly revealed, so that a child can comprehend. As often as men came to Christ with questions of mere curiosity He pointedly rebuked them. When His disciples asked lim. When shall the end of the world come? He replied, it is not for them to know. When Peter questioned Him as to the future of John He turned upon him with the rebuke, What is that to thee? The practical constant and prevention and in the same manner. They are to agree in religious practice, must worship God and in the same manner. They are to agree in religious practice, must worship God and in the same manner. They are to agree in religious practice, must worship God and in the same manner. They are to agree in religiou ites, Edomites, Tyrians and Syrians. The God of Israel could walk with these idolcome? He replied, it is not for them to know. When Peter questioned Him as to the future of John He turned upon him with the rebuke. What is that to thee? The practical question with one and all of us is not how sin got into the world, but how shall we get rid of it: not when death shall come, but a state of readiness for it."

THE DIGNITY OF LABOR

One Clergyman Takes the Present Printers' Strike as His Text.

At the First Unitarian Church yesterday morning the Rev. C. E. St. John preached on the "Dignity of Labor," and made the following reference to the printers' mass meeting of last Friday.

"The chance to work is every man's greatest opportunity in life. Men on a strike are losing day after day the broadening, ennobling influence of labor in their lives, and they cannot afford such a loss. Their cause may be just, but this is not the right way to battle for it. Friday evening I attended the mass uncetting of striking printers in this city. I heard there elequent and camest speeches asserting the claims of the strikers. Much was said about the right of the blackers. Buch was said about the right of the blackers.

Rev. C. E. Locke Calls Attention to the Church last evening. The subject of the sermon by the pastor, Rev. Charles Edward Locke, was "Emergency Men." The text was announced from Esther iv 14: "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the speaker said: "The story of Esther has been so graph cally told and so charmingly sung that the gospel of the Book of Esther is most familiar to us. of Esther is most familiar to us.

This beautiful romance, and indeed the whole of the Old Testament, have bequeathed to the world of thought the thrilling truth that the movements of history have turned upon men as pivotal points. Great principles may be discussed, argued, opposed, defended, but they never reach their culmination until they find their incarnation in somebody's heart, in somebody's integritty." body's integrity."

After showing at length by the records of the centuries of the factorship of such men as Faul. Polycarp, Teriullian, Huss, Savonasola, Peter Waldo, Luther, Calvin and Western Savonasola, Peter Waldo, Luther, Calvin and Mestern Savonasola, Peter Waldo, Luther, Calvin and Peter Waldo, Calvin and Peter Waldo, Calvin and Pet issoin, Feter Waido, Luther, Caivin and Wes-iey, the speaker fervently referred to the Puritans, Patrick Henry and Abraham Lin-coln, and added: "But what are the in-dispensable qualifications of these emerg-nency men? They must be studious; pure, as were Daniel and Joseph: humple and con-scientious; bold and invincibla; holy and consecrated." Emergency men are needed to-day.

DARKNESS, NOT LIGHT.

The Diversity of Dogmas Is the Cause of Much Misunderstanding. Rev. John Whitehead, at the New Church, Isabella and Sandusky streets, Allegheny, said yesterday in his sermon that when we thus explore the doctrines of the churches in the Christian world, we find that the lead acher temporarily, was present, but did ing doctrines of the Trinity, of salvation by faith alone, of instantaneous salvation, the faith alone, of instantaneous salvation, the resurrection of the body, predestination, etc.. do not give light, but rather darkness on these subjects. They do not make a man intelligent and wise, but rather becloud and befog the mind, so that he is told that they are mysteries, he must believe with a blind faith, etc. Thus there is no understanding in these things. in these things.

Such teachings of the creeds of Christie

Such teachings of the creeds of Christian churches have produced a widespread disbelief in any doctrines. Many within the churches do not believe their creed, and the others do not understand, because they are mysteries. Another class in the community profess not to know whether there be a God, a hereafter, ctc., and call themselves agnostics, which in plain English means ignorant. Thus by their very name they say they have no understanding. It is similar with atheists.

BRIDGET MULAEY'S EASY ESCAPE

Attempts at Spicide at the All gheny Central Station. Bridget Mulvey, who had made four at tempts to commit suicide in Allegheny lock up Saturday night, again tried the experi ment early yesterday morning, but was peared at the hearing she was very submis-sive. She told the Mayor if she got a long sentence she would lose her entire wardsentence she would lose her entire wardrobe. His Honor relented, and she was given 48 hours with the promise that if she ever came back he would give her 90 days.

This case put Turnkey Stewart Hamilton
in a reminiscent mood and he said Bridget had made numerous other attempts to commit suicide in Allegheny Central. "I have never yet had a successful suicide while I was on duty here," he continued, "though a number of suicides have been committed in these cells. Several years ago a man hanged himself during the night and the other turnkey piaced his body across the door of the cell so I would fall over it and get scared. I found out about it, however, and had the man removed. The worst case I know of was a fellow with delirium tremens who stuck a case knife down his throat and then turned it around. He lived for a couple of days. There was another fellow whom I cut down a couple of times,
and then I got so mad I said I would kill him. He only laughed at me and said: 'That's what I want.'"
