BONES OF ST. VINCENT.

REMAINS OF A MARTYRED PRIEST FOUND IN A SWISS CHURCH.

All That Is Mortal of This Sainted Father Brought to a Southside Church-They Are to Be Inclosed in a Golden Shrine.

The crumbling remains of St. Vincent, a Catholic saint who died a martyr's death in the sixteenth century, have been brought from their resting place in a little Swiss church to St. Peter's Church, on South Twenty-eighth street, where they will hereafter remain, an object of veneration to the faithful and a reminder to the Catholics of this community of the power of religious conviction. Rev. Father J. B. Duffner. pastor of St. Peter's, secured the sacred relic while in Europe last summer, and it came to him through Adams Express a few days ago inclosed in a small ironbound oaken chest. The saintly remains consist only of the bones of the martyr and a vial containing a few drops of his life blood. Father Duffner during his trip to Europe visited a great many pilgrimages, and, among others, one at the town of Mettern, in Switzerland.

Found in a Crumbling Swiss Church. In the old church at Mettern he found the bones of St. Vincent, but, like a great many churches in the Old World, there were evidences of decay and neglect by the government which maintains them, and Father Duffner decided to bring the venerable remains if he could secure them. He learned that the parish congregation was very poor and unable to maintain the agreement under which the remains had been committed to its care. This was that a certain elaborate golden shrine should be erected in the church in which the bones of the departed saint should be exposed. The congregation had been unable to provide the stipulated shrine since the sacred relic had come into their possession in 1771. It had been delivered to them inclosed in the casket in which it still rests, but bound by a seal which they dared not break until the golden receptacle was prepared.
Satisfying himself that the Mettern con-

Satisfying himself that the Mettern congregation would probably never be able to carry out its contract Father Duffner appealed to the Bishop of the diocese of Solothurn for the privilege of removing the holy casket to America. The request wasgranted under condition that the seal on the casket he not broken until the St. Peter's Church be not broken until the St. Peter's Church carry out the conditions under which it had been given to the parish of Mettern.

This Sacred Relic Now in Pittsburg. The Southside priest gladly accepted the conditions and arranged at once for carrying them into effect. The casket arrived several days ago, and under the instructions of Bishop Solothurn, Father Dufferer sent for Bishop Phelan, who broke the seal, opened the lid and examined the contents. They consisted of the crumbling bones, the vial of blood, before referred to, and a parch-ment statement giving the life history of St. Vincent.

Father Duffner has already ordered the golden shrine and will shortly expose the remains to view in the church, making the occasion a memorable one by appropriate public ceremonies.
